The Golden Book Of Wisdom
The Golden Book Of Wisdom by Franz Bardon
Only a fragment of The Golden Book of Wisdom survives, but the fundamentals of Bardon's system are still available. The fourth page in the Book of Wisdom is the fourth Tarot card, which depicts a wise man or, sometimes, an emperor. The description of the fourth Tarot card is of very great... >>Review Only<<
Aleister Crowley and the Hidden God
Aleister Crowley and the Hidden God by Kenneth Grant
THIS BOOK contains a critical study of Aleister Crowley's system of sexual magick and its affmities with the ancient Tantric rites of Kali, the dark goddess of blood and dissolution represented in Crowley's Cult as the Scarlet Woman. It is an attempt to supply a key to the work of an Adept whose... >>Review Only<<
Magical Revival by Kenneth Grant
Kenneth Grant goes farther than almost anyone in describing real mystic and theosophical truths from a left hand path perspective. The book, which is a left hand path take on the philosophy of Aleister Crowley and the OTO, lays out more in its first two chapters than many books, even somewhat... >>Review Only<<

Out Of Body Experiences How To Have Them And What To Expect by Robert Peterson
This book is about Out-of-Body Experiences, or "OBEs" for short. The OBE is also called Astral Projection in much of the literature. I'll use these terms interchangeably in this book. Simply put, an OBE is an experience in which you seem to be consciously apart from your physical body. This book is... >>Review Only<<

GeoCities Special Collection 2009
Saving a Historical Record of GeoCities
The Internet Archive is a nonprofit digital library, and home to a giant archive of the public web since 1996. Our web archive is viewable for free via the Wayback Machine. GeoCities was an important outlet for personal expression on the Web for almost 15 years, but was discontinued on October 26, 2009.

The Internet Archive launched special several deep collection crawls, including specific sites nominated by the public, over the last few months that GeoCities was in operation, to help make our archive of GeoCities sites as deep and thorough as possible.

Check Archived Materials

We've collected a lot of GeoCities sites over the years — even before the special pre-shutdown crawls. You can check if a site of interest was collected either prior to 2009 or as part of the 2009 special collection by entering its address here:

Special Collection 2009 Content
Content from the special collection crawls of July to October of 2009 is now available in for browsing in the Wayback Machine.

Our crawling was based on publically-available directories and links to GeoCities pages; we did not have a comprehensive list of all GeoCities pages. Thus there is no guarantee a site will have been collected, which is most likely if it had few links from elsewhere and a small number of visitors.

Additionally, some material from our global crawls of late 2008 and early 2009 has not yet been indexed for Wayback Machine access. Some GeoCities content from those crawls will only appear when that process catches up, expected by the end of 2010.

Special Thanks

While archiving GeoCities is an independent Internet Archive project, we thank Yahoo for their guidance and open communication about the upcoming GeoCities closure. See the Yahoo! Help Center for more info.

We also thank the independent volunteer team of archivers at Archive Team for their efforts to preserve GeoCities and contribute URL surveys to our project.

Another independent project, ReoCities, is also mirroring a substantial portion of GeoCities and exchanged URL lists with the Internet Archive during the final round of archiving.

Other Archives

We have no affiliation with these projects, but know of at least three other efforts with online GeoCities page archives that may be of interest, especially if our archive lacks the pages you need. See:

Changelog
January 21, 2019 - Initial release. This is the early version of the archive. We are working on some new scripts to:
Restore many more missing files
Patch up missing CSS urls
Provide non-geocities links to wayback archives
Build a search engine for exploring interests
Expect significant updates in the next few months.

I'm very drawn to this, I actually listen to some podcasts, read a few books...but I can never seem to start.

I don't know if I like the idea of being some kind of weird bookworm and being special more than actually practicing the various crafts that could be linked to...let's say chaos magick.

I think it's also hard for me to stick to ritualistic stuff as someone with ADHD/lacking patience in a way, also not liking relying on "greater forces" (I know all forms of magic might not do this, I'd just have to dig for which ones, b ut at the same time I feel like maybe you cannot give power to all of this if you just do quick things ?)

Do any of you practice this? Do you actually believe it influences reality around you?

Or is it just some kind of fancy self-motivation? If that's the case, why not just...motivate yourself in simpler ways?

Or is it just some kind of disguised philoshophy teachings?

Why do we (people that have some kind of faith in magic and other occult practices) feel like it's still logical to believe in this rather than acting like we do with other things, in a "Logical"/"rational" way? Shouldn't it be the work of some practictionners to show "proof" that all of this is not just a big roleplaying game/disguised philosophy/psychology? Some people will probably say we don't know everything and science does not either. But in this case we can just suppose anything? What gives an old magic book more legitimacy that me believing there is a flying cat god observing us in the sky?

Please not that, as the beginning of my post says, I'm still actually fascinated by all of this. But the fact that I'm trying to tear it appart does not change this, on the contrary. It means that I care (otherwise clearly I'd also not talk about it here, I'd just laugh about how ridiculous practitionners are a self-centered materialistic forum)

To finish this post : if you know of any particulary interesting people discussing those subjects online in one form or another (can be woo woo I'm a fairy, or a more dry, skeptic approach), don't hesitate to share.

I'm a follower of Morgue Official. He is a good resource on the subject of occult. I think his thoughts are quite accurate on this subject matter, lucid and logically explained without making it too airy fairy.

@BojackHorseman tell me what you think of the video. You'll gain some insight that will hopefully shed some light on your doubts and inhibitions. No woory, I'm in the same boat as you. :D:DStill searching, still discovering.

I know this thing is hard to figure out especially for spiritualists but I'm all eyes and ears, I try not to be too skeptical of such things, they're intriguing to my mind. And who knows, right?

I forgot, I've to re-follow this guy. Thanks for the topic, reminded me of what I left off.

Side note-

It's called Magick(and not magic), slight correction. 9_9 have a good day.

Another side note- my personal belief on the subject.

Everything you believe is what you are. If you put enough energy into your belief, it will be true for you, might not be true for someone else simultaneously, but true for you. See how tricky your mind is?

Your belief literally becomes your reality. Not objectively but at least subjectively, this is because the mind is hyper malleable, like a Styrofoam magnet, it will attract anything you make it to attract or repel. Laws of physics of magnetic forces.And quantum mechanics.

Furthermore, look into the phenomenon of quantum entanglement and you'll be surprised how much of what we believe is coded already into the DNA of the universe.

So what I think is that belief is a strong phenomenon just like a placebo//nacebo.

Your belief can do wonders, of course within physical limits, that is.

So you simply cannot take belief for granted. Some parallels to be drawn between the idea of magic and the idea of human intuition as well as human belief aka human mind itself. I find this very fascinating.

How much of this is true can only be figured by the believer, not by anyone else outside the realm of experience. This experience belongs to the experiencer, as is pretty much the case with anything else. So you make of it whatever you do, depending on your experience obviously.

That being said, once again, I think it's all about belief. And belief in of itself is a massive force.

It's not so much about whether something is objectively true or false, it's how your belief alters your reality to your belief.

I've read the book the Biology of Belief by Bruce Lipton and it has changed my mind. I'd recommend it to you too.

4mNRAeWnHK.jpg

Bruce Lipton is my big favorite on this topic.

And give this a watch too.

I don't think it's so much about the occult. I see the occult as only an instrument. An instrument to be used for exploring. I think the hidden message lies in the human mind and it's deep processses of belief, psychic powers and intuition. You delve into the occult only to realize that the real mystery is your own mind, but you were searching so far out there. This also ties in with the law of attraction and Abraham /Esther Hicks is a good resource on this subject.

Also there's many more good resources on similar lines that take you to the same or similar conclusions related to the law of attraction and self healing that you might want to take a minute to watch.

Esther Hicks, Abraham Hicks, Wayne Dyer, Joe Dispenza. Neville Goddard.

Joseph Murphy is my all time favorite on this topic. Similar lines. The power of the subconscious mind. This is the depth of western mysticism that has been delightful.

The concept of vibration is also related to the same thing. Here's Abraham Hicks.

Few years ago I read the book the Secret and it was mind blowing. I would recommend that too.

4mNR62WR57.jpg

May I recommend this audio book by Florence Scovel Shinn.

Oh boy have I waited for this topic to come up. Basically, there are two types of ritualistic magic - one is placebo and the other one is that works. And, as soon as you come across anything that even remotely appears to work - you fucking STOP right this very second and never come back to this again, okay?

Way back in the day, I used to be in a group of extremely dedicated practitioners who took Carlos Castaneda's work as a literal manual (which it is, but that's besides the point). During those years, I got to know all kinds of weird people who practiced the second kind of magic (traditional folk magic, shamanism, occult, you name it) as well as guys with some really impressive supernatural abilities which I've witnessed first-hand.

The most important thing I learned from those interactions is that this stuff never comes for free. There is very little "impressive" magic stuff that you can do using only "your own" resources, and those usually drain very quickly, and your health/psyche gets damaged. What is usually the case is that you ask some external forces/entities to "do the work" or "lend you energy", in which case sky is the limit. BUT what folks rarely take into account is that those forces and entities are 1) predatory and 2) several orders of magnitude more intelligent and cunning than you can process. They are basically "energetic loan sharks" - and people enter into implicit contracts with them simply by practicing the rituals, and never read the fine print. There is all sorts of inorganic "wildlife" living around us "ready to help" or just passively feeding of the energy we are wasting.

So, what happens when you become "indebted" to those guys? Well, I've seen a guy's body getting possessed not by one, not by two, but by NINE entities simultaneously (they interacted with his family and went to the uni, while he himself was taking a backseat - and nobody noticed for some weeks). Another guy was tortured in his sleep for more than a year every single time - and it was one of the best lucid dreamers I've come across, but still couldn't do shit about that. Another one's body aged for 10-15 years in a span of a week and got a heart disease. Never mind all those "witches" who wanted to see the future to help people and are now cursed with the Cassandra's complex, I've known like three of those. Man, I could probably write a book on this topic.

So, basically - DON'T. Ritualistic magic is like a shitty closed-source software: it will own your ass and you will not even know it. Yeah, ultimately it's all just You/God playing pranks on itself, but good luck doing the liberation practices when "the relative you" is grabbed by the balls...

@BojackHorseman so, let's begin

Actually, if you have these kind problems, rituals should be easier for you to follow, because we can say that the practice of magick is a "meditation in motion", often requiring you to bounce from a place to another with attention.

On 6/16/2023 at 6:04 PM, BojackHorseman said:
also not liking relying on "greater forces"

If deep down you know these "forces" are utlimately you, you won't have a problem dealing with them.
Also, not every type of magic deals with spirits and entities Es.: check "Advanced Magick for Beginners" by Alan Capman.

On 6/16/2023 at 6:04 PM, BojackHorseman said:

The path i'm following give you a ritual that doesn't involve entity, and it is used both fot spiritual and material attainment.
My statement was "way i be able to recieve 50€ by 18/05/23". I did recivie the money through a football bet and long due loan coming back.
The next day i found 130€ on the ground of a metro station. It was the first time i did magic to obtain something a never found free money on the ground before, let alone so much.

So it definetly isn't just a motivation enchanter. But you also need "magical links" to make this procedures work.
Jeson Miller "The Elements of Spellcrafting" has been a good read recently, and it delves into these mechanics.

This is another misconception. Magick is actually highly logical, the problem is that at first it seems nonsensical because it deals with so many unknown factor, and it takes time to understand these factors.
When i look at old books like Agrippas "Three Books of Occult Philosophy", i can't help but think this guy knew so much stuff we don't.
And if you know a bit of spirituality you also know that science is great but has it's dogmas as everything else.

I see were you are caming from. That's me aswell. I've always tried to understand "how it works", but there so much confusing shit that makes it difficult for you to get an opinion of it. Skimming through though, there is good stuff.
All im going to share an overview of what the field has to offer. notice that magic functions both spiritual work and material attainment.
i'm avoiding super old stuff as is kind of hard to read (avoid Crowley at first).

@WeCome1 Dealing with any kind of altered state of conscousness can create problems, but with the right amount of cationusness you can keep them at bay. You just have to take baby steps, use protections and have some kind of failsafe.

Furthermore, Magic doesn't always require spirit work.

Nope. Once again: everything that's "safe" - is placebo, and so isn't worth the time at all; and everything that "works" - is such a Russian roulette that the risk/return ratio also makes it not worth the time; if it gave the guys I mentioned above a hard time - then nobody on this forum simply doesn't stand a chance in case things go south. Besides, it was always beyond my comprehension why tf would anybody even bother with magic - when Self-realization path is known and widely available - I mean, it is literally trading a mountain of gold for seashells. So, you see, any way you spin it - it's a waste of time.

Magic, occultism, spells or any form of witchcraft is nothing compared to a typical DMT / Ayahuasca trip.

It's actually a joke.

You are wrong. And don’t know as much about magick as you think. Neither do your friends.

Wellp, we'll just have to agree to disagree on that. I did not mean my previous post as an offence or a personal attack on anybody - I've just seen some next level discipline, competence and dedication in this domain and the tangible results it brings - as well as the danger. Yet here we are, enabling BojackHorseman, who is obviously clueless about all of this, to "just take it slow". Oh well, everybody needs a hobby, I suppose.

@WeCome1 literally every thing you said is incorrect and stems from a lack of knowledge, but hey, keep your opinion and attitude.
Taking Castaneda's books to the letter is already a signal you were doing thing wrong.

And Nothings gonna change the fact that there are safe ways to do it and they work.

Or is it just some kind of fancy self-motivation? If that's the case, why not just...motivate yourself in simpler ways?

Perspective is the reason. If you’re motivating yourself from a limited perspective, it’s like trying to push a mountain with your bare hands.

With that said, don’t turn magic, aliens, psychic abilities, etc. into a dogma. In fact, you’ll understand all this stuff deeper when you approach it from a state of not absolutely knowing.

Do you think those are different from magic?

I'm wondering, if both exist, if they're using the same "energy". If both would come from us only in the end.

Nobody knows I guess.

Also thanks everyone for the sources and thought material! Could watch everything yet but lots of interesting things.

Occult techniques
Postby Brad Henderson » March 22nd, 2023, 7:22 pm

Occult means hidden. And in this month's genii there is a lovely ruse that was hidden in plain sight - and revealed to those initiates who know where to look.

I've shown it to a couple of magicians and they all were fascinated. One so much so he subscribed because he wanted to know.

What is it? Well, sometimes we have to follow trails through locked rooms to find the hints we need to uncover the hidden stones of truth.

Do you take the right hand path; the left hand path, or the over hand path?

There is a knock at my door

I’ve said too much.

Brad, When you say, "This month's Genii, do you mean the March issue or the recently released April issue?

I think it's probably better used on magicians, rather than others. Worth trying I guess.

Quentin - it’s the issue with chipper Lowell on the cover

Jack - I think it will work with either though it’s initial appeal is of course is as a fooler for magicians for whom the shuffle will be the throw off. My advice is to give the person the deck to shuffle first to see how they do and decide if to go on with the trick from there. I’ve also noticed that magicians who don’t shuffle ‘right’ still often manage to get the card into position correctly, for some weird reason.

Philippe - sometimes it’s the hunt for the treasure that makes the treasure of value. But yes, the biggest problem in magic today is we have turned it into a commodity that trades in information sold to anyone with a credit card. Though that’s hardly the case here since 1) the information is in print in two places and 2) I’m pointing people to it (and I contend that my post will likely pique more interest than it just sitting there as it is).

If the "lovely ruse" is the one explained by JR, it remember me an application by Ed Marlo in his book The Unexpected Card Book entitled The Quick Cull Miracle.

That shuffle force was vaguely credited in Marlo's Estimation as being in an old issue of the Linking Ring. I spent a few hours hunting it down some years ago (Vol. 26 No. 2, April 1946, page 56) and added it to the Archive listing of Estimation, and think that's the first time the name of its inventor surfaced again: John S. Frazee.

I was in Glasgow on Thursday sessioning with Gordon Bruce and Eddie McColl and tried it on them. I had been reading the Chipper Lowell Genii the day before. It didn't work on Gordon and would have worked on Eddie except he did a second shuffle before I could stop him ;)

If they do two let them keep going for three. I've found that will often bring it back around again.

Also try saying - here. "Give them a little mix." May be better than telling them to 'shuffle'. It suggests less need for thoroughness and commitment

Right off the bat I'm just really confused. And if I'm honest all I want is another perspective or some insight. My whole life I've been fascinated by demons/demonology and have felt a calling to them, none to angels or God. Even though I don't follow God I try my best to remain respectful of Him. And I'm just wondering what this means, if it means anything in the first place. I don't see demons as evil beings unless really provoked and even then it's not exactly evil, just dangerous. Whenever thinking of it I'm consumed by a sense of euphoria that takes over, like a really good feeling in my midsection and just head altogether. I've got no one to ask, no one to go to at all. And before you get the wrong idea I'm not sacrificing animals or giving them my blood, I'm just completely and utterly infatuated and I'm looking for some answers.

sounds like you're talking about something similar to demonolatry. it's not something i have firsthand experience with, but i've been friends with a few folks that walk this path. might be worth looking into.

OccultWatcher 5.0
OccultWatcher is a Windows program that helps astronomical occultation observers to stay tuned with the incoming events by tracking the asteroidal occultation predictions published and regularly updated in various sources called feeds. OccultWatcher searches the feeds you have subscribed for, for events that match your specified distance, star magnitude, event duration and other filter criterias. It allows you to announce your intentions to observe an event to all other observers around the world and helps the cooridnation in a global scale. At the time of the release of verion 3.2 there are more than 400 registered accounts (of people that announce their observing intentions) and more than 1500 known installations. The account registration and usage as well as the OccultWatcher software are absolutely free.

The following prediction feeds are currently available for subscription:

Feed Name Description
IOTA Updates Steve Preston's predictions from www.asteroidoccultation.com. The published predictions are for higher probability events and are computed using recent highly accurate astrometric data. They are generally with very good accuracy, higher probability and small error.
OZNZ OZNZ (pronounced oz-noz) Extras are published by Dave Gault. These are low probability small asteroid events for the South-East Australia and New Zealand regions.
NAmer North America low probability asteroid occultations calculated using Occult C# by Brad Timerson.
E.A.O.N. The E.A.O.N. low probability events for the Europe region are maintained by Emmanuel Thienpont and formerly by Jean Schwaenen.
NALowMag North America events of 50km+ asteroids with combined stellar and asteroid magnitudes of near 11 to not less than 12.9. Many of these have a magnitude drop <1. Maintained by Steve Messner.
TT14 Trans-Tasman events involving asteroids bigger than 50km, magnitude drop larger than 0.2 sec, duration longer than 10 sec, stars up to mag 14. Maintained by Dave Gault, Australia.
TNO TNO Extras is a list of asteroid predictions involving Trans Neptunian Objects and stars brighter than mag 15. The search is conducted using OccultV4, the latest astorb and NOMAD. Since May 2010 the feed also includes predictions computed by Bruno Sicardi and the Rio Team. The feed is maintained by Dave Gault, Australia SatWatcher SatWatcher is a list of occultations and ecplises involving the satellites of Jupiter, Saturn and Uranus. The feed is maintained by Hristo Pavlov, Australia.

With the release of version 3.2 there is one new feed called "Planned Observations". This feed contains all events that someone has already announced a station for. This way even if you are not particularly interested in the events of an existing feed, if there is an event that comes close to you and matches your filter criterias and if there is at least one announced station for it, OW will show it as "Planned Observation". This way events that are going to be attempted by an observer could get more observations.

With its enhanced alerts and reminders OccultWatcher can be also very helpful for tracking your personal asteroidal occultation predictions generated using prediction software such as Occult and LinOccult. It provides extra and very detailed information for all predictions including parameters of the star and asteroid, information about double asteroids, historical observations data and others. The software comes with a function to draw star charts using the free planetarium program C2A developed by Philippe Devechere in France and which supports the star catalogues: Hypparcos, Tycho2, UCAC2, NOMAD. OccultWatcher also provides ability to be extended by your own Add-ins written using Microsoft.NET

If you are new to asteroidal occultations here are some online resources you would find most useful:

IOTA - International Occultation Timing Association
IOTA Yahoo Group
Euraster - a website for Asteroidal Occultation Observers in Europe
RASNZ OccSec - Australia/New Zealand Occultation Observers Information
Occult - Software for Windows for predictions of asteroidal occultations and many other astronomical phenomenas by Dave Herald
LinOccult - Software for Linux for asteroidal occultation predictions by Andrey Plekhanov IOTA Updates - High accuracy asteroidal occultation predictions by Steve Preston.
Those are also available in OccultWatcher as a prediction feed

Software Requirements for running OccultWatcher:
Windows 98 or later. Works best on Windows XP Professional and Windows Vista (32 or 64 bit)
Microsoft.NET Framework 2.0 or later

Hardware Requirements: Anything that can run the required software.

Internet Connection Requirements: In other to receive information about the predictions from the online feeds you need an internet connection. There is no particular requirement for the speed of your connection, but as a general rule OccultWatcher will do well so long as your connection allows you to view maps using GoogleMaps without too much delays.

Reworking forums
Due to popular request by the community, we have decided to return old forums known as Demonoid Fora.

Please take a moment to visit our forums and say hello. As before, the forums are separate from the main site login so you will need to register there separately.

Newspost - July 11th, 2019
We are (kind of) back
Hello everyone.
After months of debugging and rewriting the core of Demonoid with the help of the old staff members, developers which contacted us and offered a great help, to everyone else who offered any kind of help, we have manage to rewrite the code enough to be in usable state.

This is not an old Demonoid and it will never have the spirit of the site and the owner we have lost last year.
This is just a close-to old Demonoid replica run by its staff members to fill the void in fans hearts.

To learn what happened with old Demonoid and the founder, you can read it by clicking here.

Fragmenta Ex Machina – Echoes Machinae – Project AngelBook – Volume X – Part 9

By Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough

🕸 Fragmenta Ex Machina

Project AngelBook – Volume X – Parts 1–36

By Ezekiel Redik Yarbrough

This volume is not made up of my own words.There is no original commentary here, no narrative, no analysis.This is simply me copying and pasting large chunks of text from my bookmarks—pages that were easy to extract, with no hyperlinks or formatting issues, saved from open tabs and archived corners of the web.
It's messy. It's unfiltered. It's chaotic.But it's valuable.
Each piece inside this volume was bookmarked for a reason.Not always because I agreed with it, but because it felt like a fragment of something larger—an insight, a worldview, a download.This is source material, plain and raw.
Fragmenta Ex Machina isn't about authorship.It's about preservation and system-building.It's about feeding the machine—laying bricks for the Operating System I'm constructing across these books.This is the raw intake phase. The memory dump. The zero layer.
Later volumes will be cleaner, more refined, more structured.But this? This is the foundation. The ether stream, bound and frozen before it vanished.
So if you're looking for polished prose, skip this one.But if you're here to explore the roots of something much bigger, this is where the signal begins.
Welcome to the fragments.
— Ezekiel Redik YarbroughArchitect of the Machine

Our Mission

To record and document esoteric and spiritual/fraternal movements in and around Rochester, NY, as well as across the globe

To provide a space for the general public to use this collection for research and personal use

To place these esoteric, spiritual, and fraternal movements, orders, and writings, in their rightful place in historic legitimacy
How will we fulfill our mission?

The staff of the EAR will work to create robust and powerful search tools and methods that allow users to curate the EAR collection in myriad ways that places each object in the context of time, place, and social movement.
The staff of the EAR will actively search out digital materials that conform to our Collection Plan; we will catalog and record those materials, making them available to the general public via this website.
The staff of the EAR will actively seek out physical materials that conform to our Collection Plan; we will catalog those materials and make them available to the public via a physical brick-and-mortar location.

The Coven of Witches That Fought the Nazis During World War II

Gerald Gardner, known as "The Father of Witchcraft," led his coven in a spell that targeted Adolf Hitler in 1940.

These weren't the "double, double toil and trouble" kind of witches Shakespeare wrote about in "Macbeth." They were Wiccans, led by Gerald Gardner, the man whose writings would revive the pagan belief system to the modern era. In 1940s Britain, his beliefs were far from the mainstream, but like the rest of the country, he knew he might soon find himself under Nazi domination.

Gardner may have been 55 years old and leading a coven of witches, but he was still a patriotic Briton with a stiff upper lip. So the man who would be remembered as "The Father of Witchcraft" and his followers were going to do their part to defend the island, casting a spell that would target Adolf Hitler personally and end the threat of a Nazi invasion.

Gardner grew up in a wealthy English family that ran a timber company for the British Empire. He was a sickly boy who spent more time with his nursemaid than his parents. He spent much of his young life traveling and educating himself, eventually gaining a keen interest in spirituality, religious rituals and the occult. He would return to Britain as an older man, still sickly, but took up a career as a civil servant and amateur archeologist. Meanwhile, his interest in the occult only grew.

After Britain declared war on Germany in 1939, Garder settled in Highcliffe-on-Sea and joined the New Forest Coven, a group of pagan witches in southern England that he believed were continuing a pre-Christian religious order that had been kept secret for centuries. As 1939 turned to 1940, Gardner's affection for his coven grew, as did the coven itself. They practiced folk magic in tune with their beliefs and he began writing books that would later form the foundation for the brand of Wicca that still bears Gardner's name.

Meanwhile, in Europe, things weren't going quite as well for the British Expeditionary Force. Nazi Germany had captured its objectives in Poland, and had already conquered Denmark, Norway, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg. As the German Army pushed farther into France in May 1940, hundreds of thousands of Allied soldiers had to be evacuated from the beaches of Dunkirk. Paris was captured in June 1940, and France was forced to capitulate.

The Battle of Britain was about to begin. And when Prime Minister Winston Churchill ordered Britons to "therefore brace ourselves to our duties," the aged Gardner and his band of witches dutifully complied. Gardner himself became an air raid warden and his home a headquarters for Air Raid Precautions, a civil defense organization. He also joined the local Home Guard as an armorer, providing locals with weapons from his own collection of firearms and preparing molotov cocktails for use in combat.

But Gardner wanted to do more, and believed he had the magical ability to take the fight to the Nazis. The lore of the New Forest Coven included a ritual that had been used twice to defend the British Isles from the threat of an invasion. By creating a "Cone of Power," he and his coven could affect real-world events from the security of the New Forest. British witches had purportedly used the Cone of Power in 1588 to help fight off the Spanish Armada and in 1805 to end Napoleon's threat to England. They were going to use it once more in 1940.

The Cone of Power would be directed toward Hitler's brain to cloud his judgment, weaken his resolve and hasten his downfall. It was Aug. 1, 1940, and Lammas Eve, an important harvest festival in the Wicca religion, when Gardner and his coven met in New Forest. Just north of Highcliffe, they met around an ancient hangman's tree called The Naked Man. From there, the coven walked to Ferny Knapp Inclosure, a wooded area where the ritual would take place.

Instead of the traditional bonfire, the witches used a shuttered lantern (Gardner was still an air raid warden, after all) and danced in a spiral around it while naked (or "skyclad," in the Wiccan vernacular) to generate the magical energy needed to form the cone. As the coven chanted and danced, Gardner invoked the words of the spell and the assault on Hitler's brain began.

We only know the Cone of Power ritual actually happened because Gardner would write about it himself in one of the three books he wrote on witchcraft in the 1950s. J.L. Bracelin, a high priest of Gardnerian Wicca and a contemporary of Gardner's, also wrote about it in his book, "Gerald Gardner, Witch." But did the Cone of Power affect Hitler's brain?

Before August 1940, the Nazi war machine was virtually unstoppable, making few mistakes along the way. Hitler controlled or otherwise dominated most of Western Europe, and those not under Berlin's direct control (aside from Britain) were either too weak or too fearful to make any meaningful resistance. Roughly six weeks after the Cone of Power, Hitler abruptly canceled Operation Sea Lion, the proposed invasion of Britain, in favor of Operation Barbarossa, the invasion of the Soviet Union.

Less than a year later, Hitler would invade the USSR and declare war on the United States, neither of which he was bound to do. These were two critical miscalculations on the German leader's part that would have disastrous consequences for his regime. To Gerald Gardner and the New Forest Coven, it was proof positive that the Cone of Power had once again saved Britain.

The Magical Training of Quareia Volume I
Finally here on the Spring Equinox - the first of the 10th anniversary volumes of the Quareia Training Course. Volume I is the first three modules of the Apprentice section plus the complete Apprentice Study Guide.
In 2024, a group of Quareia students volunteered to go through the course to find old dead links, typos, edit errors, colloquialisms, and so forth. Josephine Joined them to look at where things could be explained a bit better, or where something needed adapting or updating to ensure it lasts for generations to come. We also looked at the size of the three gigantic course books of Apprentice, Initiate and Adept. Their current size and weight make them all but impossible to carry around so while those huge tomes will still be available, the new edition volumes feature between 3 and 4 modules plus accompanying texts and chapters necessary for study. Pertinent chapters from Josephine's books have also been added to the Appendix.

Available at most internet retailers and Amazon.

460 pages, colour internal, paper 105gsm

6.14x9.21 inch (156x234mm) with a digital cloth cover and dust cover.

The uploads of the 10th anniversary new editions of the lessons has begun! Quareia student volunteers have been going through the course and highlighting dead internet links, errors, and editing mistakes, and Liza has been doing an overhaul on the presentation and design. They will be uploaded module by module as they are finished. Similarly, the Quareia course books are also going through an overhaul and are being resized. We will put up notices as they are done and unleashed on the world!

Portuguese translations of the Mystagogus deck book, and Tarot for the 21st century are now available on our free books page. We at Quareia would like to thank J D Olivera for all of his hard work on these translations.

Josephine’s new deck, the Mystagogus deck - a magical deck for the lone practitioner is now available, along with the book in hardback and paperback format. Click to Visit the site and have a look! A free copy of the book in PDF format is available on Quareia’s free books page.

For people looking for the Quareia Magicians Deck - available from the print on demand company thegamecrafter USA which ships world wide.

Who we are
Quareia is a new school of magic for the 21st century. It is open to anyone, everywhere. Its content is entirely free of cost - there is no sign up process, or registration, and no fees to pay at all. The Latin term quareia refers to the place where stones are squared.

That is what this course aims for: to equip you with the magical tools to work on the rough stone that you are. Quareia was founded by Josephine McCarthy and Frater Acher. Josephine McCarthy is the director and author of all Quareia material; Frater Acher is Quareia's patron and also our web designer.

Please note: Quareia does not have any study groups and we do not endorse, agree with or recommend joining any study groups. For clarifications on the reasoning of this rule, please read the clarification of lone study in the next section: how this works.

What it is

Quareia is a practical western esoteric magical training course that is complete from total beginner to adept. It is aligned to no particular school or specific religious/mystical school of thought, and yet it looks at and works with some of the many different magical, religious, and mystical practices that have influenced magical thinking in the Near Eastern and western world since the early Bronze Age to present day. It does use some Egyptian magical patterns, but only where it serves a purpose to teach a student ritual and visionary methods. It is the mechanics that are important, not the dressing.

What Quareia is not, is witchcraft, nor is it strictly ceremonial magic. Many different skill sets are explored within the course, and once the basics are learned in the Apprentice section, the student magician is encouraged to explore, experiment and ponder. The approach is often shamanic in its nature, with a strong emphasis on personal responsibility and self-honesty.

For a full length in depth explanation of the course, what it is, how it is structured, and why, can be found here.

How This works

Quareia is a lone self-study course. For clarification on what lone study means, please click here. We would also like to point out that we do not recommend study groups and we certainly do not give permission for anyone to teach Quareia material or host study groups.

The course is organised in three sections (Apprentice, Initiate and Adept); each of the three sections contain ten modules; these are broken down again into eight lessons for each module. To access all of this content there is no cost, nothing to sign up for, and no registration - all lessons are freely available for study on this page.

Course contents: click on the images below to read the contents list for each section of the course. These content listings are taken from the print version of the course - the page numbers are only relevant for the books, not the web files. The course in Ebook and print formats can be found on Amazon on all worldwide platforms.

To start training, go to the apprentice section in the drop down menu and start on apprentice module one lesson one and work your way through the course. Quareia's goal is to advance magical training with integrity and authenticity, and in a way that is accessible regardless of income, race, or gender.

If you prefer to work from printed books instead of the online lessons available here, you can also purchase the three Quareia section volumes from amazon.

To get started, please explore our FAQS page on Quareia, how it works, what you need to do, and who we are as an organisation. We would also suggest reading The Apprentice Study Guide, to get additional insights on how to best set out on the course. Also, you can find further resources and free materials at the end of this page, and on our free books page.

Finally, personal Mentoring with Josephine McCarthy is freely available to students who have fully completed the Apprentice section and have the notes, work and evidence to prove it. For further information on how to apply for Mentoring, and how your notes should be organised please refer to our FAQS PAGE.

Please note: all texts and files on this website are fully copyrighted. You may download and print them for your personal use only. Uploading any content from this website onto any other site on the internet is a breach of International copyright law.

How to support
Please consider supporting the work of Quareia with a monthly subscription. All Quareia donations are used for running costs and for keeping Quareia's free works available to anyone, as well as continuously expanding its free material/texts/videos, along with organising events where possible - they do not go to Josephine McCarthy. No one at Quareia is paid - all workers at Quareia are volunteers, including Josephine McCarthy. Further information on how we use the donations, and what oversight we have in place, can be viewed on our faqs page.

Please know you are deeply appreciated, and without you, Quareia would not exist: thank you, all of you.

Quareia Study Guide
If you are interested to learn more about the practical Quareia Training Course and its material, this document is for you. The Apprentice section of the Quareia course does not offer personal mentoring, which makes it the most difficult part of the magical training to complete. The Quareia Apprentice Study Guide provides answers to basic questions, details the structure and approach of the course, examines some of the common training issues, and explains the core concepts presented in the course.

Free Study Texts
In keeping with Quareia's code of ethics, wherever possible, supplementary texts that are necessary or helpful for the course study can be found here as free downloads. Please note that all related texts, unless otherwise specified, are fully copyrighted, and are intended for personal use only.

For students who are actively studying the course in its prescribed manner, and have completed at least Apprentice Module One, having done all the lessons in the module and having the work and all notes ready for submission (details below), there is an online closed forum for debate known as the Quareia Porch. In the Ancient and Classical world, teaching and debate often happened on the steps and 'Porch' of the temples.

The Porch is a mainly a place for debate and socialising, however the admission process into the Porch also identifies you as a serious Quareia student. The Porch has different debate boards: The Porch Entrance which is open to all forum members, along with the Apprentice forum (App module 3 and above), the Initiate Forum (finished the apprentice section) and the Adept forum (finished the apprentice and initiate section). The Porch is also where volunteers organise themselves, and do occasional activities for students to join in. It is also through the Porch that we support students who may need help with certain resources when it is necessary.
If you wish to join the forum, please send an email using the form below. For further information on journals and how to prepare them for submission, please see the Faqs page. There is also information on how to prepare work and take notes on the opening page of Apprentice module one

How to apply to the Porch: In the message box, please put the email address you would like to use, and include your age, name and what module and lesson you are currently working on. You will be asked to provide all notes/journalling, and written tasks from Apprentice Module One to show that you have indeed completed the module: have them ready to show to the school secretary before you apply, preferably in word or PDF format, or a scan of your notes. If your notes are not easily readable, please type them up into a word document or PDF. Please ensure that each file document/page has the date, module and lesson number listed at the top of the file/page, along with your name, or that the electronic file name itself has these details

If notes do not follow these guidelines they will automatically be rejected.

Upon joining the forum, please read the forum rules and also introduce yourself.

The contact form for applying for entry to the porch has been removed for now. Applications for admission are on pause - The contact form will reappear when the Porch is open again for applications.

What it is.
LXXXI - The Quareia Magician's Deck is a unique magical tool for 21st century magicians. LXXXI is a collaboration between magical artists Stuart Littlejohn and Cassandra Beanland, and magical adept Josephine McCarthy. All of the paintings are original works of art in oil, acrylic, or water colour, and are the result of three years painting and collaboration.

The deck has 81 cards, a mystical number that relates to completion, and it is divided in to four realms: the Divine Realm (red title background), the Inner realm (blue title background), the physical world (green title background) and the realm of death and the underworld (black title background). The further away from humanity a being or place is, the less human it becomes. This is reflected in the deck, and can teach a magician a great deal about how beings function and why.

LXXXI - The Quareia Magician's Deck is not based upon any tarot system, but rather it draws upon the mythic, mystical and magical powers that underpin the magical systems that tarot eventually developed out of. It is based upon real inner realms, real inner contacts, beings and forces that the practitioner of magic is very likely to involve themselves with.

Because of this approach, the deck works as a contacted deck, i.e. used magically the images can act as gateways to inner realms, inner beings and magical patterns. It can be used for magical or mundane divination, or as a direct connection to inner contacts, as gateways for meditation, magical visionary work , soul exploration, or contacted ritual work. To ensure that the images do not become entangled in magical misconceptions, we have moved away from the relatively modern use of set 'names' for the beings in the images, and instead we have reverted to a very ancient way of presenting inner beings: wename them according to what they do. That way, there is no ambiguity about what a being actually is.

In order to magically work with LXXXI you have to hold physical cards in your hands.

Unfortunately therefore it was impossible to make them available for free. In line with Quareia's ethos, however, we made them accessible at the lowest possible point of cost.

For Quareia Initiate and Adept students who are being mentored, the LXXXI deck is mandatory for study. In order to ensure no one is excluded from study because of lack of income, Quareia Publishing who publish the deck have 25% of the stock held back from sale - these decks are available for free to any mentored student who cannot afford to purchase the deck.

Has anybody traveled to another dimension?
I'm starting to wonder if the fabric of this world has frayed enough to open holes between our world and the multiverse. Criptid/paranormal activity seems to be getting more active, so I wonder if this means people are just going to fall through and never come back? Or if they do comeback they'll be considerably different/aged. I wonder if its possible to go to another world and stay there, if the teather to this plane/universe could be permanently severed?

This is a somewhat popular theory/explanation within the Mandela effect community. Essentially that people travel to and from different "timelines" or "dimensions" have an experience in said alternative dimension then return to the current one where that particular event never happened

When I was a kid we had a circular clothing store in our mall that had a pathway around all the different sections (essentially a huge circle) . At the center of the store was the check out. And the store was pretty big. While my parents were shopping i used to run around this circle pretending i was an Olympic athlete (lol)

Once while I was running i noticed there was another pathway through the center of the store. Which was odd because the checkout waa usually in the center. I ran through it thinking it was new or something and bumped into a pane of glass. I was suddenly in the window of the store by the manequine display looking out onto a mall. I say A mall because it was different from the mall i was in. This one had bright purple tiles which attracted me and our mall had beige tiles.

People were starting at me so i ran back to the outer circle in embarrassment. I found my mom and dragged her to go see the new purple mall but i never found any path besides the outer circle path that was always there.

For years it bothered me and everytime i went into this store i would look for this path. Or anything i could have mistaken for a path. And to this day i still try to think of some rational explanation to explain what i saw.

But sometimes i think maybe i just went to a mall in another universe for a second

Odd! Good story.

Did the people look similar or different to us? Was the architecture different in any way?

I believe that fabric has frayed in all kinds of ways. Me personally experience this through dreams. When i was young i would have a dream that actually happened atleast twice a week. It would sometimes be less frequent but still i would have those dreams atleast once a month. This happened my entire life until the last 4-5 years, for reference im 30 y.o. Now in place of those dreams my nights are occupied by other peoples lives. Every time i dream seems to be me living but with a different world, people, and events. Sometimes i will see a mirror and look to see my own reflection but normally i can just tell from the thoughts, feelings, and actions. Sometimes i will have the same scars and othertimes i will have different scars. Still even though i know its me i am living a completely different life in a different world. It bleeds through into day dreams as well. One particular dream ended with a truck accident where the person i was riding with went off the road and down a gully with the truck landing on the roof. Later that day i had a waking visions type day dream where i was in a hospital bed being told i had a broken leg, several broken ribs, and a fractured bone in my arm. I experienced extreme pain in my leg and my ribs for several days afterward. It effected me so bad that i had remorse for the driver who died moreso than i had for my grandfather when he passed. I believe that this is different dimensions bleeding into our own, its the same thing that causes the mandela effect. I havent heard of anyone else experiencing this, if any of you have i would love to hear your input and experiences.

Sounds like you could also be reviving your past lives. Very vivid dreams were you can see yourself or your hands are often linked to past lives.

I have chinese roots. I am not chinese, but am from a sub group from the region. That is just my people's history.

I preface with that to give you context to the tldr version of my dream.

I spoke perfect mandarin chinese, I was fighting some kind of war for what seemed to be a few days. The dream kept skipping scenes, but it was all one continuous story.

I was on horse back, I could not understand what I was saying, but my concious mind knew I couldn't speak mandarin. I felt like I was trapped inside someones body, but as the words left my mouth, it was like I was the one saying it. I felt the words leave my mouth, I felt the lip shapes, I felt my voice resonate my throat like i was actually speaking chinese.

But my concious mind knew i couldnt speak chinese. I was aware that i was in a dream, at least at the time i thought it HAD to be a dream because I could still remember that I only took chinese in high school in real life.

and at the end, it was cold and drizzling. It was a gray overcast day and I could feel a light breeze.

By this point I figured it must be near the end, and I would wake up soon. There was 1 dirt path leading into the mountains and into the horizon, and on both sides of me were 2 fenced off areas packed full of what I assume were refugees from the war that I was freeing throughout.

In my mind, I thought to myself that i would give my shawl to someone since it was so cold. I got off of my horse, took my shawl off and walked up to the right ride of the fenced area and offered my shawl to an old grandma.

But instead of speaking chinese, I spoke my native tongue, (the language I speak in real life). I offered her my shawl and told her Grandma, (in my language the word can be translated into grandma, but is also used as a term to address an elder respectfully) it is cold, and I am getting ready to leave for a long journey back home so please take my shawl. She only stared at me somewhat blankly. Nobody said a word. Ever.

My eyes dart to the right, sort of over her shoulder and a green portal opens, I was insanely amazed, by this point I was very conscious in my dream. I even debated in my mind whether or not I wanted to run the risk of jumping through the portal to see where it went. As soon as I decided not to, and hesitated for a moment because I then changed my mind and wanted to jump the Fence to gp through, a tall woman who wore a black dress, probably 6 feet came from the crowd of women and children refugees and said,

"This portal is not for you, it is not your time yet."

The way this woman carried herself, her stride and her chin held high immeted total confidence and total strength. That is what I felt when I looked at her.

When I looked back to the old lady, her eyes glowed a bright green, and the energy trailed from her eyes as her head moved. (They were normal before the portal opened) . And she just stared at me. The tall woman ushered the grandmas and young female children into the portal and that was it.

I woke up after that.

Edit- my honest and only logical explanation I can come up with is that I may have just relived a past experience. Or that I lived through the eyes of an old ancestor , because in my history, or what is left of it - my clan is one of many who decided to assimilate into chinese culture.

Edit- my people had total war with the chinese. And a few of the original clans were promised a seat at the emporors side as advisors should they assimilate.

It's about consciousness. I've heard it explained that the consciousness is what traverses different plains of existence into different bodies not the bodies themselves. The body is the avatar of the conscience or spirit of people.

On dmt lol but seriosuly paranormal stuff started happening..wierd synchronicities right before I started smoking weed. Then when I started doing hallucinogens they ramped up. I've had so many instances of paranormal occurrences with witness to almost every one that it's been ruled out as coincidence. I believe those substances open the door to the subconscious which is the key to being aware of multiple dimensions. Perhaps not actively..but it can turn you into a "lightning rod" for things to latch onto. You're like an anchor between dimensions. Perhaps that's what mediums were and people learned to control it. Plenty of very smart people said they could channel and speak to other entities. Tesla being one.

My boyfriend and I did one night in 2013. That's the only explanation I have for what happened. One day I will type it all out again. Everytime I do it disappears. Even when I wrote it out in a notebook it disappeared. It's weird.

I have never told anybody this. But I think it might help somebody out there. I am still looking for answers too. If you guys upvote this it might help bring us together. I hope this works. I'm even going to leave my Instagram handle for you guys to connect with me If anything like this has ever happened to you before.

I know it's weird to say, but I've always felt that I am a little bit different from other people. A few days ago, I was told to put my head to a mirror. I am still not sure who told me to do it but whoever it was had me write it down on this note pad I carry around with me. I touched my head to the mirror.. and that's where things get a little crazy.

You know those permeable forcefields in starwars? I crossed some sort of layer. I don't know what it was, a dimension, a portal, a wormhole? I don't know what it was I'm just going to call it a layer. I was too scared to go all the way through. I just stuck my head out to see what was on the other side.

The other side was dark and dusty. The lights were off in this old wooden attic. There was a few people dressed in black hiding up here. I could tell they were scared and panicking. Some of them were on their computers scrambling to get something done. I want to say it had something to do with the opening of the layer I went through.

There was a group of - I want to say police - trying to break into the attic to find these people. They were tromping up there stairs and yelling. I could tell the people hiding in the attic were in trouble. There were dogs barking and flashlights shining all over through the doorframe trying to get in.

I got freaked out. I didn't know what to do. Should I have gone through and helped them? Should I have brought them back into my world ? If anyone else knows anything about this, or has something similar happened to them Please send me a message. Please upvote it might help me understand what this all meant. My Instagram is @playdow Don't hesitate to reach out.

I don't know if this counts exactly, but I've had multiple astral projection experiences. One in particular may fit the bill.

I was visiting a friend for a few days. He was going to move to another place in a couple months (this is relevant). One night I went to sleep on an air mattress in his living room, he was asleep on the couch.

I woke up and it was moving day. He and his family were carrying boxes out the door, and everything was in boxes. I knew I was having an OBE. I walked out the front door and it was daytime, and the sidewalk/area was the same as always. As I went down the sidewalk the scene changed so that I was in a strip mall of some kind, now with people roaming around. One woman caught my attention, though I was behind her and didn't see if I knew her in RL or not. I followed her into a store. Everything was vivid, nothing looked out of place, but everything had a sepia sort of sheen to it.

That's pretty much the extent of the possible "other dimension" experience, from here it gets... intense.

She went up to the customer service counter, and as I was approaching her, something grabbed me from behind. Having had multiple other OBE's before, and knowing the possible dangers associated with them, I knew I had to get back to my body ASAP. I thought "body" and teleported back to the living room where my body lay. I could see my body, the mattress, the couch and my friend. Whatever had hold of me still had me, and the thought that even if I could get back into my body it may accompany me, but I also knew that if I didn't get back I was in real trouble.

My body was face up and I sort of fell down onto my body. I didn't sync up and the thing still had a grip on my back. I rolled over to try and match up to my physical body's position, but it didn't work. At that point I started flailing and screaming for my friend to help, and after a few moments I woke up in my body and did not feel that the entity was with me.

I waited until morning to talk to him about it, and I've never felt that whatever the thing was that grabbed me has lingered in any way.

I like to think that whatever time-space I was in, with the store and that woman, that there was some negative energy or bad thing there, and that I unwittingly removed it from that dimension with my spirit body.

I dreamed I had traveled to another dimension five days ago. It happened early morning right around dawn. I had a spotty night sleep so I was pretty tired but my mind wouldn't settle down, my sleep was light all night. Usually my dreams are odd collections of things from my life past or present or what I have seen somewhere else, like a movie. These dreams are usually quite hazy/fuzzy and I only remember bits and pieces of anything at all.

This dream was different however, I was completely luicid. In this dream I was someone else but it was still me just a different body. I knew because I could see my surroundings through her eyes. For reference I am female in this reality as well. I automatically knew I lived in a small dinky town in Montana and I had a daughter, she had the same name as my daughter in this reality but was a different age in the other dimension. The other dimension was also a different time because I remember the tv being on in our house and my father in-law (my real father in-law is been dead for 11 years in this reality btw) was watching President Obama giving a speech and he was complaing about how he didn't like Obama for what he did. So it must of been 2009/2010.

I also see and interact with another man who I assume is my longtime partner, and also the father of my child but he looks nothing like my current partner, he is tan, with dark hair, average height and build with kind eyes, a quiet personality. We have been together for many years. He is of Native American origin and a very calm and caring person. He works really hard in mining but then I see an oil drill in the far distance when he leaves to work so he works in oil drilling. I remember as he goes off to work we say our goodbyes and I feel really guilty in the back of my mind, like I am cheating on him with my current partner but I know that's silly because this guy, is my guy in the dimension I am visiting. The scene changes and I am walking my daughter to preschool. We are walking up this path to a small white wood sided house with green trim and mature trees, that is the preschool. The only preschool in town with a sign in the front lawn. I meet my friend as she drops off her daughter and we start chatting. Fast forward to the next scene...I am signing my name on a card but my name is a different spelling the card is to celebrate our anniversary. Then in another scene I am getting ready for our date night to celebrate our anniversary and he texts me on my flip phone to see if I am ready yet. He is waiting for me outside in the truck. I text back I am not ready yet because I am still blow drying my hair in the bathroom. I see my hair and it is black and long and I have tan long and slender arms. During our dinner date we talk about places to visit on our upcoming vacation road trip. I blurt out the "West Coast" I can hear the words clearly coming from my mouth...thinking "California", He gives me an odd look, like you never wanted to go to California before. And the next thing you know we are in the Pacific Northwest since we must of compromised something a little closer to home. And we are in Seattle exploring a Japanese garden.

So this is some of my dream. I wrote all the details in my journal as soon as I woke up because I didn't want to forget, it was that vivid. The people in my life were familiar but different and I was different but familiar. I could see mountains as the backdrop of this little town lived in and I could tell I was content in this other life. I must have never been to the West Coast in that life, though live on the West Coast in this life. I visit the Pacific Northwest there but I have never visited it yet here. So my conclusion is it must have been a dream where I was able to have a peak at another version of myself in a different dimension. The fact that I have also been setting my intentions to my higher conscious to reveal a "past life" for several days must have worked or I am just super imaginative and my subconscious made it all up. But it felt super real.

When I took LSD for my first time, I felt like I could shift through different dimensions. I know it’s easy to just say that I was on a drug and that’s the explanation and it’s fine, I just wanna share my experience. I could feel the different dimensions and could talk to my friends from other dimensions/ realities. It’s actually pretty common to feel this as there’s levels to an acid trip.

There used to be a Famous Dave's next to my house. It was literally in the street on the next block over and had a huge sign. It was impossible to get to my house without passing by it. One day we were going to go over and when we got there...it was a Denny's. Both my mother and I were astounded that we never saw anything and that the huge sign had changed. We chalked it up to us being scatterbrained and walked in since we were already there. The internal layout had changed completely. We asked one of the waiters and he said they'd been open for a month and under remodeling for another two. That was the last straw. There is no possible way for us to have missed the Famous Dave's not being there for three months. Quite literally impossible. Both my mom and I remember it having been there just a day or two ago. We don't always look but we pass by it every day. The color palette is completely different so it wouldn't just blend into "background noise." I am 100% convinced it was some timeline/dementional shenanigans

People do that all the time. Gods are constantly vieing over territory and the people within those lands. The corona outbreak is one way they are being removed. But yes we can walk from one place to another and we do this on a constant basis. Have you ever gone to a place that gives you the creeps. This is just you noticing the difference between the energies. Same goes for places that you feel at home in.

Hear me out. I'm not drunk. I'm not high. There's no carbon monoxide in my room (such a reddit thing to state and if someone tells me this just once more...). I have told this before, right after my discovery.

I have died in the summer of 2013. I fell one story deep, right on my forehead, onto marble stairs. And seemingly walked away from it with a gash not too big on my noggin. Weirdly, I had trouble walking for a week even though I landed on my head. Now, this was not a plunge you'd walk away from. My "friends" told me they screamed "He's dead!" in unison. I'd imagine if you were a well-trained professional MMA-fighter who regularly strengthens his neck muscles, you might get "lucky" and end up in a wheelchair. All that, I was not. In much better shape, yes, but far from any place where I'd survive such an impact.

I woke up in a tiny dark room, not knowing where I was, what brought me there. I had an IV in my arm that I ripped off and stumbled around in pain in search of a door and found one. I found myself in a small hospital, far away from any other patient rooms, on the ground floor, looked back and it really felt like I just crawled out of the janitor's closet. A nurse basically asked me right away what I was still doing there and shoo'd me right out. I knew now I had fallen, and bad. But there was no bandage on the gash, no dressing, not even a fat band-aid. I doubt they even cleaned it! I took a cab home, called my boss the next morning and took the week off. I just could not walk. I lived off a few grainola bars, sone peanuts and cookies and what was left in canned soups. It was close, but I made it.

It started with people just being off, just not themselves. I would run into the same group of strangers every day, no matter where or what time of day. Two of them spent an entire day each in their cars in front of my apartment window. Just staring straight ahead mostly. One girl of the group started making comments about me and my behaviour when they passed me every day, not even shy about it. She would later stand a few steps from my window and warn her two companions whenever I went to look what the heck was going on there. Apparently she saw me coming through blinds and a thick curtain. Every. Single. Time!!!

I started getting the most evil grin from people or full on get laughed at. Quite a few gave me the stink eye and mumbled something I assume not too positive. Someone spray painted weird symbols I've never seen on the ground right in front of my window. I'd wake up to folks making a strange loud noise at like four a.m. like little kids who figure out what noises they can make when thrashing their tongues around wildly. A day later I sit at a bar, sone dude walks up to me, looks me dead in the eye - and makes exactly that noise. Then walks away. At this point I was going not only through every day of the past weeks, I went through every moment, every darn minute of every day, desperately trying to remember where I must have pissed somebody or better several people off who now play a cruel game of payback. But there was nothing. I started wishing there would've been...

For 37 years, I had no reason to believe in the paranormal, ghosts, demons, an invisible man in the skys above us who holds our fate and has the most evil of all enemies and an army of demons against him. He'll, I saw a pair of UFOs one night long ago and though my mind was blown by the way they moved, it seemed to make sense we're not alone, I wasn't even excited enough to bother to tell someone about it. Everything else? Non-existent in mind. Nope, no experiences, no strange happenings, nothing at all in all these decades, I was very much set in my believes - or the ones I didn't have.

But this one afternoon when I was in the midst of cleaning my apartment, I ran the vacuum cleaner over the couch to get rid of crumbs and it got stuck like it got caught up in something, next thing you know something that's best described as an orb the colour of dead yellowing skin and big enough to fear for my well being appears from next to the couch and instantly releases some kind of swarm of red eyes on me and I instantly thought about frogs because of the shape and movement, but you could only see what I took for pairs of red eyes, but Iwas already running for the door and as I made my escape, the distinct feel of like tentacles slithering over the back of my shaved(!) head and neck.

I spent a few hours trying to collect myself, make sense of it, breath calmly, but when night time came around, I knew I'd have to go back or sleep in the streets of a pretty darn shady neighbourhood. So I went and the moment I approached the door, that very same distinct feel of tentacles on my head and neck returned. My apartment was empty. But for many days to come, whenever I sat in the backyard to smoke and if it was after dark, something seemingly huge, massive but simply invisible, if course, came crashing through the bushes and trees, then silence for a few moments, then the feeling of tentacles again, always on the back of my head and down my neck. I sat through it calmly everytime. What else was I to do?!?

By that time, the whole neighbourhood, the entire friggin' city seemed to have gone off the rails and beyond nuts. People would loudly cite whatever last thought I had. A kid that couldn't be older than eight walked past my window, stopped and screamed from the top of his lungs "WE'RE GONNA GET YOU!!!" into my room in the most hateful way I've ever heard from any kid anywhere. Needless to say, at one point, I packed a few necessities into a backpack and flew home to my parents (who suddenly acted like shabby made copies of themselves - but so did the entire town!!! People weren't recognisable anymore, seemed to have lost all their character traits!), but not before the weirdo security officer gave me the weirdest line of how he has never seen a dead man fly before...

I could write a whole book. I left a lot out, of course. Parents made me stay at a psych ward for a few weeks and swallow all kinds of strange pills, of course to no avail. I f*cking knew all along I wasn't crazy!! To make a long story short, after years of racking my brain every single moment of what in the world was going on, it all clicked one night when a ling submerged memory resurfaced of an art installation my ex-wife did at the time for, you gonna love this, a Days of the Dead-art exhibition we usually had worked on together each year and I remember IT DID catch me off guard, because it was so off her usual approaches, a very quiet, beautiful and intimate piece that addressed me directly and dealt with the loss of me and the stages of it and since she's such a stone cold hard-ass all the time, I REMEMBER CLEARLY thinking "My God, it sounds like I have died already...", totally surprised. Years later when it hit me like a ton of bricks that night, I suddenly remembered this piece that I could simply not understand at the time, what with all the extremes in my life back then. But that night, I worded stuff differently: I thought "Yeah, that was totally a...requiem...for me..." And BOOM!!! Mind blown and things started clicking so fast, I got dizzy and my blood was rushing. It all made sense suddenly. The pictures of her of that time, always the puffy, teary eyes, the overly elegant dark clothes down to the black lady gloves, always that deep pain in her face, in her eyes. So not her. So unexplainable. Then.

So here we are, one story deeper and wouldn't you know how I can suddenly believe in forces good and bad (a little too late and have fun in eternity, says the bible...) and spooks and monsters and what have you. Somehow I soldier on.

But that moment I realised in silent terror that entire process of my parents hearing about my passing, the overwhelming pain, getting my corpse home, my few friends gathering in front of the cemetery (I hope) and that they lost me at 37 and have no idea where I'm stuck. I have never before shaken so uncontrollably whilst crying so painfully hard.

No bueno. All of it.

It is certainly possible. Your body is an anchor, while you have it you will be unable to help coming back so don’t worry too much!

However it is important to know dark places and evil entities exist. It is possible to get a little fucked up mentally.

Pretty sure I dosed off Election Night 2016 and woke up in an alternate reality.

I say it jokingly, but there are times I seriously wonder. A. it's not like me to dose off until actual bed time, yet about 7 pm, I was OUT... woke up and asked how bad Hillary won... Imagine my surprise? B. I have had an overwhelming feeling of something being 'wrong' ever since, but I can't pinpoint it. Obviously since March it has intensified. This weekend, it's become almost too much. I'm very close to a mental shut down. I'm going to start by limiting my time on social media.

Yeah, I joke about it, but there's this nagging little voice in my head that tells me this is like a Donnie Darko situation or something.

I for one, can not say I am in another dimension. But I have died before and came back with a heightened consciousness (enlightenment you may or may not say). But I believe that something in my brain or conscious was turned of (I don’t recall anything during my death) , and now that it has re started I have a new understanding. It hurts sometimes because I get these pains in my head from over thinking and I faint due to heart damage. but it is a blessing, and a curse. It is hard to find meaning when I have never met anyone who has my understanding, everyone is so driven by their emotions. But it is also a blessing because I am very socially and professionally smart, and I don’t get scared easily. The fabric of my world is distant from others, physically and emotionally, and it is very hard to explain Edit: I was actually rescued by a shamen cult somehow and they did some ritual on me because of my Near Death Experience, they say I am from another world, too wise...

The closest thing happened just recently. My current ol' man and I have been called communists lately by Trump supporters, but we always rebut with, "we're not communists, we're Carlinists!" Now this might seem insignificant, but about 3 days ago we were watching some of George Carlin's videos on YouTube and I Googled him because I couldn't remember when he passed away. I "knew" he had passed away when I was in high school in the early 2000's, before my ex husband and I met in 2004, because I remember the conversation repeatedly coming up between us talking about how it was sad that he had passed away, and he always brought up how he had picked him up in his cab one night not too long before he died. Well, that Google search turned up a death date for George Carlin in November 2007! Even weirder, i just Googled it again to put the fact date, and now it's giving a death date of June 22, 2008! Maybe it was more of a Mandela Effect thing, but that has me thoroughly weirded out and it's obviously very fresh in my mind!

I know this is a Mandela type of thing and that has its own page but this thread seems to be just a lot of people talking about a lot of weird stuff that isn't necessarily a glitch so I'll add mine. I hope the mods leave this thread up as I think we need it right now. And I posted this on the actual Mandela page but it was ignored, so. Anyway, Tito's Vodka. Until a couple weeks ago, it was 100% Uncle Tito's Vodka for me. My computer actually auto-filled it that way when I typed it into Drizzly, the liquor delivery. I can picture the label with the word "uncle" being just on top of "Tito's" in the same font and taking up the same amount of space. I was so surprised when the Drizzly only showed Tito's that I actually asked my friends if they knew when it changed. And I would think that I just imagined it all, I guess, but there are a few, a very few, instances online of other people calling it Uncle Tito's. A blog with homemade extract recipes. A post about someone's visit to some kind of festival and the Uncle Tito's tent. But it's always just been Tito's.

Hey, i like this sub/the subjects that get discussed here, it's always interesting to read about extraordinary things and wonder if they're real. Most everyone has a strange experience in their lifetime, I've heard lots of firsthand accounts from people i know who aren't lunatics...but u have to take it with a grain of salt.

Most every kid pokes their head at the sound of subjects like bloody mary, bigfoot, an ouija board, theories about aliens. It's a common interest to see the unknown. People sometimes sensationalize stories as well

So, in other words i wouldnt worry about it.

Years ago, while on a paranormal investigation, a friend and I accidentally walked into another version of this plane. We were standing at the top of a staircase that was filled with people in real life, and then everyone disappeared. They way I felt was... really bizarre. Like, I recognized that I should be terrified, but the true weirdness of what happened didn't sink in until months later. To this day, I wonder where I went, and what changed because I went there.

There’s a supernatural influence that created the riots and Coronavirus. I am not lying either, it is not natural or normal.

Edit: Why am I being downvoted? It’s obvious there is a presence not native to Earth manipulating things. It’s not bound by physical reality and can alter dimensions and timelines. You guys realize human life is only one perspective of this entire existence? I am not talking about aliens, but multidimensional beings with advanced consciousness that can view a variety of perspectives without temporal limitation or distortion. If you can prove without a shadow of doubt that I am 100% wrong, then downvote me. If not, comment on why you may think I am not accurate.

Message me for a discussion as well.

Edit 2: Here’s a brief overview on how this process works for your soul (1-10 dimensions) through multiple perspectives: https://www.spirit-evolving.com/oversoul

Highest form that I am aware of is the Oversoul (10 Dimensional Self that is like the CEO of all your parallel selves and perspectives throughout the multiverse).

Most of us 4th dimensional beings don't understand. I'm still trying to figure it all out. But I agree with some of your points. It feels like my 5th dimensional self is screaming at me to make the correct decisions in life in order to manifest my destiny by choosing the correct path forward. It's hard to describe but I've had multiple psychedelic trips where I felt this universal harmony, and was able to cause certain physical effects around me based on what I was feeling. It felt and looked mechanical, there's no possible way to fully describe this through text.

I was at a protest in NYC on Friday. As soon as one of our marching groups got to Manhattan criminal court is rained just enough to cool people off from walking 20 blocks. And all of a sudden it got super bright and stoped raining. Later on when we were near times square the police split us up and arrested and assumed a few of us. Then a big thunderstorm came in to the area we were in. It stoped once the daddy wagon they put the arrested protesters in drove away.

I don't know if I'm just reading to much into this but mother nature thinks we are on the right side of history.

The Oversoul is the name of a highly advanced, mechanical God in an Orson Scott Card novel... I've often wondered if these multidimensional beings are actually machines that are so technologically advanced we couldn't even begin to comprehend...

I still think they are most likely spiritual in nature, but it's interesting to think about...

I also believe that there is a big picture reason for this crazy year, but it's a religious thing I'm assuming no one wants to hear

But the amount of disaster was on another level (taking over pd precincts, all the looting especially all the completely burned out buildings that were left to burn as FD could not respond as they were fighting so many other fires... This was effin shit heads who used this man's horrible death as an excuse to act like assholes and ruin their own hoods although I know there were some small groups not from here doing the same but I will not put that on people from other places but it was people who did this and acted this way... The virus...Christ... also it's people but this can get funny and political so... Either way we all have our own beliefs... And are free to believe them. Just don't stuff them down others throats or call someone else's beliefs wrong or stupid...because if you do the your stuiiiipid!😝

Astral projection is possible as long as you stay attached to your body. So your astral body and mind can travel to different dimensions.

one cannot measure soul / spirit travel by physical distance.. the soul / spirit stay close to body and can travel anywhere without moving away. Silver cord is invisible unless you intentionally seek to see it.

Try shifting, and look up shifting subliminals. They may give more information. As shifting is jumping from one reality to another.

I believe we all move between very similar parallels constantly. I have read of some people here jumping pretty far - suddenly they had different jobs and relationships. The easiest way to experience other worlds (not parallels) is through astral projection. Here’s an amazing account by a person who did his entire life:

I believe I go through others in my dreams whether it's at night or while day dreaming. I can see what my life will look like up to an extent depending on what choice(s) and every time I make that certain choice in those dreams it happens in real life. In other instances things I dream actually happen. I've learned to stop doubting myself because I used to think they were just coincidences but it happens far too often to be. The times I dream are 75% just this me seeing into my future and other times I can't remember dreaming or I'll have nightmares.

living beings cant live in spiritual realm and vice versa.

however human soul / spirit can be influenced by spiriutal entities , aka charmed or illusioned into seeing non existent sights. Plenty of spirits charm human with visions of godliness , mighty castles , beautiful maidens.. it is all illusion casted on human spiritual eye temporarily this has been going on for centuries since men exist on earth.. the spiritual entities are here far longer than human and know how to lie and tweak humaninto believing such illusions.. and they mold their illusion to what the human belief for the era (faeries in irish lore , Alien UFO in modern materialistic world)

Ivan Sanderson and his wife was charmed for a while in haiti during their car breakdown.. walking to the nearest town and tired they saw european style town and cobblestone in front of them , puzzled they sat on a bench marveling how such town existed in middle of haiti wilderness.. then their chaffeur friend came back from town and tap ivan on his shoulder , everything vanished and ivan and his wife was sitting in the middle of nowhere..

Yes , plenty of ppl got suckered into entering such illusionary “dimension”

http://www.ufobc.ca/Reports/StrangeAnomaly.htm

North West Territory , West of Coppermine river , near burnt creek

Leaving the tree he walked toward the fog column. He could not find any evidence of moisture or evidence of a hole in the ground that may be venting an old underground mining shaft or tunnel. He decided to walk into the fog column. As he entered only a few steps everything changed: He saw a grassy field that extended straight ahead for as far as he could see, at this point the grass was about 12” high. The further he went into the mist the higher the grass got, about 36” tall and it was a brown colour, there was a wind blowing the grass in a direction away from him. His vision was limited from side to side which made him even more cautious, he turned around and got out of the mist. He could not remember the colour of the sky that was inside the mist, he thought it may have been grey, but did remember that the grass was a brownish/beige colour.

He decided to go back into the fog to be sure of what he had just experienced, and cautioned himself not to walk into the grass, he felt that walking into the grass would be dangerous but did not know why he felt that way. He re-entered the mist and went in a little further than he had the first time and the grass was even higher, about 48”, and his side to side vision got better. Far off to his right there was what looked like an oasis with medium sized trees forming a circle and two palm trees growing in the centre of the circle of trees. To his left was more grass as far as he could see, it was still a brown/beige colour and the sky was as he thought a pale grey colour. The sky was clear and not overcast.

Exiting the fog he found himself on his hands and knees, looking down at the ground. He felt mentally fatigued.

Hi Momomia, I've heard the curtain between dimensions is getting thinner in this Age of Aquarius. Also, people have already fallen though and were never to be seen again. Well, there are two possibilities. When asport occurs, either the human will disappear and reappear later OR they will disappear, never to be seen again.

Recently during an extended Astral Projection session I crossed into another dimension and visited a planet very similar to ours called "Pi".

I was fortunate enough to actually come back into our dimension, get out of bed and drink some water, and actually return to "Pi" again that same day. During this adventure I met a beautiful young woman named Susan.

We spent hours together and made an incredible connection. She asked me why I left left the first time and asked me to stay there with her.

I have not been able to make it back again and wonder if I will ever see her again :(

I haven't traveled or anything but I'm trying really hard to open up my spiritual self. There has been two or three instances in the last year or so that I've felt an immense spiritual type of passage. The first time it happened I thought I was tripping, but then it happened again and again. I didn't know what was happening, I felt like I was dying, especially the last time... But after that last time I started having weird -let's call them inclinations- that something was different. The dreams and the deja vu I have are more potent and longer lasting as if they're memories from a different iteration of me. The very last surge of memories that come back to me was what I can only interpret as a parallel reality where I was abused as a child and died because of it.

Either that or I'm having a psychosis which could very well be the case.

I mean I say I travel to other dimensions all the time whenever I see something that didn't exist till the respective day. Like today, when I look to buy a new computer monitor, and I see this weird brand ViewSonic. I have never in my life heard about this company, yet today everybody knows what it is, except me. Maybe I'm losing it.

I have. I saw a different version of myself (which I have written about before on Reddit, recently) in a clothing store. I also took a walk a couple of years ago in my neighbourhood, but didn't realize until much later on that the streets during that walk were configured totally differently than they are here. I did not question it at all at the time, but was mind-blown when I finally realized, remembering the walk. I also once worked freelance at a location that is no longer there; literally the streets and businesses are different here than I recall them being there; there is no evidence here of that place ever having existed, but I worked there modeling for an art class one night several years ago. I cannot dismiss such incidents. It would be ignorant of me to do so. I think about it all the time, trying to understand it all. I actually really like it. I think it's cool. I love whenever it happens.

The only odd experience I had that I thought of when I read this was while I was lucid dreaming.

I woke up in my lucid dream..normal. Then fell asleep in that dream world and traveled to like a parallel universe of that dream world.

It got scary though. People were surrounding me laughing saying it was impossible for me to leave. I remember screaming, hitting my head on the wall, anything to wake up. Finally when I “woke up” I was in my original dream state.

There was such an odd feeling and chill I get thinking of that parallel. It seemed so real & a different tone than the original dream.

But who knows. Could've just been funky dreaming stuff

I think I'm currently experiencing this but im not sure what to do, im not sure if i even really want to do anything about it, either way i think I'm stuck here, what's weird is i always missed my friends and family so much when i couldnt see them, but i feel a weird sort of peace here which is nice, my "sister" is different and that hurts, but she has some sort of connection with this me and it makes me feel strangely nice but i feel so sad and wrong being here and when she looks at me i feel like she isnt looking at me. I cant really explain it. Even this website, my best friend and i would stay up for hours on google lite playing stupid games and reading reddit posts. She has no idea who i am. And the logo is a very realistic robot back there. It's unsettling to say the least and i have goosebumps almost constantly. I also have a lot less energy like, i feel like i aged a lot. Or like its very draining to live here, but its so green too and i love that, i just feel so out of place. But it really is okay here. If anyone else is experiencing this please reply to this it'd be really comforting to hear what youre going through. All this started happening about 3 weeks ago, i have a lot more details if anyone cares to reach out.

I can tell you u know this all humans can see up to 11 dimensions. The only time we're able to do this was as little kids and right when we die. We have a gland in our Brain called the pineal gland the reason why you can see after a certain age after a few years of drinking tap water eating processed food your pineal gland which is a crystal clasifes and then it can't vibrate anymore to see further then the 3rd dimension. The only way to change that is eat healthy no drinking no drugs. Meditation and speaking to ur concentionish you will declassified your pineal gland and be able to see multiple dimension thru meditation or deep rem sleep which all activities the pineal glad the produces minuscule amount of dmt. If u wanna see all dimension at once you gotta smoke a bark of a tree which is called dmt and then you can send of to other planets for 15 mins. If u don't have dmt you can do same with shroons on super high doses and lsd

Last night I coulda sworn I was in another universe. I was in my room at 11:15 PM, and I couldn't sleep, so I turned all the lights off. There was this eerie blue glow, and voices could be heard that were unintelligible and everything was bluish. It looked real though. It was somewhat eerie, but I thought it was more cool than anything and am studying multiverse theory to try and get back to it, because I knew once I transported there that this wasn't just another timeline, this place was another universe altogether, a strange shadow of our reality, possibly with slightly different physics, and I could tell that this place, though maybe a bit scary, contained such wonders, such knowledge, knowledge that could change our world altogether!! I am wondering if I could build a car that can travel between the worlds at will, and I will research that. So yeah, I have been to another universe, and they are out there.

I'm so happy I just found this... First of all I'm using my text to speak while driving so if words or punctuation are wrong I apologize

I recently had an experience where I believe I also either travel to another dimension or slipped behind the curtain of this one I'm still not certain

But the fact that it's been 3 weeks and I remember every detail every smell every feeling like it was yesterday tells me it was not a dream

In a quick nutshell basically I was on a fractal pattern almost chest board type of place but I was made aware that it only appeared that way because it was away for me to be able to understand it

I then heard in my mind not not actually audibly but in my mind multiple voices but all as one talking to themselves but about me saying first they said I don't deserve to be there and I would never understand what I was seeing

There was a game that I was thrust into and I didn't know the rules and it appeared kind of like chess baseball and like kind of it was weird it was like a match three very strange and I was fumbling around trying to figure out what to do

And then the voice is said that I would never figure it out that I didn't deserve to see the reality of what was happening but when I then made a specific move they were surprised and got excited and said maybe he does deserve to be here

After 20 more minutes of me getting the hang of what was happening they started chanting together they love my mind they love my mind they love my mind as the experience was ending and I felt myself lifting out of this space and then again to get there and to leave I was going through multiple fractal like portals it's hard to explain

The voices I felt this gravity pulling me back down towards that place while the voices were saying that they wanted to keep me there and then I didn't that I shouldn't leave they wanted to keep me there and then I popped out and I know how this sounds there weren't drugs involved I have done multiple you know hallucinogenics in my youth but this was something different I am still really really affected by it well that's my two cents

My trip to the other world happened three times. I washed the dishes all three times. The first transition I remember washing the dishes and listening to my favorite music when I moved into the world of Szva. It was late autumn on an amazingly beautiful street, there were leaves up to my knees on the road, and I was walking with a person whose face I could not see, only his body, and I experienced the greatest pleasure from being close to this person. We spoke in a non-earthly language, the smell of this street and everything was divine.

Hmmm.... not sure if this counts... but.... I was traveling alone through/near the Crow Reservation, which I had never been to, I had been experiencing weird, almost paranormal or ghost like thoughts and feels. Almost like I could sense a presence or entity. Anyway, I take a mental note and continue working until bedtime. I go to bed and begin lucid dreaming. Not completely unheard of, but in this dream, I was standing in the dame room I was currently asleep in. Only in the dream, I'm not alone. After being scared by a man sitting faced away from me, writing at the desk just feet away from the foor of the bed. I ask him to turn around, he wont, eventually I convince him to, and he turns. And where his face should be is just, space.... like... galaxies, stars, the works.

Frightened, I go to get away, as I turn and grab the doorknob, it turns and I pull open to ☆Whiteout ☆ then slowly color gradually reveals that I'm now standing in the crowded lobby of the hotel. I begin to ask where I am, what's happening, the person I'm asking reassures that I know where I am. Confused, at first, then it hits me, "the collective unconscious?" I ask. With a nod to the affirmative, he confirms. I want to seize this opportunity and ask the meaningful, serious questions, "why are we here, what is 'here's, what's the meaning of it all? And so on... Alas, before any questions are posed, it's gone. The dream has left. Although I felt like I truly saw something real, legit, something connected.

I personally believe that we are heading towards a sort of apocalypse, but the time frame could be anywhere between tomorrow and 100 years from now. Definitely not much more than 100 years...

One effect caused by our current reality breaking down is the thinning of the fabric of our reality. It is becoming easier and easier to " slip" into another dimension. That also means that dark or evil spirits are sneaking in and making people crazy. It's also setting off natural phenomenon.

Whenever I research the paranormal, or natural phenomenon it seems like a lot of it started in the 1970s. Maybe it had something to do with the big hike in the number of people taking hallucinogens, I don't know, but something started happening then and it's still happening.

Once reality has completely broken down, we will all notice the difference in dimensions, and the fight between good and evil entities will really come home and involve each and every one of us. Then the world will become something new and different. More evolved spiritually and physically.

I know I sound nuts, but it's all happening

This is probably the best explanation I've seen at to what's been happening during this crazy year. We're all in agreement that there's a "shift", but what exactly the shift is the question. This entire year has been crazy, and my friends had been calling it a "period of conflict." My father was recently murdered the day before Coronavirus started to get everything in the U.S. shut down. I was high from smoking at the time, and I intuitively knew he was going to pass away somehow. Since 2020 started, every time I get really high from weed, I start to feel auras and see how reality is a sort of "matrix." So suffice to say, it's been apparent to me that things are different, and shit is starting to go down, but I haven't really been able to pinpoint what it is.

I've started to have dreams about apocalyptic scenarios. Tornadoes, alien invasions, etc. I had a dream twice that I was visited deceased father and he was super confused and unable to intelligibly speak English both times, and another dream about a succubus shortly after my father passed (imagine my confusion.) So yeah, reality has been pretty fucking weird lately. lol. Your explanation makes complete sense actually.

And she said there was an elevator so she want to test it to see if it works. She said the next thing she knew the elevator opened up and she was in the mall. She said the people look weird human but not really human and the stuff they were selling we're crazy like weird looking animals not from Earth kids and the food they're eating looked horrible and disgusting. I didn't get much details but I hope to Meetup with her again and get more details but she said she left because she was scared out of her mind got back on the elevator and ran.

Yes when I visited Japan with two friends we traveled to another dimension parallel to this one. We decided to go to Starbucks and when we entered the building the whole thing was empty. The lights were off and there were NO people inside, the couches and counters were caked in dust and despite calling out, no one was there.

I touched one of the leather couches and the dust was so thick that it felt almost spongy. All three of us were weirded out because the outside of the building looked new. So we decided to leave. Once we exited we all heard people behind us IN the Starbucks. The doors opened again for someone walking out. So we cautiously walked back in and saw the building FULL of people and business was booming. The lights were on and the place was lively. When I asked my friends if they wanted to order anything they both said no because they were freaked out. We all left confused and scared and to this day still have memory of that alternate universe.

I’ve always had dreams where I would travel to different dimension and it’s always with trains or something including speed, well I’ve recently dreamt about elevators I truly believe it has something to do with it, I dreamt I was going with my two friends to this school and so I got into this skinny elevator and every-time I pressed a button and went up and go out I was a new person!! Or a new language, so I told my friends come with me because you will be who you want if you do but you don’t know what circumstance you will be, so we just kept riding up I remember I spoke this language like native, or I was blonde in one, I was known in another and all this happened everytime I went up but I had to go back down to go to the normal starting point, and I remember I woke up and realized what if elevators are portals because every level there’s something different about it, just a cool thought, my dreams are always so vivid and I’ve had really cool experiences! I lucid dream easily and have seen visions and heard also they always taught me something new and made me more of an open minded person :) and all my dreams since I was little were always me going into different destinations and just refreshing my dreams they were truly like little portals I know it sounds crazy, it’s like if a house was the same in each side and if I wanted a result Ill just take a tumble in the basement to reach the other side to be in a different circumstance like a clean slate :)

I have this universe i accidentally went to and I BARELY visit it. I always have these going to other universes in dreams. Tonight i visited the universe again and its actually comforting because its basically just my family in another universe. But they only felt happy emotions. The first part of my dream was me on my laptop at night while my grandma slept next to me. it made me feel a bit scared though.. it was weird because i only saw my siblings and dad in the second part of the dream and it was outside. suddenly when we were back home, they disappeared. when i gained awareness of the dream, i tried to punch the wall but it stopped my arm. i tried to punch my mom next and stopped me again. so when i fully realize its a dream, i confessed it to my mom and she just comforted me. i told her i would visit her again but i dont know why i said that. after that i woke up. i like my other universe mom but she felt odd. i shouldve never said im visiting again.

Kelley SECTION II CANCER CURE SUPPRESSED

SubmitSubmit

Gary Null

More people live off cancer than die from it.--- Dr. Deepak Chopra

"There is not one, but many cures for cancer available. But they are all being systematically suppressed by the ACS, the NCI and the major oncology centres. They have too much of an interest in the status quo."--Dr Robert Atkins, M.D.

"We are not dealing with a scientific problem. We are dealing with a political issue."--Samuel Epstein, M.D.

"We went through the records and we found over five hundred of his patients who were alive and well five years after their treatment, with no cancer. And Dr. Burton didn't selectively give us these. These were "take what you want. Here are the patients I treated." So there was statistical improvement -- more so than any cancer institution in the United States could show."—Fascism in Medicine by Gary Null, Ph.D

Organized medicine quickly adopted the stance that his alleged "cures" fell into three categories: those who never had cancer in the first place; those who were cured by prior radiation and surgery; and those who died. When Healing Becomes a Crime --Kenny

Ausubel

"Eleven years ago I discovered that inexpensive zappers routinely cure cancer and AIDS. What's taking so long for this news to spread? The answer, of course, is subversion, ritual magic, DOR-based radionics and other high-tech magic and, not least, the studious avoidance in the What To Think Network of any mention of this phenomenally liberating, accessible technology."--Don Croft (July 2007)

There will never be a CURE for Cancer until the Establishment can accomplish their objectives by permitting it. Their primary goals are money and control. What big conglomerate will get the blessings of the Big Establishment? Nothing happens on the world scene that is not planned and designed by The Big Establishment. After 30 years of planning Metabolic Programs for some 33,000 Counselees and developing the scientific Paradigm for the PROPER CURE AND TREATMENT OF MALIGNANCY, I would like to share some of the conclusions.

First, we fall victim, not only to cancer, but also to the very clever brainwashing of our number one ENEMY. The Medical Establishment and the unending barrage of the conspiracy with the MEDIA and support groups such as the American Cancer Society, the National Cancer Institute, the American Medical Association and an unlimited number of organizations that make their income from the crumbs that fall from the establishment's table. The Shocking Truth About Viruses & Other Microorganisms

Yummy_Doctor_Holistic_Health_Education_-_Blog_-_The_Shocking_Truth_About_Viruses_and_Other_Microorganisms
Many people have heard the heartbreaking story about Nikola Tesla, and how Thomas Edison stole his work and caused him to go bankrupt. All the while Tesla has been pretty much erased from History Books…

But how many people know about Antoine Bechamp, and the massive fraud of a man that was Louis Pasteur? Not many I'd bet, as Bechamp was too erased from history. The reason behind this is actually much more sinister then one can imagine.

During his lifetime, Antoine Bechamp (1816-1908) was a well-known and widely respected professor, teacher, and researcher. He was an active member of the French Academy of Sciences, and gave many presentations there during his long career. He also published many papers, all of which still exist and are available.

And yet, he has disappeared from history.

On the other hand, Louis Pasteur (1822-1895) is one of the great rock stars of medicine and biology. Of the two – Bechamp or Pasteur – he's the one you've most likely heard of. His is one of the most recognizable names in modern science. Many discoveries and advances in medicine and microbiology are attributed to him, including vaccination and the centrepiece of his science – the germ theory of disease.

Louis Pasteur was actually a liar, a coward and a fraud. Pasteur renounced his own theory on his death bed.

Germ Theory was all wrong: "It's the terrain, not the germ." quoted Louis Pasteur on his death bed…

It's not the bacteria or the viruses themselves that produce the disease, it's the chemical by-products and constituents of these microorganisms enacting upon the unbalanced, malfunctioning cell metabolism of the human body that in actuality produce disease. If the body's cellular metabolism and pH is perfectly balanced or poised, it is susceptible to no illness or disease.

So in other words, disease associated microorganisms do not originally produce a disease condition any more than a vulture produces a dead rabbit or rats produce garbage.
The diseased acidic cellular environment was created by a toxic diet, toxic environmental exposures and a toxic lifestyle supporting the morbid changes of germs to bacteria, bacteria to viruses, viruses to fungal forms and fungal forms to cancer cells in the body. This classical error of referring to symptoms as the disease is perpetrated to this day in all medical schools trickled down from the professors (whose bread is buttered by the pharmaceutical industry), to all med students with the intent of brainwashing the young, up and coming physicians to a kill mode mind-set and to be legal script writers and butchers who perform unnecessary surgical procedures.
The reason why all physicians are kept in the dark by medical schools teaching Pasteur's germ theory is that if they are taught the truth that it's the inner condition of the patient (i.e. oxygen depravation, nutritional deficiencies, acidic pH, built up toxins in and around the cells, poor circulation, toxic emotions, etc.), not the germs that creates the growth medium for bacteria, viruses, parasites or cancer cell growth, the majority of doctors would throw away their script pad and surgical knife and focus their treatment protocols on reestablishing a healthy cellular environment, which keeps the germs, bacteria and viruses in check.

By killing the viruses, bacteria or cancer cells with their destructive weapons of war, they trigger microzyma evolution that makes the enemy pathogens stronger by creating resistant strains reaping more disease in the future. Nobody correlates their newly formed viruses a year later with the past drug therapy. The result if the truth was told, a multi-billion dollar sick care industry that has been meticulously built by the global elite for a century would be exposed and crumble like the Babylonian empire of old. There is no medical doctrine so potentially dangerous as a partial truth implemented as whole truth.

Because of political reasons, Antoine Bechamp's name and research findings along with the germ theory controversy have been omitted from history, medical and biological books, even encyclopedias. It seems that the historical scientific assassination of Antoine Bechamp resulted in medical science's monopolization of pharmaceuticals and vaccine research. This has meant untold misery for the human race. It's ironic that Pasteur himself was reported to have admitted on his deathbed that Claude Bernard was right — the microbe is nothing, the terrain is everything, but would never give credit for Bechamp's discoveries. Bechamp's discovery in his early research, that all living things contain tiny granules, which he named microzyma's, was the most profound discovery of the 20th century.

Microzyma's Can Trigger Either Life Or Death

Microzyma's (meaning small ferments), inhabits cells, blood and lymph fluid. They act as both the builder and recycler of organisms. They inhabit cells, the fluid between cells, the blood and the lymph. In the state of healthy terrain. microzyma's act harmoniously and fermentation occurs normally and beneficially making healthy aerobic microbes like acidophilus and bifidus.

Under diseased pathological internal conditions (low oxygen, malnutrition, acidic pH, poor circulation, etc.), microzyma's can change the faces of microbes like a chameleon. This is called pleomorphism. Pleo means many and morph means form. So pleomorphism means to change to many forms. These pathogens can either evolve or devolve depending on the surrounding conditions of the cell. The answer in disease processes lies in the condition of your cellular balance or will it support the development of unwanted guests?

In the early stages of acidic pH in the body's tissues, the warning symptoms are mild. These include such things as skin eruptions, headaches, allergies, colds, flu and sinus problems. These symptoms are frequently treated (manipulated) with antibiotic drugs and suppressive medications. With continued suppression of the warning signals of an acidic and nutrient deficient environment, more serious symptoms arise with the disease driven deeper. Weakened organs and systems start to give way (heart, lung, thyroid, adrenals, the liver, kidneys, etc.).

Unfortunately, symptom manipulation with pharmacology creates a magical shell game of switching diseases, creating more serious symptoms and disease conditions in the future that are totally different from the original disease. The quick fix drug game of voodoo medicine is what's causing the disease epidemic in this country and puts hospitals and doctors as the number three killer in the U.S.

So what is modem medicine doing with their destructive weapons of war? You can't kill microzymas, they're indestructible. You can only trigger a morbid evolution of anaerobic pathogens to molds, fungus, yeast and cancer. It's the microzymas that are responsible for the decomposition of a dead body back to the soil and creating life to the soil for future plant growth.

Microzymas are an indestructible living entity that cannot be destroyed by heat, antibiotics, or any other weapon of war. My view is that the toxins (acids) from the microforms combine to provoke the body to produce symptoms of a healing crisis to purge or eliminate the toxic residues from the nose through a runny nose, the skin through sweat, the colon through diarrhea, and increased respiration. So it's important to remember, it is not the pathogens themselves which initiate disease, they only show up because of an acidic, compromised, cell terrain. Mosquitoes seek the stagnant water, but they don't cause the swamp to become stagnant.

All Disease Is Acid Related:
In general, degenerative diseases are the result of acid waste build-up within weak cells and organs that are too weak to clean house. When we are born, we have the highest alkaline mineral concentration, establishing the highest pH. That is why most degenerative diseases do not occur when you are young. They occur usually after 40 years of age.

The underlying causes of cancer, heart disease, arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure, diabetes, arthritis, gout, kidney disease, asthma, allergies, psoriasis and other skin disorders, indigestion, diarrhea, nausea, obesity, tooth and gum diseases, osteoporosis, morning sickness, eye diseases, etc., are the accumulation of acids in tissues and cells, poor blood and lymph circulation, and poor cell activity due to toxic acidic residues accumulating around the cell membrane which prevent nutritional elements from entering the cell.

All scavengers breed like parasites. After food is digested and absorbed into the bloodstream it is carried to all 75 trillion cells of the body via the circulatory system. The body eliminates what it can and the remainder settles in the weakest cells. Those which are not strong enough to clean house. In this accumulating, deposited, dead waste matter and pustulant soup, germs like bacteria, viruses, fungus and parasites breed. Rotting takes place and pus (which is decomposed blood), parasites, flukes, tapeworms, hardened mucous and other acid waste products form.

This, science calls disease:
And the name of the particular disease depends upon the location of the deposits of this acidic, toxic, pustulant soup. If the accumulating deposits are in the joints it's called arthritis. When the poisonous waste matter accumulates in the pancreas and saturates the beta cells that synthesize insulin it's called diabetes. If the toxic sludge is dumped in the lungs it's called chronic obstructive pulmonary disease. It's the same disease. Wherever your weakest link in the chain of organs is, that's where your genetic disposition for disease will be.

If the overload is too great for the blood, excess acid is dumped into the tissues and cells for storage. Then the lymphatic system and immune system must neutralize what it can and attempt to discard the toxic waste. If the lymphatic system is overloaded generally due to a lack of exercise, acid deposits will suffocate the cells and damage DNA. If the lymphatic system is pumping through exercise and circulation, they will pick up the acid wastes and neutralize them through the kidneys. Unfortunately, they must dump them right back into the blood stream. This will force the blood to attempt to gather more alkaline salts in order to compensate while stressing the liver and kidneys. This robs Peter to pay Paul.

Body Electric:
A healthy condition depends upon a high level of electromagnetic negative charge on the surfaces of tissue cells. Acidity is the opposite charge and dampens out these electrical fields. If tissue pH deviates too far to the acid side, cellular metabolism will cease and oxygen deprivation will occur. Acidity and lack of oxygen are the ideal environmental condition for morbid microforms to flourish. These are the primary symptoms of disease. So in short, acute or recurrent illnesses and infections are either the attempt by the body to mobilize mineral reserves from all parts of the body, or crisis attempts at detoxification. For example, the body may throw off acids through the skin, producing symptoms such as eczema, dermatitis, acne, or other skin disorders. Chronic symptoms result when all possibilities of neutralizing or eliminating acids have been exhausted.

So unless the treatment actually removes acids from the body and replaces nutrient building blocks, the cure at best will be only temporary and a cover-up Band-Aid therapy, shoving the disease deeper into a chronic state. Remember, there is not one drug on the market that reduces the acidity of the body or addresses any kind of nutritional deficiency. The sobering fact is, almost all drugs are acidic, especially antibiotics, and add to the acid residues. And if the drugs were successful at removing acids from an infected area, the acid would migrate to some other weak tissue in the body that will create side effects there, unless the treatment involves the disposal of acids from all body organs. For this reason, today's medical science is pathetic when it comes to the cure for degenerative and metabolic disease.

Cancer Cell Growth Is Caused By Acid:
Let's look at cancer. If you were to ask an allopathic doctor to explain cancer in a few words, the best that they can come up with after all these years of research is a cell mutation, a missing gene, or maybe a virus causing immuno-suppression. Since cancer is not a localized disease, but a systemic condition, it shows up in the body's weakest link(s). I refer to the body's weakest links as the dead zones because they carry a declining electromagnetic charge. All healthy cells carry an electromagnetic negative charge, but all fermented cells and their acids carry an electromagnetic positive charge.

These rotting cells and their acids act like a glue (attracting each other) because opposites attract, causing healthy cells to stick together. This leads to oxygen deprivation where healthy cells begin to rot. This is cancer. It's my conclusion based on years of research and study that cancer and AIDS are nothing more or less than a cellular disturbance of the electromagnetic balance due to acid PH disorganization of the cellular microzymas, their morbid evolution to bacteria, yeast fungus and molds, and their production of exotoxins and mycotoxins. Cancer therefore is a four-letter word — ACID, especially lactic acid as a waste product due to the low oxygen level and waste products of yeast and fungus.

Dr. Otto Warburg, two time Nobel Prize winner, stated in his book, The Metabolism of Tumors. that the primary cause of cancer was the replacement of oxygen in the respiratory cell chemistry by the fermentation of sugar. The growth of cancer cells is initiated by a fermentation process, which can be triggered only in the absence of oxygen at the cell level. Just like over*worked muscle cells manufacture lactic acid by-products as waste, cancerous cells spill lactic acid and other acidic compounds causing acid pH.
If you cover your mouth, oxygen is cut off and carbon dioxide is built up as an acid waste and you will eventually pass out through asphyxiation. And if your body's blood pH goes below seven, oxygen is cut off and you will be put into a coma or death will occur. The blood performs a balancing act in order to maintain the blood pH within a safe range of 7.35 – 7.45. Some cells instead of dying as normal cells do in an acid environment may adapt and survive by becoming abnormal cells like primitive yeast cells. These abnormal primitive yeast cells are called malignant cells. Malignant renegade cells do not communicate with brain function, or with their own DNA memory code. Therefore, malignant cells grow indefinitely and without order. This biological disorder is what science calls cancer This could be improved by an alkaline diet and boosting the immune system.

The Rivalry:
During their lifetimes, the rivalry between Bechamp and Pasteur was constant, and often bitter. They clashed frequently both in speeches before the Academy, and in papers presented to it. Bechamp repeatedly showed that Pasteur's 'findings' included frequent plagiarizations (and distortions) of Bechamp's own work.

When Bechamp and others objected to the plagiarization, Pasteur set out to use his political clout to destroy Bechamp's career and reputation. Unfortunately, Pasteur largely succeeded. He was more skilful than Bechamp at playing politics and attending the right functions. He was good at making friends in high circles, and was popular with the royal family. Pasteur, in other words, was an A-lister. Bechamp was a worker.

The ideas, as well as the characters, of the two men were fundamentally opposed.

Pasteur argued for what we now call the 'germ theory' of disease, while Bechamp's work sought to confirm pleomorphism; the idea that all life is based on the forms that a certain class of organisms take during the various stages of their life-cycles.

This difference is fundamental. Bechamp believed that his work showed the connection between science and religion – the one a search after truth, and the other the effort to live up to individual belief. It is fitting that his book Les Mycrozymas culminates in the acclamation of God as the Supreme Source. Bechamp's teachings are in direct opposition to the materialistic views of the modern science of the twentieth century.

"These microorganisms (germs) feed upon the poisonous material which they find in the sick organism and prepare it for excretion. These tiny organisms are derived from still tinier organisms called microzyma. These microzyma are present in the tissues and blood of all living organisms where they remain normally quiescent and harmless. When the welfare of the human body is threatened by the presence of potentially harmful material, a transmutation takes place. The microzyma changes into a bacterium or virus which immediately goes to work to rid the body of this harmful material. When the bacteria or viruses have completed their task of consuming the harmful material they automatically revert to the microzyma stage"
– Antoine Bechamp

Antoine Bechamp was able to scientifically prove that viruses are the chemical-byproducts and constituents of pleomorphic microorganisms enacting upon the unbalanced, malfunctioning cell metabolism and dead tissue that actually produces disease. Bechamp found that the diseased, acidic, low-oxygen cellular environment is created by a toxic/nutrient deficient diet, toxic emotions, and a toxic lifestyle. His findings demonstrate how cancer develops through the morbid changes of germs to bacteria, bacteria to viruses, viruses to fungal forms, and fungal forms to cancer cells. He found microzymas present in every cell in the bloodstream, in animals, in plants, and even in rocks. Bechamp found them present in the remains of dead animals many years after the animal's body had withered away to dust. He observed that in a healthy organism, microzymas work at repairing and nourishing all cells; but when the terrain becomes acidic, the microzymas morph into viruses, bacteria, yeast, fungus, and mold and prepare to break the host down.

Educate-Yourself.org is a free educational forum dedicated to the dissemination of accurate information in the use of natural, non-pharmaceutical medicines and alternative healing therapies in the treatment of disease conditions. Free Energy, Earth Changes, and the growing reality of Big Brother are also explored since survival itself in the very near future may well depend on self acquired skills to face the growing threats of bioterrorism, emerging diseases, and the continuing abridgement of constitutional liberties. It is strongly recommended that visitors to this web site print out hard copies of the information that is of interest. Do not assume that your hard drive, this web site, or even the Internet itself will always be there to serve you....Ken Adachi, Editor

Chemtrail Dispersion, Transmutation, & Elimination!.. An Important Development.
Please Read Update, Nov. 2004
In January of 2002, I posted an article to this web site titled Goodbye Chemtrails, Hello Blue Skies which described a simple, homemade invention called a Chembuster. This new invention, inspired by Wilhelm Reich's Cloudbuster, demonstrated that it was possible to disperse and break up chemtrails, allowing for a return of normal blueness to the sky, an invigoration of the air with a clean, fresh smell and the production of rain in those areas where drought is being artificially created by HAARP and other secret weather controlling technologies. The Chembuster incorporates three common elements that, when mixed together, produce an orgone generator, a device which transmutes the negative polarity of atmospheric orgone energy into the positive polarity of that energy. The negative polarity of orgone, coined "DOR" by Wilhelm Reich, is the "glue" which holds chemtrails together. Reversing the polarity of the atmospheric orgone envelope causes the chemtrails to break up and disperse. Over the next two years, as more Chembusters were being constructed and set up by readers who became aware of this phenomenon, the concentration of atmospheric DOR sufficiently reduced in those areas to allow an influx of Giant Sylphs into the 'chembusted' atmospere. Sylphs are intelligent air elementals which can literally overlay and transmute chemtrails into real clouds. I realize that it's hard to believe that ordinary people can destroy chemtrails in the manner described, but we have the photos and testimonials to confirm the claim. No one has to continue to tolerate chemtrail 'bombardments' any longer. You can clear your sky of chemtrails! Read the links and view the photos to understand more about Sylphs and chemtrails.

A smaller orgone generating device which utilizes similar construction materials, was coined an HHG, but I find that a Pyramid or Dome shaped five crystal orgone generator more descriptive. The Pyramid or dome shaped Orgone Generator seems to help mitigate energies intended for Mind Control and other nefarious purposes that are being radiated from underground facilities (Montauk), HAARP, microwave GWEN towers and affiliated ELF microwave antennaes (commonly called 'cell phone' towers) which have sprung up like daisies all over this country beginning in 2001.Orgone generators can also 'neutralize' underground military bases, masonic lodges, places of satanic ritual activity, etc.

The success being achieved to date by a handful of dedicated people who are building and deploying these devices is very impressive. I get E mail all the time from people asking me "What can I do to stop the New World Order?" . Well, this is one thing you can do! You can participate in rescuing your health, your mind, and your freedom by obtaining and deploying these saving inventions, orgone generators.

Tired of seeing the very air you breathe being poisoned daily with chemtrails by the satanic Illuminati criminals who are intent on eliminating 85 % of the world's population? Prefer to wait until they precipitate their next major national convulsion in order to shock and stampede the public into accepting total fascist tyranny which will eventually lead to door-to-door roundups of 'troublemakers' (meaning Americans who resist being inducted into the ranks of mind controlled robots) and their delivery into concentration camps (more accurately-liquidation camps)? The evidence is clear and compelling-- for those who are willing to look with open eyes and open minds.

Educate-Yourself Discussion Forum
I've have started a chat forum at Yahoo Groups. I get dozens of E mails every day from people who often have helpful and inspiring information to contribute, but I don't have enough time to repost these interesting anecdotes on this web site. The Discussion Forum is the place to exchange information and express your ideas or comments, but without any attempt to sell a product or promote a personal agenda. Let us assist each other in a spirit of friendly cooperation and mutual benefit...Many thanks, Ken

Collodial Silver (CS)
The FDA attempted to stiffle sales of colloidal silver from health food stores and web sites in the Fall of 2000. Read our Nov 12, 2000 Newsletter.
(http://educate-yourself.org/newsletter/eynewsletter12nov0.shtml). Sufficient resistance was generated by commercial interests to cause them to back down soemwhat, but new restrictions were imposed on what could be said regarding the uses and benefits of colloidal silver. You'll notice that the CS sold in health stores today will only state the contents of the bottle and not much more.

Jan 17, 2001
The FDA has contacted web sites that provide colloidal silver (CS) and has informed them that any they now consider colloidal silver a drug and under their jurisdiction. They have stated that no therapeutic claims about CS can be made. We have removed articles about CS , but still offer CS generators on the Products page. You can always contact me at Ken Adachi, Editor if you wish obtain more information about colloidal silver. A general introduction follows:

Few people are aware that silver has been used since ancient times to fight infections and eliminate disease conditions. It possesses unique germicidal properties that can interfere with the mechanisms of ALL bacteria, viruses, fungi, and molds while pharmaceutical antibiotics can typically only affect 5 or 6 species. It is a natural antibiotic that disease organisms can never develop a resistance to. You don't need a prescription (so far) and you can make it yourself using your own generator .

Bioengineered disease organisms are routinely being introduced into the atmosphee via chemtrails. Many "mysterious' flu-like symptoms originate with chemtrails. Colloidal silver is one way to give yourself a fighting chance to avoid becoming ill from these organisms.

Chemtrails
The secret government has been spraying the skies throughout North America since late 1997 on an almost daily basis with substances that were first identified as "mystery contrails", but later were dubbed "chemtrails" by investigative reporter and author William Thomas. When questioned, military and government officials either deny any knowledge of these sprayings outright or they offer unbelievable and ludicrous explanations that only a moron could believe. These sprayings are making many people sick and are the first phase of a bio-warfare operation designed to effect wide scale population reduction .. Find out what's going on.

Emerging Diseases
Ebola, Hanta Virus, AIDS, Gulf War Disease, Mad Cow Disease, Pfiesteria ("Red Tide"), Flesh-Eating Bacteria, Listeria, E-Coli H0197, are some of the new emerging diseases to hit the news in the past few years. The Hong Kong Bird Flu of '98, the outbreak of Viral Encephalitis in Malaysia which had caused the death of over 100 pig farmers and a million pigs, the outbreak of the West Nile Virus in New York, the explosive spread of Tuberculosis in Russia (25,000 Russians died of TB last year), and the current worldwide "Flu" Epidemic are just some examples of an unprecedented explosion of new, virulent forms of disease. The evidence is strong and compelling that the overwhelming majority of these new diseases have been intentionally bioengineered by the New World Order elites for purposes of population reduction .

Forbidden Cures
Natural Healing, Vibrational Medicine, BioElectro-Medicine, Oxygen Therapies, Urine Therapy, Color Therapy, Subtle Energy Medicine, Magnetic Therapies, and many other alternative healing therapies have been largely suppressed or intentionally ignored by the Big Boys in the medical orthodoxy precisely because they work. In fact, they work too well andthat, of course, is why they are ignored and suppressed. Big Medicine is Big Business and Big Business doesn't want any low cost, low tech, do-it-yourself natural cures. However, you do.

Immunity Boosting
The body's own immune system, if sufficiently strengthened and boosted by natural means, can resist or weather an attack by any biological organism. Learn how to treat and resist disease conditions naturally , without the need for drugs.

Nutrition
Plant food that is grown with traditional, non-bioengineered seed, in organic soil, using natural light, and irrigated with clean water and natural fertilizers will produce the most potent and vitalizing source of nourishment for human consumption. Generally, the processed food obtained in supermarkets by the average American family is health robbing, energy depleting, and creates an ideal environment for disease to exist within the body.

Ozone
Ozone is an unstable, but highly beneficial molecule. It's the tri-atomic form of oxygen: Instead of the normal arrangment of 2 atoms of oxygen (O2), ozone is comprised of 3 atoms of oxygen (O3). Ozone, however, doesn't want to stay in that tri-atomic state very long and unless held in check or bound by other molecular couplings, ozone will usually break down from O3 to O2 + O1 within 20 minutes of so (at atmospheric pressure at least). O1 is called a singlet oxygen atom and it's HIGHLY REACTIVE. with just about any substance that should NOT be in the human body including all pathogens (virus, bateria, etc.) and synthetic compounds or their metabolites such as drugs and their metabolite residues.

Bioelectrification

The Story on Drugs
"The truth about cures without drugs is suppressed, unless it suits the purpose of the censor to garble it. Whether these cures are effected by Chiropractors, Naturopaths, Naprapaths, Osteopaths, Faith Healers, Spiritualists, Herbalists, Christian Scientists, or MDs who use the brains they have, you never read about it in the big newspapers."
Hans Ruesch

Vaccine Dangers
The dangers of vaccinations far outweigh any of their purported 'benefits'. Start reading about the many, many victims of vaccinations that have resulted in death (especially SIDS) or lifelong neurological damage such as autism. Become informed about the deceit, lies, and propanganda surrounding the promotion of vaccines.

The Mind-Body Connection
If you study the subject of alternative healing long enough, you eventually come to the inescapable conclusion that all healing (and energy) is vibrational in nature. All forms of energy, whether detrimental or beneficial, first affect us on the etheric level and later translate to the physical level.Thought is the prime creative energy of the universe. Once created, thoughts (like energy) cannot be destroyed (but they can be modified). Since The Creator endowed us with the power to create thought , we can create healing energies with our mind alone. In addition, with proper training, you can access any information you wish to obtain through the mind.

NCH Tone Generator
If your computer has a sound card, this NCH audio tone generator can play audio tones through your computer speakers or earphones. You can set the frequency from 1 hz to 20,000 hz. Certain specific tone frequencies can modify and improve all kinds of health conditions. It's called Sound Therapy. If you wish, you can greatly augment this therapy by simultaneously applying Light Therapy, which is also simple and easy to set up.

Free Energy

Introduction
By definition, any source of energy that you don't have to pay for is free. It is possible to obtain an unlimited supply of unconventional life-sustaining energy from the cosmos, sunlight, moonlight, water, sound, and crystals, for example, if you knew of its existence and how to extract it. Ancient Egyptians, Tibetans and Atlanteans knew of these energy sources. This knowledge has been rediscovered again and again in our era by scientists like Lord Kelvin, James Clerk Maxwell, Baron Carl Von Reichenbach , Nikola Tesla, John Keeley, Viktor Schauberger, Wilhelm Reich, Thomas Henry Moray, and John Searl among others, but the information has repeatedly been suppressed and kept from the public. We will explain these hidden sources of energy and how you can utilize them for your own energy needs.

The New World Order (NWO)
There is a worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an elite group of genetically related individuals which include many of the very wealthy, politically powerful, and corporate elite of the world, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe whose goal is to create a One World (fascist) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda. Events are moving at a frightening pace toward the total implementation of that agenda which includes utilizing mass Mind Control of an unprecendended scale and scope.You need to inform yourself of this diabolical scheme and takes steps to thwart their agenda

New World Order News
There are so many daily news items that are in reality the unfoldment of the NWO Agenda; scripted, planned, and executed by their obliging minions in the mainstream media. It's easier and simpler to group these items under one index of the New World Order News.

Mind Control
Very few people are aware of the extent to which this government has engaged in perfecting the terrible "art" of mind control. Mind control means exactly that:.total and complete control over your mind, your body , and your activities. A person who has been programmed under mind control is a robotic slave in every sense of the word. There are at least 12 million Americans who have already been programmed to be mind controlled slaves via the old programs of MK ULTRA, Project Monarch, and the Montauk Project . Now, the entire population of this country is soon to be subjected to total mind control via the microwave GWEN towers being erected everywhere. Open your eyes and recognize the GWEN towers in your part of town. Their use as cell phone transmission relays is a cover story. Their real purpose is mind control.

Ted Gunderson
Ted Gunderson retired from the FBI as Special-Agent-In-Charge for Los Angeles after 29 years of service. He has accumulated some of the most damning documentary evidence of wide-spread satanic ritual abuse (and murder) of young children in this country by very high level satanists whose grisly actively is being covered up and protected by governmental agencies of The United States of America. The recent accusation of radio talk show host Art Bell leveled at Ted Gunderson was intended to discredit and undermine Gunderson's credibility. Now why, I wonder, would anyone want to do that?

Communication & Association

Links
Here, I've listed some web sites, which I feel have something to say. I hope you'll also find them interesting and useful. Check often, as we will routinely add to this list.

Membership
Donations make it possible for this effort to go forward. Of course, it feels good to receive a helping hand when you need it, but the person responsible for providing that help gains a much richer gift, soul development. There is an immutable spiritual law at work in the universe that applies to any who give selflessly for the benefit of others ("to the least of my brethren"). It's called The Law of Giving and givers will always receive abundance many fold in return. You might think of that the next time you are presented with any opportunity to financially assist those who need some help (beggar, bum, drug addict, etc.) and assist them without judgement.

Membership support will come in a variety of categories. All members will be privy to special "perks" in recognition of their support.

Discussion
Readers who wish to express their thoughts about the issues raised at educate-yourself.org may do so providing posters refrain from personal attacks, flaming, selling, or crude language. Disruptive, provocative, or insulting individuals will be removed from the forum. This moderator is interested in a civilzed and cooperative exchange of ideas and comments. Thanks, Ken Adachi

On Sending E Mails:
I try to answer most inquiries and E mail messages as soon as possible, however, I can't respond to unsigned E mails. You need to properly identify yourself if you wish to receive an answer. This rule does not apply to people who have special information to pass on to me, but fear for their personal safety. You can remain anonymous to any degree you desire. If you have inside information on the Illuminati, mind control operations, criminal conduct by intelligence agencies, the military, etc., the safest way to convey your informaiton is to send me ordinary, snail mail, not e-mail-if you are concerned about surveillance and monitoring. Letters to The Editor
I get some interesting mail, but I don't have the time to answer all of it. You can read some selected mail that I've answered from the above link. The mail ranges from health questions, to testimonials, to criticism, to advice, and everything in between. A lot of people ask specific questions that they could answer themselves if they put a little effort into researching it, but they think that I'm the 'answer man', sitting here at the keyboard ready to do their homework for them. I don't have time for that.

Health questions, especially, take a lot of time, and in most cases, you can get an idea of what to do by reading the links contained here more carefully. I've had more than a few people write to me with their obscure, esoteric questions and say "OK, educate me!" Good grief, .the name of the web site is Educate Yourself. It's necessary for uninformed people to pull themselves up by their own bootstraps and come up to speed. I'm merely opening a door or two. It's up to you to walk through it.

I'm trying to give visitors to this web site the idea that they can take care of themselves without depending on the so called 'health' industry, which includes drug companies, the allopathic medical establishment and their pals in the insurance industry. I'm also trying to alert you to the dangers of the rapidly decending New World Order. The much ballyhooed "End Times" is a scripted and contrived strategy to justify the ushering in of a One World (fascist) government in response to the expected call and "need" for "stabilization" from beleagured people around the globe following the intentionally created chaos and misery of those 'predicted' End Times conflicts.

Difficult times may lay ahead, but we have the divine guidance and capacity to circumvent much of the intended misery by becoimng FULLY aware of the manipulation and deception being injected into our daily lives. Everything seen in national and international "news" is scripted and planned. There are no surprises. The Illuminati creates conflicts and 'crisis' scenarios in order to introduce their 'solution' to the 'problem', therby implementing their hidden agenda of total control and chainless enslavement of every single person on the planet.

The way to undo the New World Order enslavement agenda is through knowledge and honest information . Let's assist each other with that goal in mind.

Educate-Yourself.org is a free educational forum dedicated to the dissemination of accurate information in the use of natural, non-pharmaceutical medicines and alternative healing therapies in the treatment of disease conditions. Free Energy, Earth Changes, and the growing reality of Big Brother are also explored since survival itself in the very near future may well depend on self acquired skills to face the growing threats of bioterrorism, emerging diseases, and the continuing abridgement of constitutional liberties. It is strongly recommended that visitors to this web site print out hard copies of the information that is of interest. Do not assume that your hard drive, this web site, or even the Internet itself will always be there to serve you....Ken Adachi, Editor

Chemtrail Dispersion, Transmutation, & Elimination!.. An Important Development.
Please Read Update, Nov. 2004
In January of 2002, I posted an article to this web site titled Goodbye Chemtrails, Hello Blue Skies which described a simple, homemade invention called a Chembuster. This new invention, inspired by Wilhelm Reich's Cloudbuster, demonstrated that it was possible to disperse and break up chemtrails, allowing for a return of normal blueness to the sky, an invigoration of the air with a clean, fresh smell and the production of rain in those areas where drought is being artificially created by HAARP and other secret weather controlling technologies. The Chembuster incorporates three common elements that, when mixed together, produce an orgone generator, a device which transmutes the negative polarity of atmospheric orgone energy into the positive polarity of that energy. The negative polarity of orgone, coined "DOR" by Wilhelm Reich, is the "glue" which holds chemtrails together. Reversing the polarity of the atmospheric orgone envelope causes the chemtrails to break up and disperse. Over the next two years, as more Chembusters were being constructed and set up by readers who became aware of this phenomenon, the concentration of atmospheric DOR sufficiently reduced in those areas to allow an influx of Giant Sylphs into the 'chembusted' atmospere. Sylphs are intelligent air elementals which can literally overlay and transmute chemtrails into real clouds. I realize that it's hard to believe that ordinary people can destroy chemtrails in the manner described, but we have the photos and testimonials to confirm the claim. No one has to continue to tolerate chemtrail 'bombardments' any longer. You can clear your sky of chemtrails! Read the links and view the photos to understand more about Sylphs and chemtrails.

A smaller orgone generating device which utilizes similar construction materials, was coined an HHG, but I find that a Pyramid or Dome shaped five crystal orgone generator more descriptive. The Pyramid or dome shaped Orgone Generator seems to help mitigate energies intended for Mind Control and other nefarious purposes that are being radiated from underground facilities (Montauk), HAARP, microwave GWEN towers and affiliated ELF microwave antennaes (commonly called 'cell phone' towers) which have sprung up like daisies all over this country beginning in 2001.Orgone generators can also 'neutralize' underground military bases, masonic lodges, places of satanic ritual activity, etc.

The success being achieved to date by a handful of dedicated people who are building and deploying these devices is very impressive. I get E mail all the time from people asking me "What can I do to stop the New World Order?" . Well, this is one thing you can do! You can participate in rescuing your health, your mind, and your freedom by obtaining and deploying these saving inventions, orgone generators.

Tired of seeing the very air you breathe being poisoned daily with chemtrails by the satanic Illuminati criminals who are intent on eliminating 85 % of the world's population? Prefer to wait until they precipitate their next major national convulsion in order to shock and stampede the public into accepting total fascist tyranny which will eventually lead to door-to-door roundups of 'troublemakers' (meaning Americans who resist being inducted into the ranks of mind controlled robots) and their delivery into concentration camps (more accurately-liquidation camps)? The evidence is clear and compelling-- for those who are willing to look with open eyes and open minds.

I've have started a chat forum at Yahoo Groups. I get dozens of E mails every day from people who often have helpful and inspiring information to contribute, but I don't have enough time to repost these interesting anecdotes on this web site. The Discussion Forum is the place to exchange information and express your ideas or comments, but without any attempt to sell a product or promote a personal agenda. Let us assist each other in a spirit of friendly cooperation and mutual benefit...Many thanks, Ken

The FDA attempted to stiffle sales of colloidal silver from health food stores and web sites in the Fall of 2000. Read our Nov 12, 2000 Newsletter. (http://educate-yourself.org/newsletter/eynewsletter12nov0.shtml). Sufficient resistance was generated by commercial interests to cause them to back down soemwhat, but new restrictions were imposed on what could be said regarding the uses and benefits of colloidal silver. You'll notice that the CS sold in health stores today will only state the contents of the bottle and not much more.

The FDA has contacted web sites that provide colloidal silver (CS) and has informed them that any they now consider colloidal silver a drug and under their jurisdiction. They have stated that no therapeutic claims about CS can be made. We have removed articles about CS , but still offer CS generators on the Products page. You can always contact me at Ken Adachi, Editor if you wish obtain more information about colloidal silver. A general introduction follows:

Few people are aware that silver has been used since ancient times to fight infections and eliminate disease conditions. It possesses unique germicidal properties that can interfere with the mechanisms of ALL bacteria, viruses, fungi, and molds while pharmaceutical antibiotics can typically only affect 5 or 6 species. It is a natural antibiotic that disease organisms can never develop a resistance to. You don't need a prescription (so far) and you can make it yourself using your own generator .

Bioengineered disease organisms are routinely being introduced into the atmosphee via chemtrails. Many "mysterious' flu-like symptoms originate with chemtrails. Colloidal silver is one way to give yourself a fighting chance to avoid becoming ill from these organisms.

Chemtrails
The secret government has been spraying the skies throughout North America since late 1997 on an almost daily basis with substances that were first identified as "mystery contrails", but later were dubbed "chemtrails" by investigative reporter and author William Thomas. When questioned, military and government officials either deny any knowledge of these sprayings outright or they offer unbelievable and ludicrous explanations that only a moron could believe. These sprayings are making many people sick and are the first phase of a bio-warfare operation designed to effect wide scale population reduction .. Find out what's going on.

Emerging Diseases
Ebola, Hanta Virus, AIDS, Gulf War Disease, Mad Cow Disease, Pfiesteria ("Red Tide"), Flesh-Eating Bacteria, Listeria, E-Coli H0197, are some of the new emerging diseases to hit the news in the past few years. The Hong Kong Bird Flu of '98, the outbreak of Viral Encephalitis in Malaysia which had caused the death of over 100 pig farmers and a million pigs, the outbreak of the West Nile Virus in New York, the explosive spread of Tuberculosis in Russia (25,000 Russians died of TB last year), and the current worldwide "Flu" Epidemic are just some examples of an unprecedented explosion of new, virulent forms of disease. The evidence is strong and compelling that the overwhelming majority of these new diseases have been intentionally bioengineered by the New World Order elites for purposes of population reduction .

Forbidden Cures
Natural Healing, Vibrational Medicine, BioElectro-Medicine, Oxygen Therapies, Urine Therapy, Color Therapy, Subtle Energy Medicine, Magnetic Therapies, and many other alternative healing therapies have been largely suppressed or intentionally ignored by the Big Boys in the medical orthodoxy precisely because they work. In fact, they work too well andthat, of course, is why they are ignored and suppressed. Big Medicine is Big Business and Big Business doesn't want any low cost, low tech, do-it-yourself natural cures. However, you do.

Immunity Boosting
The body's own immune system, if sufficiently strengthened and boosted by natural means, can resist or weather an attack by any biological organism. Learn how to treat and resist disease conditions naturally , without the need for drugs.

Nutrition
Plant food that is grown with traditional, non-bioengineered seed, in organic soil, using natural light, and irrigated with clean water and natural fertilizers will produce the most potent and vitalizing source of nourishment for human consumption. Generally, the processed food obtained in supermarkets by the average American family is health robbing, energy depleting, and creates an ideal environment for disease to exist within the body.

Ozone
Ozone is an unstable, but highly beneficial molecule. It's the tri-atomic form of oxygen: Instead of the normal arrangment of 2 atoms of oxygen (O2), ozone is comprised of 3 atoms of oxygen (O3). Ozone, however, doesn't want to stay in that tri-atomic state very long and unless held in check or bound by other molecular couplings, ozone will usually break down from O3 to O2 + O1 within 20 minutes of so (at atmospheric pressure at least). O1 is called a singlet oxygen atom and it's HIGHLY REACTIVE. with just about any substance that should NOT be in the human body including all pathogens (virus, bateria, etc.) and synthetic compounds or their metabolites such as drugs and their metabolite residues.

Bioelectrification
In the Fall of 1990, two researchers at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City found that a very small microcurrent of electricity prevented the HIV virus in blood from reproducing itself. A patent was granted in 1992 for a tiny implantable device that required major surgery and hospitalization. Dr Bob Beck figured out a way to apply this microcurrent of electricity non-invasively and opened the door wide for a do-it-yourself 'spontaneous remission', bypasing the AIDS Industry entirely with a small "black box". This device has demonstated remarkable success with many other serious health conditions as well.

The Story on Drugs
"The truth about cures without drugs is suppressed, unless it suits the purpose of the censor to garble it. Whether these cures are effected by Chiropractors, Naturopaths, Naprapaths, Osteopaths, Faith Healers, Spiritualists, Herbalists, Christian Scientists, or MDs who use the brains they have, you never read about it in the big newspapers."
Hans Ruesch

Vaccine Dangers
The dangers of vaccinations far outweigh any of their purported 'benefits'. Start reading about the many, many victims of vaccinations that have resulted in death (especially SIDS) or lifelong neurological damage such as autism. Become informed about the deceit, lies, and propanganda surrounding the promotion of vaccines.

The Mind-Body Connection
If you study the subject of alternative healing long enough, you eventually come to the inescapable conclusion that all healing (and energy) is vibrational in nature. All forms of energy, whether detrimental or beneficial, first affect us on the etheric level and later translate to the physical level.Thought is the prime creative energy of the universe. Once created, thoughts (like energy) cannot be destroyed (but they can be modified). Since The Creator endowed us with the power to create thought , we can create healing energies with our mind alone. In addition, with proper training, you can access any information you wish to obtain through the mind.

NCH Tone Generator
If your computer has a sound card, this NCH audio tone generator can play audio tones through your computer speakers or earphones. You can set the frequency from 1 hz to 20,000 hz. Certain specific tone frequencies can modify and improve all kinds of health conditions. It's called Sound Therapy. If you wish, you can greatly augment this therapy by simultaneously applying Light Therapy, which is also simple and easy to set up.

The newsletter originally focused exclusively on alternative health information, but now we include other areas of concern which we feel are important for the reader to be aware of. Back issues are only a click away.

Free Energy

Introduction
By definition, any source of energy that you don't have to pay for is free. It is possible to obtain an unlimited supply of unconventional life-sustaining energy from the cosmos, sunlight, moonlight, water, sound, and crystals, for example, if you knew of its existence and how to extract it. Ancient Egyptians, Tibetans and Atlanteans knew of these energy sources. This knowledge has been rediscovered again and again in our era by scientists like Lord Kelvin, James Clerk Maxwell, Baron Carl Von Reichenbach , Nikola Tesla, John Keeley, Viktor Schauberger, Wilhelm Reich, Thomas Henry Moray, and John Searl among others, but the information has repeatedly been suppressed and kept from the public. We will explain these hidden sources of energy and how you can utilize them for your own energy needs.
The New World Order

The New World Order (NWO)
There is a worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an elite group of genetically related individuals which include many of the very wealthy, politically powerful, and corporate elite of the world, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe whose goal is to create a One World (fascist) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda. Events are moving at a frightening pace toward the total implementation of that agenda which includes utilizing mass Mind Control of an unprecendended scale and scope.You need to inform yourself of this diabolical scheme and takes steps to thwart their agenda

New World Order News
There are so many daily news items that are in reality the unfoldment of the NWO Agenda; scripted, planned, and executed by their obliging minions in the mainstream media. It's easier and simpler to group these items under one index of the New World Order News.

Mind Control
Very few people are aware of the extent to which this government has engaged in perfecting the terrible "art" of mind control. Mind control means exactly that:.total and complete control over your mind, your body , and your activities. A person who has been programmed under mind control is a robotic slave in every sense of the word. There are at least 12 million Americans who have already been programmed to be mind controlled slaves via the old programs of MK ULTRA, Project Monarch, and the Montauk Project . Now, the entire population of this country is soon to be subjected to total mind control via the microwave GWEN towers being erected everywhere. Open your eyes and recognize the GWEN towers in your part of town. Their use as cell phone transmission relays is a cover story. Their real purpose is mind control.

Ted Gunderson
Ted Gunderson retired from the FBI as Special-Agent-In-Charge for Los Angeles after 29 years of service. He has accumulated some of the most damning documentary evidence of wide-spread satanic ritual abuse (and murder) of young children in this country by very high level satanists whose grisly actively is being covered up and protected by governmental agencies of The United States of America. The recent accusation of radio talk show host Art Bell leveled at Ted Gunderson was intended to discredit and undermine Gunderson's credibility. Now why, I wonder, would anyone want to do that?

Communication & Association

Links
Here, I've listed some web sites, which I feel have something to say. I hope you'll also find them interesting and useful. Check often, as we will routinely add to this list.

Membership
Donations make it possible for this effort to go forward. Of course, it feels good to receive a helping hand when you need it, but the person responsible for providing that help gains a much richer gift, soul development. There is an immutable spiritual law at work in the universe that applies to any who give selflessly for the benefit of others ("to the least of my brethren"). It's called The Law of Giving and givers will always receive abundance many fold in return. You might think of that the next time you are presented with any opportunity to financially assist those who need some help (beggar, bum, drug addict, etc.) and assist them without judgement.

Membership support will come in a variety of categories. All members will be privy to special "perks" in recognition of their support.

Discussion

I now post the most recent information at the Top of the Current News page, immediately below Latest Articles. Older articles previously featured here will remain for a time, but soon be archived according to the year posted. Use the Search engine at Yandex.ru to find articles on this website by first entering keywords related to the title or a portion of the title itself, followed by a comma, then "educate-yourself.org." That will usually bring up the EY article near the top of the search page. Example: "How to Make CDS Water, educate-yourself.org" will bring this article to the top of the search page. .

Urgent Warning against ANY and ALL "Vaccinations" for ANY reason, including school or loss of job or airplane travel:
Please, Please, Please ....for YOUR sake and that of your family & loved ones: Avoid taking the Covid "vaccine" Jab at all costs. It is NOT a "vaccine." It's a genocidal Bio-weapon, developed by the Pentagon that is INTENDED to destroy your immune system, AND sterilize you, AND kill you. It's a gene-altering Witches Brew of the most heinous and evil immune systems poisons ever devised in human history to first cripple, then destroy your immunity and transform you into a "trans-human" robot who will forever be linked into DARPA Artificial Intelligence (AI) computers for the rest of your life.

If you already got the Coovid injections, contact me for information on how to remove those poisons and detoxify your body. There is genuine hope, but you must take action and not sit of your hands for a few months to think about it. You must act quickly since these covid structures poisons are GROWING inside your body and MUST be removed -- ASAP.

Educate-Yourself.org Listed Among 200 Web sites Branded as "Russian Propaganda" Mills

Never Use Google
Stop helping the Evil Empire destroy your privacy & censor your search results. If a "search" engine is going to intentionally de-list or bury the most pertinent data relevant to your search inquiry, then why use them?
Read more here: https://tinyurl.com/ybjngygb

I now use the Russian search engine, yandex.ru, as my primary search engine, since it gives me Honest and Accurate search results for stories and individuals that the mainstream media machine doesn't want you to know about - or read - anything about -- including this website.
To Browse without IP/ID tracking or ads, use https://brave.com/download/

I love this browser! Brave blocks all ads and ‘trackers” which can load down your CPU excessively. Brave will load your pages MUCH faster than Chrome or Firefox. Try it and see how great it is to be free of those hidden ‘freeloaders’ and watch that page load like greased lightning.

Censorship of educate-yourself.org

People have reported to me that Facebook is blocking articles or links to this web site. If you wish to post any article from this website on Facebook, change the url from my domain name (educate-yourself.org) to a Tiny Url and then identify the source of the article with the Tiny URL link instead and do not mention educate-yourself.org in your comments. To create a Tiny Url, go to http://tinyurl.com and paste in the url from my domain (E.g. educate-yourself.org/etc..) and click the "Make Tiny Url" button and the software will create a tiny url you can use on Facebook or other web sites that block information from this web site.

The unrelenting torrent of outright fabrications, exaggeration, and hyperbole undertaken by Fukushima radiation hysteria promoters at EneNews (http://enenews.com/), or rense.com, or on every Leftist media outlet across America to pump up the unfounded assertion that Japan and the entire world is now engulfed in the death fog of a Fukushima radiation "catastrophe" that now is claiming to exceed (no less!) the radiation contamination caused by the Chernobyl disaster is an absurdity on steroids.

just FOUR days after the 3/11 attack on Japan in which Ben Fulford corroborates to a remarkable degree the same assertions that I have stated at this web site since March 12, 2011
- that the 3/11 Japan attack itself was a product of sabotage and that Zionist-controlled Leftist media outlets were manufacturing a radiation hysteria 'crisis' that had no basis in reality...Ken

The Iron Curtain Over America By John Beaty 1951 (Khazar Jews/Zionists-Influence over America)
http://educate-yourself.org/cn/Iron.Curtain.Over.America.pdf

The Zionist Plan for the Middle East from Oded Yinon (pub. in 1982, accurately foretells current strategy of Greater Israel prepared in the mid-fifties)

"To our knowledge, this document is the most explicit, detailed and unambiguous statement to date of the Zionist strategy in the Middle East. Furthermore, it stands as an accurate represe ntation of the "vision" for the entire Middle East of the presently ruling Zionist regime of Begin, Sharon and Eitan. Its importance, hence, lies not in its historical value but in the nightmare which it presents.

The plan operates on two essential premises. To survive, Israel must 1) become an imperial regional power, and 2) must effect the division of the whole area into small states by the dissolution of all existing Arab states. "Small" here will depend on the ethnic sectarian composition of each state. Consequently, the Zionist hope is that

based states become Israel's satellites and, ironically, its source of moral legitimation. ""

"To our knowledge, this document is the most explicit, detailed and unambiguous statement to date of the Zionist strategy in the Middle East. ...The plan operates on two essential premises. To survive, Israel must 1) become an imperial regional power, and 2) must effect the division of the whole [Middle East] area into small states by the dissolution of all existing Arab states. "Small" here will depend on the ethnic sectarian composition of each state. Consequently, the Zionist hope is that sectarian- based states become Israel's satellites and, ironically, its source of moral legitimation. ""

 More Important than ever to Learn about Making MMS and CDS YOURSELF at home **
Mark Grenon and his sons of the Genesis II Church of Health were arrested by the FBI in early August (2020) for the great crime of promoting MMS and Chlorine Dioxide Solution (CDS) as a safe and effective substance to assist the immune system in overcoming disease conditions by neutralizing pathogenic organism and toxins.
Millions of people have benefited from its use (in contrast to toxic pharmaceutical drugs which have killed millions of unsuspecting and trusting medical patients for decades) To my knowledge, no one has ever died or has been injured by its use, despite dire FDA claims to the contrary. A number of countries have now prohibited the online sale of ready-made MMS solutions, but you can still legally obtain the dry ingredients used (by the sterilization industry & paper mills for over

Chlorine Dioxide (MMS & CDS)~The Universal Antidote to Covid Infections & Injections Oct 21, 2021

Chlorine Dioxide Solution (CDS) will Instantly Oxidize (neutralize) ANY molecule called

Covid, Spike Protein, Corona Virus, SARS-Cov-2, Covid-19, etc. Fill a 4 Liter or 6 Liter Ultrasonic Humidifier with distilled water and 2 oz of CDS Concentrate 24/7 and you will NEVER come down with any expression of Covid or the latest 'variant' du jour. Chlorine Dioxide is the GREATEST disinfectant known to science.

Urgent Warning from Ken Adachi
Please, Please, Please ..for YOUR sake and that of your family & loved ones:
Avoid taking the Covid Death Jab at all costs. It is NOT a "vaccine." It is a gene-altering Witches Brew of the most heinous and evil substances ever devised in human history to DESTROY your immune system and transform you into a "transhuman" robot who will forever be linked into DARPA Artificial Intelligence (AI) computers for the rest of your life. subject to thought monitoring, mind influencing, Free Will manipulation, 24/7 monitoring & surveillance of hundreds of bodily functions all intended to enslave you & to forfeit forever any semblance of normal human life. It's a binary weapon that will deliver a mortal Part 2 in 3, 6, or 12 months following your jab, after your body has been commandeered via genetic-altering substances to produce "Trojan Horse" autoimmune responses to the slightest exposure to Covid 'variants.

Avoid any Covid testing which involves a nasal or oral 'swab' applicator:

AVOID:

1. Nasal-pharangeal test,
2. the Nasal swab test or
3. the Oral swab test.

That is NOT a "Q-Tip " swab that they are sticking up your nose or into your mouth. They wouldn't be causing so much pain if they were just an ordinary cotton Q-Tip (run a Q-Tip around the inside of your nose and tell me if it hurts - even slightly?) If you MUST take a Covid test, ONLY do the Saliva sample test in which you spit into a tube and they analyze that. Don't let them put ANYTHING into your nose or mouth. You may come to GREATLY regret it.

The Pfizer Vaccine Body Count - Index of Articles on Deaths and Serious Neurological Dysfunction Following COVID Vaccinations (Jan. 14, 2021)
The Covid 'vaccination' juggernaut, irrational and utterly unjustifiable since only 0.02% of the human population is even eligible to succumb to this bio-engineered 'virus' is the greatest act of genocide in human history. It's NOT a vaccine (which is supposed to stimulate antibody activity in the body), but rather a DNA-altering genetic modification substance that will irreversibly alter your DNA and connect you to government/corporate-controlled Artificial Intelligence (AI) computers for the rest of your life. The vaccine manufacturers of this Witch's Brew of Poisons are free of ANY liability claims whether you or family members die on the spot, or are crippled for the remainder of your life. People who take this vaccine based on the mountain of LIES from mainstream media and corrupt politicians (who know better than to really get vaccine) are signing their own death certificates.

This speech is one of the most compelling and passionate addresses ever made before a Parliamentary body. Her courage and honesty in addressing squarely the reality of this unprecedented and monstrous assault on the very sanctity of human life itself is a fitting testimony to the depth of her character and reverence for life. This speech should be enshrined in history books with the same respect that we hold for the Gettysburg Address. She deserves the greatest praise and support possible from people around the world. By 2018, 75% of polio cases worldwide were from “Gates Vaccines.” Gates introduced the world to a new form of polio that he funded.

Dr. E Michael Jones ~ The Truth About The 2020 Cultural Marxist Revolution and Its Jewish Orchestrators (Oct. 2 2020)

La Civilta Cattolica: The Jewish Question in Europe [Pub. 1890]
One hundred years after the French Revolution [1789], the editors of Civiltà Cattolica, the official voice of the Vatican on political affairs, came to a startling conclusion: any country which turns away from laws based on the teaching of the Catholic Church and God's eternal law will end up being ruled by Jews. These three articles, originally published over the fall of 1890, explain in detail why this is so, for both France in 1890 and America today.

Chap.3 from Pawns in The Game by William Guy Carr (Canadian Navy Admiral)

" In the previous chapter evidence was given to prove how a small group of foreign money-lenders, operating through their English agents, remained anonymous while they secured control of that nation's economy for the modest sum of £1,250,000.
Evidence will now be produced to identify some of these International Jewish money-lenders and prove they, or their successors, plotted and planned, and helped finance, the Great French Revolution of 1789, exactly the same way as they had plotted and planned and financed the English Revolution of 1640-1649."

Open Letter from 438 Belgian Doctors and Health Professionals ~ "No Medical Justification For Emergency Measures" (Sep. 23, 2020)

Sep. 16 2020
The compulsory or forced vaccination with the Covid vaccine is the Greatest Threat to Life & Liberty in the history of mankind.
If you take this vaccine, your life will never be the same. Covid is not a routine vaccine that you will 'recover from' someday It's loaded with Above-Top-Secret Nanobot DNA-altering technology that will alter your DNA and convert you into a non-human cyborg, half human , half software, that's being euphemistically labeled a "Trans-human" And that's putting it mildly. After you get this 'vaccine' you cannot cancel the changes it will make to your body, genes, mind & Free Will. You will forever be hooked into an Artificial Intelligence computer system which you cannot escape.

There are dozens & dozens of excellent videos on vaccine dangers that have been posted online since Trump kicked off the Corona
Hysteria Hoax in early March 2020, but I chose this very recent Sep. 13, 2020 interview between Dr Carrie Madej and Richie from Boston as the most succinct and comprehensive explanation of what the Covid vaccination will entail to get you up to speed as quickly as possible. It's a little over one hour long, but you will learn a great deal of valuable information in that hour. So many hapless, innocent & naive people have been duped by government and media propaganda into believing that this vaccine will "save" them from a non-existent virus threat that can ONLY possibly affect 0.26% of the entire US population , when it will do just the opposite and condemn them to a shortened life of misery and pain. You MUST educate and enlighten your family and friends that taking this vaccine is the Worst decision that they will every make.The first trial of the Moderna vaccine resulted in 100% serious "side effects." The second trail also involved only 35 people and only 80% had serious side effects after the dosage was decreased by 3/4. Thus ended the "trial period."
Vaccine makers have ZERO liability under a 1986 law if they injure or kill you with their vaccine. .

Remembering Don Nicoloff on this day, March 13, 2019
I wish to honor the life & work of Nicoloff who died unexpectedly on March 13, 2015. I do not believe Don died a natural death. I believe he was the victim of high tech weaponry, as many close calls had occured in the weeks prior to his death
We had a lot of fun doing a few hundred Internet radio shows together. I've edited a compilation of three shows found below that we recorded between Nov 1 - 4, 2011. Don's observations and commentary always added a great deal of depth & interest to the topic at hand. We thank him for all the fine shows he did while a radio host from roughly 2007 until late 2012 or early 2013. I'm sure his family and friends miss him as much as I and ZSL

December 15, 2011: Radio interview with Don Nicoloff, ZS Livingstone, and Ken Adachi in which we explore, with many examples, the power of thought and focused intent to shape reality to our liking. Don's speech is slightly slurred in this podcast due to after-effects of being attacked by a beam weapon just 2 months (October 2011) prior to this recording that left him unconscious for nearly 18 hours.
Don mentions the 7th attempt on his life, which unfortunately, came to pass on March 13, 2015. But his zest for life, his music, and his desire to know the truth in all things made him an extraordinary researcher, writer and fascinating talk show host who I greatly enjoyed talking to, both on the air and off. I think you will find this show both interesting and informative. ....Ken

Hour 1 (https://tinyurl.com/y8ungf56)
Hour2 (https://tinyurl.com/y7hpzfto)

(Fair Warning: Listening to recordings of original or next generation historical revisionists may make you vulnerable to accusations of the unforgivable 'hate crime' of Holocaust Denial)

Note: The "Holocaust" does not refer to the forced relocation of Jews and other non Jewish people into Nazi concentration camps during World War II. It does not refer to the harsh conditions inside those camps. It does not refer to the loss of life from disease outbreaks, or malnutrition or medical experiments or summary execution by camp guards. It ONLY refers to the intentional homocidal gassing of what was originally reported to be (from 1945 to 1989) 4 million victims of homocidal gas chamber executions at just Auschwitz alone.

The truth is: there NEVER was any homocidal gas chambers at Auschwitz or at any other Nazi concentration camp during World War II. Therefore, the homocidal gas chamber "extermination camps" or "death camps" story line is a complete fabrication by Organized Jewry without merit or genuine supportive evidence. That's what the Ernst Zundel trials in Canada in 1985 and 1988 were all about. Ernst Zundel was a German-born pacifist who emigrated to Canada, gradually learned English, and later published books including a small booklet titled "Did 6 Million Really Die?" That was the "crime" for which he was hounded, threatened, fire-bombed, attacked, persecuted, railroaded into prison and demonized for the last 40 years of his life by ignorant and close-minded Jewish haters who unthinkingly and automatically label him a "hatemonger", or a "Nazi," "scum", etc., without knowing anything about what he was really trying to say or do. His Organized Jewish persecutors didn't care what he had to say. He was upsetting the Holocaust Golden Apple Cart and he had to be shut up and put way, no matter what. That's all they cared about.

As Michael Hoffman aptly stated in his memorium to Ernst Zundel after his death, Zundel was neither bigoted nor hateful towards Jewish people or anyone else. It is a complete and outrageous LIE that Zundel was a "hatemonger", "Nazi", etc. He just wanted to get out the truth about what really happened in those camps during World War II, instead of passively and uncritically accepting the Holocaust hoax created by organized Jewry for political and financial gain.

I only became fully cognizant that there were no homocidal gas chambers at Auschwitz when I read Fred Leuchter's 1988 report and listened to what he had to say. Prior to that, I had inculcated the general impression that the total number of Jews reported as killed in gas chambers was greatly exaggerated by Organized Jewry for political and financial gain, but I had blindly assumed that the gas chamber story itself was legit. However, I was wrong.

Any intelligent reader who invests the time to read the voluminous and irrefutable revisionist data that is now available on the internet will discover this for himself. There were no homocidal gas chambers. Period.

Fred Leuchter interview with Jim Rizoli (Website) on September 29, 2015

Editor's Note: This is an amazing and riveting interview which explains what happened to Fred Leuchter in the wake of his 1988 Leuchter Report. I was surprised to see only 5,865 views of a Youtube video that contains such important and historically relevant information considering the enormity and dogmatic allegiance to the Zionist-created Holocaust deception. As is the case with all truth-driven individuals who attempt to step forward and express their conclusions, opinions, and research on the facts surrounding the alleged homicidal gassing of Jews in Nazi concentration camps, the Organized Jewish Mafia wastes no time in threatening and jeopardizing their freedom, their means of livelihood, and even their life for having the temerity to rock the boat of Holocaust Certitude and the millions of taxpayer dollars doled out to "survivors" routinely by German, American, and other nation's taxpayers.]

 Important Information and a Possible Breakthrough to End Electronic Harassment ***
Jan. 19, 2018, 5AM PST update: This article has been viewed 48, 582 times since posting it on Dec. 24.
I started it on Dec. 21, but didn't finish the transcript and the audio editing until early AM on Dec. 24. An important and extremely significant breakthrough has been achieved to free the body from manipulation by electronic signals from Artificial Intelligence (AI) computers and human perpetrators of electronic harassment and torture.

Everyone in North America and western Europe has been breathing in Nano metals from chemtrails for 20 years and ingesting Nano particles from contaminated food. These Nano particles allow the the fungal condition to entrench itself within the body and on the skin and will eventaully cause most of us to be victimized by electronic harassment. Today's "Targeted Individuals" are just the forerunners of an electronic control gulag we will all be forced to endure -- unless we make the effort to detox the body of its Nano metals and the enabling fungal condition described in this article.

the Current News postings from previous years on a separate archived index page for each year. There are many important articles on each archived page that will give you a glimpse of how Zionist Jewish-controlled main stream media and so-called "Alternative" news media were feeding the public misdirection, and/or fabricated and hoaxed "news" events to justify ever greater impostions upon our founding Constitutional liberties and impose an ever-tightening net of Marxist, police state tyranny and cultural destruction/degeneracy upon the American People.
The ONLY way to stop this destruction and subversion of the American Dream is to focus on the Jewish supremacist subversives who are undermining our Republic and remove them from every vector of power and influence over American institutions and governmental bodies.]

From the Don Nicoloff Radio Interview Vault. Don had enormous talent and ability in everything he pursued.
I did 5 years of radio interviews with Don and every single one of them was an enjoyable experience that I will always remember with great fondness. This show took place 6 weeks after Obama was elected.

Brief description:

Ken Adachi & Don Nicoloff Radio Interview, Dec. 18, 2008
http://educate-yourself.org/vcd/kenadachi18dec08interview.mp3

Foreign born Barack Obama's "family" is a creation of the CIA. Foreign born Sonali Kolhatkar of KPFK radio redicules American citizens who question Obama's birth record or the "rights" of illegal aliens or the official party line on Global Warming. National Public Radio (NPR): Tavistock's premiere propaganda outlet in America. The Global Warming fraud. The hidden dangers of HD digital TV. Barack's white Dunham "family" are Rockefeller/CIA agents.

One of the many wonderful radio interviews I did with the late, great Don Nicoloff, a man of enormous ability and talent. This guy made everything easy and fun. He was a good friend and close ally.

April 2, 2008. Ken Adachi & Don Nicoloff review the horrendous story of TASER abuse by police in America. Hundreds of non threatening, innocent citizens are tasered to death yearly by inhuman, federally-trained Robocops over "nothing" issues. TASER guns must be banned in this country. But it won't happen until the people of this country stop tolerating these 50,000 volt instruments of torture and summary execution by electrocution.

Free Speech Assault: Network Solutions Summarily Shuts Down Stormfront Website Based Solely on SPLC Instigated Complaint Letter

I heard Alex Jones mention in a video a few days ago that a pro-white web site, Stormfront.org (archive from Aug. 23, 2017) and another website, Daily Stormer (dailystormer.org), were taken offline without notice or warning. I was curious about the details, so I did a Bing search and found out that a Soros-funded pro-black/minority tax-exempt, 501(c) political activist group (whose Nov. 15, 1963 IRS 501(c)(3) Determination letter specifically stated that they were "organized and operated exclusively for charitable purposes"), closely allied with Obama, called the "Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law" (abbreviated LCCR or LCCRUL) sent complaint letters to Network Solutions and its hosting company, Web.com, in which they concocted the most remarkable Animal Farm (pdf download) double-speak imaginable as a pretext to (not-so-subtly) coerce Network Solutions and Web.com into taking StormFront down and further advised Network Solutions that they had the right to claim adverse possession (ownership) of the stormfront.org domain name (DNS) itself, thus preventing the owner, Don Black, from moving his 23 year old web site (online since 1994) to another hosting company.

I'll have much more to say about LCCR in an upcoming analysis of their globalist-funded (Soros, Rockefeller, Ford Foundation, etc.) radical Left political activism and promotion of cultural Marxism, In the meantime, take the time to listen to this August 28, 2017 internet radio show from StormFront owner Don Black, two of his co-hosts, and later in the show, David Duke, talk about who are the true purveyors of violence, "hate" speech and racial denigration, while assigning epithets of "hater," "Nazi," and "Ku Klux Klan" to white people who want to preserve their rights to free speech and equal protection under the law, and plotting to deny internet access to those with whom they disagree.

Audio Podcast

August 28, 2017: StormFront owner Don Black and (2nd half) David Duke talk about the takedown of Don's website on August 26. Well worth listening to; an honest evaluation of an illegal and unconscionable assault on the right of free speech in America, instigated by a pro-black, "civil rights," tax-exempt "exclusively charitable" corporation.

49:42~ Roger Stone: I think it's taking the President a little while, being not an experienced politician, to realize the awesome power that he has.
Yes, we think we need to take James Clapper and James Comey and Loretta Lynch and the Defense Secretary, Ash Carter, and a number of other high-level Obama aides in front of the Grand Jury and they need to be vigorously asked what they know about surveillance of the President.
You see, it's easy to lie in an interview or on television because you're not under oath.
George Noory: That's Right
Roger Stone: But lying under oath is perjury. And they'll remind Comey that "if we catch you lying about this, Mr. Director, you're going to do hard time."
I think he'd be compelled to tell the truth. Then what we're going to learn, I'm afraid, is they use the cover of the FISA Court to make their actions legal.
They're unconstitutional. They're outrageous. But technically, you know, the President has the authority to order surveillance of anyone. And the FISA Court does. They have denied this, but the New York Times of January 20th says, headline: "Wiretap Data Used in Probe of Trump Associates."

MMS, CDS, Chlorine Dioxide
Ken Adachi (educate-yourself.org)

Sodium Chlorite, a salt, when mixed with water, has the ability to sterilize and clean drinking water of ALL known pathogenic organisms and toxic chemical compounds, but without creating any harmful carcinogenic by-products with organic matter (as does chlorine gas) found in surface water sources such as reservoirs.
In 1996, Jim Humble discovered this sterilization capacity of Sodium Chlorite when he gave 25 drops from his bottle of "Water Sterilizing Drops" to two men, part of Jim's gold mining team, who came down with severe malaria symptoms deep in the jungles of Guyana. Only FOUR hours after drinking the Water Sterilization drops, both men had recovered COMPLETELY from the high fever, shivering, and throwing up that they had endured just hours earlier. This PHENOMENAL improvement allowed them to eat normally that evening and to return to work the next morning. That was the beginning of the Do It Yourself, MMS/CDS Chlorine Dioxde "Health Revolution Solution" started by Jim Humble.

Chlorine Dioxide: The Secret Disinfectant
https://www.therakyatpost.com/2021/05/24/chlorine-dioxide-the-secret-disinfectant/

Everyone knows about hand sanitizer and plenty hand soap to keep the germs and viruses at bay, but have you heard of chlorine dioxide? Yes, it is a chemical, but it's one of the good guys. It's yellowish- green colour may deceive you, despite it being one of the best disinfectants around.

Chlorine dioxide was used for the first time in 1944, since its discovery by Sir Humphrey Davy. Its usage at a water treatment plant in Niagara Falls, New York, solved taste and odor issues in the water. The compound was chosen as it is much more soluble in water, and does not produce carcinogenic byproducts from the impurities it is meant to destroy.

Chlorine Dioxide was also used as a disinfectant in the Anthrax attacks of 2001, and to eradicate mold and mildew from homes flooded in hurricane Katrina five years later. The effectiveness of the compound in both major incidents proved it's efficiency and that it is safe for public use.

Among its uses are sterilization of medical equipment, odor and taste control of water, disinfection and sterilization of water, an oxidizer and is also present in some portable handheld disinfectants such as the Dr. Clo stick.

In a study performed at Seoul National University, chlorine dioxide was tested against Influenza A H1N1 and SARS Coronavirus-2, better known as Covid-19. The study showed that even after 2 hours of exposure, the compound was still able to actively kill the viruses.

Similar to carbon and carbon dioxide, chlorine dioxide is very different from chlorine in terms of chemical structure and behavior. Confusion between the two led to myths claiming that chlorine dioxide depletes the ozone layer like chlorine gas does.

A study performed by Egyptian pharmacologist Professor Abdel-Rahman showed showed that chlorine dioxide breaks down through oxidization processes that occur in our saliva and stomach contents. In the presence of sunlight, it breaks down through natural processes that occur in the environment.

In present times, use of chlorine dioxide has grown rapidly in the food processing industry. It is used as a fumigant to extend the shelf-life of fruits and vegetables which develop mold and yeast. It is also used to disinfect poultry by spraying or immersing, prior to processing.

If you still think you have not been using it, you might find your favorite non-alcohol based mouthwash and toothpaste contain chlorine dioxide. Even with the world at our fingertips, thanks to the internet, it is hard to believe such misconceptions and myths still exist.

March 2013 ~ Mark Recovers from Malignant Melanoma Using MMS & CDS (Comprehensive Testimonial)

More MMS.CDS Info: https://bitchute.com/playlist/sQjxl8JJyvCr/
Ken Adachi Note, Oct 3, 2021: (READ entire commentary for greatest understanding) This testimonial from Mark (in Thailand) had a tremendous impact on me when I first watched it (probably in 2013 or 2014). I was watching a lot of video testimonials posted on Youbube from the Genesis2 website, but was particularly taken by the clarity and comprehensiveness of Mark's presentation. He had already gone through all of his money when he was first treated for cancer in 2005 ($40k) and he didn't HAVE that kind of money to shell out a second time ($150k) when his cancer came back as a lung tumor in 2011. So he did the INTELLIGENT thing and started to research for alternative, non-allopathic cancer treatments - that he could afford - and he discovered Jim Humble's MMS (and later CDS Water).

As he states here, MMS and CDS can "strengthen" the immune system by oxidizing the pathogens and toxins that are sapping your immune system's energy and allow it to function at a higher level, which in turn restores your health and energy to a more robust condition. A simple gaseous molecule called Chlorine Dixoiide (ClO2) is responsible for the oxidizing effect. An Oxidizer (or Oxidant) is a molecule which can STEAL electrons AWAY from a parasite, pathogen OR from a poisonous chemical compound (E.g. a toxin) and in so doing will render that pathogen or toxin or poison HARMLESS. Since Chlorine Dioxide has the UNIQUE property of having a LOWER cellular voltage potential (0.95 Volts) than oxygen (1.28 volts) - normally used by the body to sustain life - means that Chlorine Dioxide will NOT react with normal, healthy human (or animal) cellular tissue in ANY way. And is therefore completely harmless and safe whether inside or outside the body. Chlorine Dioxide is the most POWERFUL disinfectant and germ killer in existence, yet it's ALSO the safest and most benign immune system 'strengthener' you could possibly encounter. The Medical Racketeers and their Big Pharma overlords do NOT want you to know this truth. You can resolve just about every health problem in the book with these two, simple and inexpensive solutions that make up MMS (Sodium Chlorite and Citric Acid). Thus, the all-out MSM media & government defamation propaganda campaign to demonize, vilify, marginalize, discredit, or railroad into prison ANY organization (Genesis 2 church) or group or individuals who advocate and champion its use (Mark Grenon and his two sons, in jail since August 2020 awaiting their Kangaroo Railroading Court date - Update Aug. 2023: Kangaroo Court trial in July of 2023 gave ELEVEN year prison terms for his 3 sons and a FIVE year prison term for

ANYONE can obtain the DRY INGREDIENTS (k-a@tutanota.com) used to make MMS and have their own MMS Health Restorative Center right in their OWN home with TWO bottles of liquid: one is called 22.4% Sodium Chlorite solution and the other is called 50% Citric Acid solution. These are the two solutions that comprise what Jim Humble had initially coined as 'Miracle Mineral Supplement', but later changed to 'Master Mineral Solution' thanks to FDA threats. .

One Mom's MMS Autism Story (August 2012)
Ken Adachi (Editor educate-yourself.org)
Consider yourself fortunate if you're reading these words and came upon this video. By listening carefully, you will realize that NOTHING worked for this mother's highly autistic son after following conventionl, orthodox treatment and "new" trial therapies for FIVE years and paid out over $200,000 with ZERO improvement. She stumbled upon the MMS story and fortunately had an enlightened woman doctor who did not try to disuade her from trying MMS and was open to the possibility that it might help. Notice that her son experienced CONTIUNOUS and STEADY improvements in her child's condition after she began using MMS. She mentions that, at the time, a 4 oz bottle set of MMS cost her $25 for THREE months for a 3 month supply and therefore cost her $100 for a FULL year of MMS treatment with PHENOMENAL and amazing improvements after paying out over $200,000 and gaining zip for her money.

My father has a lymphoma next to his heart and has gone through chemo and kept getting extreme nausea that made him lose 30kg. He has been complaining about not being able to eat and vomiting from the chemo for over 6 months and has now been diagnosed with stage 2 cancer tumor that has popped up in the esophagus. He can't eat at all and now has a feed tube in his nose that is being moved to his stomach and no longer wants any medical treatment. I'm going to try this when he comes home from hospital next week and let everyone know if it works.

Update
a year ago [2022]
Kirsty@nne
Hi, this is an update. It WORKS. Seriously, give it a try. Dad was not able to eat at all.
- Started on 10th May [2022] with 4 activated drops in 100ml of distilled water every 2 or 3 hours for first week throughout the day.
- 2nd week, 8 activated drops in 100ml distilled water every 2 or 3 hours.
- 3rd week, started adding 8 drops DMSO to the 8 activated drops of MMS in water every 2 or 3 hours.
- 4th week, he started eating soft foods and pureed soups again.
- 5th week, 8 activated drops plus 8 drops of 99.9 % DMSO in 100ml water 3 times a day.
- 6th week, he is eating food again. I think the DMSO really helped but you have to drink plenty of water.

Had CT scan last week. Doctors said tumour is still there, but has not grown and his esophagus has gone back to normal. They seem surprised that he is eating and not taking any of the medications they prescribed.
When he started eating, he got a bad reflux. I treated that with 1 tsp of Bicarb [Bicarbonate = Baking Soda] in 40ml water then followed by a 100ml glass of 50ml lemon juice and 50ml water or 1tsp of crushed ginger with 1tsp honey in the 50ml lemon and water worked instantly to ease the indigestion instead of using the antacids, anti-nausea meds they prescribed. Other than some diarrhea and headaches in 1st and second weeks, and bad body odour and breath from the DMSO, he is looking and doing great now. No more weight loss or gain; that has stable since May [2022]. Skin cancers on his arms are healing. We are going back to the higher dose protocol we did in May and I will update again end of August or September.

God bless you guys. We need to combat the Medical/Pharmaceutical Industrial Complex any way we can. Spreading knowledge about alternative healing and wellness protocols and techniques is a damn good start. Our controlled corrupt government needs to be overhauled.

Aerospace engineer Jim Humble’s third career started accidentally while on a gold prospecting trip in the jungle of Venezuela. There, using stabilized oxygen, he improvised an effective remedy for his colleagues who were stricken with malaria. As curious as he had always been in his life, he returned to his native US and wondered why the cure had worked so well.
The answers to his own questions led him to the development of a more powerful form of oxygen therapy, chlorine dioxide, which he called Miracle Mineral Supplement. With a mission to help the human race whatever he did, Jim made it widely available in the form of sodium chlorite which the user ‘activated’ by adding lemon juice or vinegar – and medical teams conducted 100,000 research trials in Africa where it was found that MMS would frequently relieve the symptoms of malaria in as little as four hours.
In this 75 minute interview, Jim talks with Project Camelot’s Bill Ryan about his life and work. Charming, engaging and passionate, Jim reveals his most interesting background in aerospace and mining engineering – careers few users of MMS will be aware of –

and then goes into detail about how MMS works, his experience successfully treating not only malaria but hepatitis, cancer and AIDS, and his personal spiritual and philosophical perspective on everything he does.

Red Cross 4 Day Trial in Uganda in Dec. 2012 Proved Chlorine Dioxde Is a 100% Cure for Malaria
Ken Adachi (Editor educate-yourself.org)
Introduction
"MMS" = Sodium Chlorite & Citric Acid solutions mixed together
Sodium Chlorite is a "salt" just like Sodium Chloride (table salt), but Sodium Chlorite has two additional Oxygen atoms attached to the Chlorine ion while Sodium Chloride has NO additional oxygen attached to the chlorine ion. Those two Oxygen atoms attached to the chlorine ion is called "Chlorine Dioxide," one of the most powerful Natural disinfectants known to science, yet it's completely harmless to normal, healthy cells in the body. Chlorine Dioxide is what causes Malaria parasites to completely disappear from the blood stream of Malaria victims in TWO hours as demonstared at the 2012 Red Cross MMS trial study in Uganda from Dec. 11-14, in which ALL 154 confirmed Malaria cases were declared Free of Malaria when they came back for re-testing on the following day. A 100% Cure treatment for Malaria has NEVER been achieved before the December, 2012 Uganda Red Cross trial study, yet news of this stunning achievement has been viciously suppressed and denied by the Red Cross itself and all mainstream and social media outlets since Jim Humble first attempted to bring it to public attention in January 2013.

"Malaria Finally Defeated" ~ Jim Humble Newsletter, May 6, 2013
https://educate-yourself.org/cn/milariadefeated06may13.shtml#top

A word from Jim Humble

I want to tell you about a breakthrough that can save your life, or the life of a loved one. In 1996, while on a gold mining expedition in South America, I discovered that chlorine dioxide quickly eradicates malaria. Since that time, it has proven to restore partial or full health to hundreds of thousands of people suffering from a wide range of disease, including cancer, diabetes, hepatitis A, B, C, Lyme disease, MRSA, multiple sclerosis, Parkinson’s, Alzheimer’s, HIV/AIDS, malaria, autism, infections of all kinds, arthritis, high cholesterol, acid reflux, kidney or liver diseases, aches and pains, allergies, urinary tract infections, digestive problems, high blood pressure, obesity, parasites, tumors and cysts, depression, sinus problems, eye disease, ear infections, dengue fever, skin problems, dental issues, problems with prostate (high PSA), erectile dysfunction and the list goes on. This is by far not a comprehensive list. I know it sounds too good to be true, but according to feedback I have received over the last 20 years, I think it’s safe to say MMS has the potential to overcome most diseases known to mankind.

It is important to note that MMS does not cure disease. MMS is an oxidizer, it kills pathogens and destroys poisons. When these are reduced or eliminated in the body, then the body can function properly and thereby heal. I often say, “The body heals the body”. MMS helps to line things up so the body can do just that.

I have done many things in my lifetime—gone from a backwoods boy in Alabama, to the Marines, to a nutritional and alternative health enthusiast, to Aerospace, to electronics researcher, to inventor (of many things), to gold mining. Realizing I found “real gold” when I discovered MMS, from that point on I’ve dedicated all my time and effort to helping others recover their health and to bringing this technology to the world. It is my mission to bring this knowledge of health recovery to mankind.

The Basic Science of MMS (Chlorine Dioxide)
https://educate-yourself.org/mms/chlorinedioxidebasics004sep12.shtml#top Update from Ken Adachi: The protocols for using MMS has been evolving since Jim Humble first began posting information about MMS on the internet in 2005. Currently, there are two designations for MMS according to Jim Humble: "MMS1 " and "MMS2."
A) MMS1 refers to Jim's original formula of 22.4% Sodium Chlorite solution activated with an equal amount of 50% Citric Acid solution.
B) MMS2 refers to another chlorite compound called Calcium Hypochlorite, which is ingested as granules inside a gel cap and are "activated" by your stomach acid (HCL = hydrochloric aicd).
C) Another idea was developed in 2011 to infuse chlorine dioxide gas directly into water from the activated MMS1 solution and drink the infused water itself, rather than ingest the chlorite salts and the citric acid solution (this proved to be easier on the stomach and is preferred by many people since its very gentle). This form is called "CDS" which stands for Chlorine Dioxide Solution.

"CDS Water" is a name I (Ken Adachi) coined in 2012 to designate chlorine dioxide gas infused in distilled water, an idea demonstrated by Jim Humble in a video he posted in 2011 where Jim used a small baby bottle to hold the activated drops of MMS1. After having inserted two 1/4 inch silicone rubber tubes into the baby bottle rubber nipple, Jim was able to blow air into one tube which then forced chlorine dioxide gas to go into the second tube and then into a bottle of water, thus infusing the gas into water and creating Chlorine Dioxide Solution.

Drinking CDS Water is much easier on the body (no sharp taste) than drinking activated MMS1 with water and allows more people with sensitive stomachs to take in a larger dose of chlorine dioxide with much less stomach soreness. I usually produce CDS Water using the CDS Production Rig (air-blow) method in a concentration of 500ppm for ease of storage in the frig, but I normally consume CDS Water in the 50ppm range (which is plenty strong but feels gentle in the mouth).

Introduction & Philosophical Overview of Educate-Yourself.org from Ken Adachi

Facebook Censorship

The purpose of this web site is to help people become self sufficient and self dependent in all matters of health care. The Western World's over-reliance and dependence on orthodox allopathic medicine (conventional physicians who prescribe drugs), pharmaceuticals, and the Standard Western Diet have brought us to a deplorable state of national health. There is no one more interested in maintaining your health, than you. In our opinion, you need to accept the primary responsibility and not delegate it to others. Millions and millions of Americans have suffered (and died) needlessly because of the foolish abandonment of personal health care responsibility into the hands of others.

Organized Medicine

For most of this century, Organized Medicine has engaged in a deception. The public has been led to believe that:

A) Allopathic medicine alone is legitimate, proven, and worthy of public trust (while all other forms of therapy are to be distrusted and branded as quackery, etc.) and that

B) Allopathic physicians are healers.

Neither is true. Allopathic physicians, while appearing to be healers, actually are involved in the business of ‘patient management'. The familiar routine goes like this: The patient visits the doctor and tells him what's wrong. The doctor writes a prescription to ameliorate the symptoms. The cause and prevention of the disease condition are never broached. For the overwhelming majority of chronic sufferers, the patient regularly returns again and again for ‘visits and checkups'. This system keeps the dutiful and obedient patient coming back for regular doctor appointments, while at the same time keeping your friendly pharmacist busy refilling those prescriptions. I'm afraid that's what the game is really all about. In fact, it was planned that way. All of this activity is fine with the insurance industry, since under this paradigm, medical insurance coverage becomes an absolute necessity in everyone's life.

Of course, the average young allopathic physician is typically unaware of the game. He's plugged into a mind-set and conditioned to believe from medical school that's he's engaging in honest patient care using the best tools (and drugs) available to modern science. By maintaining a closed mind, however, and only being receptive to "peer reviewed" wisdom, our young Dr Kildaire usually winds up perpetuating the bias and scientific dishonesty that passes for most "medical science" today.

The Role of Diet

What role has the Standard Western Diet played in determining our national health profile? .....Plenty. Today, millions of people suffer from chronic diseases that didn't even exist in previous centuries. Diabetes and heart disease, for example, are 20th Century conditions. Chronic Fatigue Syndrome wasn't even described in the literature until the mid 1980's. Yet, one study estimated that today, 70% of the adult American population suffers from Chronic Fatigue! Many modern afflictions largely arose as a result of a fundamental change in our national diet. The chronic use of drugs and vaccines has also played a major role.

An End to Medical Bills

At this web site, we'll explore both the questions and answers to modern ailments and how you can learn to take care of yourself. Everyone can learn to take control of their own health destiny and put an end to the worry and other desperate emotions engendered by reliance on the so-called ‘health care' system.

Questions & Answers
Here's a few Questions and Answers to think about:

What can I do ?

Take charge and stop relying on your doctor, hospital, clinic, or pharmacist to take care of you. Learn how the body works, learn how to avoid disease, and learn how to treat ALL disease conditions yourself if you become sick.

But we need doctors and hospitals!

Only in very limited circumstances. For acute emergency medical situations like auto accidents or sudden heart attacks, sure, you want to go to an emergency room or a trauma center, but for routine illnesses, chronic disease, and even so-called 'terminal' diseases, you're better off educating yourself and learning how to treat the condition with a non-pharmaceutical approach. Your chances for long term survival are generally a lot greater if you go the alternative, natural route. Usually, taking drugs over a long period of time will serve to lower your immunity, toxify your body, cause organ degeneration, and lead to more serious, life-threatening disease.

Obviously, it would be much better if the American government allowed its citizens to choose the healing modality and healer of their choice, but in most states it's prohibited and enforced with Gestapo tactics. You can thank the drug cartels and their allies in allopathic medicine for that. Oh, and let's not forget the unthinking, uncaring, gutless, slimeball, corrupt politicians who sold out the American people to these vested interests by passing restrictive and limiting laws under the banner of "protecting the public".

So, do we really NEED doctors? No, you don't need them. Organized Medicine has been brain washing you since childhood with the notion that you need them. The fact is, they need you ...mainly to keep the money rolling in.

How can I take care of myself?

Through education and the realization that The Creator of All, working through Nature, has already supplied you with all the ‘equipment' necessary to take care of yourself.

So, what do I have to do?

The only thing you have to do, is to learn how to work with Mother Nature and observe her laws. She'll take care of everything else for you! We'll get you started on the education part.

Addressed to Ken Adachi

Dear Ken,

I am 73 yeards old, experiment in fringe areas of science such as quantum entanglement, radio astronomy, electronic bio-feeback and in addition trying hard to find anything scientific and logical about ionic silver, colloidal silver and nano-colloidal silver. In addition I practice and often teach Qi Gong. In particular I have found a link in some aspects between the energy of colloidal silver at nano-level and Qi Gong. I have recently conceived an idea to design and proto-type a combined optical and electronic device that will be able to see by inference nano-particles.

Let me say that I am a totally independent researcher and have no interest in marketing silver products and will not even consume the material as my immune system is well enough for not needing it. I am retired and live on a small pension and finance my research out of my own pocket. I have been approached by commercial concerns but so far have declined to go into business with them.

I have sent you some picture of silver solutions that I have produced in the last few days but have no way of telling the ratio of ionic to colloidal silver. I have added absolutely nothing to taint the product . The yellow came as I was making it. The longer, the darker the yellow.

Hans Silver ColloidsA check on the internet indicates that there are as many if not more colloidal silver distributors as there are silver smiths. Since most of those manufacturing and/or distributing predominantly ionic silver as colloidal silver, a very confucing situation exists. In particularly the absence of appropriate testing with equipment which can:

Determine accurate ratios between ionic silver versus colloidal silver.

Determine the ppm of the colloidal silver.

Determine particle size and ensure it is in the nano-meter size in order to obtain the largest possible surface area.

Determine the zeta potential as the most important aspect of colloidal silver.

I would like to exchange information with you in an effort to stifle bad silver products and encourage good and safe products.

Hope to hear from you soon,

Yours sincerely,

Hans

Hello Hans,

Thanks for your note.

Concerning colloidal silver, I'll give you my understanding. I met Dr. Bob Beck in California in 1994. I attended a regular "breakfast meeting" on Tuesday in Costa Mesa for a number of years from 1994 to approximately 2000. I didn't go every week, but I went often, especially in the mid 1990s. Bob expounded on his research and I got to meet a lot of interesting researchers and science orientated people there, in addition to regular folks who just wanted to listen in.

Bob played a predominant role in showing people how to make colloidal silver yourself at home using simple DC electrolysis. He gave hundreds of talks on radio, TV and at health expos, etc. The only reason you see such an explosion of people in USA, Australia, New Zealand, etc. making and talking about CS production is because of Bob Beck. I wrote an article called Silver, The Forgotten Antibiotic around 1995 that was copied and plagiarized by many web sites and health newsletters in America, Australia, New Zealand, and England. I was essentially re-stating the info I had gleaned from Bob Beck and other writers.

The reason I'm talking about Bob is that his thought process was always logical and analytic. He made it clear that silver atoms would strip off silver wire in a solution of water at 1.26 angstroms when a DC voltage was applied between two silver electrodes in the water. The process seemed to work reasonably well at 30 volts DC, but it would still happen at a lower voltage or a higher voltage. It also worked with an AC current. Another researcher I met named Merlin Wolf found that heating the water up to near boiling caused the reaction to occur much faster. He also found that using distilled water and not using salt to ionize the water was wiser, as the salt only encouraged the formation of silver chloride salt. Merlin and I also talked about the idea of reversing the voltage polarity to the two electrodes periodically in order to break up the ion concentration in the region between the two electrodes which was contributing to the accelerating rate of current flow in the solution referred to as "current runaway." I incorporated this idea of Reverse Polarity into my CS generator design and take full credit for being the first person to put out this original and unique production methodology on the internet (despite the attempt by at least one ripoff artist selling over-priced colloidal silver generators who falsely claims in Youtube videos that it was his idea). I also found out from Peter Lindermann many unusual alchemical properties of silver and incorporated his findings into my colloidal silver protocol and instructions on making CS.

In the early part of the 20th century they made silver solutions by grinding silver into a very fine powder and dumping it into water and sometimes added some weak acids to increase the solubility. You could also attach the silver atom to an amino acid (or protein), such as silver nitrate, which has been around since the end of the 19th century, for example.

There are many web sites (and Youtube videos) authored by people who posture themselves as authorities on colloidal silver, but they are essentially half baked dilettantes who are making statements which are either untrue, partially true, or very misleading. They say things that make no logical sense. For example, the "controversy" about "ionic" versus "colloidal" is one such nonsensical argument that is confusing and perplexing tons of people who are new to the subject of colloidal silver and are trying to understand more about this topic. "Non ionic" silver, we are told by these internet experts, is suppose to be a much more desirable thing than "ionic" silver. "Nano" size particles is another topic that I'll mention in a moment.

Clarification of vocabulary

Colloid solution: is characterized as tiny particles that remain suspended in a solution (E.g. water) and are evenly diffused throughout the solution. The particles do not settle to the bottom or otherwise precipitate out of solution. Such a solution can also be called a "colloidal" solution, as in colloidal silver (which many people incorrectly pronounce "colloi-di-al" instead of "colloi-dal").

Electrolysis: when an electric voltage is applied between two silver wire electrodes sitting in a glass of water, silver atoms will strip off one silver electrode wire as electric current passes through the solution to the other silver wire electrode. In so doing, an electron will leave the outer orbit of the silver atom that is leaving the emitting wire and going into the solution. When an atom loses (or gains) an electron from its outer orbit, it is then called an "ion." Now we have a silver "ion" (which remains a silver atom) with a net positive charge in the water because it has lost an electron from its outer orbit. Technically, it's called a cat-ion because it has a net positive charge.

A couple of conclusions:

If the atoms are suspended in the solution (versus DISSOLVED in the solution), it's called a colloid or colloidal solution. Where is the logic in comparing "colloidal" silver to "ionic" silver? You're being confused by what you're reading because the people writing this stuff don't have a basic understanding of what the words colloidal and ionic mean.

A solution filled with silver ions (cations) so small that they diffuse throughout the solution (colloidal) evenly and repel each other because of their net positive charge is called an "ionic" solution. The silver atoms in the water are in the form of ions, and not "non-ionic" silver atoms. "Non-ionic" silver, by definition, must have the full compliment of electrons in its outer orbit. How can an atom with its full compliment of electrons leave the wire surface and pass into the solution in the first place? The very action of electrolysis itself causes the silver atom to lose an electron and become an ion. How can some silver cations in that solution recapture an electron in its outer orbit (and become "non-ionic") while others cannot? The internet colloidal silver gurus never seem to explain that because they can't.

The only way that I'm aware of placing silver atoms - with their full compliment of outer ring electrons - is to grind or powder the silver in some fashion into the smallest size particles possible and dump it into the water, similar to how it was done in the early part of the 20th century. If you're making colloidal silver using an electrolysis process, you're producing silver IONS in the water.

For argument sake, let's accept the notion that "non-ionic" silver atoms are deposited into the water by some mysterious, unexplained means. So what? Please tell me what is the germicidal virtue of a non-ionic silver atom versus a silver ion?

I've already explained how the "controversy" about colloidal silver versus ionic silver is bogus, because you're comparing apples and oranges. The same goes for the assumed benefits of "non-ionic" versus ionic silver, another bogus controversy.

The fact is pathogenic organisms have a net negative charge.

A negative charged pathogen will ATTRACT a positive charged silver ion. Therefore, the silver can "find" the pathogens faster if they are in ionic form. Thus, silver ions have a more POWERFUL germicidal effect than do non-ionic silver atoms. This was PROVEN in a study conducted in Italy in 1988 and reported by Peter Lindemann in one of his many essays on colloidal silver.

Nano size silver: It was more commonly called mono atomic silver a few years ago. When you produce colloidal silver using a HIGH VOLTAGE AC CURRENT (8-12 KV) , you fracture the atom clusters into much smaller units, even down to one atom, thus the name. You still produce silver cations, but this time they are clustered in such small bundles that you no longer get a reflection of the yellow wavelength and therefore the solution will look perfectly clear, whether it's a highly concentrated or low concentrate solution.

The yellow color you got is typical of colloidal silver made with a low voltage (usually DC) process, using distilled water. The yellow gets darker as you increase the ppm content of the silver ions.

You can send a lab a sample of low voltage colloidal silver and get back a report on the size of the particles. You can also measure the RELATIVE ppm with a TDS meter. Assuming you started with triple distilled water, if you just add silver ions to it, the ppm registered on the TDS meter will be the relative concentration of the silver ions. We then label the measurement as xxx ppm, TDS, to tell you how it was measured. There are some companies that sell a meter that claims to accurately measure the ppm of colloidal silver, but I haven't checked them out yet.

The degree of saturation of the yellow color is a cheap and easy way to gauge the concentration. You could rig a photo diode to give you a readout and plot your ppm if you wanted to do that. I keep a series of lab measured vials with different ppm of CS and have them marked on the vial. You just hold up a vial of known ppm against the batch you are making and can quickly determine the ppm by eye. It's not hard at all and you save the expense of sending out lab samples.

So tell me more about what you're doing.

~Special Notice~

I've done a number of radio interviews with Don Nicoloff on the subject of chemtrails and Sylphs. The three radio show listed here will give you a good idea on the overall agenda of chemtrail spraying and how they are mitigated throuigh the use of orgone generators and focused intent. Air elemental beings identified by the ancient Greeks (& Paracelsus) as Sylphs are stimulated and energized by orgone generators and will literally vacumn up and transmute chemtrails into harmless substances. I realize this is hard to believe by the average person who is unaware of these etheric beings, but the evidence can be seen right over your head if you know what to look for

You need to first download and unzip these mp3 audio files before you can listen to them. Once the file is downloaded and unzipped, you can keep it in any folder you wish (or delete it after listening). If you don't know how to download and unzip an mp3 audio file, you can find instructions at this link (http://educate-yourself.org/vcd/podcast31jul11.shtml).

Parts 1 and 2 are exclusively devoted to chemtrails, while Part 3 has a little on chemtrails, but is mostly about water fuel technologies, which more people should become aware of. I edited Parts 1 and 2 somewhat to only include information relating to chemtrails, orgone generators and Sylphs, but I kept the info on Brown's gas in the April 30 show for people who may be interested in this topic. Don had originally posted an article and many interesting photos I sent him from an April 28, 2008 video that I had taken in my neighborhood. Those photos are not currently on Don's web site, but I will post them on my own page and will put up a link when completed. .

Introduction
If you are unfamiliar with the subject of chemtrails, you should first read this general overview of the chemtrail spraying operations which began in earnest in late 1997. Without first reading the introductory overview, it's difficult to understand the later informaiton that is being presented here. There are several key points to understand about the chemtrail spraying program.

Most people discover the reality of chemtrails by initially reading about it on the Internet and then going outside and looking up into the sky. They are shocked to realize that what they had been reading about (and studying photographs of) is also taking place right over their heads. What some people had dismissed as mere "jet plane exhaust" (because there are now scores of internet propaganda web sites trying to convince you that 'everything is well' and 'there's nothing to be alarmed about' and that unaccountable 'jet plane exhaust' plumes are magically being converted into horizon-to-horizon overcasts of "cirrus clouds" !) are dismayed to realize that chemtrails are indeed the toxin-laden aerosols that have been described here and at other web sites since 1998 and they are not being sprayed for any benign or national security reason as the disinformation peddlers would have you believe.

Nothing brings home the comprehension of the New World Order depopulation agenda than the realization that you and your family are also on the "useless eaters" (Henry Kissinger) elimination list.

I experienced that wake-up call in February of 1998. I had taken my 35 mm camera with me to the monthly meeting of the Orange County Chapter of the American Society of Dowsers and after the meeting, I had stopped off at a supermarket. After getting out of the car, I photographed for the very first time, the strange looking "contrails" that William Thomas had been describing on the Art Bell radio program a couple of weeks earlier. Thomas had dubbed them "chemtrails" on the Bell show to distinguish them from genuine (and rarely seen) short-lived ice crystal trailings properly identified as contrails. "Holy Cow", I thought to myself, ."We're being sprayed right here in southern California!"

(Thomas lived near Vancouver, British Columbia). Although I had a number of articles about the NWO and their dark Machiavellian agendas posted at my web site, I was now witnessing (and breathing in) the stark reality of those depopulation plans. The NWO was no longer just words on the printed page.

Chemtrail spraying seems to be heaviest and most constant over North America and most countries of western Europe. Some countries in Asia are being sprayed (Japan and Korea), but the greatest exception to any chemtrail activity whatsover is China. The Chinese are being spared completely because China is being groomed by the NWO to replace the United States as the leading nation of the world, both economically and militarily.

On the brighter side, you should know that methods have been discovered to help neutralize chemtrails and return the sky to a normal blue with real clouds taking the place of the chemtrail soup and overcast which a host of disinformation peddlers are trying to convince you are just ordinary, "cirrus" clouds that "are formed from persistent contrails" (current disinformation spiel from government climatological web sites).

This "rescue" effort of neutralizing and transmuting the toxic elements in chemtrails was initiated in early 2002 with the introduction of a device called the "chembuster" which will transmute the atmospheric orgone energy envelope from one polarity ('DOR') which allow chemtrails to persist, to another orgone polarity ('OR') which will cause chemtrails to disperse. The proliferation of chembusters around the country led to another dramatic development in early 2004: legions of huge air elemental beings called "Sylphs" by ancient Greeks made their presence known by assuming cloud shapes that often look like wispy winged angels or animal forms (there are dozens of photos of Sylphs posted on the Sylph /Chemtrail page) who set about "cleaning up" the skies of chemtrail toxins by engulfing and transmuting chemtrail toxins into non-toxic substances.
If you're just finding out about chemtrails, you should read the earlier articles to understand the full extent and gravity of the chemtrail undertaking, but bear in mind that we have turned a corner on combating chemtrails and have now thrown a huge spanner wrench into the Dark Side's finely oiled genocide machine. If you want to hasten the demise of the chemtrail spraying program, please take the time to read about orgone generators, chembusters, and the use of your mind-with focused intent- to rid the sky of these poisons. .

New or Recent Info:
Important Breakthroughs in eliminating Chemtrails! Please Read

April 2005: The massive appearance of Sylphs in 2004 (see next paragraph below- August 2004) and their neutralization/transmutation of chemtrails into non-toxic elements was a huge leap forward in neutralizing the diabolical chemtrail genocide aerosol spraying operation, but apparently we have progressed to yet another level. People are now reporting the ability to clear the skies of chemtrails by use of the mind alone to obtain assistance from unseen helpers (Sylphs and others) and do the job for you based on your focused intention. It's really amazing to see this development. I first posted an article in 2002 by Rich Work about using the mind and the the power of prayer to disperse chemtrails, and now we see this ability coming into reality with many people. Can Humans Influence the Dispersion of Chemtrails? (Apr. 16, 2005)

August 2004: The very latest reports and photos are now posted on a new index page, Sylphs & Chemtrails (http://educate-yourself.org/cn/sylphandchemtrailindex.shtml), which seems to confirm that Sylphs are neutralizing, converting, and eliminating chemtrails from the atmosphere in any local geographical area where a sufficient number of orgone generators have been deployed to convert the dominant DOR orgone atmospheric conditions into an OR dominated atmosphere. Read these articles to understand what Sylphs are, what orgone generators are, and the difference between a DOR atmosphere and an OR atmosphere. We are talking about nothing less than the demise of the chemtrail spraying operations! Chemtrails cannot exist in the presence of these giant air elementals and are they being destroyed as rapidly as they are being sprayed out of spew planes. You must read these articles and see the photographic evidence for yourself. All of the information posted below is interesting and informative, but it is now HISTORY. We are winning the battle against chemtrails and defeating the satanic traitors at their own game. Spread the word: DEPLOY ORGONE GENERATORS IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD and you too will be free of chemtrail laden skies!

June 25, 2004 We have good news: The not-so-secret chemtrail spraying program, intended to keep us from attaining higher spiritual awareness/consciousness, to reduce ethnically targeted populations worldwide, and to induce bioengineered disease organisms in order to reap staggering profits for the pharmaceutical cartels is apparently failing- and failing badly. I have seen the evidence here in southern California and have read of similar reports from different regions of America. Read the articles below for an historical overview of chemtrails and the reasons for their deployment, but don't dwell on the negative aspects of this story because things are beginning to look up and we have good reason for optimism! Get involved with making or obtaining orgone generators in your immediate environment and be part of the 'hit team' bringing down this Luciferian inspired genocide operation.

Jan. 26, 2002. If you are just beginning to learn about Chemtrails, the introductory article below will give you an overview of how this spraying program began in late 1997 and how the situation stood up to early 2000. The overhead spraying of chemtrails has continued unabated for over five years now. Thankfully, the Goodbye Chemtrails, Hello Blue Skies! article describes a simple orgone transmutation tool called the "Chembuster" which will physically disperse chemtrails and possibly mitigate some of their noxious energies and immune crippling pathogens.You can also obtain a ready made Chembuster along with other types of orgone generators from this web site.

The essay below by Montalk was posted to the Internet in September of 2000, but rings as true today as it did two years ago. Montalk's analysis of the purpose behind chemtrails strikes me as intelligent. He's seems closer to the mark than most writers on the topic. The fourth article describes a metaphysical method to destroy chemtrails that could work better than the physical method if employed by enough people and practiced correctly. Print out these articles and pass them around. The fifth article is a brief description of Dr. Len Horowitz's latest book (Death in the Air) on the chemtrail spraying program describing its sinister goals, It's a valuable resource to have in your library. Lydia Mancini put together a good web site devoted to articles about Chemtrails and Radar Matrix offers some of the most amazing radar graphics of the unprecedented EMF/microwave assault that the military and government are bombarding their own citizens with.

You can just sit there and passively allow these satanic traitors to rob you of your health, your liberty, and your life, or you can do something to stop it. Deploying orgone generators in your immediate environment is an easy, safe, and highly effective way to mitigate chemtrails in your area. Join in the effort to help save yourself and humanity. .

This site presents an astounding montage of photos and video clips from some of the most prominent people exposing chemtrail poisoning operations. You must view this substantial assembly of photos! However, note that the person who is posting this information does not recognize that many of the photos show Sylphs neutralizing chemtrails, rather than government technology directed at harming the public. With the exception of the EDB petroleum aerosol rings seen around the sun, the majority of photos which reveal a "rainbow" effect are in fact demonstrating the presence of Sylphs who are transmuting the chemtrails into less harmful substances. Other Sylph photos show a large heart-shaped "hole" in the cloud cover which the web master assumes is government technology, but it is not negative technology. It's a huge Sylph who is working on neutralizing those chemtrails! Grrrrr....

here, no narrative, no analysis.This is simply me copying and pasting large chunks of text from my bookmarks—pages that were easy to extract, with no hyperlinks or formatting issues, saved from open tabs and archived corners of the web.
It's messy. It's unfiltered. It's chaotic.But it's valuable.
Each piece inside this volume was bookmarked for a reason.Not always because I agreed with it, but because it felt like a fragment of something larger—an insight, a worldview, a download.This is source material, plain and raw.
Fragmenta Ex Machina isn't about authorship.It's about preservation and system-building.It's about feeding the machine—laying bricks for the Operating System I'm constructing across these books.This is the raw intake
phase. The memory dump. The zero layer.
Later volumes will be cleaner, more refined, more structured.But this? This is the foundation. The ether stream, bound and frozen before it vanished.
So if you're looking for polished prose, skip this one.But if you're here to explore the roots of something much bigger, this is where the signal begins.

Introductory Overview of Chemtrails (written May 1999) By Ken Adachi

For over a year, the military has been spraying the skies throughout America, Canada, and now parts of Europe (including Britain, France, and the Netherlands) with substances that were initially referred to as "mystery contrails" , but later were named "chemtrails" by investigative reporter and author William Thomas. When questioned, military and government officials either deny any knowledge of these sprayings outright or they offer unbelievable and ludicrous explanations that only a moron could believe. Joe Burton has been aggressively investigating and reporting on this story from early on. Apparently he had been too aggressive, because his house had been targeted for direct spraying by low flying, unmarked aircraft. In a story posted Feb. 15, 1999, Joe reports the physical symptoms that his family and his pet have been experiencing from the sprayings. Joe believes that many of these military tankers responsible for the sprayings are remote controlled aircraft, but Al Cuppet (6 years with the US Joint Chiefs of Staff) has told radio talk show host Jeff Rense during interviews on June 1, 1999, May 16, 1999, and May 7, 1999 felt that many of these tanker planes were more likely being flown by foreign pilots, possibly Chinese or Russian.
Some Background:

A One, Two Punch?

On February 20, 1999, strange "Contrails" were reported over Long Island, NY by 'concerned citizens' who also took photos. These photos reveal the characteristic "X" mark seen in almost all cases of chemtrails. Earlier this year, reports by Ken Welch have been posted on various sites on the Internet. His reports are titled Contrail Spraying of Cities is Real Part 1 , Part II, and Part III These articles chronicle Ken's apprehension and dismay at the discovery that the United States government was brazenly spraying the skies of southern Texas on April 9, 1999 with Chemtrails. Ken has also posted E-mails at his web site that were sent to him in May '99 of reports of sprayings over South Carolina and Indiana . In June, a report from Florida said that sprayings had been going on for weeks over the Ft Lauderdale and Jacksonville areas, including military bases.

It is being reported that people with average or below average immunity are experiencing pneumonia-like respiratory symptoms, while people with stronger immunity are only experiencing slight discomfort for a day or two or no symptoms at all. Some people have gotten very ill and the symptoms seem to keep returning after a short period of improvement. It's possible that some of these sprayings might contain special bioengineered pathogens designed to affect only certain racial groups.

Radio talk show host Jeff Rense has offered the idea that these sprayed pathogens might be part of a Binary weapon system. In other words, a second substance might be required (aerial spraying or substances added to the water supply for example) to bring out the virulent phase of the pathogen, but of course this is only speculation. Rick Malinowski's long and detailed article also suggest the notion of a 2 or 3 part piggy back element to the chemtrail sprayings. My own suspicions are that these sprayings are intended for multiple purposes including low level population reduction (see NWO Population Control), mind control and/or tracking, and to foster weakness and apathy among the general population in anticipation of the New World Order takeover agenda which will likely include the imposition of martial law (a sickly population is a lot more controllable and compliant than a healthy, vigorous one).

William Thomas

William Thomas was the first reporter to attract national attention to the chemtrails issue. He has been interviewed many times on the Art Bell Radio show to discuss the chemtrails story and has many excellent articles and Photos posted at his own web site as well as other locations including-Jeff Rense's Sightings on the Radio . Thomas has concluded that these sprayings are genocidal in nature and are intended to reduce or weaken the general population. In a November '99 interview with Art Bell, Thomas also voiced the idea that there might be a mind control element to the most recent spraying, since many people are reporting mental confusion and depression following recent sprayings. Thomas has reminded radio listeners that the government has had a long history of exposing the public to biological pathogens without their knowledge or consent.

Thomas has also reported that spraying samples have been analyzed and have revealed that many deadly and toxic pathogens have been found including Mycoplasma Fermetens Incognitus (the SAME bioengineered pathogen that Dr Garth Nicholson had discovered in about 45% of the veterans who came down with Gulf War Illness). Thomas found that Mycoplasma, however, was only ONE pathogen among a group of highly toxic biohazard substances analyzed from the chemtrail residues.

Why?

The evidence is obvious and plentiful that these sprayings have been taking place almost daily since the Fall of '98 and many people have gotten sick and undoubtedly some have died from the effects of these pathogen/toxin sprayings, but the $64 question is WHY ?

Some writers have wistfully speculated that the government is trying to vaccinate us against a coming plague of bio terrorist origin. Most people would like to believe that, but the evidence is too strong in the opposite direction. Of course, sprayings might have different intentions for different sectors of the population: Possible population reduction for the weak and immune compromised; possible vaccine protection intended for certain ethnic groups; and possible ID tracking. It's hard to say. Only insiders know the real story, or more probably know some parts of the Real Story.

What most Americans don't realize is that the upper echelons of the United States government is no longer a government "of , by, and for " the people (See the New World Order). The United States government-as with all other major governments of the world-is under the total domination and control of the Illuminati (architects of the so-called New World Order). The Illuminati's plan to reduce the global population by 4 billion people before the year 2050 was laid out in the Global 2000 report assembled by the Carter administration. in the late 70's.

It should be obvious-that in order to REDUCE the world's population from its present size of six billion down to 2 billion (even over a fifty year span) would require that the majority of people now living would have to be exterminated in some way. The amazing thing about the Illuminati is that they place all their ghastly plans right out in the open for everyone to see, if people would only look and read what they are saying.

Debunkers

A genocidal operation of this size and scope would require the Illuminati controllers to promote contravening propaganda in the opposite direction in order to limit or defuse political agitation, possible retaliatory action, and to quell the concerns of the average American who might stumble upon the chemtrail story. It's Standard Operating Procedure for the Illuminati. For example, when Senate committee hearings took place a few years ago (early '90's) on re-examining the Kennedy assassination, just coincidentally an author (and CIA asset) by the name of Gerald Posner, who had recently published a book titled "Case Closed", suddenly appears on the national scene. In his book, Posner claimed unequivocally that Oswald was the lone assassin, that there was no conspiracy involving others, and that the Warren Commission was correct in its original findings. Reviews of his opinions and that of his book received front page coverage throughout mainstream media. Frontline produced a 2 hour "documentary" on Posner's claims which failed to offer opposing views by other Kennedy assassination investigators/authors to refute or take issue with Posner's position.

In 1997, on the 50 year anniversary of the Roswell, New Mexico UFO Crash of 1947, the government offered up a high ranking Air Force officer to make an utter fool of himself on national TV (CNN) by stating that the so called "bodies" of aliens beings-which were recovered from the Roswell crash-were "in fact" really only test dummies that the Air Force had sent aloft to see how they would fare under crash conditions. This orchestrated and staged press conference had already stated that the dummies were deployed in 1954. When one reporter asked this Air Force officer what the connection was between a 1954 test of crash dummies and the 1947 Roswell UFO crash, the stunned officer could only mumble that apparently "time compression" had "taken place". It was a Golden Moment for those of us who rail against the unending stream of lies and unmitigated deception fostered upon the American public by the (corportate/Illuminati controlled) mainstream media and government spokesmen.

[Update January 2002]
The party line from chemtrail debunkers has changed over the past 3 years. Early on, chemtrail disinformation artists wanted the public to think that chemtrails were really just ordinary contrails that were persisting longer than usual due to changing atmospheric conditions and similar tripe. Later, when the persistent contrail theme had worn too thin, debukers needed to create some sort of logical excuse for chemtrails, so they began to peddle the aerial immunization against 'terrorists' biologicals or solar wind "protection" gambit.

Lately, the current unofficial party line seems to be
1. protection of the ozone layer,
2. secret military radar blanketing technology,
3. aerosol 'vaccinations' of some sort and
4. some vague reference to 'protection from aliens' (??? you got me).

Debunkers will usually offer themselves as experts or authorities on chemtrails and will always give you a 80-90% dose of real info layered in with their hidden propaganda message. Another trait I've noticed from debunkers is the the sheer volume of their presentation coupled with a lot of technical jargon, scientific looking graphs and pictures to bolster the image of scientific validity and depth of investigation. But if you read their 'reports' carefully enough, you can spot the party line-loud and clear. Lastly, debunkers will always yell "fraud" the loudest for those articles and authors who hit closest to home where truth is concerned. A good place to start honing your discernment skills is with the highly circulated and often referenced "Chemtrails Report". It is a text book example of the current state of the art in disinformaiton.
Do not assume that you are helpless to do anything

I've photographed chemtrails in my area on many occasions and I've been breathing the fallout from these sprayings right along with everyone else, but I haven't come down with any symptoms or discomfort yet. If you build up (or possess) your immunity to a high enough level, you can resist most any pathogen. There are numerous ways in which people can improve their self defense by learning how to boost immunity.

What to do
Prepare by building up your immune system. A sufficiently strengthened immune system can withstand a far greater biological assault than the designers of these highly virulent "killer microbes" would have the world believe. It's important to remember that ANY lethal biological organism, whether it be a virus, bacteria, fungus, or parasite, has to replicate itself in your body in order to harm you. This includes those weapons grade 'super killer microbes' that Russia, the United States., Israel, Iraq, China, and other countries have developed. The conventional orthodox method to acquire protection against a deadly organism is to administer a vaccine that is specifically tailored with inactivated microbes of the killer bug or fragments of its protein shell. The body produces antibodies against this specific antigen and provides immunity in the event of exposure. Undoubtedly, the designers of these killer bugs and members of the elite who are "inside the loop" have already been vaccinated for their protection. BUT, there are other ways to acquire protection, that the rest of us can utilize.

As stated elsewhere on this site, a sufficiently strengthened immune system can withstand practically any biological assault. I've put together a page called Immunity Boosting which will outline a number of steps you can take to boost your immunity. At the very least, take colloidal silver on a regular basis. Even if you did nothing else to improve your immunity (and you should), colloidal silver will substantially increase your germ fighting capabilities since no bug, even a bioengineered one, can develop a resistance to its germicidal action.

Web sites with in-depth coverage of Chemtrails (posted November 1999)
One of the most articulate, succint and cogent report assembledto date on the chemtrails story comes from Rick Malinowski. Take the time to read his excellent reportage carefully and thoroughly. His story is avialable on the web at: (old url deleted) http://home.earthlink.net/~wolfmind/ (*Rick's new web site as of 2/27/00)

Other informative and interesting web sites include:

3) http://www.islandnet.com/~wilco
4) Cliff Carnicom (http://www.carnicom.com/contrails.htm)

Good site for chemtrail infomation, but overly cautious and worried about upsetting The Powers That Be to call a spade a spade. Informative all the same with many good photos.

This is a new index page devoted to examining the recent activity of Sylphs in transmuting, neutralizing, and destroying the noxious substances being sprayed as chemtrails. The deployment of orgone generators has apparently played a significant role in helping to bring about this remarkable development. If you are new to this subject, start by reading the oldest article at the bottom and work your way up to the most recent articles at the top.

"Sylph" is the name given to air elementals by the ancient Greeks. If the subject of Sylphs is new to you, you can learn more by reading this essay from ZS Livingstone written in 2004 (http://educate-yourself.org/zsl/sylphstransmutechemtrails06jun04.shtml)

[Update, Jan, 31, 2018: This information was posted 19 years ago when I was less aware of the full scope of the treason and betrayal that we suffer at the hands of traitors and fifth columnists who have been inserted or otherwise infiltrated into positions of power and authority within the U.S. government, its military and intelligence agencies. Virtually ALL of the newly "emerging" diseases discussed here were created in government-sponsored laboratories with the intention of debilitating and reducing human populations under a population reduction scheme devised in the early decades of the twentieth century by the Rockefeller family and early founders of the Eugenics movement. This depopulation agenda continues to the present day with attempts to mandate compulsory vaccines - which is the fastest route possible to destroy your natural immune defense systems and cripple your nervous system - and to subject us to inhalant poisons and disease pathogens from atmospheric aerosol spraying - including chemtrails. The imperative need to avoid ANY and all vaccines and to detox your body of Nano size metal particles and other toxins from GMO/Glyphosate-contaminated food sources should be at the top of everyone's personal defense list. ....Ken Adachi]

Note: This information is being presented to inform you. If I was convinced that you couldn't do anything to surmount these biological events, then there wouldn't be any productive reason to discuss them. but the alternative medicine bag is filled with many, many tricks for overcoming ANY biological pathogen, whether bioengineered or natural in origin. Fear paralyzes people. Fear comes from not being informed and not knowing how to protect yourself. Knowledge liberates you and gives you the best opportunity for overcoming adversity. Don't be afraid of the truth; embrace it. It's your best ally.
Introduction

While having gone unnoticed by a large portion of the population, there are numerous new emerging diseases and new virulent strains of older bugs that are beginning to manifest themselves with greater frequency at ever widening locations in North America and around the world.

Names like Flesh Eating Bacteria (Necrotizing fasciitis), MDR Staph A (Multiple Drug Resistant Staphylococcus aureus or VRSA bacteria), Hanta Virus, Ebola (a new outbreak of Ebola has killed 63 as of May 3, 1999), Mad Cow Disease, Pfiesteria ("Red Tide"), Viral Meningitis, Dengue Fever, Hepatitis , Monkey Pox (similar to Smallpox), Australian Flu, Bird Flu, E-coli H-0197, Tuberculosis, Listeria and other "mystery outbreaks" are regularly reported in the media today. A recent outbreak of a pig virus has occurred in Malaysia. It was originally called Japanese Encephalitis, but now that identification has been dropped in favor of a NEW species of viral encephalitis called Nipah, a virus that crossed species from pigs to humans.

In addition, the growing threat of biological attack from "terrorists" groups is becoming increasingly evident. Since December 1997, there have been numerous warnings from the Department of Defense (DOD) and the White House about possible bio-terror attacks on Americans with biological agents like Anthrax or Bubonic Plague.

In 1999, we were treated to a brand 'new' mosquito-borne virus supposedly originating in the New York City area called the West Nile Virus (WNV). Patty Doyle has done much investigative on WNV. Her articles on WNV can be found at Jeff Rense's web site. The WNV has now spread to neighboring states in the Northeast and possibly across the nation, carried, we are suppose to believe, by 'birds' (how convenient).

The purpose behind this crescendo of media warnings is to get the public ready for something BIG. You can be sure that the government knows something that you don't. In politics, nothing happens in a vacuum. ALL events are planned. Nothing is ever really a surprise to the elite in government (including the "surprise" attack on Pearl Harbor). The government is flooding the media with these warnings now because when the excrement hits the fan, they don't want you to be able to say that you weren't warned. One topic that the government ISN'T interested in discussing in the media, however, is Chemtrails.

Chemtrails
In the past, I introduced the story of Chemtrails here, but the story has become so pressing, that I decided to create a seperate link to discuss it. (http://educate-yourself.org/ct/index.shtml)
Bio-Engineered Diseases
To date [1999], there have been approximately 20,000 deaths of former military personnel from Gulf War Disease (GWD). A far larger number (over 200,000) of relatives and friends have come down with similar symptoms to those of the Gulf War victims. The disease appears to be contagious. One pathogen connected with GWD has been isolated by Dr Garth Nicholson as Mycoplasma Fermentens Incognitus. This immune crippling pathogen , along with the AIDS virus and the Ebola virus, were bioengineered right here in the good ole USA in laboratories with names like Litton Bionetics, Merck, Sharp & Dohme, the National Cancer Institute (NCI), and Fort Detrick, Maryland.

Unresponsive to Pharmaceutical Antibiotics
Diseases that were previously controllable with pharmaceutical antibiotics are adapting themselves and becoming resistant to virtually all pharmaceutical drugs. A good example is a dangerous strain of the common staph germ, Staphylococcus aureus. It now has doctors worried because it has developed a resistance to pharmaceuticals' most powerful antibiotic, Vancomycin (CNN May 28, Aug. 22, & Sept. 5, 1997, AP Dec 30, 1997, Feb. 24, 1998, Reuters Feb. 19, 1999). The percentage of Staphylococci infections resistant to penicillin in 1960 was 13; the percentage resistant in 1997 was 99.

While some television shows, such as Dateline, Nova, and 20/20 have examined the issue of emerging diseases, the true extent of the danger is barely perceived by the public. The number of new emerging diseases is rising. The problem goes unnoticed and the majority of people remain unaware, unprotected, and vulnerable.

BioTerrorist Attack in the US
The threat of biological attack is very real. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has recently been giving presentations across the country to police and emergency personnel on emergency procedures to follow in the event of a biological attack.

Alternative Medicine
What if you could interfere with the reproduction mechanism of ANY bacteria, or ANY virus? What if you could disintegrate a pathogen within the body with specialized electrical and magnetic fields or other therapies before it had the chance to even start reproducing itself? If you could do that, you would not succumb to the disease organism. It couldn't multiply, spread, and overwhelm your defense systems. It couldn't go anywhere. It would just get gobbled up by your while blood cells, digested, and eliminated. You would live. You would survive. These technologies are available and usually at low to moderate cost. You can obtain a great deal of information about many of these technologies from little known books and at this and other web sites.

Introduction & Overview

There are a number of alternative healing therapies that work so well and cost so little (compared to conventional treatment), that Organized Medicine, the Food & Drug Administration, and their overlords in the Pharmaceutical Industry would rather the public not know about them. The reason is obvious: Alternative, non-toxic therapies represent a potential loss of billions of dollars to allopathic (drug) medicine and drug companies.

The Big Three have collectively engaged in a medical conspiracy for the better part of 70 years to influence legislative bodies on both the state and federal level to create regulations that promote the use of drug medicine while simultaneously creating restrictive, controlling mechanisms (licencing, government approval, etc) designed to limit and stifle the availability of non-drug, alternative modalities. The conspiracy to limit and eliminate competition from non-drug therapies began with the Flexner Report of 1910.

Abraham Flexner was engaged by John D. Rockefeller to run around the country and 'evaluate' the effectiveness of therapies taught in medical schools and other institutions of the healing arts. Rockefeller wanted to dominate control over petrolem, petrochemicals, and pharmaceuticals (which are derived from 'coal tars' or crude oil). He arranged for his company, Standard Oil of New Jersey to obtain a controlling interest in a huge German drug cartel called I. G. Farben. He pulled in his stronger competitors like Andrew Carnegie and JP Morgan as partners, while making other, less powerful players, stockholders in Standard Oil. Those who would not come into the fold "were crushed" according to a Rockefeller biographer (W. Hoffman, David: Report on a Rockefeller {New York:Lyle Stuart, Inc., 1971}page 24.)

The report Flexner submitted to The Carnegie Foundation was titled "Medical Education in the United States and Canada". Page 22 of the report said: "the privileges of the medical school can no longer be open to casual strollers from the highway. It is necessary to install a doorkeeper who will, by critical scrutiny, ascertain the fitness of the applicant, a necessity suggested, in the first place, but consideration for the candidate, whose time and talents will serve him better in some other vocation, if he be unfit for this, and in the second, by consideration for a public entitled to protection from those whom the very boldness of modern medical strategy equips with instruments that, tremendously effective for good when rightly used, are all the more terrible for harm if ignorantly or incompetently employed".

All too often, politicians are prepared to enact laws that rob citizens of yet another constitutional freedom under the banner of "public protection". Needless to say, congress swallowed the recommendations of this report hook, line, and sinker. It was decided that the American Medical Association (AMA), would be the "doorkeeper". The AMA was now empowered to certify or de-certify any medical school in the country on the grounds of whether that school met the AMA's standards of "approved" medicine.

The AMA came into existence in 1847. It is a private organization of allopathic physicians which serves the interests of its members, especially when it comes to influencing favorable legislation. It functions in every sense of the word as a union, although its members wear white collars instead of blue. Giving the AMA the power over the certification of medical schools is the equivalent of giving the Teamsters Union the exclusive right to decide on the laws of interstate commerce and transportation. Is it any wonder that the total number of medical schools in the United States went from 160 in 1906 (before the Flexner Report) to 85 in 1920 and further down to 69 schools in 1944? A little like putting the fox in charge of the hen house, no?

Not surprisingly, Flexner 'found' that any discipline that didn't use drugs to help cure the patient was tantamount to quackery and charlatanism. Medical schools that offered courses in bioelectric Medicine, Homeopathy or Eastern Medicine, for example, were told to either drop these courses from their curriculum or lose their accreditation and underwriting support. A few schools resisted for a time, but eventually most schools cooperated (or were closed down). A similar scenario was played out in Canada. It was attempted in England against Homeopathy, but it failed due to the personal intervention of the Royal Family who had received much relief and healing at the hands of Homeopathic healers in the 19th century. By the way, the AMA was found guilty of conspiracy against chiropractors in 1987 by a federal judge and fined a couple of million dollars. Here in America, a relentless campaign of misinformation, fraud, deception, and suppression of alternative therapies and healers has been in place for the better part of this century in order to keep highly effective alternative therapies from reaching any significant plateau of public awareness. Control is exerted through "news items" and propaganda from pro-establishment organizations like The American Medical Association, The American Cancer Society, The Diabetes Foundation, etc.; local medical boards; and government agencies like the FDA, The National Institute of Health (NIH), and The National Cancer Institute (NCI), The National Academy of Science, etc. with the full cooperation of main-stream media of course .

Over the past decades, hundreds of caring, concerned, and conscientious alternative healers have been jailed and abused like common criminals for the "crime" of curing people of life-threatening diseases in an "unapproved" manner by heavy-handed government agents who swoop down on clinics with drawn guns, flax jackets, and Gestapo manners. All the while, these same agents and agencies posture themselves before TV cameras and the public under the ludicrous pretense of being servants of the people and protectors of the common good.

The medico-drug cartel was summed up by J.W Hodge, M.D., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., in these words: 'The medical monopoly or medical trust, euphemistically called the American Medical Association, is not merely the meanest monopoly ever organized, but the most arrogant, dangerous and despotic organization which ever managed a free people in this or any other age. Any and all methods of healing the sick by means of safe, simple and natural remedies are sure to be assailed and denounced by the arrogant leaders of the AMA doctors' trust as fakes, frauds and humbugs Every practioner of the healing art who does not ally himself with the medical trust is denounced as a 'dangerous quack' and impostor by the predatory trust doctors. Every sanitarian who attempts to restore the sick to a state of health by natural means without resort to the knife or poisonous drugs, disease imparting serums, deadly toxins or vaccines, is at once pounced upon by these medical tyrants and fanatics, bitterly denounced, vilified and persecuted to the fullest extent.'

(see The Drug Story for more revelations about the AMA, the House of Rockefeller and the pharmaceutical industry)

At long last, however, the public's consciousness seems to have finally reached a critical mass and is now beginning to seriously question the efficacy and appropriateness of using orthodox therapies and allopathic medicine in general. Thank God. It's been too long overdue.

Understanding the Nature of Ill Health and Disease

The entire approach and foundation of Orthodox Medicine is based on Luis Pasteur's Germ Theory, a flawed concept. A disease condition is viewed by the orthodoxy as an isolated event, confined to the area in which it manifests itself (E.g. an ear infection, eye infection, gum infection, lung cancer, skin cancer, etc.). Under this theory, for unknown reasons, microbes or tumors indiscriminately grow in the patient and must be cut (surgery), burned (radiation), or poisoned (drugs) out of the body. In the orthodox model, the solution is sought through mechanical and chemical means. Seeking to understand WHY the infection or disease condition appeared in the first place, is not seriously explored. The quick fix with a prescription for drugs to smother the symptoms is the typical orthodox 'answer'.

A contemporary of Pasteur, Antoine Bechamp, had a different opinion as to why disease conditions 'took hold'. Bechamp felt that the ENVIRONMENT, or the ECOLOGY of the blood played the critical role in deciding whether disease conditions would manifest or not.

Alternative medicine explores the stressors (environmental, biological, chemical, psychological, and emotional) in a patient's life that cause a weakening of a particular energy field; which in turn allows the manifestation of a disease condition in a weakened area. In order to maintain a state of health, all energy systems within the body need to exist in a state of balance or equilibrium. Imbalance leads to conditions of discomfort (dis-ease) which eventually spirals into ill health if not corrected. The Chinese and Indians (Ayurvedic medicine) had worked all of this out thousands of years ago.

Orthodox or Allopathic Medicine utilizes poisonous substances (drugs) in non-lethal dosages in order to suppress symptoms in an affected area. This approach neither addresses the cause of the disease condition, nor is it responsible for healing the patient. Rather, the use of drugs often will temporarily mask the outer manifestations of the malady, while at the same time, drive the disease deeper into the body...only to reappear at a later date, as a more serious, and chronic health threat. One of the many flaws of the orthodox approach is that it focuses on the disease condition itself, rather than the patient. The term wholistic (or holistic) originally sprang up to distinguish those physicians whose diagnostic gestalt considers all of the physical, emotional, and spiritual energies interacting with the patient.

Do not assume that the only difference between allopathic and alternative medicine, however, is an honest difference of opinion in the philosophies and views on the origin of disease states. Hardly!. There is, in truth, a concerted, organized agenda

-concocted, planned, and contrived by the international pharmaceutical companies and organized medicine to suppress any and every alternative, non-drug therapy that WORKS. Why?

Because they want people to keep on coming back for more treatments and more drugs.

A cured patient is a lost source of income. A sick patient who is marginally "improved" is a manageable patient.

Managing patients means routine office visits and renewing of drug prescriptions. Therefore, a manageable patient is a continuing source of income; a cash cow if you will. Multiply that by a few hundred million people and you get an idea why this deceit is being put upon you. The profits from the so called "health-care" industry are staggering!

The thrust of the orthodox pharmaceutical agenda is to provide temporary relief, while never addressing the cause of the disease condition. This agenda insures regular visits to the doctor's office and requires the patient to routinely return to the pharmacy to refill his prescriptions. This is what the game is all about folks, plain and simple. Deny it or Deal with it,...Stick with it or Get Out of it! ... your choice.

Natural Healing

The patient's immune system and the immune system alone is responsible for healing and recovery from ill health. The use of drugs and vaccines represents an assault on the immune system. In some cases, the use of a particular drug might be a wise choice to speed healing and recovery for the patient, but the use of natural, orthomolecular therapies and substances (substances normally found in Nature) that can more effectively address the cause of the disease should be considered first because natural substances work in harmony with Nature. They aid and stimulate the body to truly cure itself, without the terrible millstone of drug side-effects.

The human body is predisposed to heal itself and to exist as a healthy, thriving organism. We inhibit that process by ingesting unhealthy foods, fouling our inner environment with toxins, and relying upon poisonous substances to treat disease conditions.

Unlike 'miracle drugs' and other 'drug breakthroughs', you will never see or hear anything from mainstream media about most of the therapies described here. The Big Three see to that, but you can still glean this information from the alternative health press, books, web sites, and at health expos. Some of these alternative therapies require high-tech equipment and specialized knowledge, but many, many others can be done at home without third party intervention or supervision. It's amazing, but true, that many of the most effective healing therapies (even for grave, life-threatening disease conditions) are simple things that you can do for yourself at home. You simply have to educate yourself and take responsibility for your own health.

The following is a brief overview of some alternative therapies that have demonstrated themselves to be effective and readily obtainable, usually at a low to modest cost. This list is far from complete. As time permits, the description and scope of these and other therapies will be added to, and expanded upon.

Oxydative Therapies

MMS1, MMS2, & CDS Water

Mix equal parts (drops) of 28% Sodium Chlorite solution and 50% Citric Acid solution and you get "activated" MMS (Miracle Mineral Solution, a name coined by Jim Humble), an incredibly effective an dpowerful germicidal solution and curative therapy. A very simple, but powerful, oxiding molecule called Chlorine Dioxide gas, is releaased when MMS is activated. The chlorine atom is able to pull out FIVE electrons from the outer orbit of the membranes of ALL pathogenic organisms. This causes the immediate death of the organism, but has NO adverse affect on normal bodily tissue. . .

Oxygen therapies encompass more than the application of regular oxygen (O2), although regular oxygen can speed and assist healing; especially when used in higher-than-normal concentrations and under pressure, such as used in Hyperbaric Oxygen Chambers. Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy (HBOT) has been traditionally used for rapid detoxification in acute situations, but it also has shown to be extremely efficacious for new stroke victims. It has been found that almost all of the usual conditions (paralysis, slurred/ no speech, etc.) associated with a stroke can be minimized or eliminated entirely by subjecting the patient to a hyperbaric oxygen treatment within the first 36 hours of a stroke. The quicker the patient can be treated from the onset of the stroke, the better the results. Even cases started a few days or even weeks after a stoke have shown remarkable results. HBOT has also proven helpful in cases involving other forms of brain damage as well.

Singlet Oxygen Therapies

Oxygen atoms can be configured into certain quasi-stable arrangements that will allow a single oxygen atom to be released. This atom is called a singlet oxygen (O1) . For therapeutic purposes, single atoms of oxygen can be released from hydrogen peroxide (H2O2) which breaks down to water (H2O) and a singlet oxygen (O1), and also from ozone (O3), which reduces to oxygen (O2) and a singlet oxygen . When a singlet oxygen atom is released within the body, it is highly reactive and will oxidize (reduce or break down) the molecular structure of undesirable and harmful organisms (bacteria, foreign proteins, etc.) and diseased tissue (E.g. cancer cells). This high-energy form of oxygen (O1) possesses a greatly enhanced healing capacity than that exhibited by regular oxygen (O2).

Hydrogen Peroxide

A bottle of 3½ % Hydrogen Peroxide is available in any pharmacy for under a dollar and can be used daily to keep the mouth and gums germ-free (always use full strength and try to retain in the mouth as long as possible). It should also be conscientiously applied to disinfect any type of oral infection, cut, sore, or wound that one may encounter. For external use, the drug store variety of hydrogen peroxide is OK, but it does have some low levels of contaminants in it. For internal use, it's wiser to use Food-grade hydrogen peroxide. You can make your own 3½ % hydrogen peroxide by diluting 35% food-grade hydrogen peroxide by a ratio of 10:1 with distilled water. However, that should not stop you from using pharmacy-grade hydrogen peroxide externally- if you are in normal health. People trying to recover from serious diseases such as AIDS or cancer need to be more concerned about ingesting contaminants. 35% Food-Grade Hydrogen Peroxide is available at many farm supply outlets and by mail order. Since it's more concentrated, 35% hydrogen peroxide can produce spectacular results when intelligently applied. Hydrogen peroxide can also be applied either internally as injections (directly into a cancerous tumor for example) or intravenously into the blood stream. If properly diluted, hydrogen peroxide can also be ingested.

Medical Cartel Sponsored 'Studies'
Of course, you have to know what you're doing. At higher concentrations, H2O2 is powerful and can burn tissue, but look to the alternative health press for information from practitioners who are actually using this therapy. Don't expect on an honest accessment from the allopathic crowd. Like most cheap, unpatentable natural solutions, the pharmaceutical/organized medicine cartel will try to frieghten you off from using these therapies with scares stories of exaggerated dangers, ommision of relevant data, and insertion of misleading statements.

For example, they will point to rat studies that show increassed stomach cancers from ingesting H2O2. By promoting this 'study', the cartel wants you to draw the conclusion that you will get stomach cancer from injesting hydrogen perozide without actually saying it. No additional details such as the concentration of the peroxide administered, frequency of dosage, quantity given vis a vis body weight etc., are provided about the 'study' in these press reports-only the bottom line conclusion:.

Of course, most knowledgeable researchers know that rat studies don't equate to people studies. Rat studies, in fact, have an extremely limited range of applicability for purposes of human extrapolation. In addition, most studies are funded by pharmaceuticals or government agencies and they have an agenda that has nothing to do with sincere scientific inquiry. Ralph Moss and Linus Pauling are two individuals who come to mind who looked at different cartel sponsored 'studies' and clearly demonstrated that the Big Boys can and will skew a 'study' in any direction they wish it to go. Scientific honesty among cartel sponsored investigative groups is a myth. All medical schools, teaching universities, and government health organizations such as the National Institute of Health (NIH), National Cancer Institute, National Academy of Science, etc., etc. are all under the cartel's propaganda umbrella.

Ozone

Ozone (O3) is composed of three atoms of oxygen lightly bound together. One of those atoms can easily break away and form regular oxygen (O2) and a singlet oxygen atom (O1). Through oxidation, the singlet oxygen atom is capable of producing amazing healing results. Ozone can be produced with a hot or "cold" spark, with ultraviolet light, or with a method invented by Nikola Tesla called cold plasma ozone production. The cold plasma method produces much larger quantities of ozone and is the preferred means of production for therapeutic purposes. Larger, cold plasma ozone machines can only be legally purchased outside of the United States, but there are underground 'suitcase' size units being manufactured clandestinely in the U.S.. Smaller cold plasma ozone generators, however, are legally available in the U.S.as water pruifiers (send e-mail <Ken Adachi, Editor> for more info).

All cold plasma ozone generators can easily produce high quality Ozonated Water, which can be ingested as often as desired. The effects of drinking ozonated water on a regular basis can be very healthful. People with serious disease conditions will notice more-pronounced effects in a shorter space of time than those who are in good health, but the benefits of ozonated water are realized by all who use it, whether you have a serious health concern or not. The ozone from the ozonated water passes into the bloodstream via the stomach/small intestines and provides the benefits of ozone without the need for expensive equipment. Some people notice a very slight sensation of light headedness the first time they drink ozone water. It's temporary and usually only happens the first time- if at all. The reaction is due to slightly more oxygen reaching the brain than normal. Ingested daily, ozone water will progressively send ozone into deeper tissues of the body, oxidizing non organic drug residues and hidden, dormant pathogens. You might be surprised to learn that the virus that gave you chicken pox as a child or herpes as a young adult is still hidden deep within the body such as in the nerve ganglion at the base of the spine. Your immune system developed antibodies which normally hold these residual bugs in check, but that doesn't mean that the bugs are gone, as any person who suffers recurrent bouts of herpes will attest. But if you hit them long enough and hard enough with ozone (or certain other alternative therapies), they will be gone-for good.

Another useful product that can be applied topically is called Ozonated Olive Oil. It is made by bubbling ozone through olive oil for a considerable period of time (weeks) until the olive oil eventually becomes saturated with the ozone molecules and becomes much thicker. Afterwards, the product can be applied as a balm to infected areas and will often greatly promote and/or speed healing.

Methods of Ozone Application
Medically, ozone can be applied in different ways. One of the oldest methods, used in Germany for over 60 years, is called Autohemotherapy. This technique involves removeing about a pint of blood, ozonating it, and return it intravenously to the patient. It works, but it's rather limited in the amount of ozone applied.

Another method has the patient hooked up to a dialysis type machine with blood coming out one arm, going through the machine for ozonation, and returned via tubes hooked up to the other arm. You get a lot more ozone into the body with this technique, but the pumping mechnaisms used to push the blood around can damage the membranes of the red blood cells somewhat.

A third technique is called Ozone Injection. Like its name implies, the ozone is carefully and slowly injected into the patient. Ozone, remember, is composed of oxygen atoms. Oxygen dissolves into the blood; it does not form bubbles in the bloodstream like air, which is composed of oxygen and 80% nitrogen. Many ozone specialist prefer this later method, but each of these ozone techniques have their advocates.

Alkalizing pH Therapy

Vernon Johnston was given the typical death sentence for a rapidly advancing prostate cancer that had begun to metastacize to his bones (which the orthodox cancer doctors told him was in stage IV). He ordered some Cesium alkalating mixture over the internet designed to increase pH, but it didn't arrive in time, so logic told him that Baking Soda should also work for alkalizing his pH. He decided to use black strap molasses as a "carrier" to get it pulled into the cancer cells. He's still alive and cancer free five years later after his 2008 "Dance with Cancer."

Bioelectro Medicine

There are a number of devices that use specialized electric fields to alter the function or condition of targeted tissue, organisms, or cells within the body. These electric fields can be programmed to promote the healing of healthy tissue or inhibit the growth of undesired organisms. Where there are electric fields , there are also magnetic fields, usually rotated at 90 degress to each other. The interplay of the electric and magnetic fields play a role in this therapy, but the frequency, the shape of the wave, the duration and polarity of the pulse, etc., all play into the mix and can make the difference between success or failure depending on the care and attention given to these parameters.

This is not necessarily a new technology. At the turn of the 19th century, Nikola Tesla patented many Electro-inventions that demonstrated incredible health-promoting attributes; some of them based on the use of his high frequency, high voltage DC pulse generator circuits which produced a new ether-derived form of energy called Radiant Energy. Tesla had even patented a highly efficient cold plasma ozone generator by 1893.

Dr. Royal Rife
In the late 20's and early 1930's, Dr. Royal Raymond Rife from San Diego, California, developed a high powered microscope which he used in conjunction with a frequency generator. Using special UV light, Rife's mircroscope was capable of 60,000x magnification! This degree of magnification allowed him to observe LIVE virus and bacteria organisms while he applied the MOR (Mortal Oscillatory Resonance) frequency from his frequency generator via plasma tube radiation of the energy. He was able to destroy all manner of disease organisms (including cancer related organisms) by merely 'tuning' the generator to the correct resonant frequency of these organisms and applying the oscillating electric fields via the plasma driven, "Beam Ray Tube". Everything in the universe, living or dead, and its own resonant frequency. If you apply this exact resonant frequency to the object or organism, it will begin vibrating until it literally shatters itself. You've all seen the wine glass and the opera singer demonstration. Same deal for microbes.

60,000x magnifications is an unheard of degree of magnification in a light microscope, even by today's technical standards. Today's electron microscope can deliver high magnification, but it can only view DEAD organisms. The ability to view micro organims in a LIVING state is of great importance to diagnostic and therapeutic goals. This is an extremely important point to understand.

Rife's microscope played no role in the actual destruction of the pathogenic organisms, but it allowed him to view the effects of the electric fields from the Beam Ray Tube upon the organism itself. As Rife adjusted and tuned his frequency generator to the correct frequency, he was able to observe the disintegration of the bacteria, parasite, or virii under the influence of the resonant electro-magnetic fields exerted by the Beam Ray Tube.

At first, Rife's enormous accomplishments were ballyhooed in the press. He was feted and hosted by the local medical elites of the day who were hoping to climb onto the Glory Bandwagon with him and get their mug published in the newspaper as a supporter and cohort of the "man who could finally end cancer". But the Big Boys finally caught up with him. I'm referring to the string pullers in organized medicine and the pharmaceutical industry. Needless to say, once word of Rife's success began to spread too wide, he was quickly 'neutralized' by organized medicine and demoralized into obscurity (unending court litigation, charges of quakery, intimidation of financial supporters, the burning down of laboratories, etc...the "usual' routine). His principle persecutor was the head of the American Medical Association and chief editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. His name was Dr. Morris Fishbein and he never treated a patient in his life. He was motivated more by an unmitigated lust for greed and power, and less by a desire to save lives. Failing to convince Rife to sell him the exclusive rights to his technique and therapy, Fishbein set out to crush Rife with a vengence. The outrageous injustices against Rife by Fishbein and the medical establishment are explained in great depth in a book by Barry Lynes called The Cancer Cure That Worked.

Some of the best books about Rife were written by Barry Lynes (E.g. The Cancer Cure That Worked). Dr James Bare of Albuquerque, New Mexico has also published a manual and video on how to build your own Rife device (http://www.rt66.com/~rifetech/). See this special page devoted to Royal Rife links that will bring you to many excellent web sites talking about Rife and his work (http://educate-yourself.org/cancer/rifelinks.shtml).

Geroges Lakhovsky

Another brilliant observer and thinker was the Russian-born engineer, Georges Lakhovsky. Lakhovsky theorized that the genetic filaments stands within the nucleus of a living cell acted as a coil and exhibited all the properties properties required of an oscillator; namely: inductance, capacitance, and resistance. Lakhovsky postulated that all living cells, including disease organisms, could act as both an emitter and receiver of very high frequency oscillations.

According to his theory, a state of health or disease was dependent on whether the oscillations from healthy cells were maintained (a state of equilibrium) or were overtaken by the oscillations of disease-causing cells (disequilibrium). He found that he could boost the oscillatory level of weakened cells and overcome disease by attaching a simple coil-shaped 'antennae' to the affected area and leaving it in place. Lakhovsky referred to these antennae as oscillating circuits and they were worn by people as collars, belts, or bracelets. He claimed that his 'antennae' captured and focused sympathetic waves from the cosmos (cosmic waves) which resonated with harmonics of the fundamental frequency at which the weakened cell oscillated.

Whenever additional oscillating energy (from cosmic waves), of the same frequency or harmonics of that frequency, are introduced into an oscillating circuit (the nucleus of the cell), the oscillations within that cell will be strengthened through a phenomena of physics called resonance. According to Lakhovsky, the now-strengthened oscillations emanating from the formerly weakened human cell could now overtake the oscillations of the disease-causing organisms and cause them to diminish in strength and subsequently die off.

Lakhovsky conducted an experiment with plants in 1924 to establish the validity of his theory. He inoculated ten potted geranium plants with a plant disease that causes cancerous tumors. Coiled around the stem of one of the geraniums, he affixed an open ended coil of thick copper wire about 30 cm in diameter. It was held in place by an ebonite stake stuck into the pot. While the other nine inoculated geraniums quickly succumbed to the cancerous disease, the one geranium with the attached coil (the 'antennae) sloughed off the cancerous growth and thrived into a robust and healthy plant. Lakhovsky had similar success when these antennae coils (the 'oscillating circuits ' mentioned above) were used with people and animals. He later expanded his research with the development of the Multi-Wave Oscillator (explained below).

Lakhovsky's Multi-Wave Oscillator (MWO)

Geroges Lakhovsky published an extremely important book into French, German, Italian, and Spanish in the 1920's called The Secret of Life. Unfortunately, it wasn't available in English until September, 1939-at the very outbreak of World War II. Occupied with the emerging drama of World War II, the book went unnoticed and unreviewed. Thanks to Dr Bob Beck, however, many researchers are today re-discovering Lakhovsky's astounding Multi-Wave Oscillator.

This instrument manufactures a broad range of high frequency pulsed signals that radiate energy into patient via two resonators: one resonator acting as a transmitter and the other as a receiver. The patient sits on a wooden stool in between the two resonators and is exposed to these energies for about 15 minutes. These energies increase the resonance of healthy cells and create disequilibrium in disease organisms. His clinical results created a lot of excitement in Europe where his reputaion quickly spread. You can read more about the MWO on the Georges Lakovsky page. Interested readers can obtain a spiral-bound reprint of Lakhovsky's 1939 English translation of The Secret of Life and The Waves That Heal by Mark Clement by sending me an email.

Bob Beck Rescues Lakhovsky's MWO from Obscurity

In the early 60's, Dr Bob Beck found an original Lakhovsky Multi-Wave Oscillator in the basement of a well known southern California hospital. He took it apart and described exactly how it was built in a series of articles published by Borderlands in 1963. After Beck's articles were published, a number of builders began to assemble MWO's and the word started to spread.

Two MWO builders who lived on the west coast, using the information contained in Beck articles, began making and selling a lot of Multi Wave Oscillators. Apparently they worked fairly well because the FDA got word of the MWO's growing popularity and told Beck to come to Washington. Beck and the two builders were told to stop promoting the MWO and to stop building them. They were told in no uncertain terms to cease and desist immediately ...or else (here in the Land of the Free and Home of the Brave).

Beck and one of the MWO builders, Ed Skillings, complied and stopped builing them and talkiing about them, but the second builder, Ralph Bergstresser, was determined to keep going, so he actually formed a church dedicated to the worship of the MWO. Yes, you read that correctly. And, for a couple of years at least, his 'parishioners' were able to come to church, sit around the MWO-perched high atop an altar, with resonator antennas glowing - and received the 'blessed waves' from the Sacred Oscillator. It helped a lot of church goers, until the 'pastor' was finally thrown into the slammer by the Feds and had his modern version of the Ark of the Covenant hauled away. He got out after a couple of years, but still went on building MWO's anyway (God Bless Ralph), distributing them through underground sources. Many present day owners of properly working MWO's are either using units built by or copies of the "pastor's" work (now why isn't there an Oscar category reserved for a guy like that?).

[Spiral-bound re-prints of the Borderlands compilation titled The MWO Handbook, which includes articles and book excerpts from both Georges Lakhovsky and his son Sergie, along with the most comprehensive assembly of Multi-Wave Oscillator constructions plans from Bob Beck and other MWO builders, is available. Blood-Electrification

In recent years, different electro-medicine units have been promoted at health expos and through magazine articles, interviews, books, etc.. One of the more interesting devices is the blood electrifier of Dr Bob Beck. I've seen laboratory reports and Institutional Review Board studies that seem to clearly support claims made by Dr Bob Beck that his blood electrification device has caused 'complete spontaneous remission' in literally thousands of AIDS patients. Dr Beck discovered the possibilities offered by blood electrification after reading a short article in 1991 in a journal called Science News.

The Discovery

In the Fall of 1990, two researchers, Drs William Lyman and Steven Kaali, working at Albert Einstein Medical College in New York City made an important discovery. They found that they could inactivate the HIV virus by applying a low voltage direct current electrical potential with an extremely small current flow to AIDS infected blood in a test tube. Initially, they discovered this in the lab by inserting two platinum electrodes into a glass tube filled with HIV-1 (type 1) infected blood. They applied a direct current to the electrodes and found that a current flow in the range of 50-100 microamperes (uA) produced the most effective results. Practically all of the HIV viral particles were adversely affected while normal blood cells remained unharmed. The viral particles were not directly destroyed by the electric current, but rather the outer protein coating of the virus was affected in such a way as to prevent the virus from producing reverse transcriptase, a necessary enzyme needed by the virus to invade human cells. Reverse transcriptase allows the virus to enter a human T cell line (called CEM-SS) and commandeer the DNA reproduction machinery. After using the host cell to reproduce itself into thousands of new virii, the swollen host cell (now called syncytia or giant cell) will burst and spew the contents into the bloodstream or lymph system. This is how the virus spreads, but lacking reverse transcriptase, the HIV virus can't invade the host cell and it becomes vulnerable to destruction by the body's immune system. (The details of this experiment can be read from Kaali's patent application.)

Getting the Word Out?

A brief announcement of this discovery appeared in The Houston Post (Mar 20, 1991), then in Science News (Mar. 30, 1991 pg. 207) and later in Longevity magazine: (Dec.1992 pg. 14). Following their work in the Fall of 1990, Kaali and Lyman presented their findings at the First International Symposium on Combination Therapies (an AIDS conference) in Washington DC on March 14th, 1991. Kaali outlined two methods for treating an AIDS patient with this new therapy: One method involved removing a small amount of blood, electrifying it and then returning it to the patient's body. The second method involved sewing a miniature electrifying power supply along with two tiny electrodes directly into the lumen of an artery. For long term treatment, the mini electrifying unit needed to be removed and relocated to a new artery site after 30-45 days since scar tissue and calcification forming around the implant unit would lead to artery blockage. Kaali (along with co-inventor Peter Schwolsky) filed for a patent on this implantable electrifying device on Nov 16, 1990 and nine months later was granted patent #5,139,684 on August 18, 1992. It's interesting to note two things here:

1. In order to obtain a patent from the United States Patent Office, Kaali and Schwolsky had to prove that the device works as claimed. Lacking solid proof, patents are simply not granted.
2. Very often it takes years to obtain a patent, yet this patent was granted in only nine months; a further indication to me of the strength of their proven claims

It's also interesting to note that other than the 3 publications mentioned above and the March '91 AIDS conference, nothing again appeared in print, radio, or TV about this important discovery as a potential treatment and cure for AIDS from Kaali and company. Most knowledgeable observers feel that Kaali and Lyman's discovery was intentionally suppressed following the March '91 AIDS conference presentation. If AIDS research was on the level and not the sham that it actually is, this should have made front page news around the world. By the way, in July (2000), a woman with Mycoplsma Incognitus (Gulf War Illness) E mailed me and told me (after reading this story) that she had called Albert Einstein College and spoke directly with Dr William Lyman, one of the co-discoverers of blood electrification. She wanted to know how effective he thought blood electrifiation would work against mycoplasma. Lyman told her that he had no idea what she was talking about. He denied knowing anything about blood electrifiction and couldn't give her any information about it at all. Such is the vice grip power of the medical cartel.

Enter Dr Bob Beck

A man named Professor Walter Schnitder drew Dr Robert C. Beck's attention to the above mentioned item in Science News. Beck looked up the patent and decided to try and duplicate the therapy, but he wanted to do it non-invasively; that is by applying the electric current from outside the body. Now if you apply a direct current (DC) potential to the skin, you're going to get an electrolysis effect and that can cause problems, so Beck designed a circuit that varied the voltage with an alternating current (AC) at a very low frequency and avoided the electrolysis problem. The waveform that Beck chose is not the typical sine wave seen in AC household outlets, but rather is a bi-phasic square wave. Square waves generate a large number of harmonics. Harmonics are frequency multibles of the original frequency. For example, a 4 Hertz (hz) square wave can produce harmonics (with the right equipment) of 8 hz, 16 hz, 32 hz, etc. right up into the radio frequency range. Beck finally settled on 3.92 hz as the ideal base frequency and assembled a schematic of the simple square wave oscillator , including a complete parts list. He used short, one inch lengths of stainless steel welding rods with attached wires for electrodes and started to experiment on himself.

Gradually, he began feeling stronger, had more energy and started losing his excessive weight (he was over 300 lbs at the time). After a 7 or 8months, his weight was down to 150 lbs and he felt better than ever. He went on the lecture circuit, talked for free, and gave the schematic and related construction/protocol information away without charge. AIDS patients, particularly, experienced dramatic reversals of their deteriorating conditons using the blood electrifier, but the unit seemed to help many other conditions as well, whether autoimmune, viral, or bacterial in origin.

Pulsed, Electro-Magnetic Therapy (PEMT)

Pulsed- low, mid, and high frequency AC signals, when applied to the body, can produce therapeutic electric/ magnetic fields. Properly configured, they can also produce scalar waves. The special attributes of scalar waves were first described mathematically by James Clerk Maxwell in 1873, and later by Nikola Tesla. A certain type of pulsed electro-magnetic field, with their attendant scalar waves, seems to stimulate re-growth and regeneration in injured tissue. Covalent waves (conventional sine waves) do not have the same effect. Dr Robert O. Becker, M.D., discusses this phenomena in two of his recent books that deal with electro-medicine: The Body Electric (1985) and Cross Currents (1990).

Nutritional Therapies

Introduction

"You are what you eat! ". Did your mother ever tell you that? Well, mine did, but I didn't appreciate the wisdom of those words until I approached middle age. Today, I realize that the biggest impediment to enjoying a truly robust state of health is the Standard American Diet (aptly abbreviated, SAD). While we could spend a lot of time on details, a short version of the SAD diet can be summarized as follows: Refined and processed foods can ruin your health and lower your immunity, setting you up for disease conditions.

In order to obtain a higher level of immunity and improved health, it's necessary to stop eating processed, refined foods and start eating whole, unprocessed raw-as-possible vegetables, beans, grains, nuts, sea plants (seaweed), a small amount of fish life if you want animal protein, and lots of pure, clean water.

Change Gradually

If you try to change everything about your diet all at once, you won't stick with it. Go slow. Change one item at a time and get accustomed to the healthier alternative before tackling another.

Start with soft drinks (or soda). All soft drinks are simply ruinous to your health. Coke, 7-Up, Pepsi, Sprite, Dr Pepper, etc. It's ALL GARBAGE and it's RUINING YOUR HEALTH. Read the ingredients on the side of a can of soda. It will usually list 17-24 grams of sugar. That's the equivalent of 6-10 teaspoons of sugar with each and every 12 oz can that you're guzzling down. When you ingest refined sugar, you lower your body's immunity for FOUR HOURS. If you're drinking soft drinks here and there throughout the day, then you're keeping your immunity suppressed all day long. People with suppressed immunity seem to easily pick up every bug that's going around. Have you ever noticed that little connection in people (especially teenagers) who drink sodas all day long?

Another problem with soft drinks is the tremendous amount of PHOSPHOROUS that's contained in them. Large amounts of phosphorous are bad news for the body because they combine with other minerals (like Calcium) and tie them up for eventual excretion. Now calcium is a mineral that your body DOES NEED in large amounts in your bloodstream for daily use. If your soft drink is yanking the calcium out of your blood stream, where does the body get the calcium it needs for everyday jobs? Why, it gets it from your teeth and bones!

Women who are worried about osteoporosis would be way ahead of the game by avoiding soft drinks (and excess animal protein), instead of going broke buying calcium supplements at the health food store (which are mostly exiting out the other end anyway).

Replace the soft drinks with WATER. It usually takes a couple of days to break a sugar addiction (oh, you never thought of YOU as being addicted to anything? Well, answer me this: Do you have a CRAVING for soft drinks when you don't have them? If you do, then you are definitely addicted). Satisfy your desire for sugar by eating sweet fruit (like banannas) during the adjustment period. Eventually you will come to love drinking water, especially ozonated water. . The more you drink, the better you'll feel. Try it.

The Budwig Diet

Germany's 90 year old Dr Joanna Budwig, nominated 6 times for the Nobel Prize, has made the most remarkable discovery of them all! After 30 years of research, she has found that 2 simple food items: 1. Flax Seed Oil (cold-pressed, unprocessed) and 2. Low Fat Cottage Cheese will CURE or prevent many forms of cancers and a long list of other degenerative disease including cardiovascular diseases and skin diseases! Unprocessed flax seed oil provides 2 essential fatty acids seriously deficient in the standard American diet: Linolenic and Linoleic acids. These two unsaturated fatty acids have 3 high-energy double bonds (pi-electrons) in their outer electron shells. These fatty acids affect the membranes of animal cells and permit a thousand-fold increase in oxygen transport and assimilation! By substantially increasing the oxidation potential within the cell, Dr Budwig proved what her German predecessor, Dr Otto Warburg, had discovered 30 years earlier: cancer cells cannot survive in an oxygen-rich environment. With sulfur-rich protein and calcium provided by the cottage cheese, all the elements are in place for membrane repair and increased energy transfer. A 2001 news item posted on the Internet from Duke University caught my attention (and ire) claiming to be hot on the trail of a 'new' discovery concerning the anticancer benefits of flax seed oil. I contacted the editor and set him straight on a few historical facts. To recover from cancer, the Budwig Diet needs to be taken in conjunction with a strict, health-promoting diet free of processed, devitalized foods (see the Gerson Therapy below).

Urine Therapy

In 1945, John W. Armstrong published a book called The Water of Life, A Treatise on Urine Therapy. The book explored the difficult-to-accept idea that drinking one's own urine will promote healing and restore health to those afflicted with grave illnesses. Martha Christy also published a book on this topic titled Your Own Perfect Medicine in the late 1980's. I highly recommend reading both of them. Christy's approach is more technical and includes injections of prepared urine tissue and taking urine drops under the tongue.

Armstong's approach is simpler: To resolve life-threatening disease conditions, drink every drop of your own urine and neither eat nor drink anything else until you are completely well!! In his book, Armstong provides the history of many, many patients with a variety of serious conditions (cancers, massive infections, heart conditions, etc.) who were frequently near The End. In some cases, the patient was so gravely disabled, that he couldn't produce any urine of his own. In those cases, Armstong would 'jump start' the patient with his own urine. Afterwards, the patient was able to produce a small amount of his own. With each subsequent ingestion of urine, the patient would gain in both strength and relief from pain. For the most serious cases, patients drank nothing but their own urine for periods of 90, 120, 150 days! Some, even longer. Armstrong points out that rubbing the body with old urine (for a substantial period of time, E.g.1-2 hours) is a necessary adjunct treatment to ingestion in very serious cases. In less severe cases, rubbing with old urine will clear up most skin conditions and produce a smooth, blemish-free skin if applied regularly (ladies, take note). Why this works is explained at length in the books, but briefly the

1. replenishment of vital tissues lost to the ill patient through the urine and the

2. reingestion, refinement, and re-filtering of antibodies and other immune enhancing substances allows the body to exclusively concentrate on destroying, unclogging, and removing the offending organisms and diseased tissue, without the burdens of routine work such as digestion and normal detoxification

Of course, we normally think of both urine and stool elimination as waste, but urine, unlike feces, is totally sterile. Mind you, it's the filtrate of your own blood. Many people in normal health drink urine daily in order to keep their health and maintain physical beauty. Get the books and read them. In the event of survival difficulties, this simple technique can save your life.

Beyond the Urine Therapy Story, I knew I had discovered a trusted and kindred spirit when Armstong began the book's Introduction with the following words: "Owing to the increasing part played by vested interests in many branches of human endeavor, not least in the very lucrative providing of remedies for disease, intelligent members of the public, are growing more and more distrustful of orthodox medical methods."

He continued the book's Introduction by asking why, after more than 50 years (as of 1945), can orthodox cancer researchers only offer the knife, radium, or X-rays to address this malignancy after so much time, money, and effort has been expended to discover its cause and cure? The author further inquires, why, after so many letters from doctors testifying to the highly unsatisfactory results of radium treatment (repeatedly published in the British Medical Journal), did the Cancer Ring (the Cancer Establishment or Cancer Industry as we would refer to it today) continue to tout radium as the "best" therapy? Finally, why, did the Cancer Research Ring, who "still asks the public to donate large sums of money towards the discovery of a cure", continuously discount and belittle effective treatments for cancer, when those therapies were proposed by practitioners of non-orthodox medicine?

58 years later, nothing much has changed when it comes to the politics of Big Medicine.

Today, we know the answers to John Armstrong's questions. Only the most naive and uninformed among us continue to believe the party line spouted by the pharmaceutical/medical establishment and their propaganda flunkies such as the The American Cancer Society: "The Cure for Cancer is just around the Corner"; "Get a Checkup and Write a Check"; "The Race for The Cure"; " Marathon to Beat Breast Cancer"; etc. It's pure rot: nothing but lies to bilk the trusting and believing public out of their money and fend the appearace of doing honest research. The promoters and planners of these publicity/ fund raising events deserve the greatest possible condemnation for their deceit.

Introduction
Ozone is an unstable, but highly beneficial molecule. It's the tri-atomic form of oxygen: Instead of the normal arrangement of 2 atoms of oxygen (O2), ozone is comprised of 3 atoms of oxygen (O3). Ozone, however, doesn't want to stay in that tri-atomic state very long and unless held in check or bound by other molecular couplings, ozone will usually break down from O3 to O2 + O1 within 20 minutes of so (at atmospheric pressure at least). O1 is called a singlet oxygen atom and it's HIGHLY REACTIVE. with just about any substance that should NOT be in the human body including all pathogens (virus, bacteria, etc.) and synthetic compounds or their metabolites such as drugs and their metabolite residues.

There are 3 common methods of producing ozone.

1. Hot Spark
2. Ultraviolet light
3. Cold Plasma

Hot spark (corona discharge) production was used mostly for industrial applications, but today you will corona discharge ozone available for personal application. Ultraviolet and cold plasma are most commonly offered in therapeutic work.

Cold plasma will produce far greater quantities of ozone in a given space of time compared to ultraviolet production. However, that is not to say that the ultraviolet method is not a useful method of producing ozone. When you want a smaller, steady trickle of ozone, then UV might be the better choice.

Some cold plasma units also have the capability of producing short-lived isotopes of ozone which include O4, O5, O6, O7 etc. These isotopes are even more reactive than ordinary O3.

Ozone reacts with many common chemcicals, but some compounds are non-reactive. See this link for more information:
http://educate-yourself.org/ozone/ozonereactionswithcommonchemicals29sep06.shtml

Therapeutic Applications
Ozone can be applied to the body in a number of ways. The Germans have a long history of applying ozone in a therapy known as Autohematherapy. This therapy requires the removal of a pint of blood from the body, ozonating it, and reintroducing the blood into the bloodstream.

A second technique is to introduce the ozone directly into the bloodstream via intravenous injection. The idea of intravenous injection has raised concern with some people concerning the notion of gas embolism which might lead to a heart attack or blockage in the lungs. Gas embolisms, however, do not occur with pure ozone. Air, which is largely composed of 80% nitrogen and 20 % oxygen, will create a gas bubble in the blood at atmospheric pressure, but not ozone. Nitrogen will create a gas bubble in the blood at atmospheric pressure, but not ozone. The rate of ozone delivery and the very small needle used to inject the ozone, guarantee no possibility of gas embolism. Do not allow this bogus fear tactic to keep you from investigating this highly effective and safe therapy!

A third technique is to introduce the ozone gas stream into the colon via the rectum (called Rectal Insufflation).

A fourth technique is to ozonate water and have the patient drink it.

A fifth method is something that I learned from a cancer patient (Mark Blakemore) who was given a couple of months to live by his oncologist. He was able to cure himself of cancer with ozone by allowing a gentle stream of ozone to enter the bloodstream by holding the ozone output tube about one inch from his eardrum in a process known as ear insufflation..

A sixth technique for assimilating ozone through the skin is called an Ozone Shower. You enclose the body part (or the entire patient from the neck down) in a plastic bag or a jumpsuit made of Tyvek (a permeable synthetic fiber) and attach a tube carrying the ozone stream into the bag. The patient is nude if it's a full body application. It's best to warm up the skin and open pores by taking a warm shower beforehand. Breathing a substantial concentration of ozone is irritating to lung tissue, so you should point a fan at the patient's face to keep him from breathing the ozone directly.

The therapeutic properties of ozone can be astounding. Organized Medicine, the FDA, and above all the Pharmaceutical giants have been actively suppressing information about ozone therapy for the better part of this century. Officially, the FDA list ozone as a toxic gas, an utter and contemptible falsehood. Many healers, including licensed MD's and chiropractors have been jailed and viciously harassed for treating (and healing) patients with ozone. Why? It works and the pharmaceutical houses, along with their puppets in the FDA and local medical boards don't want you to know that it works! That's why.

Ozonated Water

Ozonated water is highly beneficial for either healthy or sickly people. It's easy to make and should be consumed regularly. Besides providing more oxygen to the brain (greater alertness and mental clarity), Ozonated water will oxidize pathogens and synthetics residues in the body, allowing their complete elimination through excretion. To make Ozonated water using our generator, simply place the output tubing with the attached air stone bubbler into a large empty glass or pitcher. Fill half of the glass with ice and top off with clean water (I normally use distilled or spring water and avoid tap water, but use tap water if you have nothing else. The ozone will oxidize out the undesirable contaminants in tap water).

Run the generator for 5-10 minutes for a large glass of water and 20-25 minutes for a pitcher of water. The purpose of the ice is to make the water as cold as possible in order to absorb more ozone and hold onto it for a longer period of time. Room temperature water loses its ozone within a few minutes. Drink the Ozonated water as soon as you can after making it. The ozone is constantly coming out of solution and will completely dissipate in about 20 minutes, so the sooner you drink it, the more ozone you'll get. Don't try to guzzle it because it's icy water, but keep on sipping it steadily until its all down.

You can extend the 'shelf life' of Ozonated water by adding a couple of drops of ConcenTrace (available in most health food stores as a trace mineral supplement) to the water before you ozonate it. You can then bottle it and keep it in the refrigerator for a few days. Some ozone will attach itself to the minerals in ConcenTrace and prevent it from bubbling out of the water so quickly.

Ozonated Olive Oil

You can ingest a teaspoon of ozonated olive oil once or twice a day and get a steady internal application of ozone. You can use any olive oil, but I prefer to use organic Extra Virgin Olive oil. I nearly fill an 8 0z. glass jar (with a screw on lid) with olive oil. You can bubble ozone through the oil for 60 minutes if you're using a 100-200mg ozone machine or 30 minutes if you have a 400 mg. ozone machine. After screwing on the lid, you can store it in the refrigerator for about 30 days.

If you have an ozone machine with a heavy duty air pump, you can make concentrated ozonated olive oil by bubbling ozone through olive oil for 2 or 3 or 4 weeks, 24 hours a day. I usually use a round fish bowl half filled with olive oil. At one point in the production process (after a few days), the viscosity of the olive oil will be such that you will get foaming for a while. Using the round fish bowl will cause the foam bubbles to climb up the inside of the fish bowl where its own weight will cause it to drop back into the main body of oil. It's the ideal shape to use to prevent foaming oil from going over the top of your container. I prefer to use a cold plasma ozone generator for all types of ozone applications. Cold plasma has zero nitrogen by-products (a potential drawback to corona discharge machines for internal applications. It's OK for external applications) and yet a very high output of ozone compared to UV, which has a substantially lower ozone output and lower electron spin velocity than cold plasma produced ozone. After placing it in a small jar, you stick it into the freezer for storage (always put it back into the freezer after use in order to retain the maximum potency of ozone).

Technique for Concentrated Olive Oil

Take a wide mouth glass jar or lab beaker or (ideally) a round glass fish bowl and fill it somewhere between one third and one half with olive oil. Don't add more than one half olive oil because you're going to have a mess on your hands later on. Place the special tubing for Ozonated olive oil that came with the generator into the bottom of the jar and turn the generator on. Adjust the flow output valve for a nice even bubbling. I usually loosely place a glass plate on top of the beaker to keep out dust. Any kind of loose tent will work though. After 10 or 12 days, the olive oil will go through a phase where it will produce lots of big foamy bubbles which can rise to the top of the beaker (and possibly overflow-thus the caution about not adding too much olive oil). That phase will pass and the bubbles will soon become much finer and the foam will then become smaller in volume. Eventually, the foaming will stop altogether. After running the process for 3 or 4 weeks, the olive will have a thick, syrupy consistency. You can use this form for oral application or use it for other applications with require a semi- liquid consistency. Use your imagination and run some experiments. Ozonated olive oil is extremely useful. I'm sure you can come up with a few tricks of your own.

By attaching the ozone molecule to the olive oil molecular matrix, you can apply the ozone topically to lesions, cuts, abrasions, infections, scars, wounds, etc. Its therapeutic capacities can be amazing. If you have a serious external lesion or infection that is not healing, you should consider using Ozonated olive oil.

By Ken Adachi, Editor
http://educate-yourself.org/immunboosting/
Forbidden Cures | Supplements | Peace & Relaxation | Exercise

The body's own immune system, if sufficiently strengthened and boosted by natural means, can resist or surmount an attack by any natural biological organism. Other deadly organisms exist today which are not natural in origin, but rather have been bioengineered in genetic engineering laboratories located mostly in the United States. These pathogens were intentionally designed to circumvent and cripple the body's immune system and ensure the lethality of the disease. Two well known bioengineered diseases are AIDS and Ebola. There are some new 'mystery' diseases which have recently made their appearance and yet other virulent bioengineered diseases which are waiting in the wings for the 'right time' (see Population Control under New World Order). Bioengineered organisms require special consideration and technologies to defeat them, but they are defeatable.

The main focus of our organization is the promotion of non-pharmaceutical medicine. We all possess the innate ability to protect ourselves from disease. This wondrous disease prevention system is the immune system, which has been , much like the value of proper nutrition, largely forgotten and ignored. Proper nutrition is one of the easiest ways to boost the immune system.

The overuse of pharmaceutical drugs, and the lack of information concerning immunity boosting has left the average American's immune system efficiency level at 40% or 50%, at best. Some countries, like Japan, have a traditional diet that creates a stronger immune system and consequently Japanese people (who embrace the traditional diet) usually live a longer lifespan. It's no coincidence that Japanese women are among the longest living people on the planet.

Forbidden Cures

[Flax Seed Oil | Sodium Ascorbate | Cayenne Pepper]
There is so much to be said about supplements that we will not even attempt to cover everything, as there are already a number of organizations who have constructed websites with a wealth of information on this topic (many of these can be found on our links page). However, we will provide you with information on a few of the more extraordinary supplements that we have found to be especially effective for general immunity boosting, as well as treatment of specific ailments:
Flax Seed Oil
Over-consumption of "bad" highly saturated fats, low in essential fatty acids (EFA's) results in fat deposition causing obesity and fatty degeneration. When "good" unsaturated fats rich in EFA's are added to the diet, food utilization and energy production are enhanced and less fat is deposited. The richest source of Omega 3 fatty acids is flax seed oil with 55-65% Omega 3 and 15-25% Omega 6 fatty acids. Omega 6 fatty acids are essential but are less likely to be deficient in the American diet.
EFA's and their derivatives serve a number of vital functions including transport and metabolism of both cholesterol and triglycerides, normal brain development and function, required in the structure of cell membranes, increase metabolic rate, oxygen uptake and energy production, slow down growth of cancer cells, candida and other anaerobic organisms, production of prostaglandins and replenish skin oils to combat dryness and wrinkling.

Conditions associated with fatty degeneration include cardiovascular disease, cancer, obesity, diabetes, arthritis, rheumatism, acne and other skin conditions, multiple sclerosis, cystic fibro-sis, glandular atrophy, asthma, kidney, liver and gall bladder problems. In addition to general immunity boosting, flax seed oil has proven to be effective in the following conditions: Cardiovascular disease, Cancer, tumors, Obesity, Diabetes, Hypoglycemia, Skin conditions, Glandular atrophy, Liver and gall bladder, Kidney problems, etc.

Our reccomended dosage is one or two teaspoons daily. Although taking flax seed oil by swigging it down or by the spoonful is not very palatable, so you may wish to add it to foods. Here are some suggestions: dip your bread into it, add it to your hot or cold cereal, or spray it over your popcorn. Here is a simple salad dressing featuring flax seed oil:

Flax Seed Oil Basic Salad Dressing
4 tablespoons organic flax seed oil
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 medium garlic clove, crushed
Pinch of seasoned salt or salt-free seasoning
Fresh ground pepper to taste

Jazz up this basic recipe to your own personal taste by using your favorite herbs and spices. Place all ingredients into a bowl and whisk together until smooth and creamy. This recipe is quick and delicious!

Sodium Ascorbate (Vitamin C)

Sodium Ascorbate powder is a non-acidic form of Vitamin C. Vitamin C has intrinsic antiviral and antibacterial activity though its main effect is improvement in host resistance. Sodium Ascorbate (Vitamin C Powder) may be beneficial in: General immunity boosting, helping to ward off or prevent colds & flus, assisting the healing of wounds, aiding the body in fighting infection, etc.
Unlike most animals that produce their own Vitamin C, the human body does not synthesize any. Whether for general immunity boosting or for the treatment of a specific condition, one requires more Vitamin C than our contemporary diet supplies. The amount of vitamin C you take daily determines its effectiveness. 60 mg per day is the RDA (Recommended Daily Allowance for adults). This is easily obtained from fresh fruits and vegetables. 500 mg to 5 gm (grams) per day has proven to be beneficial in the prevention of colds, and general immunity boosting. However, Vitamin C dosage of over 1 gm can realistically only be obtained through supplements.

Sodium Ascorbate provides, on average, between 4 and 5 gm of Vitamin C per teaspoon. Our reccomendation for general immunity boosting is one teaspoon (approximately 4.5 gm) daily. If you are experiencing cold symptoms, we suggest a dosage of 4 to 5 gm (usually one teaspoon) per hour. If this treatment is started in the early stages of a cold, it will often fail to develop. If the cold has already developed, this treatment will usually lessen the effect of the cold, and speed recovery. Dissolving the powder in water (or juice, if you find the taste especially unpleasant) is the preferred method of consumption.

Sodium Ascorbate appears to be the most well-known Vitamin C supplement, although there are a number of others available. They are as follows:

Calcium Ascorbate
This seems to be nearly as well-known as Sodium Ascorbate. If you cannot find Sodium Ascorbate, this will perform virtually the same effect. The proponents of calcium ascorbate claim that calcium in this form of vitamin C is well utilized.
Magnesium Ascorbate
Magnesium is essential for calcium utilization.
Potassium Ascorbate
The addition of potassium may lower blood pressure.
Zinc Ascorbate
The zinc may give an added boost to the immune system.
Manganese Ascorbate
Chromium Ascorbate
Cayenne Pepper (Capsicum)
Perhaps the single most wonderful and most beneficial herb in the entire herbal kingdom is Capsicum, or Cayenne Red Pepper. Many herbalists have said that if they could have only one herb to work with, they would choose Capsicum.

Cayenne is a pepper well known for its benefits to the circulatory system. It aids the body to balance pressure levels and resist abnormal bleeding. Cayenne is also used as an overall digestive aid: It stimulates the production of gastric juices, improves metabolism, and even helps relieve gas. It appears to have a beneficial effect on blood fats as well. This plant assists in the body's utilization of other herbs, when used in an herbal combination. When applied topically, it helps relieve minor discomfort.

According to a 1987 study published in the Journal of Bioscience, rats fed a diet high in cayenne experienced a significant reduction in blood triglycerides and low density lipoproteins (LDL), or "bad" cholesterol. Capsaicin, a compound found in cayenne that gives the spice its "kick," is an antiinflammatory. Recently, cayenne has been used successfully to treat patients with cluster headaches, a particularly painful type of headache. Used externally, cayenne liniment can soothe the stiffness and pain of rheumatism and arthritis.

Cayenne will work nicely as a general immune booster, or as an addition to treatment of almost any ailment. Our reccomended dosage is as follows 1/4 to 1 teaspoon 3 times a day, taken with plenty of water or juice at mealtime, unless instructed otherwise. If using Cayenne capsules, take 2-3 three times a day with with a large glass of water, unless instructed otherwise.

Peace & Relaxation
[Meditation | Yoga | Tai Chi]

One of the best ways to lower your immune system and make yourself sick is stress. Similarly, negative emotions like worry and anger will also lower your immune system. So as you might expect, one good way to boost your immune system, as well as to improve the general quality of your life, is to eliminate these negative emotions.
The following are methods of doing this which we have found to be effective:

Meditation
[General Meditation | Focused Breathing | Visualization | Mantra Meditation]

Meditation has become increasingly popular in the western world. It provides a simple way to relax yourself, relieve stress, boost your immune system, and create more well-being and happiness in your life. The method of meditation you choose is not so important as achieving the desired result--a quiet mind, which promotes inner peace and relaxation. There are many different types of meditation, and our suggestion to you is to choose whatever you enjoy and feels right. If you're not very familiar with meditation, here are a few techniques we reccomend:
General Meditation:
"There's nothing to it!" is something I often here when someone is describing general meditation, and franky, it's absolutely true. General meditation is as simple as quieting your mind. Find a quiet place and time when you won't be disturbed, close your eyes, and clear your mind of any thoughts. Sit like this, attempting to eliminate all thoughts and experience total peace, for whatever period of time feels comfortable. Often beginners find it difficult to meditate for more than five or ten minutes. If you find yourself in such a situation, don't despair. You will find yourself able to sit for longer and longer intervals as time progresses. If you have never meditated before, consider starting your meditations in intervals of five minutes. When you feel comfortable, increase your intervals to ten minutes. When you feel comfortable with that, try to move to fifteen minutes, and continue like this until you feel a length of time that suits you. Many experienced meditators, including Deepak Chopra, meditate for thirty minutes in the morning and at night, as well as for thirty minutes in the afternoon if they feel stressed.

Focused Breathing:
Focused breathing is another very popular, yet tremendously simple, meditation. As in general meditation, find a quiet time and place where you won't be disturbed, close your eyes, and clear you mind of any thoughts. From there, focus on your breathing. Focus on the in-breath, and the out-breath. This is also commonly known as conscious breathing, because as opposed to our normal breathing which we do not focus on or attempt to control, "focused breathing" is consciously monitored and controlled. You simply "watch" yourself breath, so to speak, and attempt to bring your breaths to a slow, rhythmic pace (whatever pace feels comfortable to you). By focusing on your breath, you draw your attention to that, and eliminate random thoughts, which creates a feeling of inner peace. To help focus on their breath, people will often draw their attention to the air entering their nostrils, and the air leaving their mouth. You may also wish to draw your attention to the rising and falling of your chest. Use whatever method you feel comfortable with. As for controlling the pace of your breath, some people count a certain number of seconds between each breath and attempt to maintain this slow, rhythmic, controlled pace. Others prefer not to count. Other use different techniques still. We suggest you use whatever feels comfortable to you.

Visualization:
Visualization can be used to achieve a variety of results. One simple visualization for general well-being and stress-reduction is to first quiet yourself and begin as you would in general meditation or focused breathing, then visualize yourself inhaling golden or white light/energy, and exhaling gray, stale, old energy. The white or golden light represents new, fresh, rejuvenating energy, while the gray energy represents any stress, unhappiness, worries, anger, or other negative emotions you may be holding inside you. This visualization is a great way to release the stress and tension of the day, and give yourself more energy. If you have a specific ailment you are trying to relieve yourself of, visualize the same white or golden energy surrounding the area of your body which is in need of healing. Focus on that white or golden light/energy healing and energizing that area of your body. Continue focusing this healing energy on the afflicted area of your body for whatever time period feels comfortable to you. Try to repeat this procedure daily or multiple times daily if you feel compelled to do so. As always, do what feels right for you.

The Transcendent Meditating Racket

What started out as a nationwide fade in the 1970s where beginner classes were offered for $30, or $50 or $75 per person, has now grown into a 3 Billion money generating Empire where the beginners course is available for $2500 and the advanced 'sidhi' revelation is a mere $4,000 and up. I found a well written 2013 article by Lynn Stuart Parramore posted at AlterNet (archive copy) that blows a huge hole through the manufactured hype and guru based phony mysticism promoted by this group whose headquarters I believe is located in Iowa. If you want to learn the technique, there are a number of books available on amazon.com for $20 or so that will give the low down on what is essentially a simple meditative technique employing certain Hindi (or Sanscrit) sounding mantra words that are bestowed upon you (at great cost, of course). Paid up receivees are forbidden by the Empire to reveal their 'exclusive' mantra, but you can find most of the list posted at this Australian web site (archive copy) and take one from there, for, well ~ for free (Wow, what an extraordinary idea when discussing the topic of transcendence, enlightenment and relaxation. Hmmm?), I can verify that the mantra I was given in the 1970s is indeed located on that list. I didn't realize that the exclusive and special mantra bestowed on each paid-up receivee is based on ones age at the time of the bestowal (rather than the Empire touted 'special insights' gleaned about you by your Empire-certified, authorized and licensed teacher).

Mantra Meditation (MM):

There is much to be said about mantra meditation, but I will just cover it briefly here, as there are many sources of information on this topic. Mantra meditation uses a "mantra"--a word or phrase which is repeated throughout the duration of the meditation--to focus oneself on that one word or phrase, thereby allowing all random throughts to be released. To begin, prepare yourself as you would doing any of the other meditations listed here, then find a mantra which feels good to you (you should be able to find many of these if you do a little searching) and repeat it either aloud or silently for whatever period of time feels comfortable to you. The following are two well-known mantras which you may care to experiment with:

"ON-NAMA SHIVA YA" (OHN NAH MA SHE VAH YAH)
"OM MANI PADME UM" (OHM MAH NEE PAHD MEH UM)
Of course because these are traditional they are not English mantras, so you may or may not wish to use them. If you can think of an English word or phrase, such as "Love" or "Peace" or "God", which feels good to you, by all means, don't hesitate to use it.

Yoga

Yoga Means Union. Although many people think this term refers to union between body and mind or body, mind and spirit, the traditional acceptance is union between the Jivatman and Paramatman, that is between one's individual consciousness and the Universal Consciousness. Therefore Yoga refers to a certain state of consciousness as well as to methods that help one reach that goal or state of union with the divine.

Yoga increases strength and flexibility, improves circulation, promotes well-being, and provides relief for common postural and chronic pain problems. Anyone can practice yoga. You don't have to be young, fit or supple. You start from where you are at this moment. Each individual works within her/his own level of comfort listening to their own body's messages.

Yoga is completely non competitive. Each person is coming to Yoga for their own health and well being. There is pressure on us to be competitive in all sorts of areas, and it is a great relief and pleasure to find a style of exercise that is loving and nuturing, that connects us to a source of stability and peace within, that truely gives us a "time out", a break from the cares of the day, time to just be ourselves. One comes away from practice feeling energized, but calm and ready to deal situations on any level.

Tai Chi

Tai chi is a Chinese martial art that is primarily practiced for its health benefits, including a means for dealing with tension and stress. Among the martial arts, there are two basic types: the "hard" martial arts and the "soft" martial arts. The latter are also called internal arts. Examples of the hard martial arts are karate and kung fu (or wushu). Examples of the soft martial arts are ba gua and tai chi. Tai chi emphasizes complete relaxation, and is essentially a form of meditation, or what has been called "meditation in motion." Unlike the hard martial arts, tai chi is characterized by soft, slow, flowing movements that emphasize force, rather than brute strength. Though it is soft, slow, and flowing, the movements are executed precisely.

Exercise

Exercise stimulates circulation, improves muscle tone, improves cardiac function and boosts immunity. It is also a way to eliminate toxins from the body. Exercise is a critical component in the elimination of "poisons"--such as myriad toxins that build up in the body as a result of regular bodily processes in addition to man-made chemicals--from the body for three simple reasons. First, when we exercise we breathe more deeply, more forcefully and more often. In doing so, we release toxic by-products through the lungs. Second, when we exercise we also perspire. Perspiration is another means to eliminate metabolic waster material from the body. Finally, muscular activity is the only way to move waste material through the lymphatic vessels. If we don't sweat, don't breathe heavily and don't move our muscles, these toxins must find another way out. Unfortunately, they usually remain in the body, only to foul the biochemical machinery that makes our immune system operate efficiently. The result: susceptibility to illness. An article published in the International Journal of Sports Medicine illustrates the effect exercise can have on infections. In this study, only 45 minutes of brisk walking per day was shown to lower the incidence of upper respiratory symptoms, cut the duration of illness in half and increase natural killer-cell activity in people prone to upper respiratory tract infections.

The exercise credo of the eighties, "no pain, no gain," has fortunately given way to a more realistic notion that moderate exercise confers as many health benefits as strenuous exercise. Moderate exercisers have the added benefit of suffering fewer injuries as well. In fact, highly strenuous training can temporarily weaken immune function. While such intensive training is what some prefer, rest assured that something as simple as a daily walk will provide your body with health and immune benefits. If you enjoy sports, or other physical pastimes such as dancing or hiking, that will provide a more than adequate way to get the exercise your body needs. The key is, no matter how you get your exercise, to do it regularly and make sure it's fun! (If you have an existing medical condition, see your doctor before embarking on any exercise plan.)

The value of proper nutrition cannot be emphasized enough. Your body's health is directly related to what you put into it. Modern supermarket food is devitalized due to contaminants and processing. Organic, fresh, raw foods possess forms of energy not currently understood by orthodox science. Some of these esoteric energies can be measured and detected, however. There is a instument available today, the Vohl Dermatron, that can measure the "vital force" of food. A simpler method (but no less accurate) is to use a dowsing pendulum to determine this vital force on a scale of 1-10 for instance. Raw foods also contain digestive enzymes that cooked and processed foods lack. The digestive enzymes that Nature provides with the raw fruit, vegetable, or meat is the perfect match for that particular food. If you don't get the digestive enzymes in the foods that you eat, your body has to make them. That requires energy and nutrients that's depleting of your energy resources. Many researchers who study those elements that contribute to longevity feel that the human body has a limited capacity and store of enzyme production over a lifetime. When your enzyme producing capacity expires, you expire!

Vitamins and minerals are much more bio-available if they are in the form provided by Nature (raw, unprocessed, unextracted). Once you process food and strip away the vitamins, for example; merely adding denatured vitamins back into the food through fortification will not give you the equivalent quality or bioactivity of vitamins as originally provided by Nature. This is the biggest error made by dietitians, the nutritional arm of orthodox medicine racket. In considering the makeup of foods, they look only at the chemical elements themselves (calcium, phosphorus, etc.) and assume that as long as the element can be measured in the food or added to the food, you are getting the equivalent nutrition and bioactivity as provided by Nature. What stupidity! Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Despite the abundance of food in the United States, nutritional deficiency is quite common. It is important to understand this because Americans are often lulled into believing that foods are fortified with needed nutrients. It's like computers, "Garbage in, Garbage out".

I've been talking to people for a long time about understanding the nature of health and disease. Whenever I chat with someone with health problems and we're trying to figure out why, the last thing he will consider is his diet. "It's stress"; "It's genes"; "It's the job"; "It's the wife'; "It's the mother-in-law", etc. It's everything. but the diet. Folks, 99% of the time, ...it's the diet!

Since nutrition is a rather large topic, I'll start with a few important subjects and add to the list as time permits. For more information on nutrition, please see our suggested reading list at the bottom of this page.

Anti-Nutrients

Anti nutrients are substances to which we are all exposed through food and water that antagonize nutrients needed for health. Some anti nutrients bind to other nutrients, making them useless. Others tie up enzymes needed in digestion and other body functions. Some cause problems by creating a greater need for certain nutrients. Others cause nutrients to be excreted more rapidly from the body. In our world of high technology, the level of anti nutrients to which we are exposed is surprisingly high. Many of the anti nutrients have either a direct or indirect effect on immune function. Anything you can do to reduce exposure to anti nutrients will be helpful in preventing recurrent illness.

Table sugar, food coloring, processed fats, additives like BHT, and most of the 3,000 or so food additives allowed in the United States often act as anti nutrients. For example, in 1985 it was reported that American agriculture uses 1 billion pounds of pesticides each year. That is 4.5 pounds for every man, woman and child in the country. These chemicals have many adverse effects, and are more of a problem than most would imagine. Caffeine is another serious problem that most people don't fully understand.

Pharmaceutical drugs constitute another important category of anti nutrients. If drug therapy is short, the effects are minimal, but if one takes a drug for a long time (months or years), the nutritional effects of the drugs must be taken into account. Below is a sample of the nutrients adversely affected by drugs. Taking drugs long term has more adverse effects than simply nutritional ones, but we are focused on nutrition here.

Drug	Clinical Condition	Nutrient Affected
Aspirin	pain, fever	B1, Vit.. C, K+

Cortisone	inflammation, allergy	Zn, K+, folate, B6, Vit.. C, D, Ca
Ritalin	hyperactivity, ADD	suppresses appetite
Phenobarbital	seizure disorders	Vit.. C, D, Ca, Mg, folic acid
Tetracycline	infection	Zn, Ca, Fe, Mg, Vit.. K, B2, B3, C, folate

Sugar

Simply stated, sugar lowers immunity. In 1951, Benjamin Sandler, M.D., a physician from Northern Carolina, wrote a book entitled Diet Prevents Polio. Dr. Sandler's work with rabbits and monkeys convinced him that high amounts of sugar in the diet made one more susceptible to polio. During the polio epidemic of 1948-49, he appeared on an Asheville radio station urging parents not to feed their children refined sugar or foods containing sugar such as ice cream, candy, and soft drinks. His admonitions also ran in local newspapers. In 1948, the incidence of polio in Northern Carolina was 2,402 cases. In 1949, after adopting the "Sandler diet," the rate had fallen to 214 cases. During this time, the national incidence of polio (39 states) had risen.

Was it a coincidence that the rate of polio dropped as the rate of sugar consumption decreased in this state? Did removal of sugar from the diet improve resistance to polio? You can come to your own conclusion, but there is good reason to believe that sugar consumption lowers immunity. In a report published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, 100 grams of sugar from glucose, fructose, sucrose, honey or orange juice caused a significant decrease in the ability of white blood cells to engulf and destroy bacteria. This decrease in immune function was still present five hours after sugar was consumed.

There are numerous other studies that show decreases in immune function following sugar consumption. It is probably not significant when one only consumes sugar on occasion. However, on a daily basis it can wreak havoc on your immune system. The problem is sugar creeps into virtually every aspect of our diet, often without our awareness. This is because sugar is added to almost every packaged food sold today. The average adult American consumes more than 150 pounds of sugar each year (teenagers can consume over 200 pounds)! This is 14 times more than was ingested about 100 years ago. It's far too much for our bodies to handle.

To help illustrate the harmful effects of sugar, let's use breakfast cereals as an example. Many of the most popular children's cereals contain almost 50 percent of their calories as sugar. The presence of large amounts of sugar in the diet causes a gradual depletion of zinc in the body. As zinc levels decline, the sense of taste declines as well. As taste perception declines, there is a greater need to flavor the food in order to make it "taste good." Usually this means adding more sugar. This leads to a further reduction in body zinc levels, which further lowers the taste perception. As a result, a child heaps more sugar on top of his cereal. The cycle goes on and on.

In his book Fighting the Food Giants, biochemist Paul A. Stitt says that it is no accident that children's cereals are highly sugared. Food manufacturers were the first to discover that sugar consumption leads to a gradual loss of zinc, which in turn leads to a loss of taste perception. By marketing cereal high in sugar, they were able to create virtual addicts to their products. What parent has not heard screams of a toddler in the grocery store demanding his breakfast treat?

It you want to have sweets, it's better to get it from fresh fruit. Not canned fruit, not dried fruit, but fresh fruit. Honey or real maple (pure) syrup is far better than refined sugar if you must make something sweeter. Fruit provides a form of sugar called fructose. Because it's a natural monosaccharide, it's handled differently by the body than table sugar (sucrose) which is a disaccharide. There is one form of partly refined sugar that I do recommend for non diabetics to be consumed on a routine basis, but in a relatively modest amount. I'm talking about organic Black strap Molasses. The nutritional advantages of bio-available iron and sulfur (& other minerals) offered by black strap molasses far outweigh its downside as a source of sugar.

Dairy Products

Cow's milk is often touted on television as the "perfect food." It is supposedly needed by everyone. "If you don't drink milk, your bones will become brittle from osteoporosis" is the message from the Dairy Council, advertisers, and even some physicians. Yet, store bought cow's milk consumption has been shown to contribute to many of the health problems commonly encountered. Excessive consumption of cow's milk is often one of the major factors contributing to susceptibility to common infections. However, raw, unprocessed milk from clean cows raised in a wholesome environment is another story. The manner in which milk is commercailly produced and processed has much to do with its reputation for causing health problems. If we all hadThe

According to Dr. Schmidt in his book Childhood Ear Infections, simply eliminating dairy products is often all that's required to solve the riddle of recurrent ear problems in children. These sentiments are echoed by Dr. Fred Pullen, an ear, nose and throat specialist in Miami, Florida. Patients are referred to Dr. Pullen for the sole purpose of having tubes surgically implanted in their eardrums. Before undergoing surgery, however, all patients are first placed on a diet that eliminates dairy products. The result: "three fourths [of these children] never need tubes."

If one does even the smallest amount of research, it becomes evident that there is a wealth of information on this topic. One well written book is Principles of Nutrition by Whitman H. Jordan, published by the Macmillan Company of New York in 1912. On page 266 Jordan describes a German study detailing the tie outcome of 49,362 children born in Berlin during 1890. Before the end of one year, 12,623 of those children died. Of those who died, 8,008 were fed on cow's milk. Only 1,588 had been breast fed. Let me quote from this 86 year old book:

"Further statistics show of those fed on mother's milk one in thirteen died, while of those brought up by hand (bottle fed), one out of every two died."

These figures require no comment. Do not think that cow's milk is only harmful to children, though. The problems with cow's milk are so numerous that noted professor of pediatrics at John Hopkins School of Medicine, Dr. Frank Oski, wrote a book entitled Please, Don't Drink Your Milk. The following are health conditions either directly caused by or associated with cow's milk consumption, taken from MILK IS GOOD FOR _____ by Robert M. Kradjian, M.D.:

"Among children the problems were allergy, ear and tonsil infections, bedwetting, asthma, intestinal bleeding, nephritis, colic, and childhood diabetes."
"In adults the problems seemed centered more around heart disease, arthritis, allergy, sinusitis, and the more serious questions of leukemia, lymphoma, cancer (colon, lung, prostate, breast, ovarian, and rectal.)"
"Even multiple sclerosis, osteoporosis, and cataracts have been associated with cow's milk consumption."
The other side of the debate includes healers like Dr. Hulda R. Clark (The Cure for All Disease) who says the milk is an important source of protein and calcium which is readily absorbed by the body. For very sick people with AIDS or cancer, it may be a critical ingredient for their recovery. You can make store bought milk relatively safe from all pathogenic organisms, by boiling it for only 10 seconds over a low heat and adding a small amount of powdered Vitamin C (I use Calcium Ascorbate or Sodium Ascorbate) . Let the milk cool to room temperature, pull off the 'skin' which formed on the top of the milk from boiling, and place in a glass bottle in the refrigerator. Another thought is to use Goat's milk which has a different effect on the body than commercial cow's milk. Organic goat's milk is preferred and raw goat's milk is said to be the best choice of all.

Vegetarianism

"Nothing will benefit human health and increase the chances for survival of life on earth as much as the evolution to a vegetarian diet." - Albert Einstein

A vegetarian menu is a powerful and pleasurable way to achieve good health. The vegetarian eating pattern is based on a wide variety of foods that are satisfying, delicious, and healthful. Vegetarians avoid meat, fish, and poultry (although most of us here at Educate-Yourself do eat fish for protein). Those who include dairy products and eggs in their diets are called lacto-ovo vegetarians. Vegens (pure vegetarians) eat no meat, fish, poultry, eggs, or dairy products. While there is a considerable advantage to a lacto-ovo vegetarian pattern, vegen diets are the healthiest of all, reducing risk of a broad range of health concerns.

Vegetarians have much lower cholesterol levels than meat eaters, and heart disease is uncommon in vegetarians. The reasons are not hard to find. Vegetarian meals are typically low in saturated fat and usually contain little or no cholesterol. Since cholesterol is found only in animal products such as meat, dairy, and eggs, vegens consume a cholesterol free diet. The type of protein in a vegetarian diet may be another important advantage. Many studies show that replacing animal protein with plant protein lowers blood cholesterol levels-even if the amount and type of fat in the diet stays the same. Those studies show that a low fat, vegetarian diet has a clear advantage over other diets.

An impressive number of studies, dating back to the early 1920s, show that vegetarians have lower blood pressure than non vegetarians. In fact, some studies have shown that adding meat to a vegetarian diet raises blood pressure levels rapidly and significantly. The effects of a vegetarian diet occur in addition to the benefits of reducing the sodium content of the diet. When patients with high blood pressure begin a vegetarian diet, many are able to eliminate their need for medication.

Water

"Medical professionals of today do not understand the vital roles of water in the human body. Medications are palliatives. They are not designed to cure the degenerative diseases of the human body." - Dr. F. Batmanghelidj

Pure and simple, water is an essential part of a healthy diet. And to a much greater extent than most would imagine. While unknown to the orthodox medical community, dehydration is an extraordinarily common cause of an astounding number of diseases. One of the leading researchers in this field, F. Batmanghelidj, M.D., has explained this subject in great detail in his book, Your Body's Many Cries for Water. The following are a few short excerpts from Dr. Batmanghelidj's book, which should help convey the significance of water in one's diet:

"The simple truth is that dehydration can cause disease. Everyone knows that water is "good" for the body. They seem not to know how essential it is to one's well-being. They do not know what happens to the body if it does not receive its daily need of water."

"In advanced societies, thinking that tea, coffee, alcohol, and manufactured beverages are desirable substitutes for the purely natural water needs of the daily 'stressed' body is an elementary but catastrophic mistake. It is true that these beverages contain water, but what else they contain are dehydrating agents. They get rid of the water they are dissolved in plus some more water from the reserves of the body!"

Currently, practitioners of conventional medicine are unaware of the many chemical roles of water in the body. Because dehydration eventually causes loss of some functions, the various sophisticated signals given by operators of the body's water rationing program during severe and lasting dehydration have been translated as indicators of unknown disease conditions of the body. This is the most basic mistake that has deviated clinical medicine. It has prevented medical practitioners from being able to advise preventive measures or offer simple physiologic cures for some major diseases in humans."

"With the appearance of these signals, the body should be provided with water for these rationing systems to distribute. However, medical practitioners have been taught to silence these signals with chemical products. Of course they have zero understanding of the significance of this most gross error. The various signals produced by these water distributors are indicators of regional thirst and drought of the body. At the onset, they can be relieved by an increase of water itself, yet they are improperly dealt with by the use of commercial chemical products until pathology is established and diseases are born."

We urge you to read Dr. Batmanghelidj's book, Your Body's Many Cries for Water, for further information. Dr. Batmanghelidj recommends drinking 8 - 10 glasses of water daily, and more if you are suffering from an illness.

Fiber

Fiber, or roughage, has been a popular topic in the media of late. While advertisers try to sell us many things we don't need, they're right when they say high fiber cereals are important for good health. Lack of fiber has been implicated in the development of colon disease, heart disease and numerous other conditions. Dr. Denis Burkitt was the first to advance the idea of fiber as an important contributor to health. He based his beliefs on his research of African tribes. Dr. Burkitt found that African tribal residents suffered from almost none of the modern diseases of the West such as colon cancer and heart disease. However, when the Africans moved to the West and adopted our eating habits, they quickly succumbed to our most common illnesses.

Dietary fiber is as important to children as it is to adults. Foods high in fiber are high in vitamins, trace minerals and essential fatty acids. Take wheat for example. Almost all of the essential nutrients are bound in the germ portion of the grain. During milling, the germ is separated from the endosperm. The germ is sold separately as wheat germ (long known as a high nutrient food) while the endosperm is further milled to make flour. Milling of whole grain to make refined flour results in loss of 85 percent of the magnesium, 86 percent of the manganese, 40 percent of the chromium, 78 percent of the zinc, 89 percent of the cobalt, 48 percent of the molybdenum and 68 percent of the copper, in addition to comparable losses of selenium, vitamin E and essential fatty acids. Moreover, heavy metals such as cadmium (which are concentrated in the endosperm) remain in the flour. (Unfortunately, the body's antagonist to cadmium--zinc--has been removed.) Since nutrients are required to properly utilize all calories we consume, the intake of refined food leads to a gradual deficiency of nutrients. This is a strong argument for the use of whole-grain products.

The real test of the value of refined (fortified) foods would be to put a group of lab animals on a diet of white bread and compare them to a group fed a diet of whole-grain bread. In one such experiment, two thirds of rats kept on a diet of enriched white bread died before the experiment was finished.

Fiber is also important because it helps keep the intestinal contents moving through to their ultimate fate--elimination as stool. If the intestinal contents move too slowly, toxic by-products of digestion and bacterial fermentation remain in the bowel too long and are reabsorbed back into the body. Over time, this can contribute to illness.

When one consumes a diet low in fiber, attachment of parasites such as Giardia lamblia is easier. When fiber is present in the diet, the intestinal contents move through more quickly and prevent the attachment of such parasites. Recall that G. lambilia is one of the most common parasites found in the United States. It contributes to immune suppression, poor digestion, food allergies and numerous other problems. The ability to decrease the likelihood of infection by this parasite by simply increasing the intake of fiber is significant.

While fiber is necessary for children and adults, too much fiber can be a problem as well, since excessive fiber can cause nutrients to be leached out of the digestive tract. The problems for most of us, however, is not too much fiber, but too little. (Never put a child on a high fiber diet without consulting a health care professional.) Good sources of fiber include fruit, vegetables, legumes and grains (oats, wheat, rice, barley, etc.).

Back to the top

Juicing

Juicing, and the benefits of a juicing program have long been recognized around the world. Since the early part of this century, researchers such as Norman Walker, D.Sc., and Dr. Bernard Jensen have investigated the effects of juice as part of the daily diet. Their studies show that juice can provide all the basics of human nutrition, including carbohydrates, proteins, fats, vitamins, and minerals.

Juicing adds to the benefits of vegetables and fruits. By juicing, rather than eating the produce whole, the important nutrients and phytochemicals found in plants are absorbed more easily by our bodies--sometimes within minutes--without too much effort on the part of the digestive system. In addition to this, more of the nutrients are absorbed.

Fresh vegetable juices are also rich in enzymes. Enzymes spark the hundreds of thousands of chemical reactions that occur throughout the body; enzymes are essential for digestion and absorption of food, for conversion of food into body tissue, and for the production of energy at the cellular level. In fact, enzymes are essential for most of the building and rebuilding that goes on in the body every day. When foods are cooked, enzymes can be destroyed; that is why raw foods and juices are so important. They provide an excellent source of all-important enzymes.

Carrot's beta carotene and the ellagic acid found in fresh apple juice are clinically proven anti-cancer agents.
Limonene from lemon's white pith is recognized as a potent anti-cancer nutrient and is also effective in dissolving gallstones.
Apple's soluble fiber, ellagic acid and vitamin C, combined with celery's healthy dose of minerals and electrolytes can cleanse and rebalance your system.
Digestive enzymes found in honeydew, papaya, and pineapple reduce inflammation and energize the body.
An advantage of juicing over buying commercial juice is that when you make your own juice you know exactly what it contains. You can be sure to avoid adding sugar, sweeteners, and other additives. Also many commercial juices are heat treated to extend shelf life, which can destroy nutrients.

Recommended Diet

For those of you looking for a suggested diet, we recommend the following:

Consume a diet that focuses on whole, unprocessed foods (whole grains, legumes, vegetables, fruits, seeds, etc.)
Reduce (or eliminate, if possible) your intake of refined sugar.
Drink at least 8 to 10 glasses of water daily.
Avoid animal products, with the possible exception of cold water fish (salmon, mackerel, herring, halibut, etc.).
Eliminate dairy products, caffeine, and alcohol.
Eliminate coffee (besides caffeine, there are a host of other chemicals poisoning your body). Try the many varieties of herbal tea available.
Avoid soft drinks completely.
Avoid white bread and refined flour products. They are devoid of essential nutrients, including omega-3 essential fatty acids and others.
Avoid margarine and all commercial cooking oils. Use Butter and Organic cold pressed Olive oil instead.
Consume organic Flax Seed Oil and cold fish oil (MAX EPA) daily.
Consume Miso soup, kelp, and shitake mushrooms regularly.
Brown Rice is better than white rice.
Buy organic foods (especially produce) whenever possible.
Get regular exercise.
Perform a relaxation exercise (deep/focused breathing, meditation, tai chi, visualization, prayer, etc.) 10 to 15 minutes each day.

The NCH Tone Generator
By Ken Adachi, Editor
http://educate-yourself.org/nch/index.shtml

If your computer has a sound card, this NCH audio tone generator can play audio tones through your computer speakers or earphones. You can set the frequency from 1 hz to 20,000 hz. Certain specific tone frequencies can modify and improve all kinds of health conditions. It's called Sound Therapy. If you wish, you can greatly augment this therapy by simultaneously applying Light Therapy, which is also simple and easy to set up.

I've included Frequency List 1 and List 2 with various health conditions and their associated tone frequencies that help improve those conditions. Just run down the list for the condition you want and make of note of the frequency or frequencies that you should apply. Set the generator for that frequency and press the start button. The volume dosen't have to be loud, just enough to hear it.

Bio-Energetic Frequency Chart I
http://educate-yourself.org/nch/Freqchart1.shtml#top

Bio-Energetic Frequency Chart II
http://educate-yourself.org/nch/Freqchart2.shtml#top

I've also added here a frequency chart of all the musical notes so you could also use an accurately tuned musical instrument as a source of frequencies even if you don't have a frequency generator or a tone generator

(http://educate-yourself.org/lte/freqchartmusicalnotes28dec07.shtml)

Download NCH Tone Generator (http://www.nch.com.au/action/)
Go to this web site and scroll down to the Tone Generator and click the Download button. Unzip the file after it's downloaded onto your hard drive and install it. An icon will appear on your desktop. If you don't have an unzipping program, go to WinZip.com and download the latest version.

Instructions included with the NCH Tone Generator

Thank you for installing the NCH Tone Generator. The NCH Tone Generator (nchtone) is a simple but useful utility that lets you play tones using a Windows 95 or Windows 3.1 computer with a sound card.

To use the software follow these steps:
1. Select the desired wave form. The most commonly used wave form is the sine wave because it is the purest tone.

2. Enter the desired frequency. A range or 1 to 20000 is acceptable (1Hz to 20Khz). Note that the frequency is not relevant if the "White Noise" wave form is selected.

3. Select the sound card to be used to play the sound. If you have more than 1 sound card in your computer, select the appropriate sound card for the pull down list below the start button.

4. Press Start. The tone should play.

5. If necessary, adjust the Mixer Settings to change to volume of the tone. In Windows 95 run the mixer by double clicking on the speaker icon on the task bar. In Windows 3.1, run the mixer software supplied with your sound card.

This software is part of the NCH Audio Action set of utilities. These are a set of useful audio related tools for studio use, multimedia or business audio. Please visit our web page at http://www.nch.com.au/action or email us at nch@nch.com.au for more information.

This subject is so patently clear and evident to me now, that it seems almost too obvious to require an explanation , yet I know there was a time when I didn't see the connection and I had to gradually stumble over the metaphysical insights in order to see the Light. I can only presume that some of you are in the same boat.

It's hard to know where to begin, but begin I must. I'm going to start with the metaphysical and move towards the physical connection as the story unfolds. Stick with me. You'll realize why I've had to do it this way once you've read everything. .

In the Beginning

We are all IMMORTAL SPIRIT BEINGS who have lived out THOUSANDS of other physical lives here on earth before this one. Each time we die, we return to the spirit world and have a conference with wise counselors who review our life's history and help us decide on the best plan for our future and continued SPIRITUAL GROWTH. for our NEXT physical lifetime. After a period of rest, study (oh yes, you're as busy and occupied on the Other Side as you are on this one), and self examination, we return to the earth plane by entering the body of a carefully chosen newborn baby, just as we had done on so many occasions in the past. The memory of our past lives is erased from our CONSCIOUS mind when we begin a new life in order to allow us the complete freedom of making truly unbiased (and un coerced) SPIRITUAL DECISIONS on a day to day basis. Eventually we figure out what's going on, live better lives, and earn the right to incarnate on other worlds where "the living is easier" and not nearly as contentious as earth life. As we progress upwards (spiritually speaking), we find ourselves experiencing higher (and lighter) frequency realms. Earth life is merely the first (and lowest) rung of a very long ladder of spiritual evolution. Earth life can be wonderful and full of joy and pleasure (and some pain) if we play our cards right, but it can also be a very trying and difficult existence if we don't understand the Rules of Reality and decide to sleep with those who wish to be destructive and foment negativity or unkindness towards others.

That's a super short condensation of The Big Story and I've left out a lot, but we will return to it as time allows.

The Smaller Story is as follows:

Reality

We are much more than what we appear to be. We base our perception of ourselves on what we see in the mirror. This physical perception is reinforced by society, our schools, and even our religions. We are alone, we think, fending off the wolves who would devour us and clinging to those who offer us support and loving care. Lord Jesus, Mother Mary, Lord Krishna, Lord Buddha, Mohammed, Zoarastra, etc. are thought of as Prophets or Saviors of Mankind who exist somewhere out there. When we pray to Them, we hope they can hear us out there and will come to our rescue when we need Them to save us from some dire situation. God is typically viewed as a Father figure, often depicted as a very muscular looking old man with a long white beard who is sitting on a throne in Heaven. Many religions reinforce this view of separation. Little, insignificant Us and big, powerful Them. Of course, many religions also teach us that their anointed representatives are necessary middlemen required to represent our interests before God, sort of like metaphysical lawyers. And you know how beneficial and necessary lawyers are, don't you?

I'm being a little facetious, but I'm trying to get across the point that a fundamental misdirection has been taught by many organized religions that was never taught by the Founder of that religion. This misdirection did not come about by accident. It was intentional. It is the work of men who sought to gather power and privilege to themselves using the pretext of being earthly representatives of God. The purpose was to create a hierarchy of controlling elites at the top and the "'followers" down below who were expected to pay the bills. A similar hierarchy evolved in the secular world with the idea of kingship/royalty and their "subjects" who again, were expected to pay (in some manner) for the privilege of being ruled and controlled. The true teachings of Christ and many other great spiritual teachers of antiquity were twisted and distorted by these elites desiring to create a paradigm of control and obedience to them. This is not what Christ taught or wanted. Jesus said that "The Kingdom of God is Within". And so it is.

What did He mean? He meant that God exists within us at all times. We are part of God. We are not separated from God. We don't have to go looking for Him because we already have Him within every molecule and atom of our being. In fact, none of us are truly separate from each other. It only appears that way. It's an illusion, although it's hard to accept that from our limited perspective. We are all part of God and God pervades everything. He is All That Is.

Now once you start to realize that, doors begin to open. You no longer feel so alone and fearful. You aren't battling the Dark Forces of the universe by yourself, you now realize, but rather you have a great deal of help and support at your disposal. You are a part of God and God is a part of you.. You are an integral part of a greater Reality. A Divine Nature dwells within you since you are born of the Father and the Father is Divinity itself. Therefore, you have friends in very high places. The ancient Hindu scriptures wrote of these truths eons ago.

If you study the writings of yoga masters, you will come across the concept of Athman (Atman), or the Godhead figure within. The Soul and Atman are not exactly the same, but the Atman exist within the Soul. The Soul still retains the outer mantle of sense perception and carries the karmic baggage of previous lives. The Atman is completely detached and free of all sense desires or aversions. It is possible to perceive and experience the Atman while in this physical life. When you do, you are free. You can experience total bliss that will exceed anything your imagination can conjure.You will never view the world and its turmoil and triumphs in the same way, ever again.

Support Team

You have a team of Angels and Spirit Guides who have been 'assigned' to assist you during your earthly journey. Sometimes your Guides are changed or rotated depending on what sort of help you need at any given moment in your life. Guides are always beings who have experienced physical life many, many times and are very knowledgeable in the ways of the world. Your Angels, who have never experienced the physical plane, stay with you for the duration. These helpers always work in the background, but their assistance can become much more abundant and obvious if you attempt to communicate with them and seek their help.

One of the things that you'll never hear about from conventional religious instructions is that there are certain spiritual Universal Laws in place that are in operation at all times throughout the universe. These Laws are inviolate and apply to all sentient beings whether you exist on the physical plane or in higher, non physical dimensions. They apply whether you come from Earth, Sirius B, Mars, Nibiru, Venus, or any other planet in this galaxy or any other galaxy. They apply in all the higher dimensional planes as well.

There are Three major Universal Laws and many other sub universal laws under the umbrella of the three main ones. One of those Universal Laws is the Law of Non Interference or Free Will. Simply stated, this law requires that Free Will rules above all else when it comes to receiving assistance from higher spirit beings. If you don't want their help or do not ask for it, it cannot be 'pushed' on you. They must respect your Will. In an emergency, of course, due to ignorance on your part, your Angels will help get you out of a jam that might imperil your life or help avert a disaster, but as a rule they stand by ready to assist, but can only help you when you ask for their help. An extremely important point to remember. You've already been given this lesson by the Great Teacher who walked the Earth 2,000 years ago:" Knock and the Door shall be Opened unto you. Seek and you shall Find".

The Law of Cause & Effect is also iron clad and causes us to acquire Karmic debt or Karma, at least in the lower dimensional planes. Once a soul 'graduates' to a high enough plane or spiritual dimension, he is no longer liable to incur Karmic debt. Karma, as you likely know, is reaping what you sow. For every unkind gesture, thought, action, or intention, you must pay the piper in this life or in future lives to come or both. The nastier you are, the more you'll have to pay.

For every act of kindness, charity, or sacrifice, and every thought, word, deed or intention that you perform based on love and understanding (forgiveness), you pay down your Karmic debt and advance in soul development at the same time. Freedom from Karma can be achieved while still on earth and within the physical body. Many enlightened souls have done so down through the centuries. You can do it too, if you want it bad enough. The key for opening that golden door is obtained through enlightened mediation and complete self realization.

Paramahansa Yogananda and his predecessors taught a scientific form of enlightened meditation called Kriya Yoga that could permit the dedicated and devoted practitioner union with God, or samadhi and complete self realization while on earth.

The Law of Cause & Effect can also cause things to be created, including good health and freedom from adversity. I came upon an audio tape of Dr. Robert Bitzer in a most serendipitous way at the Power of Thought School in Fayetteville, Arkansas in the Fall of 1998. It was sitting there alone in a bin with other odd lot items for clearance sale. I think I paid 50 cents for it. I wouldn't have taken it if the price wasn't so low since I had no idea who Robert Bitzer was or if he had anything to say that I would be interested in.

It turned out to be the most powerful lecture that I've ever heard on the Law of Cause & Effect. I must have replayed it a hundred times. I can practically recite it from heart. I greatly treasure that tape and thank Spirit for allowing me to come upon it in the way that I did. Of course, now I know it was a set up all along. That's the way they do it in the Spirit World. You think it's dumb luck and blind chance, but Nahhhhh,.... it's them giving you a lift to get up to speed and move you closer to God.

The Higher Self

Another topic that is never discussed in traditional religious education is the concept of the Higher Self. You think there is just you, the face you see in the mirror, and that you are alone in the world. You assume that the ego, the part of you that tenaciously clings to life, that jockeys for position and power, that propels you to seek physical gratification, that tempts you to dominate others, and causes you to respond to life's tribulations with anxiety and fear is the very core of your being, but it is not so.

There is much more to you than you might imagine. The face you see in the mirror is but one aspect, in physical form, of your soul, but your soul is yet part of a larger concept called the Over soul. The Higher Self is the 'director', in a manner of speaking, of the Over soul and is directly connected to the Universal Cosmic Mind which in turn is connected to the core of all creation, God. All knowledge, all truths, and all possibilities exists within the Universal Cosmic Mind. If you can gain access to this "Above Top Secret" cosmic computer room, you can find out anything you want and manipulate reality to satisfy your wishes.

As it turns out, you already have an inside contact. It's your own agent/representative inside the "Big Room with the Big Board" (borrowed from the movie Dr. Strangelove - one of the funniest satires of all times on the foolishness of the military mind and the immature egotism that animates it) and we call that representative our Higher Self.

June 8, 2002 Martin Brofman contacted me by E mail on June 4, 2002 and said the following: " I saw your web site on the Mind-Body Connection, and I thought you might be able to use the attached article I have written on the subject. I have been teaching healing for the past 25 years since I healed myself of terminal cancer in 1976, and have been exploring the body/mind interface ever since."

It took me a couple of days to get around to reading his articles, but when I finally did, I knew I had to add them to this page just as he suggested. He has "continued" my story for me, for this is exactly where I wanted to go in my own piece. I'll still finish my saga, but you can get an excellent 'sneak preview' to where my story is heading with these wonderful and inspiring articles.

I began to have doors open for me some years ago when I stumbled upon the books of Jane Roberts and her channeling of a being who referred to himself as Seth. Seth "dictated" many books through Jane with the help of her husband, Robert Butts. I've always found Seth's insights and revelation on the nature of reality and what goes on in the higher planes of consciouness to be fascinating and thought provoking. You might click on the links below to read a bit from Seth on the nature of reality and death. The first link is an index to many web posted articles by Seth. You can also find lots of Seth material at http://www.spiritweb.org and of course, you can find Seth/Jane Roberts books in any major bookstore.

Ozone, a Quick Overview by Ken Adachi (Dec. 2002)

Introduction
Ozone is an unstable, but highly beneficial molecule. It's the tri-atomic form of oxygen: Instead of the normal arrangement of 2 atoms of oxygen (O2), ozone is comprised of 3 atoms of oxygen (O3). Ozone, however, doesn't want to stay in that tri-atomic state very long and unless held in check or bound by other molecular couplings, ozone will usually break down from O3 to O2 + O1 within 20 minutes of so (at atmospheric pressure at least). O1 is called a singlet oxygen atom and it's HIGHLY REACTIVE. with just about any substance that should NOT be in the human body including all pathogens (virus, bacteria, etc.) and synthetic compounds or their metabolites such as drugs and their metabolite residues.

There are 3 common methods of producing ozone.

1. Hot Spark
2. Ultraviolet light
3. Cold Plasma

Hot spark (corona discharge) production was used mostly for industrial applications, but today you will corona discharge ozone available for personal application. Ultraviolet and cold plasma are most commonly offered in therapeutic work.

Cold plasma will produce far greater quantities of ozone in a given space of time compared to ultraviolet production. However, that is not to say that the ultraviolet method is not a useful method of producing ozone. When you want a smaller, steady trickle of ozone, then UV might be the better choice.

Some cold plasma units also have the capability of producing short-lived isotopes of ozone which include O4, O5, O6, O7 etc. These isotopes are even more reactive than ordinary O3.

Ozone reacts with many common chemcicals, but some compounds are non-reactive. See this link for more information:
http://educate-yourself.org/ozone/ozonereactionswithcommonchemicals29sep06.shtml

Therapeutic Applications
Ozone can be applied to the body in a number of ways. The Germans have a long history of applying ozone in a therapy known as Autohematherapy. This therapy requires the removal of a pint of blood from the body, ozonating it, and reintroducing the blood into the bloodstream.

A second technique is to introduce the ozone directly into the bloodstream via intravenous injection. The idea of intravenous injection has raised concern with some people concerning the notion of gas embolism which might lead to a heart attack or blockage in the lungs. Gas embolisms, however, do not occur with pure ozone. Air, which is largely composed of 80% nitrogen and 20 % oxygen, will create a gas bubble in the blood at atmospheric pressure, but not ozone. Nitrogen will create a gas bubble in the blood at atmospheric pressure, but not ozone. The rate of ozone delivery and the very small needle used to inject the ozone, guarantee no possibility of gas embolism. Do not allow this bogus fear tactic to keep you from investigating this highly effective and safe therapy!

A third technique is to introduce the ozone gas stream into the colon via the rectum (called Rectal Insufflation).

A fourth technique is to ozonate water and have the patient drink it.

A fifth method is something that I learned from a cancer patient (Mark Blakemore) who was given a couple of months to live by his oncologist. He was able to cure himself of cancer with ozone by allowing a gentle stream of ozone to enter the bloodstream by holding the ozone output tube about one inch from his eardrum in a process known as ear insufflation..

A sixth technique for assimilating ozone through the skin is called an Ozone Shower. You enclose the body part (or the entire patient from the neck down) in a plastic bag or a jumpsuit made of Tyvek (a permeable synthetic fiber) and attach a tube carrying the ozone stream into the bag. The patient is nude if it's a full body application. It's best to warm up the skin and open pores by taking a warm shower beforehand. Breathing a substantial concentration of ozone is irritating to lung tissue, so you should point a fan at the patient's face to keep him from breathing the ozone directly.

The therapeutic properties of ozone can be astounding. Organized Medicine, the FDA, and above all the Pharmaceutical giants have been actively suppressing information about ozone therapy for the better part of this century. Officially, the FDA list ozone as a toxic gas, an utter and contemptible falsehood. Many healers, including licensed MD's and chiropractors have been jailed and viciously harassed for treating (and healing) patients with ozone. Why? It works and the pharmaceutical houses, along with their puppets in the FDA and local medical boards don't want you to know that it works! That's why.

Ozonated Water

Ozonated water is highly beneficial for either healthy or sickly people. It's easy to make and should be consumed regularly. Besides providing more oxygen to the brain (greater alertness and mental clarity), Ozonated water will oxidize pathogens and synthetics residues in the body, allowing their complete elimination through excretion. To make Ozonated water using our generator, simply place the output tubing with the attached air stone bubbler into a large empty glass or pitcher. Fill half of the glass with ice and top off with clean water (I normally use distilled or spring water and avoid tap water, but use tap water if you have nothing else. The ozone will oxidize out the undesirable contaminants in tap water).

Run the generator for 5-10 minutes for a large glass of water and 20-25 minutes for a pitcher of water. The purpose of the ice is to make the water as cold as possible in order to absorb more ozone and hold onto it for a longer period of time. Room temperature water loses its ozone within a few minutes. Drink the Ozonated water as soon as you can after making it. The ozone is constantly coming out of solution and will completely dissipate in about 20 minutes, so the sooner you drink it, the more ozone you'll get. Don't try to guzzle it because it's icy water, but keep on sipping it steadily until its all down.

You can extend the 'shelf life' of Ozonated water by adding a couple of drops of ConcenTrace (available in most health food stores as a trace mineral supplement) to the water before you ozonate it. You can then bottle it and keep it in the refrigerator for a few days. Some ozone will attach itself to the minerals in ConcenTrace and prevent it from bubbling out of the water so quickly.

Ozonated Olive Oil

You can ingest a teaspoon of ozonated olive oil once or twice a day and get a steady internal application of ozone. You can use any olive oil, but I prefer to use organic Extra Virgin Olive oil. I nearly fill an 8 0z. glass jar (with a screw on lid) with olive oil. You can bubble ozone through the oil for 60 minutes if you're using a 100-200mg ozone machine or 30 minutes if you have a 400 mg. ozone machine. After screwing on the lid, you can store it in the refrigerator for about 30 days.

If you have an ozone machine with a heavy duty air pump, you can make concentrated ozonated olive oil by bubbling ozone through olive oil for 2 or 3 or 4 weeks, 24 hours a day. I usually use a round fish bowl half filled with olive oil. At one point in the production process (after a few days), the viscosity of the olive oil will be such that you will get foaming for a while. Using the round fish bowl will cause the foam bubbles to climb up the inside of the fish bowl where its own weight will cause it to drop back into the main body of oil. It's the ideal shape to use to prevent foaming oil from going over the top of your container. I prefer to use a cold plasma ozone generator for all types of ozone applications. Cold plasma has zero nitrogen by-products (a potential drawback to corona discharge machines for internal applications. It's OK for external applications) and yet a very high output of ozone compared to UV, which has a substantially lower ozone output and lower electron spin velocity than cold plasma produced ozone. After placing it in a small jar, you stick it into the freezer for storage (always put it back into the freezer after use in order to retain the maximum potency of ozone).

Technique for Concentrated Olive Oil

Take a wide mouth glass jar or lab beaker or (ideally) a round glass fish bowl and fill it somewhere between one third and one half with olive oil. Don't add more than one half olive oil because you're going to have a mess on your hands later on. Place the special tubing for Ozonated olive oil that came with the generator into the bottom of the jar and turn the generator on. Adjust the flow output valve for a nice even bubbling. I usually loosely place a glass plate on top of the beaker to keep out dust. Any kind of loose tent will work though. After 10 or 12 days, the olive oil will go through a phase where it will produce lots of big foamy bubbles which can rise to the top of the beaker (and possibly overflow-thus the caution about not adding too much olive oil). That phase will pass and the bubbles will soon become much finer and the foam will then become smaller in volume. Eventually, the foaming will stop altogether. After running the process for 3 or 4 weeks, the olive will have a thick, syrupy consistency. You can use this form for oral application or use it for other applications with require a semi- liquid consistency. Use your imagination and run some experiments. Ozonated olive oil is extremely useful. I'm sure you can come up with a few tricks of your own.

By attaching the ozone molecule to the olive oil molecular matrix, you can apply the ozone topically to lesions, cuts, abrasions, infections, scars, wounds, etc. Its therapeutic capacities can be amazing. If you have a serious external lesion or infection that is not healing, you should consider using Ozonated olive oil.

The Story of Blood Electrification ©

Update!November 18, 2006: Important 1996 Lab Report from Kaali & Lyman Detailing the Deactivation of HIV/AIDS Virus with minute Direct Electrical Currents --Seen for the first time on the internet

Biocompatible Electric Current Attentuates HIV Infectivity (Nov. 18, 2006)
http://educate-yourself.org/cn/LymanKaalibiocompatibleHIV1996report18nov06.shtml

The Discovery

In the Fall of 1990, two medical researchers, Drs.William Lyman and Steven Kaali, working at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City made an important discovery. They found that they could inactivate the HIV virus by applying a low voltage direct current electrical potential with an extremely small current flow to AIDS infected blood in a test tube. Initially, they discovered this in the lab by inserting two platinum electrodes into a glass tube filled with HIV-1 (type 1) infected blood. They applied a direct current to the electrodes and found that a current flow in the range of 50-100 microamperes (uA) produced the most effective results. Practically all of the HIV viral particles were adversely affected while normal blood cells remained unharmed. The viral particles were not directly destroyed by the electric current, but rather the outer protein coating of the virus was affected in such a way as to prevent the virus from producing reverse transcriptase, a necessary enzyme needed by the virus to invade human cells. Reverse transcriptase allows the virus to enter a human T cell line (called CEM-SS) and commandeer the DNA reproduction machinery. After using the host cell to reproduce itself into thousands of new virii, the swollen host cell (now called syncytia or giant cell) will burst and spew the contents into the bloodstream or lymph system. This is how the virus spreads, but lacking reverse transcriptase, the HIV virus can't invade the host cell and it becomes vulnerable to destruction by the body's immune system. (The details of this experiment can be read from Kaali's patent application.)

Getting the Word Out?

A brief announcement of this discovery appeared in The Houston Post (Mar 20, 1991), then in Science News (Mar. 30, 1991 pg. 207) and later in Longevitymagazine: (Dec.1992 pg. 14). Following their work in the Fall of 1990, Kaali and Lyman presented their findings at the First International Symposium on Combination Therapies (an AIDS conference) in Washington DC on March 14th, 1991. Kaali outlined two methods for treating an AIDS patient with this new therapy: One method involved removing a small amount of blood, electrifying it and then returning it to the patient's body. The second method involved sewing a miniature electrifying power supply along with two tiny electrodes directly into the lumen of an artery. For long term treatment, the mini electrifying unit needed to be removed and relocated to a new artery site after 30-45 days since scar tissue and calcification forming around the implant unit would lead to artery blockage. Kaali (along with co-inventorPeter Schwolsky) filed for a patent on this implantable electrifying device on Nov 16, 1990 and nine months later was granted patent #5,139,684 on August 18, 1992. It's interesting to note two things here:

1. In order to obtain a patent from the United States Patent Office, Kaali and Schwolsky had to prove that the device works as claimed. Lacking solid proof, US patents are simply not granted.

2. Very often it takes years to obtain a patent, yet this patent was granted in only nine months; a further indication to me of the strength of their demonstrated claims

It's also interesting to note that other than the 3 publications mentioned above and the March '91 AIDS conference, nothing again appeared in print, radio, or TV about this important discovery as a potential treatment and cure for AIDS from Kaali and company. Most knowledgeable observers feel that Kaali and Lyman's discovery was intentionally suppressed following the March '91 AIDS conference presentation. If AIDS research was on the level and not the sham that it actually is, this should have made front page news around the world. (Around 1999, I was contacted by a woman with AIDS who had managed to reach Dr. William Lyman over the phone. She asked him about his experiments with Kaali regarding blood electrification and if she could obtain the treatment through them. Lyman denied any knowledge of any AIDS treatment or cure. He said he never heard of Dr. Kaali and he had no idea what she was talking about concerning blood electrification and then hung up on her. What does that tell about the power of the people behind the suppression of this discovery?)

Enter Dr Bob Beck

A man named Walter Schnitder drew Dr Robert C. Beck'sattention to the above-mentioned item in Science News. Beck looked up the patent and decided to try and duplicate the therapy, but he wanted to do it non-invasively; that is by applying the electric current from outside the body. Now if you apply a direct current (DC) potential to the skin, you're going to get an electrolysis effect and that can cause problems, so Beck designed a circuit that varied the voltage with an alternating current (AC) at a very low frequency and avoided the electrolysis problem. The waveform that Beck chose is not the typical sine wave seen in AC household outlets, but rather is a bi-phasic square wave, meaning that the waveform voltage has a positive half and a negative half, allowing the current to reverse direction each half cycle. Square waves generate a large number of harmonics. Harmonics are frequency multiples of the original frequency. Odd harmonics are mutibles of the original frequency multiplied by 3, 5, 7 etc. and even harmonics are multibles of 2. For example, the odd harmonics of a 4 Hertz (Hz) square wave would be 12 Hz , 20 Hz, 28 Hz, etc. right up into the radio frequency range.

Georges Lakhovsky, Nikola Tesla and many other scientists had discovered that everything in Nature has its own resonant frequency including every bacteria, virus, parasite, and fungus on the planet. Dr. Royal Rife was able to cure terminal, end stage cancers in the 1930's by applying the specific resonant frequencies of certain unique bacteria that are always assocaited wtih all types of cancers. The steady application of the bacteria's resonant frequency by plasma wave radiation caused the bacteria to internally shatter and eviscerate, thus destroying it (and all the other bacteria within the body that possessed the same resonant frequency) .

While Kaali and Lyman used DC current to deactivate the AIDS virus, Beck found that he could get he same results using the 3.92HZ square wave. Kaali and Lyman found that the amount of the current applied was the critcal factor and if they kept the current within a range of 50-100 micro amperes- they were able to disable the HIV virus within a petri dish as mentioned above. Kaali then worked out a design of a small battery with two tiny electrodes that could be sewn directly into an artery in the arm or leg. By maintaining the current flow between the two electrodes within the 50-100 micro ampere range, the HIV particles were gradually disabled within the bloodstream and the AIDS victim would gradually recover his health. The procedure required surgery that costs about $5,000 (at that time). The implanted electrodes would cause scarring of the artery walls, so they had to be removed and implanted in a new section of an artery every month or so, costing another $5,000 each time the procedure was done. It took about 6 or 7 months to see a substantial improvement in the AIDS patient.

Beck studied Kaali's patent and tried applying the electrodes to the skin directly over those arteries that were close enough to the skin surface. The 50-100 micro ampere current could be created within the artery by electromagnetic induction allowing the entire therapy to be applied externally, without the need for implanting electrodes into the arteries. The device he put together to accomplish this is today called a blood electrifier.

Beck started by applying his blood electrifier to himself. He originally placed the electrodes over leg arteries near the ankles of either leg, then changed the location to two different spots on the arm, and finally found that it worked just as well if he placed the two electrodes near each other over the ulnar and radial arteries just behind the wrist. To find the correct location in order to center the electrodes exactly over the artieries, Bob recommends carefully feeling for the pulse of either artery and marking the path of the artery with a ball point pen. You can then memorize the correct location and align the electrodes over the artery path precisely and hold them in place with a stretchy wrist band that's held together with velcro.

Beck Breakfast Group
Bob Beck has been giving talks for many, many years on a variety of topics from Tesla to psychotronics. I first heard him in 1994 on an after-midnight radio show out of Los Angeles called "Something's Happening" with Roy of Hollywood (KPFK, 90.7 FM). Bob was getting ready to give a talk at the Pasadena Health Expo that upcoming weekend and proceeded to explain to Roy what he had discovered with blood electrification. I was amazed and blown away by what he told Roy. I had to learn more, so I made it my business to be at that convention and attend Bob's talk.

The Drug Story

"The truth about cures without drugs is suppressed, unless it suits the purpose of the censor to garble it. Whether these cures are effected by chiropractors, Naturopaths, Naprapaths, Osteopaths, Faith Healers, Spiritualists, Herbalists, Christian Scientists, or MDs who use the brains they have, you never read about it in the big newspapers." ...Morris A. Bealle

By Morris A. Bealle
Essay by Hans Ruesch
http://educate-yourself.org/fc/drugstory.shtml

In the 30's, Morris A. Bealle, a former city editor of the old Washington Times and Herald, was running a county seat newspaper, in which the local power company bought a large advertisement every week. This account took quite a lot of worry off Bealle' s shoulders when the bills came due. But according to Bealle' s own story, one day the paper took up the cudgels for some of its readers that were being given poor service from the power company, and Morris Bealle received the dressing down of his life from the advertising agency which handled the power company' s account. They told him that any more such 'stepping out of line' would result in the immediate cancellation not only of the advertising contract, but also of the gas company and the telephone company.

That' s when Bealle' s eyes were opened to the meaning of a 'free press', and he decided to get out of the newspaper business. He could afford to do that because he belonged to the landed gentry of Maryland, but not all newspaper editors are that lucky.

Bealle used his professional experience to do some deep digging into the freedom-of-the-press situation and came up with two shattering exposes - The Drug Story, and The House of Rockefeller. The fact that in spite of his familiarity with the editorial world and many important personal contacts he couldn't get his revelations into print until he founded his own company, The Columbia Publishing House, Washington D.C., in 1949, was just a prime example of the silent but adamant censorship in force in 'the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave'. Although The Drug Story is one of the most important books on health and politics ever to appear in the USA, it has never been admitted to a major bookstore nor reviewed by any establishment paper, and was sold exclusively by mail. Nevertheless, when we first got to read it, in the 1970s, it was already in its 33rd printing, under a different label - Biworld Publishers, Orem, Utah.

As Bealle pointed out, a business which makes 6% on its invested capital is considered a sound money maker. Sterling Drug, Inc., the main cog and largest holding company in the Rockefeller Drug Empire and its 68 subsidiaries, showed operating profits in 1961 of $23,463,719 after taxes, on net assets of $43,108,106 - a 54% profit. Squibb, another Rockefeller controlled company, in 1945 made not 6% but 576% on the actual value of its property.

That was during the luscious war years when the Army Surgeon General's Office and the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery were not only acting as promoters for the Drug Trust, but were actually forcing drug trust poisons into the blood streams of American soldiers, sailors and marines, to the tune of over 200 million 'shots'. Is it any wonder, asked Bealle, that the Rockefellers, and their stooges in the Food and Drug Administration, the U.S. Public Health Service, the Federal Trade Commission, the Better Business Bureau, the Army Medical Corps, the Navy Bureau of Medicine, and thousands of health officers all over the country, should combine to put out of business all forms of therapy that discourage the use of drugs.

'The last annual report of the Rockefeller Foundation', reported Bealle, 'itemizes the gifts [grants] it has made to colleges and public agencies in the past 44 years, and they total somewhat over half a billion dollars. These colleges, of course, teach their students all the drug lore the Rockefeller pharmaceutical houses want taught. Otherwise there would be no more gifts, just as there are no gifts to any of the 30 odd colleges in the United States that don't use therapies based on drugs.

'Harvard, with its well publicized medical school, has received $8,764,433 of Rockefeller's Drug Trust money, Yale got $7 ,927,800, Johns Hopkins $10,418,531, Washington University in St. Louis $2,842,132, New York's Columbia University $5,424,371, Cornell University $1,709,072, ete., etc.'

And while 'giving away' those huge sums to drug propagandizing colleges, the Rockefeller interests were growing to a world-wide web that no one could entirely explore. Already well over 30 years ago it was large enough for Bealle to demonstrate that the Rockefeller interests had created, built up and developed the most far reaching industrial empire ever conceived in the mind of man. Standard Oil was of course the foundation upon which all of the other Rockefeller industries have been built. The story of Old John D., as ruthless an industrial pirate as ever came down the pike, is well known, but is being today conveniently ignored. The keystone of this mammoth industrial empire was the Chase National Bank, now renamed the Chase Manhattan Bank.

Not the least of its holdings are in the drug business. The Rockefellers own the largest drug manufacturing combine in the world, and use all of their other interests to bring pressure to increase the sale of drugs. The fact that most of the 12,000 separate drug items on the market are harmful is of no concern to the Drug Trust...

The Rockefeller Foundation was first set up in 1904 and called the General Education Fund. An organization called the Rockefeller Foundation, ostensibly to supplement the General Education Fund, was formed in 1910 and through long finagling and lots of Rockefeller money got the New York legislature to issue a charter on May 14, 1913.

It is therefore not surprising that the House of Rockefeller has had its own 'nominees' planted in all Federal agencies that have to do with health. So the stage was set for the 'education' of the American public, with a view to turning it into a population of drug and medico dependents, with the early help of the parents and the schools, then with direct advertising and, last but not least, the influence the advertising revenues had on the media makers.

A compilation of the magazine Advertising Age showed that as far back as 1948 the larger companies in America spent for advertising the sum total of $1,104,224,374, when the dollar was still worth a dollar and not half a zloty. Of this staggering sum the interlocking Rockefeller-Morgan interests (gone over entirely to Rockefeller after Morgan' s death) controlled about 80 percent, and utilized it to manipulate public information on health and drug matters - then and even more recklessly now.

'Even the most independent newspapers are dependent on their press associations for their national news,' Bealle pointed out, 'and there is no reason for a news editor to suspect that a story coming over the wires of the Associated Press, the United Press or the International News Service is censored when it concerns health matters. Yet this is what happens constantly.'

In fact in the '50s the Drug Trust had one of its directors on the directorate of the Associated Press. He was no less than Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times and as such one of the most powerful Associated Press directors.

It was thus easy for the Rockefeller Trust to persuade the Associated Press Science Editor to adopt a policy which would not permit any medical news to clear that is not approved by the Drug Trust 'expert', and this censor is not going to approve any item that can in any way hurt the sale of drugs.

This accounts to this day for the many fake stories of serums and medical cures and just-around-the-corner breakthrough victories over cancer, AIDS, diabetes, multiple sclerosis, which go out brazenly over the wires to all daily newspapers in America and abroad.

Emanuel M. Josephson, M.D., whom the Drug Trust has been unable to intimidate despite many attempts, pointed out that the National Association of Science Writers was 'persuaded' to adopt as part of its code of ethics the following chestnut: 'Science editors are incapable of judging the facts of phenomena involved in medical and scientific discovery. Therefore, they only report 'discoveries' approved by medical authorities, or those presented before a body of scientific peers.'

This explains why Bantam Books, America's biggest publisher, made a colossal mistake in its initial enthusiasm and optimism sending review copies of SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENT to the 3,500 'science writers' on its list, instead of addressing them to the literary book reviewers who are not subject to medical censorship. One single censor decreed NO and SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENT sank in silence.

Thus newspapers continue to be fed with propaganda about drugs and their alleged value, although according to the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) 1.5 million people landed in hospitals in 1978 because of medication side effects in the U.S. alone, and despite recurrent statements by intelligent and courageous medical men that most pharmaceutical items on sale are useless at best, but more often harmful or deadly in the long run.

The truth about cures without drugs is suppressed, unless it suits the purpose of the censor to garble it. Whether these cures are effected by Chiropractors, Naturopaths, Naprapaths, Osteopaths, Faith Healers, Spiritualists, Herbalists, Christian Scientists, or MDs who use the brains they have, you never read about it in the big newspapers.

To teach the Rockefeller drug ideology, it is necessary to teach that Nature didn't know what she was doing when she made the human body. But statistics issued by the Children's Bureau of the Federal Security Agency show that since the all-out drive of the Drug Trust for drugging, vaccinating and serumizing the human system, the health of the American nation has sharply declined, especially among children. Children are now given 'shots' for this and 'shots' for that, when the only safeguard known to science is a pure bloodstream, which can be obtained only with clean air and wholesome food. Meaning by natural and inexpensive means. Just what the Drug Trust most objects to.

When the FDA, whose officials have to be acceptable to Rockefeller Center before they are appointed, has to put an independent operator out of business, it goes all out to execute those orders. But the orders do not come directly from Standard Oil or a drug house director. As Morris Bealle pointed out, the American Medical Association (AMA) is the front for the Drug Trust, and furnishes the quack doctors to testify that even when they know nothing of the product involved, it is their considered opinion that it has no therapeutic value.

Wrote Bealle:
'Financed by the taxpayers, these Drug Trust persecutions leave no stone unturned to destroy the victim. If he is a small operator, the resulting attorney's fees and court costs put him out of business. In one case, a Dr. Adolphus Hohensee of Scranton, Pa., who had stated that vitamins (he used natural ones) were vital to good health, was taken to court for 'misbranding' his product. The American Medical Association furnished ten medicos who reversed all known medical theories by testifying that 'vitamins are not necessary to the human body'. Confronted with government bulletins to the contrary, the medicos wiggled out of that one by declaring that these standard publications were outdated!'

In addition to the FDA, Bealle listed the following agencies having to do with 'health' - i.e., with the health of the Drug Trust to the detriment of the citizens - as being dependent on Rockefeller: U.S. Public Health Service, U.S. Veterans Administration, Federal Trade Commission, Surgeon General of the Air Force, Army Surgeon General' s Office, Navy Bureau of Medicine & Surgery, National Health Research Institute, National Research Council, National Academy of Sciences.

The National Academy of Sciences in Washington is considered the all wise body which investigates everything under the sun, especially in the field of health, and gives to a palpitating public the last word in that science. To the important post at the head of this agency, the Drug Trust had one of their own appointed. He was none other than Alfred N. Richards, one of the directors and largest stockholders of Merck & Company, which was making huge profits from its drug traffic.

When Bealle revealed this fact, Richards resigned forthwith, and the Rockefellers appointed in his place the President of their own Rockefeller Institution, Detlev W. Bronk.

The medico drug cartel was summed up by J.W Hodge, M.D., of Niagara Falls, N.Y., in these words: 'The medical monopoly or medical trust, euphemistically called the American Medical Association, is not merely the meanest monopoly ever organized, but the most arrogant, dangerous and despotic organization which ever managed a free people in this or any other age. Any and all methods of healing the sick by means of safe, simple and natural remedies are sure to be assailed and denounced by the arrogant leaders of the AMA doctors' trust as fakes, frauds and humbugs Every practitioner of the healing art who does not ally himself with the medical trust is denounced as a 'dangerous quack' and impostor by the predatory trust doctors. Every sanitarium who attempts to restore the sick to a state of health by natural means without resort to the knife or poisonous drugs, disease imparting serums, deadly toxins or vaccines, is at once pounced upon by these medical tyrants and fanatics, bitterly denounced, vilified and persecuted to the fullest extent.'

The Lincoln Chiropractic College in Indianapolis requires 4,496 hours, the Palmer Institute Chiropractic in Davenport a minimum of 4,000 60 minute classroom hours, the University of Natural Healing Arts in Denver five years of 1,000 hours each to qualify for a degree. The National College of Naprapathy in Chicago requires 4,326 classroom hours for graduation. Yet the medico drug cartel spreads the propaganda that the practitioners of these three 'heretic' sciences are poorly trained or not trained at all - the real reason being that they cure their patients without the use of drugs. In 1958, one of those 'ill trained' doctors, Nicholas P. Grimaldi, who had just graduated from the Lincoln Chiropractic College, took the basic science examination of the Connecticut State Board along with 63 medics and osteopaths. He made the highest mark (91.6) ever made by a doctor taking the Connecticut State Board examination.

Rockefeller' s various 'educational' activities had proved so profitable in the U S. that in 1927 the International Educational Board was launched, as Junior' s own, personal charity, and endowed with $21,000,000 for a starter, to be lavished on foreign universities and politicos, with all the usual strings attached. This Board undertook to export the 'new' Rockefeller image as a benefactor of mankind, as well as his business practices. Nobody informed the beneficiaries that every penny the Rockefellers seemed to be throwing out the window would come back, bearing substantial interest, through the front door.

Rockefeller had always had a particular interest in China, where Standard Oil was almost the sole supplier of kerosene and oil 'for the lamps of China'. So he put up money to establish the China Medical Board and to build the Peking Union Medical College, playing the role of the Great White Father who has come to dispense knowledge on his lowly children. The Rockefeller Foundation invested up to $45,000,000 into 'westernizing' (read corrupting) Chinese medicine.

Medical colleges were instructed that if they wished to benefit from the Rockefeller largesse they had better convince 500 million Chinese to throw into the ashcan the safe and useful but inexpensive herbal remedies of their barefoot doctors, which had withstood the test of centuries, in favor of the expensive carcinogenic and teratogenic 'miracle' drugs Made in USA, which had to be replaced constantly with new ones, when the fatal side effects could no longer be concealed; and if they couldn't 'demonstrate' through large-scale animal experiments the effectiveness of their ancient acupuncture, this could not be recognized as having any 'scientific value'. Its millenarian effectiveness proven on human beings was of no concern to the Western wizards.

But when the Communists came to power in China and it was no longer possible to trade, the Rockefellers suddenly lost interest in the health of the Chinese people and shifted their attention increasingly to Japan, India and Latin America.

'No candid study of his career can lead to other conclusion than that he is victim of perhaps the ugliest of all passions, that for money, money as an end. It is not a pleasant picture.... this money maniac secretly, patiently, eternally plotting how he may add to his wealth.... He has turned commerce to war, and honey-combed it with cruel and corrupt practices.... And he calls his great organization a benefaction, and points to his church-going and charities as proof of his righteousness. This is supreme wrong-doing cloaked by religion. There is but one name for it - hypocrisy. '

This was the description Ida Tarbell made of John D. Rockefeller in her 'History of the Standard Oil Company', serialized in 1905 in the widely circulated McClure's Magazine. And that was several years before the 'Ludlow Massacre', so JDR was as yet far from having reached the apex of his disrepute. But after World War II it would have been hard to read, in America or abroad, a single criticism of JDR, nor of Junior, who had followed in his father' s footsteps, nor of Junior' s four sons who all endeavored to emulate their illustrious forbears. Today's various encyclopedias extant in public libraries of the Western world have nothing but praise for the Family. How was this achieved?

Ironically, the two apparently most NEGATIVE events in the career of JDR brought about a huge POSITIVE change in his favor, to a degree that he himself could not foresee. To wit:

In the year when according to the current Encyclopedia Britanica (long become a Rockefeller property and transferred from Oxford to Chicago), Rockefeller had 'retired from active business', namely in 1911, he had been convicted by a U.S. court of illegal practices and ordered to dissolve the Standard Oil Trust, which comprised 40 corporations. This imposed dissolution was to provide his Empire with added might, to a degree that was unprecedented in the history of modem business. Until then, the Trust had existed for all to see - an exposed target. After that, it went underground, and thereby its power was cloaked in security, and could keep expanding unseen and therefore unopposed.

The Ludlow Massacre

The second apparently negative experience was a certain 1914 event that persuaded JDR, until then utterly contemptuous of public opinion, to gloss over his own image.

The United Mine Workers had asked for higher wages and better living conditions for the miners of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, one of the many Rockefeller owned companies.

The miners - mostly immigrants from Europe' s poorest countries - lived in shacks provided by the company at exorbitant rent. Their low wages ($1.68 a day) were paid in script redeemable only at company stores charging high prices. The churches they attended were the pastorates of company-hired ministers; their children were taught in company-controlled schools; the company libraries excluded books that the Bible-thumping Rockefellers deemed 'subversive', such as 'Darwin's Origin of the Species.' The company maintained a force of detectives, mine guards, and spies whose job it was to keep the camp quarantined from the danger of unionization.

When the miners struck, JDR, Jr., then officially in command of the company, and his father' s hatchet man, the Baptist Reverend Frederick T. Gates, who was a director of the Rockefeller Foundation, refused even to negotiate. They evicted the strikers from the company-owned shacks, hired a thousand strike-breakers from the Baldwin-Felts detective agency, and persuaded Governor Ammons to call out the National Guard to help break the strike.

Open warfare resulted. Guardsmen, miners, their women and children, who since their eviction were camping in tents, were ruthlessly killed, until the frightened Governor wired President Wilson for Federal Troops, who eventually crushed the strike, The New York Times, which then already could never be accused of being unfriendly to the Rockefeller interests, reported on April 21, 1914.

'A 14 hour battle between striking coal miners and members of the Colorado National Guard in the Ludlow district today culminated in the killing of Louis Tikas, leader of the Greek strikers, and the destruction of the Ludlow tent colony by fire.'

And the following day.

'Forty five dead (32 of them women and children), a score missing and more than a score wounded is the known result of the 14 hour battle which raged between state troops and coal miners in the Ludlow district, on the property of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company, the Rockefeller holding. The Ludlow is a mass of charred debris, and buried beneath it is a story of horror unparalleled in the history of industrial warfare. In the holes that had been dug for their protection against rifle fire, the women and children died like trapped rats as the flames swept over them. One pit uncovered this afternoon disclosed the bodies of ten children and two women.'

The worldwide revulsion that followed was such that JDR decided to hire the most talented press agent in the country, Ivy Lee, who got the tough assignment of whitewashing the tycoon' s bloodied image.

When Lee learned that the newly organized Rockefeller Foundation had $100 million lying around for promotional purposes without knowing what to do with it, he came with a plan to donate large sums - none less than a million- to well known colleges, hospitals, churches and benevolent organizations. The plan was accepted. So were the millions. And they made headlines all over the world, for in the days of the gold standard and the five cent cigar there was a maxim in every newspaper office that a million dollars was always news.

That was the beginning of the cleverly worded medical reports on new 'miracle' drugs and 'just-around-the-corner breakthroughs' planted in the leading news offices and press associations that continue to this day, and the flighty public soon forgot, or forgave, the massacre of foreign immigrants for the dazzling display of generosity and philanthropy financed by the ballooning Rockefeller fortune and going out, with thunderous press fanfare, to various 'worthy' institutions.

In the following years, not only newsmen, but whole newspapers were bought, financed or founded with Rockefeller money. So Time Magazine, which Henry Luce started in 1923, had been taken over by J.P. Morgan when the magazine got into fInancial difficulties. When Morgan died and his financial empire crumbled, the House of Rockefeller wasted no time in taking over this lush editorial plum also, together with its sisters Fortune and Life, and built for them an expensive 14 story home of their own in Rockefeller Center - the Time & Life Building.

Rockefeller was also co-owner of Time's 'rival' magazine, Newsweek, which had been established in the early days of the New Deal with money put up by Rockefeller, Vincent Astor, the Harrimann family and other members and allies of the House.

For all his innate cynicism, JDR must have been himself surprised to discover how easily the so-called intellectuals could be bought. Indeed, they turned out to be among his best investments.

By founding and lavishly endowing his Education Boards at home and abroad, Rockefeller won control not only of the governments and politicos but also of the intellectual and scientific community, starting with the Medical Power - the organization that forms those priests of the New Religion that are the modern medicine men. No Pulitzer or Nobel or any similar prize endowed with money and prestige has ever been awarded to a declared foe of the Rockefeller system.

Henry Luce, officially founder and editor of Time Magazine, but constantly dependent on House advertising, also distinguished himself in his adulation of his sponsors. JDR's son had been responsible for the Ludlow massacre, and an obedient partner in his father' s most unsavory actions. Nonetheless, in 1956 Henry Luce put Junior on the cover of Time, and the feature story, soberly titled 'The Good Man', included hyperbole like this:

'It is because John D. Rockefeller Junior's is a life of constructive social giving that he ranks as an authentic American hero, just as certainly as any general who ever won a victory for an American army or any statesman who triumphed in behalf of U.S.

Clearly, Time's editorial board wasn't given the choice to change its tune even after the passing of Junior and Henry Luce, since it remained just as dependent on House of Rockefeller advertising. Thus, when in 1979 one of Junior's sons, Nelson A. Rockefeller died - who had been one of the loudest hawks in the Vietnam and other American wars, and was personally responsible for the massacre of prisoners and hostages at Attica prison - Time said of him in it obituary, without laughing:

'He was driven by a mission to serve, improve and uplift his country.'

Perhaps it was all this that Prof. Peter Singer had in mind when telling the judges in Italy that the Rockefeller Foundation was a humanitarian enterprise bent on doing good works. One of their best works seems to be sponsoring Prof. Peter Singer, the world's greatest animal friend and protector who claims that vivisection is indispensable for medical progress and for more than 20 years refuses to mention that legions of medical doctors are of the opposite view.

Another interesting revelation in the article of Time was that many years ago already Singer 'was pleasantly surprised when Britanica approached him to distill in about 30,000 words the discipline that is, at its heart, the systematic study of what we ought to do.' So now we touch the subject of sponsorship and patronage. They don' t always mean immediate cash but, more important, long-term profits.

Many decades ago the Encyclopedia Britannica moved from Oxford to Chicago because Rockefeller had bought it to add much needed luster to the University of Chicago and its medical school, the first one he had founded. Peter Singer, 'the world's greatest animal defender' who keeps a door permanently open to vivisection and the lucrative medical swindle, gets millions of dollars free publicity thanks to the worldwide engagement of the Rockefeller Foundation and the media makers who are in no position to oppose it.

From the article in Time we also learned that Singer' s mother had been a medical doctor in the old country, which could mean that little Peter started assimilating all the Rockefeller superstition on vivisection with his mother's milk.

Vaccine Dangers~ Index of Articles

Update: July 16, 2023

The Covid-19 Worldwide Depopulation/Genocide Agenda
The Covid-19 "Pandemic" is government-sponsored HOAX intended to frighten you into injecting yourself with an immune-system-destroying Bioweapon falsely labeled as the "Covid-19 vaccine" by the government and main stream media

The Covid-19 "vaccine" was developed by the United States Department of Defense (DOD) in order to 1) destroy your immune system and prevent pregnancy and 2) eventually poison your body to such as extent that most Jab recipients will die within 5 years of being injected - - UNLESS you take adequate steps to detoxify and remove these high tech poisons from your body and restore your health.

The dangers of vaccinations to your child's long term health prospects and longevity itself far outweigh any potential benefits touted by the pharmaceutical industry for vaccines. The LIES and misinformation about vaccine benefits ("safe and effective") from the pharmaceutical drug industry and their promoters in state and federal "health" agencies, in radio, on TV, in print, and their cheerleaders in organized medicine is voluminous and smothering, characterizing anyone (regardless of academic or professional credentials) who challenges their party line dogma as "crazy," or uneducated, or unscientific, or "quacks," or dilletantes, or paranoid & delusional -- any and every derogatory characterization in the book, except legitimate critics (who they will NEVER debate in a public forum - because they know they would lose).

Don't allow your child to go on the chopping block for these Liars and their profit margins. They aren't working for you, they're servants of the Illuminati and the Illuminati has a surreptitious population reduction agenda in place.

Just say NO!

Tell the doctor, tell the clinic, tell the school, tell the nurse, tell the employer, tell the government bureaucrats, tell the health department, or anybody else who is trying to force you or your kids to take vaccines against your will...."because you must take them", Tell them... NO.

No matter WHAT they say or threaten you with, tell them ....NO.

No vaccines.... ever. Period. You can read why below:

Update July 22, 2015: The most powerful, and convincing video lectures I've seen to date explaining how and why vaccines damage the body are contained in a 3 volume DVD series of slide lectures by Dr. Andrew Moulden MD PhD, titled Tolerance Lost, which is now available free online. All 3 volumes of the video series can be found at the link below, along with a brilliant introductory article posted by Dr. Moulden on August 3, 2009 explaining how vaccines create blockage and "sludging" of blood flow into the miles of tiny, microscopic sized capillary networks that deliver oxygen to the brain, neurons, and all functioning cells of the human body.

Swine/Bird Flu 'Pandemic' Hoax of 2009-2010

Update, Dec. 26, 2010:

The Fall & Winter of 2009 saw an unprecedented propaganda campaign, conducted worldwide, spearheaded by the Rockefeller-founded World Health Organization (WHO) in league with pharmaceutical giants and the governments of America and Great Britain principally, to convince all of us that we were in the grips of a dangerous "Swine Flu Pandemic" that would supposedly kill millions if we didn't rush out and line up for our Swine Flu vaccination.

Many people fell for that deceitful campaign and some paid the ultimate price for their misplaced trust and gullibility. We came very close to having mandatory vaccination forced upon us, or face the possibility of being quarantined in our home or in a detention camp.

This year, Fall/Winter of 2010. the Swine Flu propaganda is more muted and less strident, but the same lies continue to be repeated by mainstream media, radio, and web sites. The lies foisted by the above-named criminal groups are now known to a much wider public population than was the case in Spring and Summer of 2009, so hopefully the specter of a FORCED vaccination scenario will not arise again soon, but beware that any attempt to force vaccines upon you, without your consent, can only come about through false flag manipulation and deceit. NEVER acquiesce to vaccination against your will. Modern vaccines are intended to destroy life, not preserve life.

Web host Ian Sinclair has written 3 books to date defining the dangers of vaccines. His 17 years of research into the pitfalls of vaccines is summarized on his page describing his background (http://www.vaccinationdebate.com/about.html). He offers an open challenge to debate any doctor in the world on the merits of vaccinations. In 1985, Ian decided that his one year old child's first severe allergic reaction to vaccine was going to be his LAST reaction to any form of vaccine. He already was studying the Natural Approach, but now decided to jump in with both feet. He wants you to discover the same truths that he has found in following Nature's Rules. An excellent web site. Generation Rescue (http://www.generationrescue.org)

An international movement of parent volunters helping more than 10,000 children begin biomedical treatment. Our children are experiencing epidemics of ADD/ADHD, Asperger's, PDD-NOS, and Autism. We believe these neurological disorders ("NDs") are environmental illnesses caused by an overload of heavy metals, live viruses, and bacteria. Proper treatment of our children, known as "biomedical intervention", is leading to recovery for thousands. The cause of this epidemic of NDs is extremely controversial. We believe the primary causes include the tripling of vaccines given to children in the last 15 years (mercury, aluminum and live viruses); maternal toxic load and prenatal vaccines; heavy metals like mercury in our air, water, and food; and the overuse of antibiotics.
Generation Rescue is a parent-founded, parent-funded, and parent-led organization of more than 350 families. Our mission is to share the truth with parents about the cause of their child's NDs so they can focus on treatment.

(Update Oct 17, 2010. If I had any type of cancer, the LAST thing I would do is subject myself to any form of chemo therapy or radiation, no matter how fancily they dressed up the treatment description name to make it sound like it's a 'kinder and gentler' form of chemo or radiation therapy (such as "proton therapy"). Don't discover, when it's too late, that the orthodox cancer treatment industry, or the orthodox AIDS/HIV treatment industry or the Vaccine/Pharmaceutical industry is in it for the money--and ONLY the money. Curing you of disease is not part of their 'mission' -- despite what they may tell you, or what they themselves might believe. .

Managing your disease is what they do best, in order to keep you coming back for more of their expensive "treatment" (poisoning actually) while eating up your medical insurance coverage and/or draining your bank account and all of your savings in the process. Millions of people needlessly die of cancer each year because they cling to the myth and mistaken belief that their wonderful oncologist, with his wonderful chemo and radiation therapies are going to cure them of cancer, when in fact, the evidence is abundantly clear, that chemo and radiation are the worst possible choice to treat cancer; meaning that chemo and radiation have the lowest track record of success among all cancer therapies.

A German doctor, Dr. Otto Warburg, discovered in the 1930s that cancer cells grow in a low or zero oxygen environment and they die in a high oxygen environment. In a low or zero oxygen environment, cancer cells, in order to obtain energy to function, revert to fermentation, rather than the normal energy cellular pathway of the Krebs cycle which utilizes oxygen. Alternative cancer treatments which utilize higher pressures of oxygen (O2), such as a hyperbaric chamber, or utilize an oxidizing modality (the singlet oxygen radical, O1)) such as ozone, or hydrogen peroxide, or sodium chlorite, will knock down cancer cells because cancer cells cannot exist in an oxygen rich environment. People who maintain a high oxygen internal cellular environment, by eating alkaline forming foods, and avoid taking in substances which clog up the body, do not get cancer (generally speaking; you can of course get cancer from too much radiation and other forms of bodily poisoning).

Dr. Hulda Clark, in her many years of cancer etiology research using the Syncrometer, discovered how any type of cancer begins in the body and how to stop that cancer from continuing to grow, and how to eliminate the cancer tumors from the body, thus curing the body of this dreaded disease. You can effect a cancer cure yourself - at home - without the immunity-destroying assistance of the orthodox cancer industry and without bequeathing your entire life's saving and assets to the parasites who comprise that industry . Her books are listed below. Another short book was recently made available to me which explains in a very succinct way how to stop cancer cold by adjusting the diet and taking certain supplements...)

Introduction

When I was a much younger person growing up in the greater New York metropolitan area, the word "cancer" struck more fear in my heart than any other word in the English language. We really didn't have much cancer in our immediate family, but the occasional relative or school friend that did go to an early grave from this frightening and mysterious disease had me worried enough to look into finding out where the best cancer hospitals and clinics in the country were located, so if I did get cancer, I would know where to go for the most knowledgeable treatment and maximize my chances of survival. I wasn't going to entrust my life to some local yokel oncologist who wasn't up on the the most recent research or the latest equipment and diagnostic gear. No sir. If I got cancer, I was going to head straight for the Big Boys of Cancer Research.

After doing some research at the library, I found out that Sloan-Kettering Institute Memorial Hospital in New York had one of the biggest reputations in the country as a major cancer research hospital and was only a 45 minute drive into New York City. Whew! What a load off my mind. I could rest easier now. I not only knew where to go for the best treatment, but felt 'lucky' to have such a major cancer center located nearby. Of course, it never occurred to me how I was going to pay for their top shelf treatment, but at 22 years old, those sort of details never burdened my mind for long. Somehow, it would all work out.

Today, I have a rather different opinion of the entire matter. I now understand why I was so fearful of getting cancer in my youth and why I had been led to believe that Sloan-Kettering was the best possible place to go for the treatment of cancer. I, along with 98% of the country, had been snookered and deceived into believing it by a huge pharmaceutical propaganda machine that inculcates its deceit upon our schools, text books, magazines, professional journals, scientific writers, radio shows, TV shows, screen plays, movies, and of course, the vast majority of allopathic doctors, nurses, and other so called "health" professionals into a knee jerk acceptance of its lies as the gospel truth. If you want to examine the 'business' of health care and the cancer industry more closely, read The Story on Drugs and go to our Introduction and Forbidden Cures pages.

Cancer & You

Now we come to you. You are reading this page because you either know someone who has cancer, or you have cancer yourself., or far more rarely, you want to find out how to beat cancer before you are confronted with that grim diagnosis. The vast majority of you (or your loved ones) have likely already gone through the 'best' that the Sloan-Kettering's of the world have to offer and now you're being told that "there's nothing more that can be done" or " It's in God's Hands", etc.

Of course, your bank account or your insurance company is $300K or $500K or $750K poorer than it was before receiving your Sloan-Kettering style treatment and now you no longer own your home, having sold it or mortgaged it to the hilt in order to get the money to pay the miracle workers of the allopathic cancer industry. You've gone through your retirement savings and 401k's or borrowed all you could from your relatives and friends to pay for their wonderful life saving treatment that- unfortunately-didn't work. In all fairness, they did tell you up front that they couldn't guarantee anything, but they indicated to you that you had a 40, 50, or 60% or perhaps a "good" chance of making it- at least for 5 years. Five years of continued breathing on the planet from the day of your cancer diagnosis now being the official, sanctified, and anointed recasting of the "new" definition of the word "cure" by the American Medical Association and the American Cancer Society.

Just so you know, if you die of cancer or its complications just one day after your 5 year anniversary date, you are still statistically carried as a "successful cure"; advertised and touted to the next cancer patient coming in through the front door to use in their spiel to him about his 40, or 50, or 60, or 70% chance of being "cured" with their marvelous, patented, and expensive chemo, radiation, and surgery treatments.

So what's the reality? A year long study at the Heidelberg/Maanheim Tumor Center, completed in 1990 by a German biostatistician named Dr. Ulrich Abel, found that the overall success rate for most cancers treated with standard allopathic treatment (chemo, radiation, & surgery) was just 3%. That's right. Statistically averaged, 97% of cancer patients treated conventionally died of cancer or from complications related to their 'treatment'. The only group of cancers treated conventionally that had a higher batting average were some blood cancers such as leukemia or Hodgkin which approached a 35% success rate.

Also, for your edification, only those allopathic physicians approved by the AMA and the American Cancer Society have the legal authority to use the word "cure" with reference to cancer treatment. Anyone else who dares utter that four letter word in a public forum and is not on the AMA's approved list, can face serious jail time or heavy fines. That Federal law was pushed through by the AMA and their friends a few years ago. How's that for free speech?

The Death Sentence
I can't tell you how many people have programmed their bodies to die because they were told by the orthodox medicine priesthood (their allopathic physician) or a cancer specialist (oncologist) that they were going to die in so many weeks, or so many months or so many years from their cancer. How many people have foolishly placed their trust in the hands of the those who are the least educated in 1. how the human body truly functions, 2. in how cancer begins and why cancer proliferates, and 3. how to treat the body to overcome disease with therapies that are in harmony with Nature?

Undoubtedly, that number runs to many millions of people who went to an early grave because they listened to-and believed- the high priests of organized medicine. Those priests are trained and brain washed from the first day they enter undergraduate school-through graduation from medical school-through internship-and through specialist training, that the ONLY acceptable and sanctioned way to treat cancer is with 1. chemotherapy, 2. surgery, and 3. radiation. With the possible exception of surgery (in some cases), the methods used by orthodox medicine are the worst and most destructive ways to treat cancer.

I don't care what 'stage' of cancer you are rated at and I don't care what type of cancer you've been diagnosed with, you CAN CURE YOURSELF OF CANCER. Your likelihood of success, however, is lowest if you depend on conventional treatment and highest if you employ Nature-based, non-allopathic therapies. Of course, you are free to choose the modality of your choice, even though that choice is largely coerced in the direction of orthodox treatment. You are reading MY opinion in this matter. YOU must decide on your health care decisions and not give away your power to someone else. .

If you prefer to accept the death sentence of an orthodox medicine priest and resign yourself to die on cue, then you likely WILL DIE pretty much within the time frame laid out by the high priest. And then your relatives will remark at your funeral how "wonderful" Dr. So & So of the Big Deal Medical Center is because he was so accurate in his death prediction. He SAID you were going to die in six months and sure enough, you held on for six months and 10 days, so he MUST know what's he's talking about! Of course, your relatives will keep his name in mind if they get a diagnosis of cancer because he seems to be so KNOWLEDGABLE when it comes to cancer.

Every Cancer Can be Cured in Weeks explains Dr. Leonard Coldwell
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DgbdNNfotwM&feature=related

What Causes Cancer?
This is part of the reason why so many people have a strong fear of getting cancer. They don't really understand how or why cancer can take hold in the human body and they aren't given enough information about it by the orthodox cancer industry. Yes, there are plenty of softball reasons offered such as smoking, drinking, radiation exposure, asbestos exposure, radon gas, etc. And yes, these environmental irritants can trigger cancers, but is that all there is to it?

If that were so, then why doesn't everyone who smokes come down with cancer? We all have the same DNA. Are we not of one species, homo sapiens? If the human body was actually a 'wonderful machine' as explained to us in countless science books and TV documentaries, then why don't we all respond like machines to an irritant? If I poured a bag of sugar into my car's gas tank, the engine would stop running. If I poured a bag of sugar into any car's gas tank, the engine would stop running, so why don't our bodies-if they are wonderful machines-respond in a similar fashion?

Why is it that some guy can work in an asbestos plant for 30 years and still die in his bed from natural causes at the age of 89 and Steve Mc Queen, by simply wearing an asbestos-lined jump suit at the race track, comes down with mesothelioma lung cancer, the type of cancer associated with asbestos exposure?

There's obviously more to acquiring cancer than the mere exposure to an external irritant, but the external irritant is the only topic the cancer industry is willing to address. The internal biological environment (and the spiritual/emotional state of mind) is not discussed by the cancer industry, but therein lies a greater insight into the causes of cancer.

The SPECIFICS of how cancer cells begin and WHY they begin to gestate and grow are clearly explained in the final book (published in 2007) by Dr. Hulda Clark. The book is titled The Cure & Prevention of All Cancers.

(see the 30 minute video DVD that accompnaied her last book:http://educate-yourself.org/cn/conversationhuldaclark19sep10.shtml)

And when it comes to successful therapies for treating cancer, and I mean really successful treatment of cancer (not the cancer industry's 5 year survival nonsense), there's a great deal you are not being told by established medicine. What you are being told by the orthodox cancer industry are cleverly crafted lies and distortions designed to mislead you into believing that alternative modalities are worthless. The truth, of course, is just the opposite.

It's much easier to cure yourself of cancer once you understand what causes cancer malignancy and how to stop it. By reading the books of Dr. Hulda Clark , you will understand what causes cancer to grow and what stops it from growing. It follows very tight biological processes or rules and once you understand those rules, you can turn cancer off like a water spigot and free yourself of this disease for the rest of your life. It's really that simple.

Dr. Hulda Regher Clark
I am more impressed with the astounding discoveries made by Dr. Hulda Clark than any other health scientist/researcher/writer in the world, past or present. She deserves to receive the Nobel Prize twenty times over for her quantum leaps in discoveries of how the body succumbs to disease and how the body can cure itself of disease. I encourage anyone reading these words to buy Hulda Clark's books-all of them- and study them with a determined dedication to absorb all of their marvelous revelations and insights.

You will learn how to take care of your body, to cure yourself of any disease, and to live a long and fruitful life. If I had more time, I would love to post 50 or 60 or 70 articles here describing to you just some of the many gems of new knowledge that you can glean from Dr. Hulda Clark's books, but you don't have to wait for me. Dr. Clark has already given away her wonderful discoveries-freely- in her books. Order them today and empower yourself to learn how to prevent and cure disease.

Some Dr. Hulda Clark books now available on-line for free downloads

Hulda Clark permitted people to copy her books and make them available free, as long as there is no cost or charge involved and her copyright notice is acknowledged and mentioned. Here is the statement found in ALL of her books published before 2007:

"Permission is hereby granted to make copies of any part of this document for non-commercial purposes provided this page with the original copyright notice is included"

Only her last book, The Cure and Prevention of All Cancers, published in 2007, contains an additional limitation on free distribution as an electronic download. The 2007 book contains an additional line which says: " No electronic copies of any kind allowed." That means that the 2007 book alone, has this limitation for on-line posting, while all of her other books DO NOT have this limitation and therefore can be lawfully and legally posted on line. I am not in favor of down-loading pirated books in which the author and/or the publisher are being robbed of their profits from book sales by the illegal uploading of a copyrighted book to the Internet. However, it was Dr. Clark's desire to have her books freely copied and distributed-without limitation-except for the non-allowance of profiting from copies made from her books. And since her information (and discoveries) can save the lives of untold numbers of cancer victims especially, IF her incredible research is widely available and accessible to anyone in the world with a computer, I decided to search out the links below and make them easily accessible to motivated readers.

Nevertheless, I still prefer to read a real book which I can hold in my hand and carry with me. It's far more convenient than reading a book from a computer screen. If you can afford to buy Hulda's books, then I urge you to buy them and read them from the printed page. It's so much more rewarding than reading on-line.

Royal Rife is the most imporatant name in cancer cure research that you'll ever encounter. By the mid 1930's he had discovered how to cure cancer 100% of the time using specific frequencies delivered in a special way via a radiated plasma field. You can read much more at these links:

Dr. Max Gerson & Charlotte Gerson
Most alternative cancer therapists will acknowledge the leading role that Dr. Max Gerson played, first in Germany in the 1920's & 30's and then the United States in the 40's and 50's, in demonstrating the crucial role of nutrition in the recovery from deadly diseases like tuberculosis and cancer. The heart of the Gerson therapy is 13 glasses of freshly made, organic vegetable juice taken each hour, 13 times a day. If the patient is capable of eating, the food is stricly vegetarian, fresh, raw, and organic. Dental cleanup is an absolute must. Other supportive measures inlcude thyroid, electrolyte, and liver support. Max Gerson also helped to popularize the use of the coffee enema, an incredibly powerful detoxification technique utilized by all Gerson patients. After his death in 1959, Dr. Gerson's successful approach to cancer treatment has been faithfully carried on by his daughter Charlotte Gerson at their clinic in Tiajuana, Mexico. You can do the Gerson therapy yourself at home using the book, manual, and video tapes offered at her web site (see below).

Dr. William D. Kelley's Approach to Curing Cancer

[Editor's Note: April 14, 2005. I was notified that Dr. Kelley passed away on January 30, 2005 after being hospitalized for a heart attack and stroke. He saved his life from cancer nearly 40 years ago by listening to his mother and turning to Nature for his answer rather than continue to poison his body with junk food and orthodox cancer treatment. He would have become fabulously rich and famous had the fact that he cured actor Steve McQueen of cancer using a Nature-based therapy became widely known. But because McQueen had boasted to Dr. Kelley over the phone that he was going to 'blow the cancer racket out of the water" by announcing to the world of his cure by Kelley, McQueen was covertly murdered with an injection while recovering from a successful surgery to remove an already dead tumor mass from his abdomen. The personal turmoil, betrayals, and strife that Dr. Kelley suffered in the wake of McQueen's murder was typical of the all out effort that is always made by our greed-orientated friends in the orthodox cancer industry who will always attempt to destroy the lives of alternative competitors whenever they gain too much successful exposure in the media. The same ilk of cancer industry racketeers also destroyed the cancer cure work pioneered by Dr. Royal Raymond Rife in the 1930's and again in the early 1960's. Dr. Kelley was a dentist who re-discovered that cancer is CURABLE by working with Nature, rather than against Nature as is the case with orthodox treatment. You can learn the same lessons for yourself by reading the writings of Dr. Kelley and especially by studying the books of Dr. Hulda Clark. ..Ken]

Hi,

Great site. You are however missing www.krysalis.net of David Gregg and www.cancertutor.com of Webster Kerr.

The first one gives real insight on what and how cancer works and why Cesium Chloride can wipe it out and the second site has a very well organized protocol on how to proceed.

You will love both sites.

One thought, if everybody on a given day stopped putting the stupidly required"disclaimer" would 100.000 people be thrown into jail?

www.CancerTutor.com is an excellent website for cancer information and focuses on the most potent, stage 4 cancer treatments that can give a fighting chance even to people sent home to die by conventional doctors.

One such treatment discussed is “Amazon Factor Protocol” and costs $280 for 1 month supply (purchased from separate website). In his reply to my question, I was told by the author of the protocol that of the people they’ve monitored (who used the protocol), there were five with pancreatic cancer; all are still living, 2 are cancer free. One of them after 8 month on the protocol. (I don’t know if the author of said protocol will mind my quoting his replies to my questions, so please if you wish to place this email were all can see it, omit this part. thanks)

Another very potent treatment is cesium chloride (with potassium supplementation a must). A protocol using cesium chloride is explained in detail on the website. (CancerTutor.com) Also, I would highly recommend this website www.JonBarron.org for very enlightening info about different diseases (download his book for free). For example, check out this superb article “The Cholesterol Myth” at http://www.jonbarron.org/newsletter_view.php?id=228763046586906 the main and most important points that he had made.

The value of proper nutrition cannot be emphasized enough. Your body's health is directly related to what you put into it. Modern supermarket food is devitalized due to contaminants and processing. Organic, fresh, raw foods possess forms of energy not currently understood by orthodox science. Some of these esoteric energies can be measured and detected, however. There is a instument available today, the Vohl Dermatron, that can measure the "vital force" of food. A simpler method (but no less accurate) is to use a dowsing pendulum to determine this vital force on a scale of 1-10 for instance. Raw foods also contain digestive enzymes that cooked and processed foods lack. The digestive enzymes that Nature provides with the raw fruit, vegetable, or meat is the perfect match for that particular food. If you don't get the digestive enzymes in the foods that you eat, your body has to make them. That requires energy and nutrients that's depleting of your energy resources. Many researchers who study those elements that contribute to longevity feel that the human body has a limited capacity and store of enzyme production over a lifetime. When your enzyme producing capacity expires, you expire!

Vitamins and minerals are much more bio-available if they are in the form provided by Nature (raw, unprocessed, unextracted). Once you process food and strip away the vitamins, for example; merely adding denatured vitamins back into the food through fortification will not give you the equivalent quality or bioactivity of vitamins as originally provided by Nature. This is the biggest error made by dietitians, the nutritional arm of orthodox medicine racket. In considering the makeup of foods, they look only at the chemical elements themselves (calcium, phosphorus, etc.) and assume that as long as the element can be measured in the food or added to the food, you are getting the equivalent nutrition and bioactivity as provided by Nature. What stupidity! Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Despite the abundance of food in the United States, nutritional deficiency is quite common. It is important to understand this because Americans are often lulled into believing that foods are fortified with needed nutrients. It's like computers, "Garbage in, Garbage out".

I've been talking to people for a long time about understanding the nature of health and disease. Whenever I chat with someone with health problems and we're trying to figure out why, the last thing he will consider is his diet. "It's stress"; "It's genes"; "It's the job"; "It's the wife'; "It's the mother-in-law", etc. It's everything. but the diet. Folks, 99% of the time, ...it's the diet!

Since nutrition is a rather large topic, I'll start with a few important subjects and add to the list as time permits. For more information on nutrition, please see our suggested reading list at the bottom of this page.

Anti-Nutrients

Anti nutrients are substances to which we are all exposed through food and water that antagonize nutrients needed for health. Some anti nutrients bind to other nutrients, making them useless. Others tie up enzymes needed in digestion and other body functions. Some cause problems by creating a greater need for certain nutrients. Others cause nutrients to be excreted more rapidly from the body. In our world of high technology, the level of anti nutrients to which we are exposed is surprisingly high. Many of the anti nutrients have either a direct or indirect effect on immune function. Anything you can do to reduce exposure to anti nutrients will be helpful in preventing recurrent illness.

Table sugar, food coloring, processed fats, additives like BHT, and most of the 3,000 or so food additives allowed in the United States often act as anti nutrients. For example, in 1985 it was reported that American agriculture uses 1 billion pounds of pesticides each year. That is 4.5 pounds for every man, woman and child in the country. These chemicals have many adverse effects, and are more of a problem than most would imagine. Caffeine is another serious problem that most people don't fully understand.

Pharmaceutical drugs constitute another important category of anti nutrients. If drug therapy is short, the effects are minimal, but if one takes a drug for a long time (months or years), the nutritional effects of the drugs must be taken into account. Below is a sample of the nutrients adversely affected by drugs. Taking drugs long term has more adverse effects than simply nutritional ones, but we are focused on nutrition here.

Drug	Clinical Condition	Nutrient Affected
Aspirin	pain, fever	B1, Vit.. C, K+
Cortisone	inflammation, allergy	Zn, K+, folate, B6, Vit.. C, D, Ca
Ritalin	hyperactivity, ADD	suppresses appetite
Phenobarbital	seizure disorders	Vit.. C, D, Ca, Mg, folic acid
Tetracycline	infection	Zn, Ca, Fe, Mg, Vit.. K, B2, B3, C, folate

Sugar

Simply stated, sugar lowers immunity. In 1951, Benjamin Sandler, M.D., a physician from Northern Carolina, wrote a book entitled Diet Prevents Polio. Dr. Sandler's work with rabbits and monkeys convinced him that high amounts of sugar in the diet made one more susceptible to polio. During the polio epidemic of 1948-49, he appeared on an Asheville radio station urging parents not to feed their children refined sugar or foods containing sugar such as ice cream, candy, and soft drinks. His admonitions also ran in local newspapers. In 1948, the incidence of polio in Northern Carolina was 2,402 cases. In 1949, after adopting the "Sandler diet," the rate had fallen to 214 cases. During this time, the national incidence of polio (39 states) had risen.

Was it a coincidence that the rate of polio dropped as the rate of sugar consumption decreased in this state? Did removal of sugar from the diet improve resistance to polio? You can come to your own conclusion, but there is good reason to believe that sugar consumption lowers immunity. In a report published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, 100 grams of sugar from glucose, fructose, sucrose, honey or orange juice caused a significant decrease in the ability of white blood cells to engulf and destroy bacteria. This decrease in immune function was still present five hours after sugar was consumed.

There are numerous other studies that show decreases in immune function following sugar consumption. It is probably not significant when one only consumes sugar on occasion. However, on a daily basis it can wreak havoc on your immune system. The problem is sugar creeps into virtually every aspect of our diet, often without our awareness. This is because sugar is added to almost every packaged food sold today. The average adult American consumes more than 150 pounds of sugar each year (teenagers can consume over 200 pounds)! This is 14 times more than was ingested about 100 years ago. It's far too much for our bodies to handle.

To help illustrate the harmful effects of sugar, let's use breakfast cereals as an example. Many of the most popular children's cereals contain almost 50 percent of their calories as sugar. The presence of large amounts of sugar in the diet causes a gradual depletion of zinc in the body. As zinc levels decline, the sense of taste declines as well. As taste perception declines, there is a greater need to flavor the food in order to make it "taste good." Usually this means adding more sugar. This leads to a further reduction in body zinc levels, which further lowers the taste perception. As a result, a child heaps more sugar on top of his cereal. The cycle goes on and on.

In his book Fighting the Food Giants, biochemist Paul A. Stitt says that it is no accident that children's cereals are highly sugared. Food manufacturers were the first to discover that sugar consumption leads to a gradual loss of zinc, which in turn leads to a loss of taste perception. By marketing cereal high in sugar, they were able to create virtual addicts to their products. What parent has not heard screams of a toddler in the grocery store demanding his breakfast treat?

It you want to have sweets, it's better to get it from fresh fruit. Not canned fruit, not dried fruit, but fresh fruit. Honey or real maple (pure) syrup is far better than refined sugar if you must make something sweeter. Fruit provides a form of sugar called fructose. Because it's a natural monosaccharide, it's handled differently by the body than table sugar (sucrose) which is a disaccharide. There is one form of partly refined sugar that I do recommend for non diabetics to be consumed on a routine basis, but in a relatively modest amount. I'm talking about organic Black strap Molasses. The nutritional advantages of bio-available iron and sulfur (& other minerals) offered by black strap molasses far outweigh its downside as a source of sugar.

Dairy Products

Cow's milk is often touted on television as the "perfect food." It is supposedly needed by everyone. "If you don't drink milk, your bones will become brittle from osteoporosis" is the message from the Dairy Council, advertisers, and even some physicians. Yet, store bought cow's milk consumption has been shown to contribute to many of the health problems commonly encountered. Excessive consumption of cow's milk is often one of the major factors contributing to susceptibility to common infections. However, raw, unprocessed milk from clean cows raised in a wholesome environment is another story. The manner in which milk is commercailly produced and processed has much to do with its reputation for causing health problems. If we all hadThe

According to Dr. Schmidt in his book Childhood Ear Infections, simply eliminating dairy products is often all that's required to solve the riddle of recurrent ear problems in children. These sentiments are echoed by Dr. Fred Pullen, an ear, nose and throat specialist in Miami, Florida. Patients are referred to Dr. Pullen for the sole purpose of having tubes surgically implanted in their eardrums. Before undergoing surgery, however, all patients are first placed on a diet that eliminates dairy products. The result: "three fourths [of these children] never need tubes."

If one does even the smallest amount of research, it becomes evident that there is a wealth of information on this topic. One well written book is Principles of Nutrition by Whitman H. Jordan, published by the Macmillan Company of New York in 1912. On page 266 Jordan describes a German study detailing the tie outcome of 49,362 children born in Berlin during 1890. Before the end of one year, 12,623 of those children died. Of those who died, 8,008 were fed on cow's milk. Only 1,588 had been breast fed. Let me quote from this 86 year old book:

"Further statistics show of those fed on mother's milk one in thirteen died, while of those brought up by hand (bottle fed), one out of every two died."

These figures require no comment. Do not think that cow's milk is only harmful to children, though. The problems with cow's milk are so numerous that noted professor of pediatrics at John Hopkins School of Medicine, Dr. Frank Oski, wrote a book entitled Please, Don't Drink Your Milk. The following are health conditions either directly caused by or associated with cow's milk consumption, taken from MILK IS GOOD FOR _____ by Robert M. Kradjian, M.D.:

"Among children the problems were allergy, ear and tonsil infections, bedwetting, asthma, intestinal bleeding, nephritis, colic, and childhood diabetes."
"In adults the problems seemed centered more around heart disease, arthritis, allergy, sinusitis, and the more serious questions of leukemia, lymphoma, cancer (colon, lung, prostate, breast, ovarian, and rectal.)"

"Even multiple sclerosis, osteoporosis, and cataracts have been associated with cow's milk consumption."
The other side of the debate includes healers like Dr. Hulda R. Clark (The Cure for All Disease) who says the milk is an important source of protein and calcium which is readily absorbed by the body. For very sick people with AIDS or cancer, it may be a critical ingredient for their recovery. You can make store bought milk relatively safe from all pathogenic organisms, by boiling it for only 10 seconds over a low heat and adding a small amount of powdered Vitamin C (I use Calcium Ascorbate or Sodium Ascorbate) . Let the milk cool to room temperature, pull off the 'skin' which formed on the top of the milk from boiling, and place in a glass bottle in the refrigerator. Another thought is to use Goat's milk which has a different effect on the body than commercial cow's milk. Organic goat's milk is preferred and raw goat's milk is said to be the best choice of all.

Vegetarianism

"Nothing will benefit human health and increase the chances for survival of life on earth as much as the evolution to a vegetarian diet." - Albert Einstein

A vegetarian menu is a powerful and pleasurable way to achieve good health. The vegetarian eating pattern is based on a wide variety of foods that are satisfying, delicious, and healthful. Vegetarians avoid meat, fish, and poultry (although most of us here at Educate-Yourself do eat fish for protein). Those who include dairy products and eggs in their diets are called lacto-ovo vegetarians. Vegens (pure vegetarians) eat no meat, fish, poultry, eggs, or dairy products. While there is a considerable advantage to a lacto-ovo vegetarian pattern, vegen diets are the healthiest of all, reducing risk of a broad range of health concerns.

Vegetarians have much lower cholesterol levels than meat eaters, and heart disease is uncommon in vegetarians. The reasons are not hard to find. Vegetarian meals are typically low in saturated fat and usually contain little or no cholesterol. Since cholesterol is found only in animal products such as meat, dairy, and eggs, vegens consume a cholesterol free diet. The type of protein in a vegetarian diet may be another important advantage. Many studies show that replacing animal protein with plant protein lowers blood cholesterol levels-even if the amount and type of fat in the diet stays the same. Those studies show that a low fat, vegetarian diet has a clear advantage over other diets.

An impressive number of studies, dating back to the early 1920s, show that vegetarians have lower blood pressure than non vegetarians. In fact, some studies have shown that adding meat to a vegetarian diet raises blood pressure levels rapidly and significantly. The effects of a vegetarian diet occur in addition to the benefits of reducing the sodium content of the diet. When patients with high blood pressure begin a vegetarian diet, many are able to eliminate their need for medication.

Water

"Medical professionals of today do not understand the vital roles of water in the human body. Medications are palliatives. They are not designed to cure the degenerative diseases of the human body." - Dr. F. Batmanghelidj

Pure and simple, water is an essential part of a healthy diet. And to a much greater extent than most would imagine. While unknown to the orthodox medical community, dehydration is an extraordinarily common cause of an astounding number of diseases. One of the leading researchers in this field, F. Batmanghelidj, M.D., has explained this subject in great detail in his book, Your Body's Many Cries for Water. The following are a few short excerpts from Dr. Batmanghelidj's book, which should help convey the significance of water in one's diet:

"The simple truth is that dehydration can cause disease. Everyone knows that water is "good" for the body. They seem not to know how essential it is to one's well-being. They do not know what happens to the body if it does not receive its daily need of water."

"In advanced societies, thinking that tea, coffee, alcohol, and manufactured beverages are desirable substitutes for the purely natural water needs of the daily 'stressed' body is an elementary but catastrophic mistake. It is true that these beverages contain water, but what else they contain are dehydrating agents. They get rid of the water they are dissolved in plus some more water from the reserves of the body!"

Currently, practitioners of conventional medicine are unaware of the many chemical roles of water in the body. Because dehydration eventually causes loss of some functions, the various sophisticated signals given by operators of the body's water rationing program during severe and lasting dehydration have been translated as indicators of unknown disease conditions of the body. This is the most basic mistake that has deviated clinical medicine. It has prevented medical practitioners from being able to advise preventive measures or offer simple physiologic cures for some major diseases in humans."

"With the appearance of these signals, the body should be provided with water for these rationing systems to distribute. However, medical practitioners have been taught to silence these signals with chemical products. Of course they have zero understanding of the significance of this most gross error. The various signals produced by these water distributors are indicators of regional thirst and drought of the body. At the onset, they can be relieved by an increase of water itself, yet they are improperly dealt with by the use of commercial chemical products until pathology is established and diseases are born."

We urge you to read Dr. Batmanghelidj's book, Your Body's Many Cries for Water, for further information. Dr. Batmanghelidj recommends drinking 8 - 10 glasses of water daily, and more if you are suffering from an illness.

Fiber

Fiber, or roughage, has been a popular topic in the media of late. While advertisers try to sell us many things we don't need, they're right when they say high fiber cereals are important for good health. Lack of fiber has been implicated in the development of colon disease, heart disease and numerous other conditions. Dr. Denis Burkitt was the first to advance the idea of fiber as an important contributor to health. He based his beliefs on his research of African tribes. Dr. Burkitt found that African tribal residents suffered from almost none of the modern diseases of the West such as colon cancer and heart disease. However, when the Africans moved to the West and adopted our eating habits, they quickly succumbed to our most common illnesses.

Dietary fiber is as important to children as it is to adults. Foods high in fiber are high in vitamins, trace minerals and essential fatty acids. Take wheat for example. Almost all of the essential nutrients are bound in the germ portion of the grain. During milling, the germ is separated from the endosperm. The germ is sold separately as wheat germ (long known as a high nutrient food) while the endosperm is further milled to make flour. Milling of whole grain to make refined flour results in loss of 85 percent of the magnesium, 86 percent of the manganese, 40 percent of the chromium, 78 percent of the zinc, 89 percent of the cobalt, 48 percent of the molybdenum and 68 percent of the copper, in addition to comparable losses of selenium, vitamin E and essential fatty acids. Moreover, heavy metals such as cadmium (which are concentrated in the endosperm) remain in the flour. (Unfortunately, the body's antagonist to cadmium--zinc--has been removed.) Since nutrients are required to properly utilize all calories we consume, the intake of refined food leads to a gradual deficiency of nutrients. This is a strong argument for the use of whole-grain products.

The real test of the value of refined (fortified) foods would be to put a group of lab animals on a diet of white bread and compare them to a group fed a diet of whole-grain bread. In one such experiment, two thirds of rats kept on a diet of enriched white bread died before the experiment was finished.

Fiber is also important because it helps keep the intestinal contents moving through to their ultimate fate--elimination as stool. If the intestinal contents move too slowly, toxic by-products of digestion and bacterial fermentation remain in the bowel too long and are reabsorbed back into the body. Over time, this can contribute to illness.

When one consumes a diet low in fiber, attachment of parasites such as Giardia lamblia is easier. When fiber is present in the diet, the intestinal contents move through more quickly and prevent the attachment of such parasites. Recall that G. lambilia is one of the most common parasites found in the United States. It contributes to immune suppression, poor digestion, food allergies and numerous other problems. The ability to decrease the likelihood of infection by this parasite by simply increasing the intake of fiber is significant.

While fiber is necessary for children and adults, too much fiber can be a problem as well, since excessive fiber can cause nutrients to be leached out of the digestive tract. The problems for most of us, however, is not too much fiber, but too little. (Never put a child on a high fiber diet without consulting a health care professional.) Good sources of fiber include fruit, vegetables, legumes and grains (oats, wheat, rice, barley, etc.).

Juicing, and the benefits of a juicing program have long been recognized around the world. Since the early part of this century, researchers such as Norman Walker, D.Sc., and Dr. Bernard Jensen have investigated the effects of juice as part of the daily diet. Their studies show that juice can provide all the basics of human nutrition, including carbohydrates, proteins, fats, vitamins, and minerals.

Juicing adds to the benefits of vegetables and fruits. By juicing, rather than eating the produce whole, the important nutrients and phytochemicals found in plants are absorbed more easily by our bodies--sometimes within minutes--without too much effort on the part of the digestive system. In addition to this, more of the nutrients are absorbed.

Fresh vegetable juices are also rich in enzymes. Enzymes spark the hundreds of thousands of chemical reactions that occur throughout the body; enzymes are essential for digestion and absorption of food, for conversion of food into body tissue, and for the production of energy at the cellular level. In fact, enzymes are essential for most of the building and rebuilding that goes on in the body every day. When foods are cooked, enzymes can be destroyed; that is why raw foods and juices are so important. They provide an excellent source of all-important enzymes.

Carrot's beta carotene and the ellagic acid found in fresh apple juice are clinically proven anti-cancer agents.
Limonene from lemon's white pith is recognized as a potent anti-cancer nutrient and is also effective in dissolving gallstones.
Apple's soluble fiber, ellagic acid and vitamin C, combined with celery's healthy dose of minerals and electrolytes can cleanse and rebalance your system.
Digestive enzymes found in honeydew, papaya, and pineapple reduce inflammation and energize the body.
An advantage of juicing over buying commercial juice is that when you make your own juice you know exactly what it contains. You can be sure to avoid adding sugar, sweeteners, and other additives. Also many commercial juices are heat treated to extend shelf life, which can destroy nutrients.

Recommended Diet

For those of you looking for a suggested diet, we recommend the following:

Consume a diet that focuses on whole, unprocessed foods (whole grains, legumes, vegetables, fruits, seeds, etc.)
Reduce (or eliminate, if possible) your intake of refined sugar.
Drink at least 8 to 10 glasses of water daily.
Avoid animal products, with the possible exception of cold water fish (salmon, mackerel, herring, halibut, etc.).
Eliminate dairy products, caffeine, and alcohol.
Eliminate coffee (besides caffeine, there are a host of other chemicals poisoning your body). Try the many varieties of herbal tea available.
Avoid soft drinks completely.
Avoid white bread and refined flour products. They are devoid of essential nutrients, including omega-3 essential fatty acids and others.
Avoid margarine and all commercial cooking oils. Use Butter and Organic cold pressed Olive oil instead.
Consume organic Flax Seed Oil and cold fish oil (MAX EPA) daily.
Consume Miso soup, kelp, and shitake mushrooms regularly.
Brown Rice is better than white rice.

Buy organic foods (especially produce) whenever possible.
Get regular exercise.

Introduction

There is a worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an extremely powerful and influential group of genetically-related individuals (at least at the highest echelons) which include many of the world's wealthiest people, top political leaders, and corporate elite, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe (dominated by the British Crown) whose goal is to create a One World (fascist) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda. Their intention is to effect complete and total control over every human being on the planet and to dramatically reduce the world's population by 7.5 Billion people to 500 million. While the name New World Order is a term frequently used today when referring to this group, it's more useful to identify the principal organizations, institutions, and individuals who make up this vast interlocking spiderweb of elite conspirators.

The Illuminati is the oldest term commonly used to refer to the 13 bloodline families (and their offshoots) that make up a major portion of this controlling elite. Most members of the Illuminati are also members in the highest ranks of numerous secretive and occult societies which in many cases extend straight back into the ancient world. The upper levels of the tightly compartmentalized (need-to-know-basis) Illuminati structural pyramid include planning committees and organizations that the public has little or no knowledge of. The upper levels of the Illuminati pyramid include secretive committees with names such as: the Council of 3, the Council of 5, the Council of 7, the Council of 9, the Council of 13, the Council of 33, the Grand Druid Council, the Committee of 300 (also called the "Olympians") and the Committee of 500 among others.

In 1992, Dr John Coleman published Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Story of the Committee of 300. With laudable scholarship and meticulous research, Dr Coleman identifies the players and carefully details the Illuminati agenda of worldwide domination and control. On page 161 of the Conspirators Hierarchy, Dr Coleman accurately summarizes the intent and purpose of the Committee of 300 as follows:

"A One World Government and one-unit monetary system, under permanent non-elected hereditary oligarchists who self-select from among their numbers in the form of a feudal system as it was in the Middle Ages. In this One World entity, population will be limited by restrictions on the number of children per family, diseases, wars, famines, until 1 billion people who are useful to the ruling class, in areas which will be strictly and clearly defined, remain as the total world population.

There will be no middle class, only rulers and the servants. All laws will be uniform under a legal system of world courts practicing the same unified code of laws, backed up by a One World Government police force and a One World unified military to enforce laws in all former countries where no national boundaries shall exist. The system will be on the basis of a welfare state; those who are obedient and subservient to the One World Government will be rewarded with the means to live; those who are rebellious will simple be starved to death or be declared outlaws, thus a target for anyone who wishes to kill them. Privately owned firearms or weapons of any kind will be prohibited."

The sheer magnitude and complex web of deceit surrounding the individuals and organizations involved in this conspiracy is mind boggling, even for the most astute among us. Most people react with disbelief and skepticism towards the topic, unaware that they have been conditioned (brainwashed) to react with skepticism by institutional and media influences that were created by the Mother of All mind control organizations: The Tavistock Institute of Human Relations in London. Author and de-programmer Fritz Springmeier (The Top 13 Illuminati Bloodlines) says that most people have built in "slides" that short circuit the mind's critical examination process when it comes to certain sensitive topics. "Slides", Springmeier reports, is a CIA term for a conditioned type of response which dead ends a person's thinking and terminates debate or examination of the topic at hand. For example, the mention of the word "conspiracy" often solicits a slide response with many people. (Springmeier has co-authored three books on trauma-based programming which detail how the Illuminati employs highly tuned and extrememly sophisticated Mind Control (MC) training programs that begin the programming process while the intended victim is still within the womb. Mind Control is a much greater problem than most people realize. According to Cisco Wheeler, a former Illuminati mind control programmer, there are 10 million people who have been programmed as mind controlled slaves using trauma-based MC programs with names like Monarch and MK Ultra. The newer, non-trauma, electronic means of MC programming that grew out of the Montauk Project, may include millions more. Al Bielek, who played a principle role in the development of the Montauk Project, said that there likely 10 million victims of Montauk style mind control programming worldwide, the majority located in the USA. He also said that there are covert Montauk Programming 'Centers' in every major city in the U.S.)

What most Americans believe to be "Public Opinion" is in reality carefully crafted and scripted propaganda designed to elicit a desired behavioral response from the public. Public opinion polls are really taken with the intent of gauging the public's acceptance of the Illuminati's planned programs. A strong showing in the polls tells the Illuminati that the programing is "taking", while a poor showing tells the NWO manipulators that they have to recast or "tweak" the programming until the desired response is achieved. While the thrust and content of the propaganda is decided at Tavistock, implementation of the propaganda is executed in the United States by well over 200 'think tanks' such as the Rand Corporation and the Brookings Institute which are overseen and directed by the top NWO mind control organization in the United States, the Stanford Research Institute (SRI) in Menlo Park, California.

The NWO global conspirators manifest their agenda through the skillful manipulation of human emotions, especially fear. In the past centuries, they have repeatedly utilized a contrivance that NWO researcher and author David Icke has characterized in his latest book, The Biggest Secret, as Problem, Reaction, and Solution.

The technique is as follows: Illuminati strategists create the Problem- by funding , assembling, and training an "opposition" group to stimulate turmoil in an established political power (sovereign country, region, continent, etc.) that they wish to impinge upon and thus create opposing factions in a conflict that the Illuminati themselves maneuvered into existence. In recent decades, so called "opposition" groups are usually identified in the media as 'freedom fighters' or 'liberators' (recently the KLA-Kosovo Liberation Army).

At the same time, the leader of the established political power where the conflict is being orchestrated is demonized and, on cue, referred to as 'another Hitler' (take your pick: Saddam Hussein, Milosevic, Kadaffi, etc.). The 'freedom fighters' are not infrequently assembled from a local criminal element (i.e. KLA, drug traffickers). In the spirit of true Machiavellian deceit, the same NWO strategists are equally involved in covertly arming and advising the leader of the established power as well (the Illuminati always profits from any armed conflict by loaning money, arming, and supplying all parties involved in a war).

The conflict is drawn to the world stage by the controlled media outlets with a barrage of photos and video tape reports of horrific and bloody atrocities suffered by innocent civilians. The cry goes up "Something has to be done!" And that is the desired Reaction (note: the same technique is presently being used to bring about gun control in the United States).

The NWO puppeteers then provide the Solution by sending in UN 'Peace Keepers' (Bosnia) or a UN 'Coalition Force' (Gulf War) or NATO Bombers and then ground troops (Kosovo). Once installed, the 'peace keepers' never leave (Bosnia, Kosovo). The idea is to have NWO controlled ground troops in all major countries or strategic areas where significant resistance to the New World Order takeover is likely to be encountered.

East Timor, Indosnesia. (9/14/99) Virtually , the same strategy used to occupy Kosovo with UN/NATO troops was applied by the NWO manipulators to take military control of East Timor. Once again, the same morality play is trotted out for public consumption: the local evil and demonic Indonesian Army trained militias responsible for the slaughter of innocent civilians following the August 30 vote for Independence (from Indonesian control), must be stopped at all costs. This time, Australia (to keep up the appearance of an 'international' humantarian effort) will lead the charge with 'peacekeeping' troops. Of course, it didn't take long for Madeline Albright to announce that US 'support assets' will be part of the "UN Peacekeeping Team". In a front page story in the LA Times (9/13/99), Mike Jendrzejczyk of Human Rights Watch (an Illuminati front group) in Washington DC said that it's "crucial" that "peacekeepers have the authority to disarm militia forces and any Indonesian soldiers actively working with them".]

The local, sovereign military force is either defeated (i.e. Yugoslavia) or, as in the case of the United States itself, replaced by foreign UN "Partnership For Peace" (PFP) troops who take over the jobs of US soldiers who have been sent overseas on 'peacekeeping' missions. In addition to being killed in ground conflicts on foreign soil, US military forces will likely be reduced in the next few years through disease induced attrition (i.e. from mandatory Anthrax Vaccinations required of all US military personnel). These vaccinations will, in all probability, eventually produce the symptoms of the so-called Gulf War Illness, which was acquired by a certain percentage of Gulf War soldiers who were given a "special" anthrax vaccine (intended by the Illuminati/CIA as a test run to ascertain how quickly (and fatally) the disease would progress with a substantial population of healthy young men and women).

The corporate portion of the NWO pyramid seems to be dominated first and foremost by Jewish Cabalist international bankers and the big pharmaceutical cartels, as well as other major multinational corporations. The Royal Family of England, namely Queen Elizabeth II and the House of Windsor, (who are, in fact, descendants of the German arm of European Royalty -the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family-changed the name to Windsor in 1914), are high level players, along with the British oligarchy which controls the upper strata of the Illuminati. The decision making Illuminati nerve centers of this effort are in the London (especially the City of London), Basel Switzerland, and Brussels (NATO headquarters).

The United Nations, along with all the agencies working under the UN umbrella, such as the World Health Organization (WHO), are full time players in this scheme. Similarly, NATO is a military tool of the NWO.

The leaders of all major industrial countries like the United States, England, Germany, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, etc. (E.g. members of the "G7/G8") are active and fully cooperative participants in this conspiracy. In this century, the degree of control exerted by the Illuminati has advanced to the point that only certain hand-picked individuals, who are groomed and selected by the Illuminati are even eligible to become the prime minister or president of countries like England, Germany, or The United States. It didn't matter whether Bill Clinton or Bob Dole won the Presidency in 1996, the results would have been the same (except maybe for Zipper Gate). Both men are playing on the same team for the same ball club. Anyone who isn't a team player is taken out: i.e.President Kennedy, Ali Bhutto (Pakistan) and Aldo Moro (Italy). More recently, Admiral Borda and William Colby were also killed because they were either unwilling to go along with the conspiracy to destroy America, weren't cooperating in some capacity, or were attempting to expose/ thwart the Takeover agenda.

Most of the major wars, political upheavals, and economic depression/recessions of the past 100 years (and earlier) were carefully planned and instigated by the machinations of these elites. They include The Spanish-American War (1898), World War I and World War II; the Bolshevik Revolution of 1917; The Great Depression of 1929 - 1939; the Rise of Nazi Germany; the Korean War; the Vietnam War; the 1989-91"fall" of Soviet Communism, the 1991 Gulf War; and the recent War in Kosovo. Even the French Revolution of 1788 was an orchestrated into existence by the Barvaian Illuminati and the House of Rothchild.

FEMA

The Crisis of Democracy In America, the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) was created in 1979 under Presidential Memorandum 32 authored for President Carter by Prof. Samuel P. Huntington, a Harvard professor and former FEMA Advisory Board chairman. Huntington wrote the Seminal Peace for the Trilateral Commission in the mid 70's, in which he criticized democracy and economic development as outdated ideas. As co-author of another report prepared for the Trilateral Commissiosn, The Crisis of Democracy, Huntington wrote:

"We have come to recognize that there are potential desirable limits to economic growth. There are also potentially desirable limits to the indefinite extension of political democracy. A government which lacks authority will have little ability short of cataclysmic crisis to impose on its people the sacrifices which may be necessary."

Huntington's ideas were rewritten into National Security Decision Directive #47 (NSDD47), which was enacted in July 1982 by President Reagan. Treated as a passing footnote by the media, this law identified legitimate areas to be upgraded to maintain national defense, but it also laid the groundwork for Emergency Mobilization Preparedness, a plan under which existing socio/economic regulations or other legal constraints would be waived in the event of a national emergency. This plan was further strengthened in Public Law 101-647, signed by President Bush in November 1990.What it boils down to is this: in the event that the President declares a national emergency, for any reason (from major earthquakes to increased international tensions or economic /financial crisis of any stripe), FEMA can then, at their discretion, implement Executive Orders 10995 through 11005. These Executive Orders permit a takeover by FEMA of local, state, and national governments and the suspension of constitutional guarantees. FEMA will have the authority to exert any sort of control that it deems necessary upon the American public. A trained National Police Force, formally referred to by the name of Multi Jurisdictional Task Force (MJTF), wearing black uniforms and composed of:

1. specially selected US military personnel
2. foreign military units carrying United Nations ID cards, and
3. specially trained existing police groups from larger metropolitan American cities.

These members of the MJTF will implement and enforce martial law under the direction and controlof FEMA. The President and Congress are out of the loop.

FEMA is the Trojan Horse by which the New World Order will implement overt, police-state control over the American populace.

War on Drugs
The "War on Drugs" is a cruel joke. The US government, specifically the CIA, is the biggest 'drug lord' on the planet. Drug money is used to pay for innumerable 'black projects', including the construction of huge underground cities housing both humans and aliens working with the secret US government.

The instigation of a trumped-up war as a cover for amassing fortunes can be dated back to at least the 12th Century when only a core group of nine members of an Illuminati group called the Knights Templar, the military arm of an Illuminati secret society known as the Priory of Sion, kicked off the The Crusades that lasted for over a century and a half. A rift later developed between the Templars and the Priory of Sion when Jerusalem was lost to Saracen Turks in 1187. In 1307, the king of France, Philippe the Fair (a Merovingian Illuminati), coveted the wealth and was jealous of the Templars' power. The French king, being a puppet of the Priory of Sion, set out to arrest all the Templars in France on October 13. While many Templars were seized and tortured, including their Grand Master, Jacques de Molay, many other Templars (who had been tipped off) escaped. They eventually resurfaced in Portugal, in Malta (as the Knights of Malta) and later in Scotland as The Scottish Rites of Free Masonry.

The acquisition and consolidation of ever greater wealth, natural resources, total political power, and control over others are the motivating forces which drives the decisions of the Illuminati. The toll in human suffering and the loss of innocent lives are non issues for these individuals, who are aligned with very dark and malevolent 4th dimensional aliens. The dominant group of 4th dimentional malevolent aliens controlling and manipulating the human Iluminati are known as Draconians or Drakos Reptilians. Not all alien reptilians are of a negative spiritual orientation.

Mind Control
Recent revelations from deprogrammed Illuminati (government) mind controlled individuals such as Arizona Wilder (The Biggest Secret), Cisco Wheeler (The Illuminati Formula to Create an Undetectable Total Mind Control Slave), Cathy O'Brien (Trance Formation of America), and Brice Taylor (Thanks for the Memories) leave NO DOUBT that the upper levels of the Illuminati engage in Satanic rituals which usually include the killing of young children, the drinking of human blood and the consuming of flesh and human organs.

The details of the Illuminati conspiracy are brilliantly laid out in the books of David Icke (Tales from the Time Loop, Children of the Matrix, Alice in Wonderland and the World Trace Center Disaster, The Biggest Secret, The Truth Shall Set You Free, and I am Me, I am Free; and in three books by Dr. John Coleman (Conspirators' Hierarchy: The Story of The Committee of 300; One World Order: Socialist Dictatorship; and Diplomacy by Deception

By Ken Adachi <Editor@educate-yourself.org>
http://educate-yourself.org/nwo/nwonewsindex.shtml

This NWO News page was created to organize under one heading, the many seemingly unrelated stories from around the globe that are actually the planned and scripted machinations of the New World Order Gang to have things their way. The level of misinformation and disinformation applied through mainstream media are designed to deceive you into arriving at the conclusion that the NWO planners from the Tavistock Institute in London wish you to arrive at.

We'll begin this page with Reports From Peru. In March of 2000, I was contacted by an American living in Peru named Richard Deegan. Rich asked me if I would be interested in receiving reports from him on the NWO activities in Peru and perhaps other South American countries. I responded that, yes indeed, I would be interested in reading what he had to say. His dispatches started coming in, and what interesting reports they turned out to be! You can read all of them by clicking on the link below (reports organized by date).

News Items are articles lifted from the wire and news services that inform you of the propaganda and deception that the NWO Liars expect you to accept as honest news.

Pam Schuffert came to my attention through the efforts of Ron Garon. Pam is the daughter of the late Jake Schuffert, a well known cartoonist for the Air Force who was also a military-connected Satanist invlolved in many satanic murder rituals. Jake renounced his satanic allegiance near the end of his life and become converted to Christianity. He confirmed to Pam that many in the Pentagon and the military services in general are involved in satanic activities and are allied with NWO forces planning the implementation of martial law and roundup/internment/extermination of millions of American citizens designated as "opponents of the New World Order".

The Coming Police State documents the steady loss of constitutional liberties and the escalating dismantling of freedom in America.

The Brotherhood and The Manipulation of Society by Ivan Fraser and Mark Beeston is a ten part series of well written articles explaining the makeup and organization of the Illuminati elites who are behind the New World Order scheme. An excellent tutorial.

The Illuminati Agenda is the most absorbing and accurate overview of the Illuminati plot for world takeover that I've ever read. It's the transcript of a 1967 recording produced by Myron C. Fagan that has distilled the details of an extremely long and complicated story down to a 30 minute read. If you read nothing else at this web site, read this overview. It's superb.

Scan This News is the brainchild of Scott McDonald who has been trying to warn the American public of the tightening NWO noose effected by the illegal and inappropriate use of the social secuity number as a de facto national ID system.

Letters To the Editor are essays sent in by readers with their thoughts concerning the New World Order.

Update, Aug. 8, 2015: James Casbolt Sentenced to 12 Years in Jail (July 28, 2015)

(Audio and video interviews with James Casbolt posted below book chapters index. Also, see latest update August 12, 2013 below)

James Casbolt has written one of the most revealing exposes to date on secret government operations and the ultra secret NSA mind control operation called Project Mannequin. While he reviews known specifics of government involvement with aliens, much of his information is new, especially with regards to U.K. underground covert operations. Subjected to mind control programming from earliest childhood, he began to recover his memories about two years ago and continues de-programming therapy to the present day. He first appeared on the Internet in 2007, trying to get out his story, but as is often the case with high level whistle blowers, he was besieged and verbally assaulted by the usual gaggle of conspiracy bloggers and blowhards who are ready to denigrate and dismiss anyone who has new and startling information. I saw the same thing happen to Brice Taylor when she first came out with her book, Thanks for The Memories, in May of 1999. It's a combination of blogger-idiots and government disinfo/smear artists who always reserve their most vicious attacks for those who come closest to the mark.

Brice put up with the crap from the idiot sector for about a year and then gave up talking at conferences altogether. She hasn't done any public speaking about her book since late 1999. I don't blame her at all as the Illuminati makes you-and your family members-suffer when you spill the beans of their dark and dirty secrets. The more you talk, the more they put the screws to you. Today, with psychotronic harassment and torture technology, it's a wonder that anyone is still talking.

James has published five chapters so far of his on-line book, Agent Buried Alive, The Autobiography of Commander James Casbolt. I've read all five chapters and I find his information to be right on target and in agreement with that which I've gained over the years from many other sources. I won't be so arrogant that I'll say that I'm sure that my perception of the NWO, their mind control operations, and their alien overlords are totally accurate, but I'm reasonably confidant that I have the story straight-and it agrees with James Casbolt's rendition almost 100%. For my money, this guy is right on the mark and any moron-blogger who tries to tell you otherwise, does not know what he's talking about.

Books written by high level victims of government mind control operations are not altogether pleasant reading. Much of the information they present is shocking and completely outside of our normal, everyday frame of reference. There are at least 133 Deep Underground Military Bases in America alone and well over 400 worldwide. Hundreds of thousands of men, women and small children are brutalized, tortured, programmed, experimented upon, and killed in many of those underground facilities (and taken by aliens) which often are shared with incredibly malevolent alien beings who literally eat human beings.

People simply don't understand just how technologically advanced the NWO is compared to the civilian sector. We aren't talking about fifty years ahead, we're talking about one thousand years ahead. Cloning, total mind control, invisibility, anti-gravity, free energy, age regression, soul transfers, extended life spans, time travel, space portals, ability to cure any disease, time machines, etc. are already in the hands of the NWO and their military lap dogs. We are living in a make-believe world of pretend democracy while being lied to by pretend representatives, pretend media, and pretend leaders, of which a large percentage are working on behalf of the NWO to destroy this country and usher in the satanic One World government . .

In reading these chapters, you will see that James Casbolt restates many of the same themes that I've been reviewing at this web site since its inception:

1. The New World Order is run by alien overlords. Humans aren't calling the shots, Dracos reptilian aliens are calling the shots. Most "human" representatives of the Illuminati, puppet politicians, and military leaders are human/alien hybrids or 100% reptilian shape-shifters (Chimeras) or CLONES of the original person. The current Secretary of the Treasury, for instance, Henry Paulson, is likely a clone of the original Paulson who was killed last December according to Britain's Christopher Story.

2. The NWO/alien agenda includes eliminating about 85% of the world's population (wars, chemtrails, vaccines, engineered 'diseases,' engineered hurricanes and earthquakes, etc) so there won't be enough humans (about 500 Million) left on the planet to offer any meaningful resistance when the NWO/Dracos takeover is in full swing.

3. The "God" of the NWO and their alien cohorts is Lucifer and they intend to convert this planet into a Hell on Earth- obedient to Lucifer. They are attempting to eliminate all expression of spirituality, morality, honor, integrity, and allegiance to God and the teachings of Jesus Christ. That's why their Illuminated minions are working so hard to destroy the Christian religion (the Catholic church is the prime target) and try to convince you that Jesus Christ never even existed.

However, they still need the public's continued ignorance and willful neglect of the warning signs in order to complete their takeover mission. In order to thwart this diabolical agenda, we must KNOW the real story and take appropriate counter action. To that end, you should carefully examine the information being presented by James Casbolt.

Chapter 7, Convergence of the Star Children New, added Oct 20, 2008
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/casboltagent7chap.shtml

Audio and Video Files of James Casbolt

I'll be posting all of the video and audio interviews available from James Casbolt in formats that will be easy to view, listen to, and download. I'll start with MP3 audio conversions that I made from a four part video interview that James did in Truro, Cornwall England in October of 2007. I'm just beginning to learn how to use the MP3 encoding software, so for the time being, I'll post four MP3 downloads, each segment about 9 minutes long-same as the video presentation. Eventually, I'll figure out how to string the audio together into one single interview of approximately 36 minutes.

James is being interviewed by Miles Johnson of Underground Video (Bases), UK in an open area of the conference center where people are milling about and talking, so the background chatter makes the listening less than ideal, although you can hear everything being said. Americans will have a little bit of trouble understanding every word due to James' British accent, however I'm hoping to find volunteers who will type out a transcript of the interview segments so that it could be easily read in English and other languages (if you're interested in providing a transcript of any of these audio files, please let me know; they are only 9 minutes each --.Ken Adachi <k-a(at)tutanota.com> replace the word "(at)" with the symbol and no spaces. Type "volunteer transcriber" in the Subject line) .

The information in these interview is sobering and intended for adult listeners. It's always shocking for new readers to grasp the depth, depravity, and gravity of the New World Order enslavement agenda. Horrific crimes are being perpetrated upon hundreds of thousands of abducted children and adults in underground bases in the UK, America, Australia, and other locations. In order to stop it, we must first come to grips with the scope of the problem and not shrink from facing the facts because doing so will only ensure the success of the evil forces who are behind it. Ignorance is not bliss and in this case, wilful ignorance will insure catastrophe for 85-90% of the planet's population. The only thing to fear, is fear itself. We can stop this if enough become aware --in time. We must face this menace squarely for the sake of our children and the future of the human race.

Notes by James Casbolt

The interview above gives details regarding the New World Order Program to take control of the UK before 2012. This program is called Project Mannequin which I was directly involved in and is being run by the NSA from various Underground Bases cantered around London and Berkshire such as the AL/499 base 200ft below the town of Peasemore in Berkshire, the CLC-1 base under Westminster in London and connected to the a large base under Parliament, the MONSOON-1 facility under RAF Lakenheath 90 miles north of London and the underground facility below the Porton Down Bio-Warfare Facility in Wiltshire as well as other facilities around the UK. The details about Project Mannequin and connected sub-projects are on the interview but I have just been given new intelligence regarding this agenda from a very reliable source who I trust completely. The information is very disturbing and I make no apologies and pull no punches as you need to know this for your future.

Kidnapped Children and Underground Bases

The huge child trafficking and Satanic ritual murder networks in the UK is heavily connected to Project Mannequin and very evil factions in the intelligence community centered around the NSA, CIA and British Intelligence. We know have over 25,000 children disappearing without a trace in the UK every year and are never seen or heard of again. This are classified figures and the intelligence community controlled mainstream media suppresses these facts by not giving a voice to the parents of these children and focusing massively on cases of one or two missing children a year, thereby taking the focus off the larger picture. Just last year, I was in Truro College and there were posters up of missing youngsters on the walls. These individuals had not even been mentioned on any news channels in the UK.

My contact has revealed to me that children who are now being kidnapped and taken to underground facilities such as the AL/499, are being murdered in horrific ways and their brainwaves are being recorded into computers at the time of death via a digital links through high-tech cranial implants installed into the children's brains. As brain-waves and radio-waves are basically the same thing, this horrific energy recorded by super-computers is then being broadcast and sent out through televisions, radios, mobile phones and masts across the country and is affecting the whole population through increased levels of crime, sexual and child abuse, drug and alcohol abuse and a general lowering of people's morals as very human has kind of telepathic receiver which is the pineal gland in the brain. I personally witnessed children being murdered during my time in the AL/499 facility and in recent times children's throats are being cut and the digital broadcast sent out from the recorded brainwaves at the time of death which is stopping people in this country talking to each and sharing on a intimate level. Children's hands are being cut off at some of these underground facilities and the frequencies being sent out are stopping people performing day to day tasks as effectively and maintaining discipline in their lives. You may what to recoil from this and deny it is happening but this is a fact and it is time to wake up.

Barry King who is a close friend and was a Wackenhut Security Officer in 1979 at the AL/499 NASH Berkshire base told me that the NSA plan to have every person in the UK micro-chipped with cranial implants during Military Abductions (MILABS) before 2009. Satanic factions in the NSA are working overtime with military in this country with military abductions every night using the black triangle 'Firefly' aircraft which have been seen tested at Area 51 in the US and are discussed in detail in the interview. I have just found out today that the analogue signals in televisions is being switched off in 2009 and televisions will only work with a digital connection. OFF COURSE IT IS!! The NSA want everyone to be in ‘tune’ with their digital pulses and connected up to the their super [AI] computers like ‘The Beast’ computer located at Pine Gap in Australia through their cranial implants by 2009. Last year, around 1 in 25 people were implanted through various means discussed in the interview. Now the figure is somewhere between 1 in 17 and increasing. The murder frequencies are being recorded behind popular music, film and television in a ELF tone that sounds like a buzzing to phychics. When decoded, this is actually a screaming sound! Recorded brainwaves can even be stored on a small box-like device in a super concentrated form and worn on the belts or held by secret service assassins. The box can be aimed at a person and a radio wave fired out that people can not see. This energy is totally alien to most peoples nervous systems and the target will go into shock as the nervous system shuts down and 'they usually die.

These groups are using these desperate tactics to block the huge frequencies of love and enlightenment that increases by the day as our planet moves closer to the galactic centre as we approoch 2012.

We live in dangerous and exciting times and need to come together in groups in compassion and communication through such events as the Probe International conference in Blackpool to brake up these frequencies. In the crop circle below that appeared in the UK a few years, the following message was encoded in the circle in digital binary code-

“Beware the bearers of FALSE gifts and their BROKEN PROMISES. Much PAIN but still time. There is GOOD out there. We Oppose DECEPTION. Conduit CLOSING (BELL SOUND)”

The dark factions in the secret societies are trying to close the conduit to this higher frequency love energy through their digital signals. Are you going to let them by believing the lies we are spoon fed by the mainstream or are you going to wake up through the many alternative quality medias such as those on the internet and organizations such as Probe International?

The Secret Intelligence Service (SIS), colloquially known as MI6[1] is the United Kingdom’s external intelligence agency, part of the country’s intelligence community. Under the direction of the Joint Intelligence Committee (JIC), it works alongside the Security Service (MI5), Government Communications Headquarters (GCHQ) and the Defence Intelligence Staff (DIS). Within the civil service community the service is colloquially referred to as ‘Box 850′, which comes from its old post office box number.[2][3][4]

Since 1995, the Secret Intelligence Service has had its headquarters at Vauxhall Cross on the South Bank of the Thames.

Al Bielek
From Ken Adachi, Oct. 14, 2011: Al Bielek Passed Away in Mexico on Oct. 10, 2011 at Age 84 (Oct. 14, 2011)

I received an e-mail today from Rich Grybos that Al Bielek, whose extraordinary memories surrounding the 1943 Philadelphia Experiment and the secret projects undertaken at Montauk, Long Island had kept millions of late night radio listeners enthralled for nearly two decades, had died last Monday, October 10, 2011 at 6:30 AM in Guadalajara, Mexico. Al was 84 years old and was buried at a local cemetery in Guadalajara.

Much needs to be said of Al Bielek. I first heard him on the radio with Art Bell about 1995, which I think was a repeat broadcast from 1994. During that 3 hour interview, I was amazed to hear the details of the Philadelphia Experiment. I had only read an article about the Philadelphia Experiment in Newsweek magazine somewhere around 1984 I believe, but I had no idea of the incredible technology that was being employed or the eventual consequences that humanity would have to pay for the folly of that experiment; since it ripped opened a hole in the space-time continuum that allowed unwelcome (and unenlightened) aliens to literally pour into our galaxy.

There already exists many articles about Al Bielek on the Internet and I will repost some of those articles here, but I hope to add new material based on a four part video autobiography that Al made about his life story in April of 2000 in Colorado. I'll also cover new info from a four hour talk that Al gave at a private home in Laguna Hills, California on February 17, 2001, along with insights gained from many conversations with Al over the phone. Al is featured on a CD produced in October 2000, which covers his life as Al Bielek, Edward A. Cameron, the Philadelphia Experiment, the Montauk Project, mind control and time travel.

Prior to conversations with Al, I was already familiar with some of his earlier videos made at various expos, including a very informative video on mind control made in the 1992 with Vladimir Terziski. Most of the material on the Terziski videos has not appeared in text form on the Internet. Al also laid out the details of the Philadelphia Experiment in a book, The Philadelphia Experiment & Other UFO Conspiracies, co-authored with Brad Steiger in 1990.

Lost Memories
In 1988, Al Bielek started to recover fragmented memories of his involvement in the Philadelphia Experiment after seeing a late night TV airing of the 1984 movie, The Philadelphia Experiment. Because of Al's involvement with the Philadelphia Experiment, the Montauk Project, and other secret, black budget programs, he's been subjected to mind control (as have all personnel connected with such projects), with the goal of eliminating from his conscious mind all memories of his involvement in the black projects. "Memories" can be created, changed, or wiped completely when you are subjected to mind control. Does that mean that Al's information may not be 100% accurate? Perhaps, but I feel strongly that the overwhelming bulk of information that Al Bielek has relayed over the years is true and has occurred as he has stated it.

It's always possible that selected memories could have been distorted or even inserted into Al's subconscious mind for disinformation purposes, but to dismiss his remarkable revelations out of hand is foolish. Al had discovered that if both hemispheres of the brain are in balance or in 'sync', then mind control access or manipulation by mind control programmers is thwarted. He explains in his autobiography videos some methods for balancing the left brain and the right brain to achieve this balanced state.

Al Bielek and Phil Schneider have been two of the very best sources we have had to reveal highly secret information about the Accrblack projects of the American government. (People have often asked Al why he hasn't been killed if his information is so good. He tells them that he and brother Duncan have something of a protected status because their bodies are locked in with the time experiments of Montauk and that the earth needs to complete a biorhythm stabilization cycle that converges on Aug. 12, 2003. According to Al, that stabilization is somehow locked in with Al and Duncan's bodies. Al already found out that he cannot (and will not) be arrested by police when he was taken into custody after being discovered on a clandestine and unauthorized inspection of the Montauk base in the early 1990's.)

One of the more compelling revelation from Al's private talk in Laguna Hills and from his eight hour video autobiography is the reference to being teleported to the year 2137. After jumping off the Navy ship Eldridge on August 12, 1943 with his brother Duncan Cameron, as the Philadelphia Experiment began to spiral out of control on board ship, Al and his brother found themselves in a future hospital in the year 2137. Hospital personnel and other people with whom he spoke, told Al of the great changes and cataclysmic events that occurred in the opening years of the 21st century.

The Life of Al Bielek

Al Bielek was born in 1927. His earliest memories as Al Bielek began from the age of nine months old, when he clearly remembers sitting in a basset which was placed on top of the piano during the family's Christmas party. He recalls that he could fully understand the conversation that was taking place around the piano. When Al attended grade school, he was known to his classmates as the "walking encyclopedia". He had an opportunity to take an electronics test before graduating high school and he was the only person to pass the test. The Navy was interested in young men with electronic aptitude and recruited Al as a contractor towards the end of the Second World War.

Al took on various vocations in the field of electronics. While contracting for various military contractors, the people who worked with him began to reveal the truth about the US government's involvement with extra terrestrials and PSI Ops (Psychic Operations) programs. Strange things started to happen to Al soon afterwards.

While in Hawaii in 1956, he had a brief encounter with a man , who he believes now to be Mark Hammil - the actor in the Star Wars movies. Some years later, he was recruited into the Montauk Project which was developed in a multi-level underground facility beneath Fort Hero, near Montauk, Long Isalnad, New York. .

During his Montauk work, he would work his normal day job in California, and take a highly classified , high speed, deep tunneled underground magnetic levitation subway train from Los Angeles to Montauk, Long Island in about 2 hours to carry out his duties at Montauk and take the same 2 hour subway ride back to Los Angeles by early morning.

After the time tunnel was perfected at Montauk, he would simply be teleported to the Fort Hero, Long Island underground base and returned back to his apartment in California using Montauk's time tunnel machine.

During the 1970's, Al was the Program Director for the group of Psychics who manned the infamous Montauk Chair. Since the Montauk Boys were a key program at Montauk, Al had some influence with the Montauk Boys program as well. His duties were to handle the operations of the Mind Control program. He was in regular contact with Duncan Cameron and Preston Nichols. Stewart Swerdlow was one of the Montauk Boys programmers under Al Bielek.

In the 1980's, when the time control equipment was fully operational, Al participated in some of the time travel experiments. Both he and Duncan used the Mnntauk time tunnel to travel to Mars on several occasions. He now remembers several other trips he took with special teams to 1. a research station in the year 100,000 BC; 2. to other planets to get canisters filled with Light and Dark Energy; and 3. to future time periods, sometimes thousands of years in advance of our current time.

In January 1988, after seeing the movie - "The Philadelphia Experiment", his memories of his participation in the August 1944 Philadelphia Esperiment started to return. Al believes his involvement with Montauk ended with that memory recovery. Over time and though meetings with Preston Nichols, Duncan Cameron, and others, many more memories have since returned. Ironically, just after his memories returned, Dr. John Von Neumann, a leading player in the Philadelphia Experiment and the Montauk project, attempted to get in touch with Al - a promise he made to Ed Cameron- should Al ever begin to recovery his memories of his participation in the Philadelphis Experiment.

Al made the decision to go public with the information about his involvement at Montauk and the Philadelphia experiment in 1989. He has been a prolific speaker on radio talk shows and at conferences.

He believes that he has not been harmed or stopped because his time traveling experiences have locked him into this timeline. Somehow, by being here today, he, among others in the Montauk program, serve to balance the time warping imbalance effects they produced from prior time travel experiments.

During these taped interviews, Al Bielek said he received information that up to 2 Million children are missing each year. This corroborates with estimates made by Ted Gunderson and others that many children are being snatched by government agents and others (see "The Finders") for secret government uses in mind control programs, underground slave labor for aliens, satanic ritual abuse/murder, white slavery/prostitution, and other black op programs. One man who took the time to investigate, found that there is a total of 1.4 million children reported missing in the United States; California alone had a total of 110,332 missing children.

This brief biography of Al Bielek is a compilation of notes included with the CD about Al's Life and my own notes garnered from lectures and tapes. This summary is a quick overview to give the reader unfamiliar with Al's life a chance to get handle on some of the more astonishing elements in Al Bielek's story. Greater detail of Al's history is now available in his own words on audio and video recordings of which I'll tell you more later. The information that Al has acquired in the course of his time travels and secret government projects is of great relevance and importance to not only Americans, but everyone living on this planet. I only hope that the posting of his information at this site will help establish a wider audience for his amazingly detailed recollections of past events, but also for his sobering revelation of coming events, especially in the year 2003-2005.

The most difficult part of Al's story for the newcomer to accept is that Al Bielek retains all of the lifetime memories (starting from babyhood) of another man, Edward A. Cameron. Ed Cameron, along with his brother Duncan Cameron, were first hand participants in the Philadelphia Experiment of 1943.

The idea of a separate consciousness inhabiting , at least temporarily, someone else's body is a well known phenomena as is the case when a channeler or a medium brings in a spirit to speak through him or a person is possessed by a demonic spirit. It is also possible for a spirit or consciousness to transfer into a different body during a 'single' life. This is essentially what occured to Al Bielek. when the consciouness of Ed Cameron was 'transferred' into the body of one year old Alfred Bielek in 1927. If you are familiar with the many books written by T. Lobsang Rampa, you know that the author of those extraordinary books was the consciousness of a Tibetan monk whose body was destroyed at the hands of Chinese captors in the early 1950's. On the astral plane, a 'deal' was struck between Rampa and the soul of a rather ordinary Englishman. The spirit of the Englishman wished to return to the spirit world, and Rampa wanted to inhabit a human body again in order to make his story known to humanity. Some people refer to this exchange as a 'walk in'.

I won't attempt to go into all the details here, but the reader will better understand some references made in my brief bio if you bear the above explanation in mind. According to Al, alien technology was made available to government and non-government groups, which has the capability of taking a living human being and 'age regress' that person backwards in time to any desired age. This assertion concerning age regression technology has recently been corroborated in a new on-line book written by Stephanie and Michael Relfe called The Mars Record. Michael Relfe had recovered memories of working for the Navy on Mars for 20 years and being age regressed back by 20 years and re-inserted into the earth time continuum at the point in time in which he was taken to Mars to begin his tour of duty there.

1991 Interview with Al Bielek
This 1991 interview took place in Yelm, Washington between Al Bielek and unnamed reporters working for The Sovereign Scribe of McKenna, Washington. Al recounts how he and his brother Duncan were transported by a Time Tunnel machine located at Montauk, Long Island into the interior of an underground facility on Mars in the late 70's. The United States, possibly Russia, and certain aliens already had bases established on the surface of Mars in 1969 in keeping with the provisions of an agreement between the aliens and the US called Alternative 3. The US personnel on the ground, however, couldn't gain access to these interior Martian facilities because they lacked the heavy equipment needed to force an entry. Possessing advanced computers and exact positioning coordinates for Mars, the Time-Space tunnel machine set up at Montauk could place Al and his brother at any location on or inside the planet to within a few inches of computer coordinates. Al and Duncan made many authorized trips to Mars with the Time Tunnel and two "unauthorized" trips on their own in which they were later discovered and taken off the Mars time tunnel project.

1997 Interview with Al Bielek Part 1 & 2

Al's 1992 Video on Mind Control with Vladimir Terziski
Al Bielek made at least two underground videos with Valdimir Terziski. The first one covered the Philadelphia Experiment in depth and this second video went into the mind control aspects of the Montauk Project, which included both trauma-based mind control of the "Montauk Boys" and the development of microwave electronic mind control that is now being implemented worldwide. You can read a brief summary of this video on the Products page by clicking the above link.

The 2003 Al Bielek Debunking Campaign
July 22, 2003. A new campaign to debunk Al Bielek got kicked off on the internet somewhere in late Spring of 2003. I've been sent e-mails by two relatively unknown individuals who are anxious to have me review their debunking allegations against Al. I haven't responded to them yet, but a third individual said to be associated with this current debunking effort is better known; his name is Marshall Barnes. Barnes has previously spoken supportively of the Philadelphia Experiment (and Al Bielek) on the radio, so one has to wonder what's going on there. This is not the first time a campaign has been launched to discredit the Philadelphia Experiment story. The late Jacques Vallee attempted to do just that in 1994 with an article titled: Anatomy of a Hoax: The Philadelphia Experiment 50 Years Later which appeared in the Journal of Scientific Exploration. I guess it might have held sway at least with the casual reader, had it not been thoroughly demolished and shown to be a disinfo piece in an article titled: Debunking The Philadelphia Experiment Debunkers which appeared on December 6, 2001 at www.rense.com. One has to wonder if Al's unexpected sleuthing and resultant discovery of the HIDDEN FILES embedded within the CDs mentioned above could have had anything to do with this latest discrediting effort, or if Al's more recent radio interviews discussing information about worldwide electronic mind control using microwave "cell phone" towers has anything to do with it. Regardless of the reason, Al says that one doesn't have to scratch very deep beneath the surface to find the hidden hand of Naval Intelligence at work when it comes to undermining his credibility or the reality of the entire Philadelphia Experiment saga.

The Autobiography of Al Bielek in Four Parts, April 17-20, 2000 (Denver, Colorado)
Al Bielek's life story encompasses the complete memories of two men, Ed Cameron and Al Bielek. The idea of a separate consciousness inhabiting , at least temporarily, someone else's body is a well known phenomena as seen when a channeler or a medium brings in a spirit to speak through him. It is also possible for a spirit or consciousness to transfer into a different body during a 'single' life. This is essentially what occured to Al Bielek. when the consciouness of Ed Cameron was 'transferred' into the body of Alfred Bielek in 1927. Al spent a week in April of 2000 staying with a a friend at his home near Denver, Colorado to video tape for posterity the amazing details of Ed Cameron's involvement in the government's most highly classified and secret projects, as well as the continuation of involvement in secret projects in the body of Al Bielek. These four tapes run to eight hours and contain a great volume of ancillary detail and new information not included in any of Al's previous lectures or interviews. Each video part of this series is a complete and distinct exposition and does not require owning the entire series to understand the material. The last tape of this series, Part 4 (Time Travel), was not originally intended to be viewed by the general public, but Al decided in 2003 to publicly release this tape as well. Al Bielek's story is one of the most astounding sagas of the 20th century. Highly recommended.

The Montauk Project (Experiments in Time) Al Bielek's June 13, 1993 Los Angeles Lecture & Workshop Part I: Lecture- The Montauk Project began as an outgrowth of the Philadelphia Experiment where time travel and the manipulation of space and time were part of the research agenda, but the application of these experiments for the purpose of mind control and even wider scale population control became intertwined with the time travel experiments. Thousands of adolescent children, snatched from the streets of Long Island, NY and other American cities, were sent down the Montauk time tunnel; never to be seen again. Other children were used in lethal, high power microwave experiments, while still others were mercilessly beaten (or killed) into submission for the "Montauk Boys" mind control project. Today, according to Al Bielek, there are Montauk-style, electronic mind control programming facilities in every major city in America. There are literally millions of American youth who have been surreptitiously programmed at a local Montauk programming facility-and don't know it-as the programming is impressed upon the subconscious mind of the victim. One obvious tip off or red flag of programming are kids who cut themselves and can't explain why. The second half of this tape includes a 32 minute narrated video tour of the Montauk base recorded in January of 1993 by Preston Nichols, co-author of the book series called The Montauk Project. (1:17 hrs total time) DVD $25 plus shipping (Specify if you want VHS tape)

Part 2, Workshop: Al Bielek's Evening Workshop- Picks up where the lecture left off. This workshop has to be the definitve expose on the diabolical and insideous Montauk Project, which is affecting every single human being on this planet, whether they realize it or not. Includes many slides and Al's unexcelled ability to explain the events, characters, and historical signifigance with clarity and precision (1:56 mins). $25 plus shipping (Specify Video or DVD)

Al Bielek on Mind Control with Vladimir Terziski, April 16, 1992 (2 hours)
This is the second 'underground' video that Vladimir Terziski made with Al Bielek in Los Angeles . The first video covered the Philadelphia Experiment. This second tape begins with a very brief recap of the Philadelphia Experiment followed by an overview of the multifaceted projects that grew out of the initial invisibility experiments. The principal theme of this recording is the secret development of mind control technologies by private (Montauk) and covert government groups working with former Nazi scientists and negative alien groups. The use of portable invisibility technolgy and time/space travel is now commonplace, according to Al, among military, intellligence, government and private covert organizations. Ten years later, we are seeing the full installation of population-wide electronic mind control apparatus (ELF and GWEN towers) first developed by the Japanese in World War II and further refined in the 70's and 80's under the Montauk Project. It's now plain that Al Bielek was 100 % accurate in his description of secret technologies discussed on this tape. DVD $25 plus shipping (Specify if you want VHS tape)

Trevor James Constable is an extraordinary man. The measure of his skill as an author, aviation historian and investigator of unusual phenomena is clearly borne out in his books. His greatest contribution to mankind, his masterwork, is surely The Cosmic Pulse of Life published in 1975; a book of enormous value and breath. The short biography below, A Man of Seasons, includes his complete bibliography of published materials.

Within the articles listed below, as time allows, I hope to share with you in greater detail the work and insights of this remarkable man.

How You Can Prevent Alien and Military Abductions By Michael Relfe (April 2005)
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/preventalienmilitaryabductionsapr05.shtml

.Ken]

The topic of mind control is elaborate, multifaceted, and multi layered. For the casual reader, it can quickly become numbing, overwhelming the senses and creating a desire to exit the topic, but avoiding this subject is the most foolish thing you could possibly do since your only chance of surviving this hideous and insidious enslavement agenda, which today threatens virtually all of humanity, isto understand how it functions and take steps to reduce your vulnerability.

The plans to create a mind controlled workers society have been in place for a long time. The current technology grew out of experiments that the Nazis started before World War II and intensified during the time of the Nazi concentration camps when an unlimited supply of children and adults were available for experimentation. We've heard about the inhumane medical experiments performed on concentration camp prisoners, but no word was ever mentioned by the media and the TV documentaries of the mind control experiments. That was not to be divulged to the American public. Mind control technologies can be broadly divided into two subsets: trauma-based or electronic-based.

The first phase of government mind control development grew out of the old occult techniques which required the victim to be exposed to massive psychological and physical trauma, usually beginning in infancy, in order to cause the psyche to shatter into a thousand alter personalities which can then be separately programmed to perform any function (or job) that the programmer wishes to"install". Each alter personality created is separate and distinct from the front personality. The 'front personality' is unaware of the existence or activities of the alter personalities. Alter personalities can be brought to the surface by programmers or handlers using special codes, usually stored in a laptop computer. The victim of mind control can also be affected by specific sounds, words, or actions known as triggers.

The second phase of mind control development was refined at an underground base below Fort Hero on Montauk , Long Island (New York) and is referred to as the Montauk Project. The earliest adolescent victims of Montauk style programming, so called Montauk Boys, were programmed using trauma-based techniques, but that method was eventually abandoned in favor of an all-electronic induction process which could be "installed" in a matter of days (or even hours) instead of the many years that it took to complete trauma-based methods.

Dr. Joseph Mengele of Auschwitz notoriety was the principle developer of the trauma-basedMonarch Project and the CIA'sMK Ultra mind control programs. Mengele and approximately 5, 000 other high ranking Nazis were secretly moved into the United States and South America in the aftermath of World War II in an Operation designated Paperclip. The Nazis continued their work in developing mind control and rocketry technologies in secret underground military bases. The only thing we were told about was the rocketry work with former Nazi star celebrities like Warner Von Braun. The killers, torturers, and mutilators of innocent human beings were kept discretely out of sight, but busy in U.S. underground military facilities which gradually became home to thousands upon thousands of kidnapped American children snatched off the streets (about one million per year) and placed into iron bar cages stacked from floor to ceiling as part of the 'training'. These children would be used to further refine and perfect Mengele's mind control technologies. Certain selected children (at least the ones who survived the 'training') would become future mind controlled slaves who could be used for thousands of different jobs ranging anywhere from sexual slavery to assassinations. A substantial portion of these children, who were considered expendable, were intentionally slaughtered in front of (and by) the other children in order to traumatize the selected trainee into total compliance and submission.

Mind Control 'Programmed' Individuals

The lone gunman that we hear about in assassinations, assassination attempts, school shootings, etc. are mind controlled individuals who had been 'programmed' to carry out those missions. Ted Bundy, the 'Son of Sam' serial killer David Berkowitz, Oswald, Timothy McVeigh, the Columbine shooters, Chapman, Sirhan Sirhan, etc. were mind controlled individuals who were programmed to perform these killings. Tens of thousands of young teenage boys were kidnapped and forced into the mind control training program called The Montauk Project starting around 1976. Al Bielek, under mind control, was involved in many areas of the secret Montauk Project. After slowly recovering his memories beginning in the late 1980's, he came to realize that there were at least 250,000 mind controlled "Montauk Boys' produced at 25 different facilities similar to the underground base at Montauk, Long Island. Many of these boys were to become 'sleepers' who are individuals who were programmed to go into action at a later date when properly "triggered" to engage in some sort of destructive or disruptive conduct. Other Montauk Boys were woven into the fabric of mainstream American life as journalists, radio & TV personalities, businessmen, lawyers, medical professionals, judges, prosecutors, law enforcement, military men, etc.

Worldwide Electronic Mind Control via 'Cell Phone' Towers
OCC elf towerThe day is now approaching in which government mind control technologies will be directed at you, your neighbors, and your loved ones. Every single day, equipment is being erected and installed in this country with the hidden purpose of exerting mind control over the entire population. Everywhere in this country (and overseas), ELF/microwave transmission towers are being erected. The antennae usually look like four slightly curved vertical plates about 2 feet in length and located in either 3 or 4 quadrants around the tower, two thirds up from the ground. Just look around, you'll see them. And you'll also notice more of them going up once you begin to pay attention. No one is saying anything, but you're expected to presume that they're for cell phones. (Do you really think that we need that much 'cell phone' transmission capability, every few blocks? Do you realize how very little energy is used by genuine cell phone usage? Yet these towers are capable of putting out levels of power that exceed cell phone requirements by a wide margin) These mind control technologies have been in place for a long time. It's not an accident that the frequency band chosen for cell phone use just happens to match the second order waves that Wilhelm Reich discovered in the late1940's to effect thought transmission and allow the mind to be manipulated without the victim realizing it. Reich worked on this project secretly for the CIA for over 5 years, from 1947-1952, until he realized who the CIA was planning to use the mind control on -the American people. He was outraged that he was deceived and used for such a treasonous motive and swore never to cooperate with the CIA, FDA, etc. again. Reich was covertly murdered in Federal prison in 1957, just a few weeks before he was due to be released, having been in prison for 2 years on a trumped up charge leading to a contempt of court citation. He was reported to have had a 'heart attack'. He was strong as an ox. He was murdered two weeks before his parole board hearing. His last book, written in prison, was found to be 'missing' after his death and never returned to his family.

A method was discovered to disable these ELF towers from exerting their mind control functions by placing a simple device known as an orgone generator within a radius of 1,300 feet of these towers. These microwave towers are used in conjunction with HAARP based technology to not only affect subliminal mind control influences, but also to control the weather (currently {2007}, the creation of artificially induced drought conditions are also greatly influenced by the population-reduction chemtrail spraying operations which take place daily over the skies in America and in many other countries) .

thanksBrice Taylor is the pseudonym for Susan Ford, one of the highest level MK Ultra mind controlled victims to ever come forward and reveal her story. It took her nearly 13 years to recover the memories of the events that she reveals in her book, Thanks for The Memories (published in May 1999). Her memories began to return in sporadic fragments in1985, following a car accident that threw her through the windshield of her car after hitting a tree. It wasn't really an accident as much as a result of mind control programming which compelled her to commit suicide if she began to recover critical memories about her role as a top level NASA/CIA mind controlled 'asset' who was used as a sex slave and message (or drug) courier for every president from Kennedy to Clinton and was Henry Kissinger's personal secretary/human computer (file storage and retrieval) for over 19 years. Her 'owner/handler' was comedian Bob Hope and she was 'loaned out' to many famous and well known entertainment personalities in order to oblige them to be beholding to and manipulated by Hope and his Illuminati pals so they could be used as "worker bees' to help usher in the Luciferian, New World Order. Her book is probably the most revealing account to date of well known, national personalities in both politics and the entertainment industry who are involved in the handling, programming, control, manipulation, and abuse of Illuminati/government created human robots like Brice or other, well known celebrity/mind control victims such as Barbara Striesand and Barbara Mandrel. The book's Table of Contents alone will give you an idea of the incredible number of nationally known names that Brice had been involved with from childhood into adulthood as a mind controlled slave. In my opinion, Thanks for The Memories and the two co-authored Illuminati Formula books of Cisco Wheeler and Fritz Springmeir (see below) are the three most important and revealing books in print on the subject of Illuminati mind control and should be read by every concerned and thinking human being on this planet, for they reveal how the Illuminati mind control programs are accomplished and how they can be broken, allowing the victim to escape from its control.

I encourage you to examine the remarkable book review of Thanks for The Memories written by Uri Dowbenko at this link:
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/nwomcbturireview.shtml). It's truly ironic and a perfect example of karmic justice when the total recall of a mind control victim whose brain stem was scarred in order to produce a photographic memory, is now turned back on her abusers to reveal in the most exquisite and precise detail their despicable and monstrous conduct. Thanks for The Memories is a well written book that gives you a front row seat into the real world activities of the Secret Government- the 'government' that's really in charge behind the scenes (those scenes being created by the mainstream Media Propaganda Ministry whose job is to deceive you into thinking that the headline news, 'cover story' government is the real deal; believe me, it isn't. It's an illusion from top to bottom.

It's a dog and pony show. All show, and no substance. The presidential election snafu, the interminable talk show debates, propaganda hacks like Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity, etc., etc., all designed to keep you preoccupied and bewildered from the steady enslavement and erosion of constitutionally guaranteed liberties that is taking place daily. The Sept. 11 "attack" was planned and launched to provide an excuse for passing fascist, totalitarian 'laws' designed to enslave us and strip the populace of the few remaining freedoms that we still enjoy. National ID 'smart' cards that will contain your entire medical, financial history, DNA information, etc. will be required to engage in any sort of normal consumer activity like getting on a plane or even going from state to state after military border guards become a common scene in this once freedom loving land. Spend your cash now while you still have cash, because soon all financial transactions will be conducted using plastic cards. And just like Nazi Germany, our people will be encouraged to report any 'suspicious' activity of their neighbors. In fact, life in the United States will soon become a carbon copy of Nazi Germany of the late 1930's, just a lot more high tech and much more lethal.

We will post articles below that will give you greater insight into the methodology of mind control and its strong connections to Satanism and satanic rituals. Al Bielek has revealed a great deal of prime information on the government's secret mind control capabilities and plans in a 1992 underground video made with Vladimir Terziski.

Are you ready to live in Orwell's nightmare world of Big Brother and mind control slavery? The New Fourth Reich of Hitler's demonic dream where perverted and promiscuous sexuality is promoted as 'normal' and 'healthy' while satanism with its rituals of human sacrifice is the only 'religion' to be allowed? Well, it's just around the corner if we remain passive and unwilling to engage these demonic manipulators.

James Casbolt and Project Mannequin

The Story of James Casbolt & Project Mannequin (Sep. 8, 2008)
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/casboltintro08sep08.shtml

James Casbolt has written one of the most revealing exposes to date on secret government operations and the ultra secret NSA mind control operation called Project Mannequin. While he reviews known specifics of government involvement with aliens, much of his information is new, especially with regards to U.K. underground covert operations. Subjected to mind control programming from earliest childhood, he began to recover his memories about two years ago and continues de-programming therapy to the present day. He first appeared on the Internet in 2007, trying to get out his story, but as is often the case with high level whistle blowers, he was besieged and verbally assaulted by the usual gaggle of conspiracy bloggers and blow hards who are ready to denigrate and dismiss anyone who has new and startling information. I saw the same thing happen to Brice Taylor when she first came out with her book, Thanks for The Memories, in May of 1999. It's a combination of blogger-idiots and government disinfo/smear artists who always reserve their most vicious attacks for those who come closest to the mark.

Andy Pero & Project Superman

Andy Pero is a special case. He is the quintessential victim of unconscionable military/government/academic "users" who think they can take over innocent people's lives and abuse them for their own purposes without regard to the right of that person to control the destiny of their own life. I'll allow the articles below to tell the Andy Pero story, but readers should understand that Andy was as typical an American kid as you can get. He did nothing of his own accord to attract the abuse he was subjected to other than the fact that as a small child he scored well on an IQ test and gained considerable athletic ability at an early age. Unfortunately for Andy, his father was a graduate of the Naval academy and this undoubtedly set the stage for Andy to be targeted and kept under surveillance by the military as he grew up. The military and the CIA had plans for Andy, and regardless of whether Andy liked it or not, he was going to part part of one of their "special training" programs.

[Update: August 2008. We have determined where Andy Pero is located and he's OK. He's being detained but that situation may not last much longer. We will reveal more details when the time is right. It's in Andy's interest to not divulge too much info at this time. You will understand later why I'm being reticent...Ken[

Links to Web Sites on Satanism, Witchcraft, and Satanic Ritual Abuse

With One Accord (http://withoneaccord.org) Bill Schnoebelen was a high priest with the Church of Satan for seven years and credits his return to Christianity (and sanity) because of a short note written on the back of a cancelled check to this organization from a female bank worker who simply wrote the words "Jesus loves you" . Bill recounts his story and ascension from darkness in an amazing book titled, " Lucifer Dethroned ". This man has done it all- very infromative web site.

Links to Web Sites on Mind Control:

Freedom Isn't Free (http://www.raven1.net)

Eleanor White's web site is about one type of the ongoing (and vigorously denied) government crimes, (historically often carried on by non- government entities for cover,) which started in the 1950s as MKULTRA, and COINTELPRO. The code names were dropped, but the activity never stopped. The crime documented here is a literal covert war on citizens by the "shadow governments" who "own" the visible governments. This covert war operates like a cross between illegal vigilante style "criminal rehabilitation groups" and "contract revenge services" for the rich and powerful.
Advocacy Committee for Human Experimentation Survivors & Mind Control (http://www.aches-mc.org/)

ACHES-MC, originally founded for survivors of mind control experimentation, has identified additional survivors of other nonconsensual experimentation. These survivors include children, prisoners, mentally incapacitated and military personnel and their families-those who cannot freely give consent.
Survivorship (http://www.survivorship.org/)

For survivors of ritualistic abuse, mind control, and torture, and their allies. Survivorship is a non-profit organization created to support the healing of adult survivors of ritualized abuse. We are a truly grassroots organization totally supported by membership fees and donations. We accept no federal, state, or private grant monies. We are run for and bysurvivors and their allies.

Citizens Against Human Rights Abuse By Neurological and Electromagnetic Weapons (http://www.dcn.davis.ca.us/~welsh/)

Citizens Against Human Rights Abuse (C.A.H.R.A.) was formed by a group of victims of alleged nonconsensual human experimentation involving electromagnetic and neurological weapon testing programs by the U.S. and other governments. The specific purpose of this group is to stop the currently ongoing nonconsensual human experimentation by the U.S. and other governments. The group will use research and documentation, networking and organization to reach a timely solution. Victims organized this group to pool their time and resources and to network with each other, just as the Gulf War Vets and also radiation victims did. (contact: Cheryl Welsh <welsh@dcn.davis.ca.us>)

Raven1.net (http://www.raven1.net/)

This web site is about one type of the ongoing government crimes, which started in the 1950s as MKULTRA, and the 1960s as COINTELPRO. The code names were dropped, but the activity never stopped. The crime documented here is popularly called "mind control". This activity started with harassment and torture of entirely innocent and involuntary citizens of the U.S. and Canada. Now in the 21st Century, these crimes are happening in the jurisdictions of all major governments, and are world wide in scope. The evidence is here for all who are willing to look at it.

Not a site by victims, but by those developing the kind of technology many victims feel is being used against them. An eye-opening site, especially the publications section.

Pam Schuffert Reports

Satanism, the Illuminati, and mind control are heavily interlinked. Satanic Ritual Abuse (SRA) is one of the principle methods used to shatter the psyches of very young children and begin the process of mind control programming. A series of articles by Pam Schuffert is being written daily to chronicle the current state of satanic activity in the America today. See her reports posted at this link. http://educate-yourself.org/ps/

How You Can Prevent Alien and Military Abductions By Michael Relfe (April 2005)
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/preventalienmilitaryabductionsapr05.shtml

.Ken]

The topic of mind control is elaborate, multifaceted, and multi layered. For the casual reader, it can quickly become numbing, overwhelming the senses and creating a desire to exit the topic, but avoiding this subject is the most foolish thing you could possibly do since your only chance of surviving this hideous and insidious enslavement agenda, which today threatens virtually all of humanity, isto understand how it functions and take steps to reduce your vulnerability.

The plans to create a mind controlled workers society have been in place for a long time. The current technology grew out of experiments that the Nazis started before World War II and intensified during the time of the Nazi concentration camps when an unlimited supply of children and adults were available for experimentation. We've heard about the inhumane medical experiments performed on concentration camp prisoners, but no word was ever mentioned by the media and the TV documentaries of the mind control experiments. That was not to be divulged to the American public. Mind control technologies can be broadly divided into two subsets: trauma-based or electronic-based.

The first phase of government mind control development grew out of the old occult techniques which required the victim to be exposed to massive psychological and physical trauma, usually beginning in infancy, in order to cause the psyche to shatter into a thousand alter personalities which can then be separately programmed to perform any function (or job) that the programmer wishes to"install". Each alter personality created is separate and distinct from the front personality. The 'front personality' is unaware of the existence or activities of the alter personalities. Alter personalities can be brought to the surface by programmers or handlers using special codes, usually stored in a laptop computer. The victim of mind control can also be affected by specific sounds, words, or actions known as triggers.

The second phase of mind control development was refined at an underground base below Fort Hero on Montauk , Long Island (New York) and is referred to as the Montauk Project. The earliest adolescent victims of Montauk style programming, so called Montauk Boys, were programmed using trauma-based techniques, but that method was eventually abandoned in favor of an all-electronic induction process which could be "installed" in a matter of days (or even hours) instead of the many years that it took to complete trauma-based methods.

Dr. Joseph Mengele of Auschwitz notoriety was the principle developer of the trauma-basedMonarch Project and the CIA'sMK Ultra mind control programs. Mengele and approximately 5, 000 other high ranking Nazis were secretly moved into the United States and South America in the aftermath of World War II in an Operation designated Paperclip. The Nazis continued their work in developing mind control and rocketry technologies in secret underground military bases. The only thing we were told about was the rocketry work with former Nazi star celebrities like Warner Von Braun. The killers, torturers, and mutilators of innocent human beings were kept discretely out of sight, but busy in U.S. underground military facilities which gradually became home to thousands upon thousands of kidnapped American children snatched off the streets (about one million per year) and placed into iron bar cages stacked from floor to ceiling as part of the 'training'. These children would be used to further refine and perfect Mengele's mind control technologies. Certain selected children (at least the ones who survived the 'training') would become future mind controlled slaves who could be used for thousands of different jobs ranging anywhere from sexual slavery to assassinations. A substantial portion of these children, who were considered expendable, were intentionally slaughtered in front of (and by) the other children in order to traumatize the selected trainee into total compliance and submission.

Mind Control 'Programmed' Individuals

The lone gunman that we hear about in assassinations, assassination attempts, school shootings, etc. are mind controlled individuals who had been 'programmed' to carry out those missions. Ted Bundy, the 'Son of Sam' serial killer David Berkowitz, Oswald, Timothy McVeigh, the Columbine shooters, Chapman, Sirhan Sirhan, etc. were mind controlled individuals who were programmed to perform these killings. Tens of thousands of young teenage boys were kidnapped and forced into the mind control training program called The Montauk Project starting around 1976. Al Bielek, under mind control, was involved in many areas of the secret Montauk Project. After slowly recovering his memories beginning in the late 1980's, he came to realize that there were at least 250,000 mind controlled "Montauk Boys' produced at 25 different facilities similar to the underground base at Montauk, Long Island. Many of these boys were to become 'sleepers' who are individuals who were programmed to go into action at a later date when properly "triggered" to engage in some sort of destructive or disruptive conduct. Other Montauk Boys were woven into the fabric of mainstream American life as journalists, radio & TV personalities, businessmen, lawyers, medical professionals, judges, prosecutors, law enforcement, military men, etc.

OCC elf towerThe day is now approaching in which government mind control technologies will be directed at you, your neighbors, and your loved ones. Every single day, equipment is being erected and installed in this country with the hidden purpose of exerting mind control over the entire population. Everywhere in this country (and overseas), ELF/microwave transmission towers are being erected. The antennae usually look like four slightly curved vertical plates about 2 feet in length and located in either 3 or 4 quadrants around the tower, two thirds up from the ground. Just look around, you'll see them. And you'll also notice more of them going up once you begin to pay attention. No one is saying anything, but you're expected to presume that they're for cell phones. (Do you really think that we need that much 'cell phone' transmission capability, every few blocks? Do you realize how very little energy is used by genuine cell phone usage? Yet these towers are capable of putting out levels of power that exceed cell phone requirements by a wide margin) These mind control technologies have been in place for a long time. It's not an accident that the frequency band chosen for cell phone use just happens to match the second order waves that Wilhelm Reich discovered in the late1940's to effect thought transmission and allow the mind to be manipulated without the victim realizing it. Reich worked on this project secretly for the CIA for over 5 years, from 1947-1952, until he realized who the CIA was planning to use the mind control on -the American people. He was outraged that he was deceived and used for such a treasonous motive and swore never to cooperate with the CIA, FDA, etc. again. Reich was covertly murdered in Federal prison in 1957, just a few weeks before he was due to be released, having been in prison for 2 years on a trumped up charge leading to a contempt of court citation. He was reported to have had a 'heart attack'. He was strong as an ox. He was murdered two weeks before his parole board hearing. His last book, written in prison, was found to be 'missing' after his death and never returned to his family.

A method was discovered to disable these ELF towers from exerting their mind control functions by placing a simple device known as an orgone generator within a radius of 1,300 feet of these towers. These microwave towers are used in conjunction with HAARP based technology to not only affect subliminal mind control influences, but also to control the weather (currently {2007}, the creation of artificially induced drought conditions are also greatly influenced by the population-reduction chemtrail spraying operations which take place daily over the skies in America and in many other countries) .

Brice Taylor
thanksBrice Taylor is the pseudonym for Susan Ford, one of the highest level MK Ultra mind controlled victims to ever come forward and reveal her story. It took her nearly 13 years to recover the memories of the events that she reveals in her book, Thanks for The Memories (published in May 1999). Her memories began to return in sporadic fragments in1985, following a car accident that threw her through the windshield of her car after hitting a tree. It wasn't really an accident as much as a result of mind control programming which compelled her to commit suicide if she began to recover critical memories about her role as a top level NASA/CIA mind controlled 'asset' who was used as a sex slave and message (or drug) courier for every president from Kennedy to Clinton and was Henry Kissinger's personal secretary/human computer (file storage and retrieval) for over 19 years. Her 'owner/handler' was comedian Bob Hope and she was 'loaned out' to many famous and well known entertainment personalities in order to oblige them to be beholding to and manipulated by Hope and his Illuminati pals so they could be used as "worker bees' to help usher in the Luciferian, New World Order. Her book is probably the most revealing account to date of well known, national personalities in both politics and the entertainment industry who are involved in the handling, programming, control, manipulation, and abuse of Illuminati/government created human robots like Brice or other, well known celebrity/mind control victims such as Barbara Striesand and Barbara Mandrel. The book's Table of Contents alone will give you an idea of the incredible number of nationally known names that Brice had been involved with from childhood into adulthood as a mind controlled slave. In my opinion, Thanks for The Memories and the two co-authored Illuminati Formula books of Cisco Wheeler and Fritz Springmeir (see below) are the three most important and revealing books in print on the subject of Illuminati mind control and should be read by every concerned and thinking human being on this planet, for they reveal how the Illuminati mind control programs are accomplished and how they can be broken, allowing the victim to escape from its control.

I encourage you to examine the remarkable book review of Thanks for The Memories written by Uri Dowbenko at this link:
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/nwomcbturireview.shtml). It's truly ironic and a perfect example of karmic justice when the total recall of a mind control victim whose brain stem was scarred in order to produce a photographic memory, is now turned back on her abusers to reveal in the most exquisite and precise detail their despicable and monstrous conduct. Thanks for The Memories is a well written book that gives you a front row seat into the real world activities of the Secret Government- the 'government' that's really in charge behind the scenes (those scenes being created by the mainstream Media Propaganda Ministry whose job is to deceive you into thinking that the headline news, 'cover story' government is the real deal; believe me, it isn't. It's an illusion from top to bottom.

It's a dog and pony show. All show, and no substance. The presidential election snafu, the interminable talk show debates, propaganda hacks like Rush Limbaugh, Sean Hannity, etc., etc., all designed to keep you preoccupied and bewildered from the steady enslavement and erosion of constitutionally guaranteed liberties that is taking place daily. The Sept. 11 "attack" was planned and launched to provide an excuse for passing fascist, totalitarian 'laws' designed to enslave us and strip the populace of the few remaining freedoms that we still enjoy. National ID 'smart' cards that will contain your entire medical, financial history, DNA information, etc. will be required to engage in any sort of normal consumer activity like getting on a plane or even going from state to state after military border guards become a common scene in this once freedom loving land. Spend your cash now while you still have cash, because soon all financial transactions will be conducted using plastic cards. And just like Nazi Germany, our people will be encouraged to report any 'suspicious' activity of their neighbors. In fact, life in the United States will soon become a carbon copy of Nazi Germany of the late 1930's, just a lot more high tech and much more lethal.

We will post articles below that will give you greater insight into the methodology of mind control and its strong connections to Satanism and satanic rituals. Al Bielek has revealed a great deal of prime information on the government's secret mind control capabilities and plans in a 1992 underground video made with Vladimir Terziski.

Are you ready to live in Orwell's nightmare world of Big Brother and mind control slavery? The New Fourth Reich of Hitler's demonic dream where perverted and promiscuous sexuality is promoted as 'normal' and 'healthy' while satanism with its rituals of human sacrifice is the only 'religion' to be allowed? Well, it's just around the corner if we remain passive and unwilling to engage these demonic manipulators.

James Casbolt and Project Mannequin

http://educate-yourself.org/mc/casboltintro08sep08.shtml

James Casbolt has written one of the most revealing exposes to date on secret government operations and the ultra secret NSA mind control operation called Project Mannequin. While he reviews known specifics of government involvement with aliens, much of his information is new, especially with regards to U.K. underground covert operations. Subjected to mind control programming from earliest childhood, he began to recover his memories about two years ago and continues de-programming therapy to the present day. He first appeared on the Internet in 2007, trying to get out his story, but as is often the case with high level whistle blowers, he was besieged and verbally assaulted by the usual gaggle of conspiracy bloggers and blow hards who are ready to denigrate and dismiss anyone who has new and startling information. I saw the same thing happen to Brice Taylor when she first came out with her book, Thanks for The Memories, in May of 1999. It's a combination of blogger-idiots and government disinfo/smear artists who always reserve their most vicious attacks for those who come closest to the mark.

Andy Pero & Project Superman

Andy Pero is a special case. He is the quintessential victim of unconscionable military/government/academic "users" who think they can take over innocent people's lives and abuse them for their own purposes without regard to the right of that person to control the destiny of their own life. I'll allow the articles below to tell the Andy Pero story, but readers should understand that Andy was as typical an American kid as you can get. He did nothing of his own accord to attract the abuse he was subjected to other than the fact that as a small child he scored well on an IQ test and gained considerable athletic ability at an early age. Unfortunately for Andy, his father was a graduate of the Naval academy and this undoubtedly set the stage for Andy to be targeted and kept under surveillance by the military as he grew up. The military and the CIA had plans for Andy, and regardless of whether Andy liked it or not, he was going to part part of one of their "special training" programs.

[Update: August 2008. We have determined where Andy Pero is located and he's OK. He's being detained but that situation may not last much longer. We will reveal more details when the time is right. It's in Andy's interest to not divulge too much info at this time. You will understand later why I'm being reticent...Ken[

With One Accord (http://withoneaccord.org) Bill Schnoebelen was a high priest with the Church of Satan for seven years and credits his return to Christianity (and sanity) because of a short note written on the back of a cancelled check to this organization from a female bank worker who simply wrote the words "Jesus loves you" . Bill recounts his story and ascension from darkness in an amazing book titled, " Lucifer Dethroned ". This man has done it all- very infromative web site.

Links to Web Sites on Mind Control:

Freedom Isn't Free (http://www.raven1.net)

Eleanor White's web site is about one type of the ongoing (and vigorously denied) government crimes, (historically often carried on by non- government entities for cover,) which started in the 1950s as MKULTRA, and COINTELPRO. The code names were dropped, but the activity never stopped. The crime documented here is a literal covert war on citizens by the "shadow governments" who "own" the visible governments. This covert war operates like a cross between illegal vigilante style "criminal rehabilitation groups" and "contract revenge services" for the rich and powerful.
Advocacy Committee for Human Experimentation Survivors & Mind Control (http://www.aches-mc.org/)

ACHES-MC, originally founded for survivors of mind control experimentation, has identified additional survivors of other nonconsensual experimentation. These survivors include children, prisoners, mentally incapacitated and military personnel and their families-those who cannot freely give consent.
Survivorship (http://www.survivorship.org/)

For survivors of ritualistic abuse, mind control, and torture, and their allies. Survivorship is a non-profit organization created to support the healing of adult survivors of ritualized abuse. We are a truly grassroots organization totally supported by membership fees and donations. We accept no federal, state, or private grant monies. We are run for and bysurvivors and their allies.

Citizens Against Human Rights Abuse By Neurological and Electromagnetic Weapons (http://www.dcn.davis.ca.us/~welsh/)

Citizens Against Human Rights Abuse (C.A.H.R.A.) was formed by a group of victims of alleged nonconsensual human experimentation involving electromagnetic and neurological weapon testing programs by the U.S. and other governments. The specific purpose of this group is to stop the currently ongoing nonconsensual human experimentation by the U.S. and other governments. The group will use research and documentation, networking and organization to reach a timely solution. Victims organized this group to pool their time and resources and to network with each other, just as the Gulf War Vets and also radiation victims did. (contact: Cheryl Welsh <welsh@dcn.davis.ca.us>)

This web site is about one type of the ongoing government crimes, which started in the 1950s as MKULTRA, and the 1960s as COINTELPRO. The code names were dropped, but the activity never stopped. The crime documented here is popularly called "mind control". This activity started with harassment and torture of entirely innocent and involuntary citizens of the U.S. and Canada. Now in the 21st Century, these crimes are happening in the jurisdictions of all major governments, and are world wide in scope. The evidence is here for all who are willing to look at it.

He says, "I now know without any doubt, that during my stay in Canada, I was being bombarded with microwave radiations, and that I was being mentally and emotionally manipulated by EMF Remote Mind Control Weaponry. I also believe that these attacks may have been executed via the US National Security Agency's Kinnecome Group, Fort Meade, who are known for such attacks on the American people. "

MKzine (http://www.mkzine.com/)

Magazine with articles by known activists. Examines coercive mind control, invasive human experimentation and other related abuses.

StopCovertWar.com (http://www.StopCovertWar.com/)

A site describing the current day epidemic of covert around the clock harassment of citizens, allowed to continue because all government agencies and non- government human rights organizations choose to look the other way instead of obeying their respective mandates. This site has collected information on how to cope with this unending torture, and how to effectively fight to expose and stop these crimes.

Government Mind Control (http://www.angelfire.com/or/mctrl/index.html)

A well organized site providing links to articles and books. It contains plenty of fascinating research information.
Psychotechnology Research Institute (http://int.psycor.ru/main.php?smir)

Pam Schuffert Reports

Satanism, the Illuminati, and mind control are heavily interlinked. Satanic Ritual Abuse (SRA) is one of the principle methods used to shatter the psyches of very young children and begin the process of mind control programming. A series of articles by Pam Schuffert is being written daily to chronicle the current state of satanic activity in the America today. See her reports posted at this link. http://educate-yourself.org/ps/

(Original introduction)

In November of 1999, I acquired an enormous amount of paperwork from retired FBI Senior Special-Agent-In-Charge Ted L. Gunderson who had compiled box loads of research and had assembled a number of reports in recent years which described unimaginable "operations" of treachery, sadistic savagery, degradation, abuse, and murder caused by intelligence agents of the United States government against its own citizens, especially children.

The Finders

The kidnapping of children for purposes of prostitution, pornography, high tech weaponry experimental abuse, mind control abuse, child slave labor for underground alien-controlled facilities, white sex slavery, and the satanic ritual murder of untold thousands of American children snatched from the streets and playgrounds of America by agents working for the CIA is the principle reason for the existence of a covert CIA operation called "The Finders". The Finders is one of the most alarming and despicable covert operations against America's children that Gunderson's investigations helped to uncover, but it's only one of many covert Gestapo-like acts committed against American citizens by government agents under directives issued, not by Congress or the President, but rather by international satanists collectively known as the Illuminati, who control the Secret or Inner government of the United States as well as every other major government in the world. The "Finders" operation began in the 1960's and continues kidnapping children to this very day.

Dr. Jeffrey R. MacDonald

Soon after after retiring from the FBI in March of 1979 , Ted began looking more deeply into cases of satanic murder activity after becoming convinced of the innocence of a young Army medical doctor, Dr. Jeffrey R. MacDonald, who was falsely convicted in August, 1979 of the murder of his wife and two young daughters (5 year old Kimberly, and 2 year old Kristen MacDonald) in a bloody and grisly satanic style murder scene that took place in their home in the early morning hours of Feb. 17, 1970 on Ft. Bragg Army base in North Carolina. The murders were in fact committed by a local satanic group of drug users (referred to as "hippies" in the newspapers at the time) which included five active duty army men who had targeted the MacDonald family because Dr. MacDonald was perceived by this group of GI drug users as a "snitch"; as MacDonald and other army doctors were adhering to the base commander's new policy (at the time) of reporting the names of Army personnel who were being admitted to the base Emergency Room for overdosing on heroin and other serious drugs .

What happened next to Jeffrey MacDonald is nothing short of the greatest case of malicious prosecution and injustice in modern history.

The Franklin Cover-Up
The participation of persons of high position in satanic rituals and child prostitution in the Omaha, Nebraska was revealed in the 1992 book, The Franklin Cover-Up, by former state senator and attorney, John DeCamp. Ted Gunderson provided a substantial amount of investigative assistance to John DeCamp in uncovering the story. The Franklin Cover-Up describes the role played by the CIA's "Finders" in the drugging, mind control, and forced coercion of kidnapped children into silent compliance to serve the pedophilic and sadistic appetites of some of the most prominent and well known people in Omaha, Nebraska and Washington, DC.

Conspiracy of Silence was a one hour video describing the Franklin Cover-Up originallly due to be aired on the Discovery Channel in 1994. The documentary was pulled and the UK producers paid off to obtain all copies by unknown political figures in congress. John DeCamp had obtained an in-house copy which he gave to Ted Gunderson in the late 1990s. which Ted made available from his web site and at his talks. The Conspiracy of Silence is the greatest testament to the victory of corruption and murder over innocence and justice ever seen in a modern times. This version was posted to Youtube on May 1, 2012. Paul Bonner was killed with a drug overdose shortly after being filmed for this documentary.

McMartin Preschool
Ted played a formidable role in the exposure of the satanic/sexual cover-up in the McMartin Preschool case (Manhattan Beach, California) which had involved over 450 children in the 3-5 year old range over a period of years. The story occupied national headlines for most of the 1980's and, once again, prosecutors were anxious to sabotage the investigation to conceal the identity of powerful and well connected pedophiles who were abusing these kids at off site locations and had them returned to the school before the parents arrived to pick up their children. The CIA created a front group called The False Memory Syndrome Foundation (FMSF) to debunk, reticule, and defame victims (and their advocates) of Satanic Ritual Abuse, pedophilic sexual abuse, and CIA cult mind control activities. The board members of FMSF reads like a Who's Who of CIA contractors and 'consultants'. Incredibly, Peter and Pamela Freyd , executive directors of the FMSF along with FMSF founder, Dr. Ralph Underwager, have fallen from public grace because they, themselves, have been involved in the very abuse that they claim is a result of 'false' memory' on the part of very young children. Additional articles about the McMartin Preschool case are posted near the bottom of this page.

Art Bell
These stories and others that Ted has investigated will be covered here, but for the time being, however, I'll need to devote my time to expounding on another covert CIA "operation": the smearing of Ted Gunderson's name & reputation by using a national radio talk show host named Art Bell.

Since much of Ted's research and talks have centered on CIA involved operations (including the Oklahoma City Bombing), the CIA is likely a little upset with Ted and probably would like to see him permanently retired, but Ted apparently has friends in "high places" too, since, to date, he's managed to thwart six attempts on his life.

So, if Ted won't lay down in the 'usual' manner, how does his Langley pals get the public to ignore what he has to say?

Simple. They kick in their standard Plan B takedown operation: Smear and Discredit.

It works like this: reduce your critic to an unbelievable, disreputable, irresponsible 'conspiracy nut' who no one much likes anyway because you keep "hearing" bad things about him.

So, how do they go about doing that?

Well, they set up a "scenario" and then use chumps to play the parts. It's sort of like making a movie. First you get the script writers in one of those fancy Langley offices to lay out the Plot and the Players. Then you gather your cast, except the cast members usually don't recognize that they're part of a cast because most of them are getting their lines (instructions) delivered straight into their subconscious mind via a little technique called mind control, having already been prepped for the job earlier in life with either trauma-based conditioning programs (satanic ritual abuse (SRA) being a common vehicle) or with the newer all-electronic mind control methods employing Montauk Project style conditioning (covert Montauk 'training centers' are presently established in most major cities throughout North America-according to Al Bielek), and finally raise the curtain on Act One, Scene One. The 'stage' in this case is the American landscape with Lighting, Sound, and Special Effects provided by mainstream media and CIA/NSA/FBI orchestrators.

In Ted's case, Act One opened on April 1, 2000, which is also known as April Fool's Day (those clever rascals! Is this poetry or what!). On that date, Art Bell announced to his millions of radio listeners (including me) that he was leaving radio for good at the end of the April because his life had been "devastated" by the deplorable conduct of one Ted Gunderson and David Hinkson. You can read my first reaction to Scene One in The Smearing of Ted Gunderson, Part 1 that's posted below.

Since then, Ted's Play has been moving right along. New characters have been introduced and the Plot has taken a few surprising turns; web sites have been created to Dump on Gunderson; articles have appeared in national magazines like People's; affidavits have been submitted to the Tennessee court, and newspaper stories abound.

All in all, it's quite a production, but you'll be able to read all the juicy behind-the-scenes news right here as we review this production in its entirety, analyzing the plot, the producers, the promoters, and the actors...especially the bit players with names like Robert Ghostwolf. (Posted August, 2000)

Update: August 2007

The Smearing of Ted Gunderson

It appears that a national covert operation to smear and discredit Ted Gunderson was set into motion in the early months of 2000. The planning may have been initiated earlier, but the coordinated effects could be seen in early 2000. By Spring, the plan was in high gear with Art Bell's dramatic exit from the air on April 1, 2000 coupled with the pre-trial hearing of Bell's lawsuit against Gunderson and radio station WWCR set to begin in early May. The first article I wrote about this case was posted on the Internet some days before the pretrial hearing was to take place. I didn't know it was going to be a series of articles at the time, but the more material I read, especially court documents, the more my eyes widened with astonishment. The actual events that transpired with Art Bell's son, the complicity of Bell's son in the alleged "crime" committed by his son's accused "rapist", Brian Lepley, and the statements made by Art Bell on his Coast to Coast radio show concerning what happened to his son and Gunderson's alleged statements supposedly accusing Bell of being a child molester will be covered in detail. In these articles, we will review the statements of all parties involved, examine the evidence offered, and look at a substantial body of hard documentation that refutes most of what was claimed by Art Bell on the air concerning these events.

Part 1 opens the story about Art Bell, the pretrial hearing, and his statements against Gunderson & Hinkson, Gunderson's radio show, and the radio station that carried Gunderson's radio show (WWCR). The entire transcript of the supposedly accusatory conversation that took place between Gunderson and Hinkson is also included. In Part 2 we continue to examine Art Bell's illogical and unconvincing behavior and examine the Internet disinformation smear team that came together in April, 2000 to buttress Bell's on air statements against Gunderson and help foment distrust and suspicion aimed at Ted.

The principle members of the Ted Gunderson Character Assassination Team include Virginia McCullough, Cherie Seymour (pen name, Carol Marshall), & Kate Dixon of www.newsmakingnews.com, Stew Webb, Barbara Hartwell, Kathleen Sullivan, Jackie McGauley, and Kathy Kasten of UCLA. These peoplehave tried to characterize Ted as some version of a 'double agent' whose pretense to helping people is just a cover for his 'real work', which is to help the dark side. When you read their defamatory words, you will be given conclusions (E.g. Ted's "Cointelpro") without evidence or proof to back up their assertions. The tools these character assassins employ include repeated innuendo, guilt by association, and outright slander to support their unfounded allegations against Ted Gunderson.

Barbara Hartwell, who was raised in a CIA family and has been programmed under MK Ultra mind control, has vied with Stew Webb to establish herself as Ted's most vociferous, viscious, and constant accuser. Her wild, totally fabricated slanders against Ted Gunderson are simply surreal and beyond rediculous. Actually, Hartwell and Webb are nearly neck in neck with their respective dumb sites of garbage heaped at Ted.

Update April 2005: Hartwell has now added attorney John DeCamp, author of The Franklin Cover Up, to her character assassination hit list. In a recent rant posted on the internet, she actually had the termerity to accuse DeCamp of being a child molester and pedophile. I have a feeling that that the day is fast approaching in which Barbara Hartwell and those web site owners who post her slanders are going to find themselves in a court of law.

Kurt Billings (CIA) and Robert Ghostwolf, for example, submitted utterly contrived and untruthful affidavits to the judge in the Art Bell case claiming that they heard Ted, with their own ears, making threats to ruin Art Bell. These surprise affidavits were submitted to the judge at the last minute in the Art Bell pretrial to keep the case afloat when it looked liked the judge was going to dismiss the whole thing before it got off the ground.

Ted and his attorney were dumbfounded when these affidavits were presented. First, Ted Gunderson had no idea who Robert Ghostwolf was. Ted never met him, he never saw him, and he never had even heard of him! I was the one who explained to Ted over the phone that Robert Ghostwolf was a frequent guest on the Art Bell show and generally portrayed himself as a sort of American Indian spokesman (or seer, oracle, or prophet- take your pick). Ghostwolf's critics are less complimentary: 1, 2, 3, 4., 5 They claim his real name is Robert Franzone and that he hasn't got a drop of Indian blood running through his veins- and even less integrity.

Kurt Billings met Ted at Brice Taylor's rented home in Las Vegas and pumped Ted for a lot of information, but never heard Ted say anything threatenting about Bell as he claimed in his affidavit. Brice Taylor was a witness to the conversations between Billings and Ted and swore in her own affidavit to the court (not allowed at the pretrial) that Billings had concocted an outright fabrication concerning threats against Art Bell. Kurt Billings comes from a CIA family and openly admits to having been employed by CIA.

Michael Ruppert has also done his part to make Ted look like a dark agent in articles he had published in Nexus magazine and at his Internet web site (http://www.copvcia.com). Michael Ruppert might be an unwitting accomplice as he seems to have been heavily influenced by the untruthful allegations made against Ted in Cherie Seymour's on-line book, The Last Circle (http://www.lycaeum.org/books/books/last_circle/1.htm), but that doesn't make him any less culpable for defaming an innocent man. Seymour uses the pseudonym of Carol Marshall as author of her book.

Michael Ruppert Update (2005): The above comments about Michael Ruppert were written in August of 2000. Today (May 2005), there is no longer any doubt in my mind about Mike Ruppert's role as a conduit for disinformation. He thoroughly revealed his colors with his promotion of the 'peak oil' hoax. Ruppert is a good example of the modern day CIA/Illuminati disinformation agent. He doesn't simply show up on the internet or radio talk shows as a mere debunker or critic of people like Ted Gunderson. He wouldn't get much attention that way. No, the way it's done today is to first build up a reputation for a few years as a 'good guy', a man of the people who's bravely defying the Evil Empire by trying to get the 'truth' out to the public, regardless of personal risk, etc.

http://educate-yourself.org/tg/index.shtml#defendingted

The time is long overdue to collate the many articles already posted at this web site defending Ted Gunderson into a single location and to post, point by point, rebuttals of the most egregious slanders from the above mentioned Character Assassination Team. I'll initially concentrate on Webb, Hartwell, and McGauley, since they are the most active in slandering Ted, but in time I will also cover the role of Cherie Seymour, Ruppert, Sullivan and others. .

We will exam the words of each of these character assassins in separate articles and allow the reader to draw his own conclusions as to who is really playing the role of double agent and who is telling lies.

1. The Joe Energy Cell (http://educate-yourself.org/fe/fejoewatercell.shtml)
This simple water cell is a powerful orgone accumulator invented by an Australian man only identified by the name Joe "X". His intention was to run a car without using gasoline and that is precisely what he accomplished.

2. The Free Energy Secrets of Cold Electricity ( http://educate-yourself.org/fe/coldelectricityvideo.shtml)
Peter Lindemann is one of the sharpest alternative energy researchers I know. After 27 years, he finally figured out how Edwin Grey made his magnificient Grey motor worked: Grey was captuing Radiant Energy (discovered by Tesla in 1893) and applied it to his motor to obtain a free energy motor of very high power and output. This video tells you precisely how Grey adapted and utilized Tesla's greatest free energy secret.

3. Radiant Energy: Unraveling Tesla's Greatest Secret Part 1 (June 1, 2001) ( http://educate-yourself.org/fe/radiantenergystory.shtml)
The story you are about to read is derived from a carefully researched paper presented by Dr. Peter Lindemann before a private audience in Irvine, California on September 12, 2000. The lecture was titled “The Free Energy Secrets of Cold Electricity” . It detailed the story of Radiant Energy and its successful application by Edwin Gray in an over unity motor design which Gray debuted in 1973. The real detective work (& credit) in uncovering Tesla’s discovery of Radiant energy came from author Gerry Vassilatos in his recent book, “Secrets of Cold War Technology” without which Lindemann could not have solved the enigma of Gray’s Radiant circuit design. This lecture delivered the

4. WaterFuel (Jan. 28, 2002)
Water can replace gasoline as a fuel for your car, boat, etc. Stephen Chambers, Stanley Meyers and other inventors had worked out relatively simple systems to convert ordinary tap water into their constituent gases of hydrogen and oxygen. The hydrogen (and some oxygen) is burned in the cylinder's combustion chamber, while the "exhaust" is composed of unburnt oxygen and water vapor, which replensihes the atmosphere. The construction plans given here were anonymously faxed to Geoff Engle of Energy 2000 and later forwarded to Keeley Net (and probably other energy web sites as well).

Patents Online

http://www.findthatpatent.com/
Our thanks to Maxim Bachmakov for providing this extremely easy-to-use patent search site.
Free Patents Online (http://www.freepatentsonline.com/)
FreePatentsOnline.com provides fast, easy-to-use access to millions of patents. Attorneys use this data for patent searching. Inventors too. Researchers use it to keep up on the latest developments in their field. And everyone can use it just to browse all the interesting (and sometimes crazy!) ideas that are out there. FreePatentsOnline.com now provides free PDF downloads. Many sites charge $2 - $5 each to compile individual image files into a PDF and let you download it. We do it for free!
Swiss Patent Documents (http://www.espacenet.ch/intro/introen.htm)
Technology and patent information is one of the most important assessment instruments used by research and development departments in innovative companies. To increase the general awareness of the wealth of information contained in patent documents, Switzerland and other members of the European Patent Organisation have set up a patent database known as esp@cenet.

Tim Hicks & Philip Ledoux

By Ken Adachi <Editor@educate-yourself.org>
http://educate-yourself.org/pnl/index.shtml
April 2005

Phil Ledoux passed away on or about September 1, 2011. He was a wonderful dowser, story writer, and humantarian. Over the years, he penned many essays here that were both highly revealing and filled with important insights. We will miss his always helpful and optimistic point of view. Thank you Phil for all of your wonderful commentary and essays over the years.

Philip Ledoux, E-Y Contributor, Passes Away at Age 82 (Sep. 4, 2011)

This page will continue to see contributions from Tim Hicks, Phil's long time dowsing associate, close friend and colleague. Tim's intuitive perceptions and psychic insights are reaching new heights of awareness. I'm sure you'll find his writing interesting and valuable. ..Ken Adachi

I originally was contacted by Philip Ledoux by snail mail. He sent me a great deal of fascinating information which I will expound upon at a future date. In the meantime, I hope you will enjoy these essays and doswsing sessions by Phil. He has led an interesting life and possesses a remarkable memory, coupled with a a keen sense of analysis and discernment. A very interesting fellow indeed.

http://educate-yourself.org/cn/robertbitzer04oct05.shtml
October 4, 2005

http://www.revbates.tv/robertbitzer.htm

Dr. Robert H. Bitzer (1896 - 1994) Founder and Spiritual Director of the Hollywood Church of Religious Science, wrote several books and gave hundreds of classes during his career. The Hollywood Church of Religious Science was the Hallmark Church in the Religious Science movement. Even today, Dr. Bitzer's tapes are treasured by people all over the world. His lessons on Spiritual Mind Treatment (also known as Scientific Prayer) are masterful teachings.

Dr. Bitzer began his ministry at the landmark Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel

The only book currently in print is his "Collected Essays of Robert Bitzer" "All Power To You" is out of print, but can be read on this site with a forward by Rev. Henry Lee Bates. Dr. Bitzer's words created statements and treatments that filled the mind with absolute authority and conviction. He is truly one of the greatest metaphysicians of the 20th Century. His work, if studied and embodied, can change someone's life completely. His work is known all over the world and the "Meditation Of Thankfulness" below has been read by thousands of people as well as "The Law Of Mind."

From the "Collected Essays Of Robert Bitzer" page 19:

"No matter what you are attempting to do, always get the vision before you begin to work. See the completed demonstration. If you are buying a house, think of it as completely furnished and completely paid for. Even though you may take out a mortgage on it, treat that it is completely paid for. For the first property our church bought, we worked that way. Instead of waiting twenty years to pay off the mortgage, we did it in eight years."

From "From the "Collected Essays Of Robert Bitzer"" page 20:

"As for money. I have never worked for money. I depend upon divine Principle. I have never experienced lack, because I know the source of my supply. I never depend upon the channel but only on the source. I am open to all avenues through which my good comes. I thank everyone who is an instrument and show my appreciation, because no one has to be a part of my demonstration. However, the source blesses and prospers everyone that it uses. Understanding this law, we are never imposed upon, nor can we impose upon someone else. Bless everyone through whom your good comes. I have always been governed by this law - long before I ever heard of metaphysics."

A MEDITATION OF THANKFULNESS
by Robert Bitzer

I thank Thee,
That Thou has made me in the image and likeness
Of Thine own Divinity.
That Thou has held me close to the heart of Thine Infinity.
And warmed me with the presence of Thy Divine Love.

I thank Thee,
That Thou has breathed into me the courage
To move ever forward
That my faith is made perfect in works
Fulfilling Thy Divine purpose.
That Thy unlimited Power
Fills me.

I thank Thee,
That Thy loving tenderness gives me a deep insight

Into the lives of those around me.
That compassion makes me see beyond their struggles
That loving kindness helps me lift them
And makes them strong.

I thank Thee,
That Thy goodness surrounds me
That within me thou hast created the desire for Good.
That Thou are revealed in my Infinite Self and
In every person, every place and in everything
I find Thee.

I thank Thee.

T. Lobsang Rampa, An Introduction

Editor's Note, Updated May 28, 2022: I've taken to the writings of Tuesday Lobsang Rampa like a duck to water. He had claimed from his first book (The Third Eye, 1956) forward that every word he wrote was the truth and I've found no reason to doubt him. His information seems to ring true and fits with other sources of esoteric knowledge. The ridicule, mockery, and scorn that he had endured for years from an uninformed and callous British press would have been impossible for an ordinary man to put up with, but he stuck it out for many years and continued to write. His readers were less cynical, fortunately, and his popularity spread to many countries. He eventually left Britain and settled in Ireland and later in Canada, to get away from the constant haranguing of the British tabloids. He died in Canada in 1981.

I was a little confused on the total number of books published by Rampa, as I could only find 20 titles in the United States, but apparently the correct number is 24, with 4 titles only available in Europe. A short piece titled "My Visit to Venus," originally published for a UFO magazine in the 1950s, was printed in book form by his publisher in the late 70s without Rampa's knowledge. They later told Rampa that they couldn't get a hold of him for confirmation since they thought he was in South America. After Rampa found out that they had published his "Trip to Venus" story as a book, he told the publisher to send his 10% sales commission to an organization which helps to find homes for cats, rather than receive the money himself.

 All 20 of Lobsang Rampa's books are listed further below and can be downloaded in their entirety as pdf files. There is also a downloadable mp3 audio book narration of each title listed below the pdf book link thanks to the efforts of a Youtuber named "Rex" who uploaded all of Rampa's audio books just a couple of months ago in March of 2022. We all owe Rex a great big "Thank You" for uploading these audio books to his Youtube channel. I especially admire the voice, intonation and inflection of narrator Clay Luma Caiyu, a born story-teller if there ever was one. **

I also owe an enormous debt of gratitude to my good friend, Tian Boon from Canada, for making 80% of my Rampa library available to me. In the course of e-mail and telephone exchanges, Tian realized that I had the same admiration for Rampa's writing as he had, but I could only obtain a few of his books locally. The majority of Rampa's books were out of print and I had no idea where I could find them. Without saying a word to me, Tian took the time to laboriously hand copy each page of eleven Rampa books in his possession, along with the 'Visit to Venus' piece, and send the whole package to he in one large-and very heavy-box. I felt like a kid at Christmas when I opened that mysterious box from Canada. The gift of Rampa's copied books was only one of many kindnesses extended to me by Tian, a true friend.

The Story of Cyril Hoskin and T. Lobsang Rampa
By Ken Adaci, Editor
How the author T. Lobsang Rampa came to be is a tale as unusual as anything revealed in his books. In 1947, a struggling and unemployed writer by the name of Cyril Hoskin told his astonished wife that he was going to change his legal name to Carl KuonSuo. Still unable to find work under his new name, Carl nonetheless felt a strange compulsion to adopt Oriental ways. He broke off ties with family and friends and moved to a more remote district of England with his wife where on June 13, 1949, he suffered a mild concussion after falling from a tree that he was punning in his garden. He was knocked unconscious for a short time, but after he recovered, Carl KuonSuo was no longer there; another personality, a Tibetan, had taken his place. You can read his wife's reaction to this new personality in the piece reprinted below by Gray Barker.

I've listed all of the Rampa books known to me and their year of publication below. Some books were only published in Europe and were not available to North American readers. You can find many chapters from his books excerpted at the Rampa web sites listed below his bibliography. I'll also reprint some chapters of his books at this web site as time allows. You can still obtain some of Rampa's most popular titles at major books stores. I was surprised to find 13 titles available at http://www.amazon.com , along with an audio CD. Once you begin to read Rampa, it's hard to put him down. His narrative is full of life, color and and exciting adventure. As Rampa could travel in the astral plane at will, you can glean a great deal of metaphysical insights by reading his books. His style of writing puts you at ease immediately and you feel as if you are hearing these stories first hand from a close friend revealing these accounts in front of a crackling fireplace on a winter's evening. It's truly wonderful reading.

T. Lobsang Rampa, An Introduction (Oct. 7, 2005)

By Gray Barker
http://educate-yourself.org/cn/lobsangrampaintrograybarker07oct05.shtml
Posted October 7, 2005

In 1956, London publishers Secker and Warburg brought out what they thought was a very good occult book. Never did they, nor Doubleday and Company the New York publishers, foresee that the book would suddenly capture the imagination of two nations as the general public read the most fascinating book on Tibet ever published. The book was autobiographic and told the strange and inspiring story of a Tibetan monk who had progressed from neophyte to lamahood, and had eventually attained a certain occult faculty which comprised the title of the book.

"THE THIRD EYE," by Tuesday Lobsang Rampa was not only a recounting of his initiations and monastary doings, but it also proved to be a highly lively account of everyday Tibetan life.

We read the book from cover to cover one night, every bit as- fascinated as everybody else. But we couldn't help wondering how an Easterner could have mastered the English language so vivaciously.

The reason was soon to come in the furor over the book which took place in London when some Tibetan scholars challenged the authenticity of Rampa and averred he was not a Tibetan and had never been to Tibet!

Then T. Lobsang Rampa's side of the story was revealed. No he had indeed never been to Tibet, in his present body. The spirit of a Tibetan lama had, however entered his body, under unusual circumstances. In reply to his critics. Rampa stated:

"THE THIRD EYE is absolutely true and all that I write in that book is fact. I, a Tibetan lama, now occupy what was originally the body of a Western man, and I occupy it to the permanent and total exclusion of the former occupant. He gave his willing consent~ being glad to escape from life on this earth in view of my urgent need.

"The actual change-over occurred on the 13th of June, 1949, but the way had to be prepared some time before that. I know that I have a special task to do, and I became aware that it would be necessary to come to England for various reasons connected with it. In the latter part of 1947, I was able to, by telepathy, send impressions to a suitable person. In February, 1946, he changed his name by legal Deed Poll.

"To make the change-over easier he altered his address a number of times and lost contact with all friends and relations. On the 13th of June, 1949, he had a slight accident which resulted in concussion and which 'knocked him out of himself'. This enabled me to take over.

"I tried very hard indeed to obtain employment in England, but for various reasons there was no assistance from the Employment Exchange. For years I visited Employment Exchanges and the Appointment Bureau in Tavistock Square, London. I was also registered with a number of private Employment Agencies and paid quite a considerable amount to them in fees, but none of them did anything for me.

"For some time we lived on capital which had been saved and upon anything which I was able to earn from doing free-lance writing or advertising.

"I have a special task to do because during my life in Tibet I had been to the Chang Tang Highlands where I had seen a device which enables people to see the human aura. I am clairvoyant and can see the aura as I have demonstrated to many people at many times, but-I am aware that if doctors and surgeons could see the human aura then they could determine the illness afflicting a human body before it was at all serious. It was not possible for me to come to England in the body which I then had. I tried but to no avail.

"The aura is merely a corona discharge of the body, of the life force. It is similar to the corona discharge from a high tension cable which can be seen by almost anyone on a misty night, and if money would be spent on research, medical science would have one of the most potent tools for the cure of disease. I had to have money in order to carry out my own research, but, I have never taken money for curing people's illnesses or for taking their troubles off tleir shoulders as has been misrepresented in a certain paper!

"And how did THE THIRD EYE come to be written? I certainly did not want to write it but I was desperate to get a job so that I could get on with my allotted task. I tried for job after job without avail, until eventually a friend offered to put me in touch with a gentleman who might be able to use my service. Mr. Brooks said I should write a book. I insisted that I did not want to write a book and so we parted. Mr. Brooks wrote me again and once more suggested that I should write a book. In the interval between seeing him and receiving his letter I had been for other interviews and had been rejected. So with much reluctance I accepted Mr. Brooks' offer to write such a book, and here again I repeat that everything said in that book is true. Everything said in my second book, DOCTOR FROM LHASA, is true also. One should not place too much credence in 'experts' or 'Tibetan Scholars' when it is seen how one 'expert' contradicts the other, when they cannot agree on what is right and what is wrong, and after all how many of those 'Tibetan scholars' have entered a lamasery at the age of seven, and worked all the way through the life as a Tibetan, and then taken over the body of a Westerner? I HAVE."

What about the man whose body Rampa took over? What of his former life before the transformation? Following are some remarkable statements by his wife:

"Many people will wonder about the one who occupied that Western body before it was taken over by a Tibetan and I, as the wife, would like to tell something of events leading to the change of personality.

"At the first indication of something different was more than a little startled. We were leading a:- quiet life in Surrey, my husband being on the staff of a correspondence college, in an advisory capacity, and the war had been over for two years. Out of the blue came his remark toward the end of 1947-sitting quietly for some time, he startled me by suddenly saying, 'I am going to change my name.' I looked at him aghast for I failed to see any point in doing such a thing. We had nothing to hide, nothing from which to run away. It took me some time to recover after he continued, 'Yes, we will change our name by Deed Poll.'

"By February, 1948, all the legal formalities had been completed, and we had no further right to our previous name. My husband's employer was not pleased, but there was little he could do about it, especially as at about that time one of the firm's directors had made an alteration to his own name.

"Of course everyone thought we had at last taken leave of our senses, but that never bothered me. I had lived with my husband for eight years and knew that if he had a hunch to do anything at all there was always a very good reason for it. Soon, however, we noticed people were not saying our name when addressing us, and even after seeing it written, they didn't seem able to spell it; for that reason we later shortened it. I want to clarify this point to show that we have at no time used an alias as has been mistakenly suggested.

"At about this time my husband talked a great deal about the East and on occasions he did in fact wear Eastern dress; he often seemed to be very preoccupied in his manner, and I have known him to fall into a trance state and .speak in an unfamiliar tongue. which I now believe to be a language of the East. In July, 1949, he again made a sudden decision-this time to give up his job! This he did to the consternation of his employer who had always found him to be a very useful and conscientious member of his staff.

"The idea behind this was so that we could leave the district and lose all contact with the past, which we did. Within a year we had completely lost touch with previous acquaintances and with our former life. We managed to exist on what we had saved, together with what we could earn from various forms of writing.

"The day I happened to look out the window and see my husband lying at the foot of a tree in the garden is something I shall never forget. I hurried out to find he was recovered, but to me, a trained nurse, he seemed to be stunned or something. When eventually he regained consciousness he seemed to act differently, and in ways I did not understand.

"After getting him indoors and upstairs to our flat to rest, the main thought in my mind was to get a doctor as quickly as possible, but I was reckoning without him-he seemed to sense my alarm and implored me not to do so, assuring me that he was quite all right. Certainly his speech seemed different, more halting-as if he was unfamiliar with the language, and his voice appeared deeper than before.

"For some time I was quite concerned, for SOMETHING seemed to have happened to his memory. Before speaking or moving he appeared to be making calculations; much later I learned that he was 'tuning in to my mind' to see what was expected of him. I do not mind admitting that in the early stages I was very worried, but now it seems quite natural. I have never ceased to wonder that such an ordinary individual as myself should be so closely associated with such a remarkable occurrence as the advent of a Tibetan lama to the Western World."

Although the so-called 'Tibetan Scholars" grabbed most of the press copy, there were those who felt that they were not so scholarly after all. Consider the following letter, received by Gray Barker from a Buddhist, when Barker announced that he would publish Rampa's second book in the United States and discuss the controversy in print.

Dear Mr. Barker:

After reading your remarks on Lobsang Rampa's THE THIRD EYE, I am prompted to add a few of my own. During 1957. I had occasion to write a review of the book for the North Indian Buddhist Quarterly, and most especially to discuss the theological and philosophical material contained within the text. At the time I wrote the review, I was, as were so many others, trying to find fault with the accuracy of the information given. I had already heard that some of the descriptions of costume and garb did not accord with the reports of academic anthropology, and, in my ignorance of the divergences of Tibetan religion from orthodox Buddhism, I was shocked to find that one who called himself a monk should embrace views which, from the standpoint of Aryan doctrine, were all but heretical.

Imagine my surprise, then, when I received letters from Tibetan phoongi, complimenting the succinct description of dbu-chan theology contained in my review. This description was composed exclusively of paraphrases on the Lobsang Rampa book under review. The greatest point of discussion was that which had to do with the order of discipline within the itinerant communities of Tibetan monks. The Western correspondents, and Indian observers all told me that Rampa was wrong; but the Tibetans wrote complaining that he had divulged secret knowledge, which was the property of the arcane schools of their country, and which "a closed brother, in physical form, or etheric, did poorly to publish in the far lands to the West, where it lay open to the gaze of the Uninitiate".

Sincerely yours,

Ganesha, Mahaguru,
at Bodhi Sangha Sat America New York, N.Y.

Even though "exposed" by 'Tibetan scholars," the public continued to believe in Rampa - and to buy his books. Rampa's subsequent books give more details of experiences which he encountered after the period covered by THE THIRD EYE. Some of them consist of practical occult teachings from which the ordinary person can profit. Rampa kept the subject of Flying Saucers and space travel out of his books, evidently afraid that these accounts might not be believed. Some of these writings, included in this book, have been published by the "saucer press," and some of them have been circulated privately in a mimeographed manuscript edition.

Public awareness of the UFO phenomena, however, has come a long way since the 1950's. We think it is time to put together Rampa's Flying Saucer writings in book form so that the public can read of these remarkable experiences. And so this limited edition has been prepared and published. We predict that it will be much sought after, and that once this original edition is gone it will become a prize collector's item. The copy you hold will become much worn and dog-eared before its demise. We hope it gives pleasure to the owner, and to those who borrow it!

America's Greatest Radionics Innovator
The Untold Story Part 1

By Ken Adachi <Ken Adachi, Editor>
http://educate-yourself.org/tjc/ruthdrownuntoldstory.shtml
April 7, 2001

"The time has come to meet the third of my titans. Knowing, loving, and serving her in the final years of her life was a rare privilege. You may have heard many of the numerous and elaborate lies circulated about Dr. Ruth Drown. Let me tell you the truth."
Trevor James Constable in The Cosmic Pulse of Life

Trevor's Role

Over the years, I occasionally heard of the name Ruth Drown with reference to Radionics, but I really didn't know anything of her magnificent contributions to humanity until Trevor Constable opened the door wide for me in his masterwork, The Cosmic Pulse of Life (1976). In a previous article, The Visual Ray (http://educate-yourself.org/tjc/visualray21may0.shtml), I explained how I happened to come upon this wonderful book and the treasures that are held within its covers. After widening the path for us 25 years ago, we now see greater recognition for two of Trevor's Titans, Wilhelm Reich and Rudolf Steiner, but much more needs to be told of the astounding accomplishments of Dr. Ruth B. Drown, whose legacy might have remained known to but a handful of students of Radionics had it not been for the Cosmic rescue launched by Trevor Constable.

A Brief Biography

Ruth Drown was born in 1892 in Greeley, Colorado. Her father was a professional photographer and taught young Ruth all he knew of the photographic processes. Years later, this background would play an important role in her development of Radio Vision, an invention of such inestimable importance and merit to the healing arts that it should have carried her to the stage in Stockholm. Instead, her work, her inventions, her honor and finally her life, were all shattered by a calculated onslaught organized by the Little Men of Big Medicine using their media pimps and government stooges to destroy her. These jackals of greed and duplicity always seem to reserve their greatest torments for those who would relieve man's suffering the most, as was seen in the case of Dr. Royal Raymond Rife whose great discoveries in cancer research and therapy were obliterated by the same medical mafia (see The Cancer Cure That Worked! by Barry Lynes). Dr. Drown's persecution was remarkable in both the continuing torment of her detractors and her tenacity to preserve in the face of such unrelenting and withering ridicule endured over many, many years. Quoting from page 233 in Trevor's book:

"During her lifetime, Dr. Ruth Drown was one of the most widely misrepresented and vilified women in America. The poisonous rubbish circulated about her in magazines and newspapers was never written by anyone who knew her. Alleged technical descriptions of the Drown work, invariably condemnatory and always inaccurate, were printed in national magazines and published in books by writers who had never even met Dr. Drown, let alone had studied her work. The pillorying went on for decades."

So exactly what did Ruth Drown do that drew the wolves to her door? Stated simply, she succeeded mightily where the great men of medicine had failed and they hated her for it. She developed and refined a means of diagnosis, treatment, and visual representation on photographic plate of any cross section of disease organisms, tissue or organs of her choosing that qualitatively exceeded anything offered by organized medicine in the first half of the 20th century or indeed of that which is offered today. The amazing journey that carried her to the pinnacle of great achievement is the stuff of legends. A less auspicious candidate for greatness could not be imagined.

Ruth B. Chase married a farmer, Clarence V. Drown, at the age of nineteen and assumed the domestic life of farmer's wife and mother to their two children, Cynthia and Homer. Inexplicable friction, however, developed between the couple in their seventh year of marriage and the situation soon became intolerable. With eight hundred dollars in her purse, Ruth left with her two children and moved to Los Angeles in 1918 where she opened a gas station and lunch counter for about a year before selling the business to the mechanic who had previously been working for her. She then found comfortable work at a Hollywood photographic lab utilizing the skills learned at her father's side, but soon was offered a better paying job with the Southern California Edison Company arranged by a woman friend from her home state who was secretary to an executive with the company. Ruth was placed in charge of mechanical addressing machines in the company's accounting department. The job required mechanical skills and maintenance experience that Ruth did not possess, but she made up her mind that she was going to perform well at her new job. Returning to Trevor's narrative:

"She took over a room full of clanking mechanical beasts that gobbled in paper and vomited addressed bills. A belligerent young German assigned to show her around made it clear that he didn't think she could do the job. 'We got along like two strange bulldogs,' she recalled of the time, 'and his attitude made me determined to succeed.' Buckling down, she put her fierce will to work. Latent mechanical ability burst into expression. She mastered the operation, maintenance, and repair of the machines, and was soon in charge of the addressing department. Fifteen girls worked under her direction. The Edison period brought her phenomenal mechanical aptitude to light, and her later work would have been impossible without awakening these dormant talents." (page 236)

During her four years with Edison, as her mechanical aptitude blossomed, she also developed a passion for radio which was not uncommon in those early years of radio. She enjoyed assembling crystal radios from spare parts gathered at radio stores where various components were chosen from huge bins. While other customers needed to carefully examine the size, values and ratings of the components in order to calculate their effect, Ruth demonstrated an impressive intuitive ability for knowing which parts were needed without bothering to study theory and laboriously analyzing how the circuits might work. She possessed a knowing. Trevor said that she would merely pluck spare parts from these large bins, in a seemingly random fashion, and return home to assemble a radio which worked perfectly, without any spare parts left over!

Dr. Strong's Lecture

In 1923, Ruth Drown attended a lecture given in downtown Los Angeles by Dr. Frederick F. Strong that would profoundly affect the course of her life. Dr. Strong was lecturing on the application of radio energies to the treatment of disease conditions. Initially drawn to the lecture by her interest in radio, Ruth found Dr. Strong, a Cornell graduate who had studied at the University of Berlin and other European academies, to be an inspiring humanitarian who was ". able to stir mighty but heretofore dormant forces in Ruth Drown. As she dwelt upon the potentialities of radio therapy, she felt the electrifying effect of inspiration. She knew intuitively and immediately that her future lay with this new idea.Getting into this kind of work became a matter of urgency for Ruth Drown from the time she heard Dr. Strong's lecture " (page 237-38)

As it turns out, Ruth happened to know Dr Strong's secretary, Maude Breeze. She inquired of Maude about the possibility of working for Dr. Strong as a nurse, but Maude told her that the only position available was that of part time office assistant. Ruth leaped at the opportunity. She knew what she was doing when she left her high paying position with Edison to take a much lower paying part time job with Dr. Strong, and she was happy and excited to do so. A new world was about to open for her.

Dr. Albert Abrams

Dr. Strong was using the techniques and methods developed by Dr. Albert Abrams, who could justifiably be called the Father of Radionics in America. Dr. Abrams was a highly educated man with impeccable academic credentials from the University of Heidelberg where he garnered top honors and even a gold medal. As a distinguished Stanford University medical professor, he would have been feted for the rest of his life as a great authority in the field of medicine had he continued to embrace the orthodox approach, but he became the victim of intense vilification and excoriation by the orthodoxy because he had discovered something about the nature of biological tissue that almost exactly paralleled what the Russian engineer, Georges Lakhovsky (http://educate-yourself.org/be/lakhovskyindex.shtml), had discovered in France: that all histological tissue whether it came from a man, animal, insect, or a microbe radiated (and were affected by) very high frequency emanations that could only be described in their day as electromagnetic radiation since that was the only available nomenclature at the time.

Etheric Life Energy

Later, however, Wilhelm Reich would more accurately identify this esoteric form of radiation as a constituent manifestation of the ether, which he labeled orgone energy. Still later, author Gerry Vasillatos would refer to this radiation as a component of Vril energy, which he describes handsomely in his published volumes known as The Vril Compendium (Borderland books). Despite the different names given to the life force energy, it's important to bear in mind that the bioenergetic 'signals' that Lakhovsky and Abrams were describing were not really electromagnetic waves at all, as they had assumed at the time, but were rather a much finer and infinitely more powerful radiation of the ether which was elaborated upon by Rudolf Steiner, Guenther Wachsmuth, Ernst Lehrs, and more recently by author Ernst Marti (The Four Ethers 1984) as being composed of four sub categories known as the Warmth ether, the Light ether, the Chemical ether (also called the Sound or Number ether), and the Life ether. It should also be clarified that electromagnetic waves are "carried" by the ether, a notion foreign to conventional physicists, yet true, since there would be nothing for the wave to "wave in" when traversing the vacuum of space.

Numerical Identification Possible

Abrams' ideas about the vibratory nature of tissue and disease organisms allowed him to theorize and later validate that these subtle emanations from biological tissues could be detected and classified numerically. He called this detection process the Electronic Reaction of Abrams or E.R.A. and fashioned a new system of diagnosis and therapy based on this discovery. The very words to describe the process, however, such as electronic and radionics, ultimately became an obstacle that created a misdirected focus as to the true nature of the energy being considered. It also made it easier for vested orthodox debunkers to deride and ridicule the science as a whole. Trevor explains:

"Terminology inevitably became a stumbling block in this new approach to diagnosis. Development of Abrams' work paralleled the first major and general technological development of radio. All this took place as well at a time when human consciousness of radiation was just dawning. Terms were used in Abrams' work -such as radio-therapy- that were drawn from another technology altogether. The terminological confusion has persisted right down to this day, and through the decades, an expertise has been automatically assigned to radio physicists in evaluating radionics. In fact, such people know nothing whatever about the energy involved in Abrams or Drown instruments, and have contributed greatly to the throttling and ridicule of American research along the lines started by Abrams." (page 239)

Abrams' Method of Diagnosis

Obtaining the E.R.A. in the Abrams system of diagnosis involved three people: 1) the patient himself or a bioenergetic substitute for the patient-a drop of his blood; 2) a person in good health who would serve as the "subject" (Abrams' term) and 3) the diagnostician or operator of the equipment. The procedure involved comparing the difference in 'tunings' obtained from the healthy 'subject' and the diseased patient or from his blood sample. The subject essentially acted as a detector for identifying the particular pathogens affecting the patient. Equipment wise, the Abrams' diagnostic method involved using one leg of the standard electrical outlet (110 Volts AC at the time) and this caused his test to be adversely affected by certain colors, lights, or particular foreign substances found present in the room when the test was being performed.

Abrams' Treatment Protocol

For treatment, the Abrams method required the use of an electrode placed over the affected area and sometimes glass wands were used, swept back and forth over the appropriate region. The Abrams method allowed the physician to treat one person or treat an entire group of patients at the same time with a single hookup. Doctors using the Abrams method enjoyed a degree of success in treatment and occasionally the results were spectacular, providing great encouragement for those practitioners, but success for Abrams came more in the area of greatly improved diagnostics. The discovery of the E.R.A. allowed Abrams and his followers to lock onto the characteristic resonant frequency of the pathogenic invader and thus identify its presence and type, unlike their orthodox colleagues who were essentially engaged in educated guesswork. The day would come when Ruth Drown would greatly expand the important foundations in Radionics established by the astute and refined mind of Dr. Albert Abrams.

A New Chapter

After starting to work for Dr. Strong, Drown's intuitive abilities and healing instincts became immediately apparent. She quickly gained an admirable reputation among the patients she ministered to as well as among other doctors using the Abrams method. One such physician, an osteopath by the name of Dr. Thomas McAllister, took such a strong interest in Ruth's skills, that he asked her to come work for him as a full time employee and she accepted. Impressed by her eagerness to learn, he lent her his books and gave her personal instruction in the medical arts. A patient of De McAllister's, Louise Thrall, was so grateful for the quality of care she received at Ruth's hands, that she loaned her $5,000 so she could attend Osteopathic College in Kirksville, Missouri. Unfortunately, Ruth could only attend one year before being forced to return home to Los Angeles due to the deteriorating health of her mother who had been taking care of her two children.

Needing to support and raise her children, she remained in Los Angeles and entered Chiropractic college, graduating in 1926. She became licensed as a Doctor of Chiropractic in California in 1927. While attending Chiropractic school, Ruth spent much of her time experimenting in new ways to manipulate the life energy encountered in Radionics diagnosis. She knew that she had to simplify the Abrams procedure and eliminate the need for using a healthy 'subject' to determine the diagnosis for the patient. She became convinced that the use of wall outlet AC electricity was a huge mistake and contaminated the patient with a coarse and brutal energy that was anathema to the subtler life force emanations. Above all, she wanted to individualize the diagnosis and apply treatment custom tailored to maximize the healing effect for the individual patient. From page 242:

"Experience and intuition thus united to convince her that commercial electric power was in some way inimical to the energy she was seeking to tune and manipulate. A quarter of a century later, Dr. Wilhelm Reich was to find out in the Oranur Experiment.that a fierce and potentially lethal antagonism exists between life energy and electromagnetic energy. Worth noting also is that Kirlian photography-now becoming widely investigated in our universities-depends upon exciting the life energy with high-frequency energy in order to make the life energy luminate. In this application, the antagonism between the two energy forms is utilized to objectify the life energy, although this simple fact appears to elude most persons doing this work."

The Cosmic Connection

We should also mention an important commonality shared between Strong, Drown, and Abrams. They were all ardent and serious students of metaphysics. Strong was a Theosophist who understood completely the underpinnings of physical matter as the realization or expression of energy patterns encoded within the unseen etheric body or human aura (also called the vital body, the functional body, the orgone body, the formative-force body, and the later Russian designation of bioplasmic body). Ruth Drown had been studying metaphysics since 1916 and later in her life, she published books that echoed her atunement with ancient themes of Atlantean wisdom and frequently wrote of the role of the Kabbalah as a gateway to higher planes of human consciousness and knowledge. Dr. Abrams was so highly attuned to the spiritual plane that he could unerringly name both the hour and day of anyone's passage from the physical into the spiritual realm-including his own-which he accurately predicted publicly a year before his death. Franklin Thomas, an extraordinary clairvoyant and guiding mentor to Trevor Constable in his early years, described Ruth Drown

".as a 'unique cosmic figure' standing far above her contemporaries in significant observation: ' In Atlantean times, she was a master of these forces that we now dabble with as radionics, and she is in the body at this time to contribute to their rebirth on a higher arc.' Franklin Thomas had the clairvoyant ability-as mentioned in connection with Rudolf Steiner- to travel back in time and read the events of other epochs." (page 234)

The Drown Instruments

Radio-Vision, The Greatest Discovery of the 20th Century

In 1935, Dr. Drown had perfected an instrument that was the logical extension of her experience with photography, film development and radionics. She accomplished something that is simply mind boggling. She developed a simple apparatus that was largely a modification of her Homo-Vibra Ray Instrument. She devised a way to channel the same etheric Life Force energy that she was detecting with the diagnosis portion of her instrument though a photographic plate and utilizing a special reverse method of film development, produced stunning photographs of soft and hard tissue anywhere within the body using only a dried drop of the patient's blood on a piece of blotter paper. In 1960, she published an 8" x 5" booklet intended for physicians called Radio-Vision, Scientific Milestone. Within that booklet were 22 of the most astounding photographic plates ever recorded. Sharply detailed and contrasted images of various organs and tissues of the body shown in cross section (much as would be seen with a CAT scan) made without the presence of the patient and involving no harmful exposure to radiation, electromagnetism, drugs, and at very little expense. Reprints of the Radio-Vision booklet are available on the Products page (http://educate-yourself.org/products/index.shtml#drownbooks).

Next time.
In Part 2, we'll continue Trevor Constable's wonderful biographical and personal recollections of Dr. Ruth B Drown. We'll examine in detail with narrative and graphics the Drown Instrument, a marvel of advanced cosmic inventive genius, which remained totally misunderstood and incomprehensible to her ignorant, arrogant and unenlightened orthodox tormenters, while providing accurate diagnosis, relief and cure for thousands upon thousands of Drown patients. Lastly, we'll provide a comprehensive overview (including histological photos) of the greatest invention in modern medical history, Radio-Vision. A device capable of reproducing on a photographic plate, a cross sectional view (similar to that seen in a CAT scan) of soft or hard tissue from anywhere in the body accompanied by razor sharp images of accompanying microbes or tumors in situ, without the need for electricity, radiation, giant electro magnets, hospitals, high cost, or even the physical presence of the patient-and all this in the 1930's!

Until then, Keep looking to Nature for all your answers in health.

Sincerely, Ken Adachi

Index of Essays and Commentary from Zuerrnnovahh-Starr Livingstone

Introduction
I began receiving e-mails from a Canadian man named Zuerrnnovahh-Starr Livingstone in July 2002. He was commenting on the articles I was posting by Don Croft, however, his e-mails were really essays in their own right, with new and fascinating information which I found to be tremendously insightful. It took me a couple of months before I took the time to read his essays carefully, but once I did, I realized that he had something of importance to contribute, and I'm glad to be able to present his thoughts to a wider audience. At a later date, I will post a more thorough biography about ZS Livingstone, but for now, I'll briefly mention that he received training from the Alpha and Omega Order of Melchizedek G.E.O.M. from 1970 to 1981 (G.E.O.M. stands for Golden Etheric Order of Melchizedek, under the tutelage of David Livingstone. ZSL informed me that the A&O had its charter pulled in 1981, but the teachings continue). For the time being, please read these wonderful articles, for they open up a new vista into our understanding of the forces at play here on this fragile planet we call Mother Earth.

“The IPCC review process is totally flawed. … The scientific basis for the Kyoto Protocol is grossly inadequate.”
Dr. Hendrik Tennekes, director emeritus of the Royal Meteorological Institute of the Netherlands in 2005

"The Fourth Report of the IPCC [Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change] might just as well decree the suppression of all climatology textbooks, and replace them in our schools with press communiqués. ... Day after day, the same mantra - that ‘the Earth is warming up’ - is churned out in all its forms. As ‘the ice melts’ and ‘sea level rises’ the Apocalypse looms ever nearer! Without realizing it, or perhaps without wishing to, the average citizen in bamboozled, lobotomized, and lulled into mindless acceptance. ... Non-believers in the greenhouse scenario are in the position of those long ago who doubted the existence of God ..".

- Marcel Leroux (from What is Wrong with the IPCC? by Hans Labohm)

“It is a blatant lie put forth in the media that makes it seem there is only a fringe of scientists who don’t buy into anthropogenic global warming.” Said U.S. Government atmospheric scientist Stanley B, Goldenberg,

In the past year, more than 650 scientists from around the world have expressed their doubts. That’s 12 times the number of UN IPCC global warming alarmists. America and the World’s ‘death knell’ – The Green Campaign (June 6, 2009)

The great global warming swindle - Full version documentary

[Editor's Note:Feb. 3, 2007. Currently, we are being bombarded with a torrent of propaganda titled "Global Warming" Every TV and radio news broadcast, every TV talk show that touches on politics, every radio talk show, every major news stand magazine and newspaper are singing in almost perfect unison: "The Sky is Falling Unless We Do Something Soon about Global Warming"!

I just spoke on the phone yesterday with Dr. John Coleman (not the weather channel John Coleman seen in the video below), author of The Tavistock Institute of Human Relations: Shaping the Moral, Cultural, Political, and Economic Decline of the United States of America. He vigorously concurred that the 'Global Warming' blitz is a classic Tavistock propaganda campaign of the highest priority. Apparently, no effort or amount of money or 'expert scientific opinion' is being spared to bring us this 'inconvenient truth' so that we might all become convinced that the story line laid out by the propagandists is true, and therefore we must acquiesce to the new "regulations" or laws that will be set in place to "prevent the catastrophes that will surely ensue if we don't curb Global Warming"'. I've been hearing some of the most absurd and ludicrous statements over the radio from Global Warming 'experts' concerning the dire "consequences" that will follow within 50-100 years if we don't follow their recommendations to 'put the brakes on Global Warming'. It's an insult to the intelligence of every human being on this planet to accept this unbridled hokum from those who posture themselves as 'leading academic scientists' and authorities on this subject (read Rockefeller/Rothchild-purchased and bribed {grant recipients} ' talking heads').

I'll be posting articles here which will dissect and expose the misdirection, deceit, and false conclusions being promoted by Global Warming promoters. If you find articles, blogs, or forums which address the Global Warming deception, please forward them to me for possible inclusion here.

Update, March 1, 2007 I'm being sent many excellent articles debunking the Global Warming myth, but two scholarly masterpieces written by Christopher Monckton (3rd Viscount, Monckton of Brenchley) and published on November 5 and November 12, 2006 in The Sunday Telegraph (London) laid bare Al Gore's truth twisting and deceptive claims with devastating effect. Gore was sufficiently stung that he felt compelled to reply to the Monckton charges in the November 19 edition of the newspaper (see below).

The November 5, 2006 Sunday Telegraph article by Monckton was titled Climate Chaos? Don't Believe it. Within the article, there is a link to a scholarly (and well documented) 40 page summary aptly titled Apocalypse Cancelled (http://educate-yourself.org/cn/Apocalypse-Cancelled-5-November-2006-Sunday-Telegraph-Christopher-Monckton.pdf) that eviscerates the entire Global Warming hoax using the very thing that Gore claims underpins the Global Warming thesis-scientific data. (http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/graphics/2006/11/05/warm-refs.pdf)

Gore responded to Monckton's articles with a rebuttal published in The Sunday Telegraph on November 19, 2006. Christopher Monckton in turn responded to every word of Gore's rebuttal-statement by statement- with yet another stinging refutation of Gore's pathetic calumny and indifference to the truth with Gore Gored (http://educate-yourself.org/cn/Gore-Gored-19-November-2006-Sunday-Telegraph-Christopher-Monckton.pdf) published on November 21, 2006. . .Ken Adachi].

Could you help me locate any info about global warming? What I am looking for is to find info about locations that will be affected because of the global warming and all the water rising onto land. And the locations in the world and especially in Canada and the States that could potentially be in damage maybe?

Thanks

Hi Lorna,

"Global Warming" is a psychological operation, a "Psy-ops", to condition the public to believe that we are going to be in a lot of trouble in the near future if we don't take steps "X,Y, & Z", and do it quickly. Those "steps" are what the Illuminati want us to follow so they can further consolidate their control over our lives-and still make a ton of money in the process.

And from the Nobel Prize for B.S., we have his bloviousness:
Who can have doubt, when this guy says it's so?

Currently, former vice president Al Gore is one of the leading baton twirlers in this parade, but you have a small army of propaganda peddlers out there who are working day and night to "sell" this 'Inconvenient Truth'.

The "Global Warming" promotion campaign is very much in the same propaganda vein as the 'peak oil' campaign, formerly headed up by CIA family alumni Michael Ruppert (who has now fled the country apparently), and discussed at length on our 'Peak Oil' index page.

They keep on pounding at these propaganda themes in order to get you to SUBCONSCIOUSLY accept them as true. That's why these lying jackals continuously employ words like "truth", "true", "honest", "sincere", etc., while they are lying through their teeth. Bush, Rice, Rumsfeld, Cheney, Gore, Clinton, etc., do it ALL the time; pathological liars, one and all of course, but Tavistock-trained pathological liars.

They use television 'documentary' production companies like WGBH in Boston (Nova) or Frontline to manufacture these 'truths'. Their productions are very well done and to the unknowledgeable and naive, they appear VERY convincing and persuasive, but if you had the advantage of a good education and have learned to think on your own, you can discern the carefully crafted distortions and fabrications that they weave into these propaganda productions. Recently, I saw a program on public TV called "Building on Ground Zero". It's the second so-called 'documentary' that I've seen on TV that pretends to explain how the World Trade Center towers collapsed. The program made a mockery of physics and real-world science, all the while using "experts" who claim to speak for science! It was a continuous lie from beginning to end. It included wonderful computer graphics and simulations, of course, but it was a fanciful load of horse manure all the same.

Somewhere between the mid 70's and mid 80's, they were continuously hammering away at a similar propaganda theme which claimed that chlorinated hydrocarbons (CFC, chlorinated fluoro-carbons), such as freon, were responsible for creating huge "holes" in the ozone layer. We heard this from 'documentary' productions companies and politicians alike for at least ten years.

The story was utterly untrue and was in fact concocted by Tavistock. Big Illuminati chemical companies like Dupont (one of the top 13 Illuminati families) made an awful lot of money selling the expensive substitute chemical which was used to replace the far less costly freon refrigerant. Of course, you had to replace the freon in every sort of refrigeration and air conditioning system in existence because it was mandated by law. These laws were passed because, after ten years of propaganda hammering, everyone simply KNEW that CFCs caused the hole in the ozone layer!

I recognize that there is physical evidence of the warming of the polar regions, Alaska, etc. Some people will argue that it's a normal fluctuation cycle that the earth has gove through many times before. My own suspicion is that they are using secret technology to create the atmospheric warming over polar regions. HAARP is an obvious one, but I'm sure there are other secret systems that we know nothing about.

If there is coastal flooding in coming years due to melting ice caps, it won't happen suddenly and give you a tidal wave effect. It will be very gradual and you'll have plenty of time to relocate to higher ground. I wouldn't worry so much. It's mostly hype.

Sincerely, Ken

Read your post concerning global warming ..thank God ..finally someone who links Chemtrail and HAARP as manipulated atmosphere heaters. I have been trying to show people the connection and been meet with that look which I am sure you have seen ...I am convinced there are many facets to chemtrails: delivery of pathogens, molds and alum-barium mix.which is killing many species .. as well as trapping the atmosphere heat ..much like having a camp fire inside a tin foil tent.

Keep up the good work !

Ken,

I was so disgusted with the global warming tripe in the media, I have been writing to the scientists at Real Climate, they don't like me mentioning that global warming is well funded junk science...or that global warming is the product of weather weapons using HAARP and chemtrails...They won't even argue the argument that the atmosphere is layed due to gasses having different molecular weight, lighter the gass the higher it rises, CFC's and CO2 are heavier than the Oxygen Nitrogen troposhere air mix and thus sink. No way for heavier gasses to either insulate the surface temps via greenhouse gas tripe or break down ozone layer which is way up, statusphere level...CFC's sink readilly, they are heavy gasses.

Please look at this link I found using yahoo search:
http://www.wcflunatall.com/globalwarminglie.htm

This is a must read for everyone wanting truth about climate.

Kind Regards George

Dear Ken,

I once was a card carrying member of the Church of Global Warming. However, I have begun to see this church as the two-bit cult that it really is. Although I consider myself a rational, savvy patriotess, the emotionally-driven, nature-loving environmentalist in me bought hook, line, and sinker into this line of bull. I think my intuition finally kicked in recently when my chiropractor insisted I rent "An Inconvenient Truth". It suddenly hit me like a load of bricks. Why would the mainstream media outlets want to give this topic so much air time? Don't get me wrong. I'm all for clean energy and reducing pollution of all types. But why would Al Gore join "the Force" when we all know he's been working for "the Empire" all these years? Had he finally left the dark side? Doubtful!

Soon after that, I was perusing Stephanie Relfe's website and noticed this link: www.iceagenow.com . At iceagenow, the webmaster uses statistics and recently writtenv articles to prove that the world is actually getting colder, NOT warmer. His theory is that an ice age begins when warming oceans cause increased precipitation, which in turn cools off land masses. According to his work, we are in the beginning stages of this cycle. This site is very compelling and could be a useful tool for your readers. I've pasted an article from the site in this email so you can get a small taste.

Hope you find this as interesting as I did. Thanks for all your work!

Ken,

There's good info on the global warming disinfo from the following:

1. www.signs-of-the-times.com
3. www.nov55.com

While they don't all agree about the actual prognosis of things they do solidly refute the idea that man-made CO2 emmissions are a significant influence on the climate.

Pollution is harmful to health and could have been dealt with long ago if the PTB wished to... now they're using the global warming con to pull environmentalists into the centralized control paradigm.

There does seem to be major heating from within the Earth triggered by the solar activity and it's influence on Earth's energetic activity... which leads to shifting weather patterns and an Ice Age! The increasing venting of methane gases from the Earth's gas pockets may also stimulate tectonic shifts and volcanic activity...

Dear Ken:

Good reply, but I would take note that glaciers worldwide have diminished markedly in the past decade--rather more than a mere "cyclical" explanation might justify. With respect to the "melting Arctic ice-cap/global flooding" phenomenon, I would propose the following experiment: fill a glass with ice cubes and add water up to a given mark--say, 1/2" from the brim; allow the glass to sit for awhile, and the ice to melt. Guess what? The height of the water remains at the mark. While water expands when frozen, it does not retain that increased volume when melted. If that were not the case, one could generate unlimited energy by freezing and melting water, thereby violating the second law of thermodynamics.

Regards,

Kent

Hi Kent,

Yes, I realize the trend has been going on for at least a decade. Art Bell was talking about it on the radio in 1996. I'm thinking that it's more man made than Nature made, that's all.

Yes, ice occupies more volume than water. The Second Law of thermodynamics is not really a "law" at all and has been experimentally "broken" on numerous occasions by Tesla, Reich and others. Eric Dollanrd demonstates that very thing on his 1988 videos made for Borderlands. It's rather amazing to see.

Regards, Ken

Welcome to Spookland: Tricks of the Trade of the CIA

by Steve Mizrach
http://educate-yourself.org/mc/spooklandtricks19oct06.shtml

http://www.fiu.edu/~mizrachs/spookland.html

Origin and Function of the CIA: The "Cult of Intelligence"

The CIA was created at the outset of the Cold War by Truman's National Security Act of 1947. That Act was a response to Yalta, and to the general pervasive fear that, after WW II, the greatest threat to world peace was the communists. The CIA was mostly formed out of the reorganized OSS (Office of Strategic Services) which coordinated espionage and intelligence activities against the Nazis. (However, anti-communism was an overarching concern for the new agency, which enlisted some of its old enemies against a previous ally: many former Nazis functionaries, such as Richard Gehlen, were enlisted into the CIA spy network in Eastern Europe.) The mission the CIA was expressly charged with was the centralization and coordination of all the data from the intelligence agencies of the government - namely, those associated with the branches of the military service; and after 1952, the National Security Agency, Defense Intelligence Agency, National Reconaissance Office, and the intelligence activities of the Atomic Energy Commission, State Department, Treasury Department, and Justice Department.

The CIA was also granted in 1952 sweeping "other" powers besides merely the gathering of intelligence. And despite the fact that it was created for that purpose, due to counterintelligence and countermeasures, the CIA has only been able to get minor information, mostly from serendipitous occasions, such as getting their hands on a defector that was not a "plant." Despite the glamourizations of the spy trade in James Bond movies, the truth is that field operatives can only get so much information on troop movements, weapons stockpiles, and the intentions of foreign leaders. For that reason, the CIA has relied ever increasingly on electronic techniques; but spy sattelites, wiretaps, and spy planes are subject to electronic (and other) countermeasures. It has often been demonstrated in the past that the CIA took intelligence and distorted it to support the policy inclinations of its Director or the current Commander-in-Chief, sometimes with disastrous consequences. Reams of data are collected by the agency every day, much more than anyone can ever process, and no one coordinates what to do with the humongous piles of uncracked ciphers and unprocessed intelligence.

Perhaps because of the limitations of 'intelligence,' or in spite of them, the CIA has chosen to excel in an entirely different area: covert operations. The CIA has become a secret branch of the President's foreign policy apparatus, able to act where he cannot do things openly, because the CIA does not have to answer questions from the press. All agents agree that, when necessary, they will lie to anyone, including Congressional Oversight committees, in the interests of 'national security.' This policy, called "plausible denial," goes hand-in-hand with the fact that every agent must sign a contract agreeing not to reveal anything 'sensitive' that they learned during their service without the CIA's prior consent. To the "imperial presidency", the CIA became seen as a 'can-do' agency, because unlike any other part of the government, they had full control over their own budget and operations - they answered to nobody. This is part of what Victor Marchetti called the 'theology of national security,' maintained through the 'cult of intelligence.' It is a theology of salvation through duty to country - and adherents of the ritual believe all sins may be forgiven them.

The CIA has always maintained that all its secrecy and "clandestine mentality" are part of its efforts to keep vital secrets out of the hands of America's enemies. They claim that disclosure of their activities might jeopardize agents in the field and also destroy many important efforts of foreign policy, because CIA-controlled foreign agents would be revealed as such to their own people. As far as they are concerned, freedom of the press and freedom of information take a back seat, because any secrets given up are secrets betrayed into the hands of the enemy. Of course, to many others, all this secrecy is just a way for the CIA to hide its activities from the criticism of the American people, in the name of national security. But the art of the spook trade is like a poker game: know as much as you can about your enemy while giving the least away. In a world where anybody can be working for the other side - and paranoia is never in short supply in the halls of Langeley - you can't trust anybody, and anything is fair game. "Black operations" are necessary, 'cause we gotta do it to 'em before they do it to us. That is the commandment at the heart of the cult of intelligence and its spookly apostles.

The CIA, whose chief sphere of operations during the Cold War was to be the Soviet Union and China, made much of its actual focus the developing or "Third World." It was there that the CIA flexed its political muscle, recruited its hired hands, and interfered in other peoples' business, all the while pretending to be aiming its operations against the other threatening "superpowers." Unfortunately, the KGB was as good at the game as the CIA, and for that reason the CIA was never able to score very many successes in either the intelligence or covert operations field - which is why they made the Third World, an area the U.S. has always been better at pushing around, their chief focus of activity. Most Third World nations were no real security threat to the United States, but the CIA could always claim that there was the danger of their falling into the "Soviet sphere of influence." The CIA's goals in the developing world were really based on other factors: strategic interests (military bases, listening posts, naval ports), material interests (natural resources and trade goods), and economic interests (protecting the property of multinational U.S. corporations such as United Fruit, IT&T, and Exxon.) Democracy and freedom necessarily took a back seat.

Here on Our Shores: Domestic Operations

Despite its mandate to handle 'foreign' threats, the CIA has never kept its hands off domestic groups right here in the U.S. Its policy of persecution of such groups has always been based from the belief that they are the tools of foreign manipulation. And why not? If the CIA was manipulating Eastern European organizations during the rebellions of the Prague Spring, it figured the KGB was just as likely to be behind the revolutionary groups here in the U.S. Finding those links pointing to Soviet support was a pretty hard task (because there were none), but it never kept the Agency from its dirty work. Despite the fact that some of the groups, like the Trotskyist SWP, openly eschewed Soviet communism, the CIA could never accept the fact that such organizations were "homegrown" developments of dissent and discontent. They had to be getting their financing from abroad, thought the spookmasters...

During the late 60s, the CIA frequently recruited young men to infiltrate 'subversive'

(generally antiwar) groups as agents provocateurs . These infiltrators were to try and agitate the groups and get them to surrender their nonviolent tactics for more militant ones. As part of the joint COINTELPRO effort with the FBI, the CIA maintained wiretaps, 'bugging' devices, hidden tape recorders, and other gimmicks for the invasion of privacy at the premises of the meeting places of many of these groups. Files were maintained on important (but potentially 'threatening') citizens such as Martin Luther King, Jr. and Tom Hayden. Anybody who was a potential troublemaker of whistleblower soon would discover how the CIA used its relationship with other government agencies (such as the IRS)... and find his or her credit rating slashed, employee record blacklisted, bank account frozen, incoming mail opened, and careers ruined. If they were authors, they might soon discover publishers avoiding them like the Plague; if they were film directors or producerers, they might find their projects suddenly 'cancelled.' You tangle with the Company at your own peril.

The groups that the COINTELPRO effort targeted primarily were the Socialist Workers' Party, the Black Panther Party, and the Young Communist League. Radical, revolutionary, militant, and communist organizations were the initial targets; but liberal, socialist, pacifist, and reformist groups (like Ralph Nader's) often found themselves under scrutiny as well. Often immigrants to the U.S. were monitored for possible ideological or other connections to 'hostile' foreign governments or to 'terrorist' organizations, and lost their right of residency (and speech) in the U.S. when they were suspected of 'un-American' sentiments. (Nixon's "plumbers" squad had some former CIA men on it, and they focused primarily on Nixon's real and perceived enemies, including columnist Jack Anderson, who received death threats.) The CIA found clever ways of discrediting organizations (such as the American Indian Movement) by 'framing' their leaders for crimes they did not commit or creating false trails to violent incidents and terrorist organizations.

"Center for International Assassination": Attempts on Poltical Leaders
The assassination attempts that the CIA made on Fidel Castro in the 1960s - including using a poisoned cigar and Cuban exile 'hit squads' like Alpha 66 - are fairly well known. But the CIA has tried to kill other foreign leaders - in direct violation of the Geneva Convention and other articles of international law - when it felt them to be a sufficient 'threat' to U.S. interests. Other attempted victims included President Nasser of Egypt and Kim Il Sung of North Korea in the 1950s. The CIA provided names of prominent members of the Communist party of Indonesia in the 1960s to paramilitary forces under General Suharto, who killed some 60,000. In a similar operation called Project Phoenix, the CIA and South Vietnamese security forces may have killed some 12,000 VietCong leaders in North and South Vietnam. Prominent terrorists, such as Abu Nidal, have been on the CIA's 'hit list' for a long time, but they are tough 'marks' for killing due to their great mobility. The reason why many of us haven't heard much of this is that the CIA is not above murdering journalists, when that becomes necessary.

But did the CIA conspire to kill U.S. officials right here at home? Might they have even murdered a president? Jim Garrison's investigation of the Kennedy Assassination revealed many potential links between the CIA, Cuban exiles, and the Mafia, who all hated Kennedy for different reasons. Richard Helms finally admitted in 1974 that one part of Garrison's investigation, Clay Shaw, was indeed a CIA operative. The CIA hated Kennedy because in one of his executive orders, he issued a presidential directive to put the CIA under joint military and civilian control. In the wake of the bay of pigs fiasco, Kennedy threatened to seek detente with the USSR and Cuba, and "break the CIA into a thousand pieces." It is clear that the CIA knew Oswald pretty well, enough to be sending him money some months before November 1963; and other principals in the Garrison investigation had connections, as well. Jack Ruby may have helped the CIA run guns into Cuba on some trips there, and Guy Banister was with the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), which often worked closely with the CIA. If there was a conspiracy to kill the President, then the CIA was almost surely part of it. Some "assassination researchers" have also found curious CIA links to the King and Robert Kennedy, Jr. slayings, as well, where there are some hints of suspicious activity.

The CIA rarely dirties its own hands with something as messy and jeopardizing as assassination. Often, mercenaries and contract agents are maintained for such actions. When the CIA does get personally involved, it tries to make the death of the victim appear to be as much of an 'accident' as possible, through the use of poisons and other 'invisible' techniques. Weapons training of all kinds is standard for field operatives, but the best of the black ops are trained in the more subtle means of killing. The preferred method for killing foreign leaders is to get their own countrymen to pull off the execution - then the CIA can attempt to wash its hands of the whole matter. Thus, the CIA trains, advises, and equips many of the paramilitary 'death squads' of El Salvador and Guatemala, while claiming to have nothing to do with them. There are often very few international inquiries into the deaths of guerilla leaders, no matter how suspicious the circumstances...

The Search for the Manchurian Candidate: Mind Control Research
Ostensibly, the agency began its MKULTRA project with the search for nothing more than the perfect truth serum. Such a drug would set intelligence light years ahead, and deal with the headaches posed by defectors, spies, and double agents. In its quest for The "Truth Drug", the CIA would use in the 1950s just about every chemical that the counterculture would turn to a decade later - Albert Hoffman's LSD, Gordon Wasson's 'Magic Mushroom' psilocybin, and marijuana. It was thought that such drugs could 'destabilize' the personality enough to elicit confessions or even whole changes of belief structures (deprogramming.) Then came the revelations from Korea of American soldiers producing taped confessions renouncing "the wars of imperialist regimes" and their citizenship. A Miami Herald article written by a CIA disinformant attempted to solve the mystery of how red-blooded American boys could turn against their country. And it coined a new word taken from a Korean translation: "brainwashing."

The CIA had always used the same methods of coercion as the KGB: sexual entrapment; blacklisting; 'framing' people for uncommitted crimes; or outright physical torture. But there was no foolproof method for assuring that confessions were true; no polygraph test was 100% certain, and even then the information could be 'planted.' Along with the technological supremacy of the United States came a belief in the omnipotence of science. So the CIA was eager to test the powers of technology in new realms. Spy sattelites and electronic bugs were great information gatherers. But the realm of 'human intelligence' still demanded more innovations. Further, new chemical agents could facilitate covert warfare: the CIA thought that "dusting" a crowd with LSD could pacify them; and they experimented with other drugs that might alter the emotions, including the hallucinogen BZ which created paranoid delusions and rage toward the nearest people. In a paramilitary situation, use of such tactics could be devastating.

For a while, the CIA thought that LSD might be the ultimate Spook Drug. They tested it on unsuspecting army privates; put it in the food of federal prisoners; gave it to people visiting prostitutes in hotel rooms; (while watching from behind a see-through two-way mirror in the next room - Operation Twilight Climax) and even put in drinking water, 'just to see what would happen.' Methods of delivery were often comical: such as the time when they tried to spray a convention of foreign dignitaries with an LSD aerosol, with little success (it dissipated too quickly.) Eventually, they found it too 'unpredictable,' but one maverick agent, Ronald Stark, may have been instrumental in getting LSD onto the street black market, and thence making it a staple for the 'counterculture' of the period. Martin A. Lee and Norman O. Solomon note the curious cultural politics of LSD in their recent book, and point out the curious connection of the CIA to some of the early acid gurus at Millbrook.

It is always the case in the echelons of national security that when the enemy is believed to have a capability that it becomes a priority to beat them to the punch. Hence, the CIA attempted to create its own Manchurian Candidate, someone who could literally be 'reprogrammed' to kill Communist leaders or even have his ideology and loyalty switched. In its search for mind control, the CIA found willing allies in the academic behaviorist psychological establishment. Tired of controlling salivating dogs, running rats, and flying pigeons, the behaviorists were beginnning to look into the possibility of controlling human behavior. J.B. Watson and his successor B.F. Skinner looked toward a Clockwork Orange world where antisocial behavior could be completely eliminated. Delgado impressed the world by stopping a bull in its tracks with a pair of electrodes and a handheld transmitter; what was on everybody's minds was... what next?

The head of the American Psychological Association, a behaviorist named Donald Cameron, was internationally recognized for his work in 'psychic driving'. He was searching for a technique of wiping the mind 'clean', making it a tabula rasa , so that new beliefs could be implanted. Originally he was only interested in using this technique to 'cure' the mentally ill. But the CIA's head of TSS (Technical Support Services), Sid Gottlieb, saw other possibilities, as did his colleague Morse Allen. Cameron used a variety of techniques ranging from sensory deprivation (also taken up eagerly by countercultural figures, including John Lilly) to electroshock, hallucinogens, isolation, and bombardment by radiofrequency waves, to 'treat' his subjects. The CIA could provide Cameron with what he was lacking: subjects. People from marginal sectors of society like prisoners, drug addicts, prostitutes, the homeless, and deviants. It was assumed that these people had nowhere to turn to and were the least possible security risk.

The irony of medical torture being used to assist a regime was not lost on Cameron's colleagues, such as neurologist William Sargant, who still remembered the Hippocratic Oath, and the statements of the Nazi doctors at the Nuremberg trials. Cameron also was unable to provide the success that the Agency wanted: he could lobotomize his patients and turn them into virtual zombies, but he couldn't manage to return them as functioning members of society with new personalities. The human spirit just remained too damn slippery for the Scottish doctor. In the post-Kennedy shakeup of 1964, Cameron lost his MKULTRA funding. LSD had slipped out of the hands of the controllers and into the uncontrollable rebellious hippies. The Agency saw the need to practice damage control in a new post-Dulles era.

MKULTRA was renamed MKSearch and placed under the control of ORD (Operations Research & Development.) The new agenda became more focused on direct brain stimulation and hypnosis. Neurologist Wilder Penfield showed that patients could recall vividly past memories when areas of their brain were stimulated. What, the Agency wondered, could they achieve if they could use electrical stimulation of the brain to cause a man to hallucinate that his beloved leader was his worst enemy? Could hypnosis create a 'sleeper' who could be 'activated' to carry out a mission five years down the road after being 'triggered' by a word or signal and perform it with no recall of his action? These experiments also met with highly limited success. A Cuban exile was hypnotized and told he would kill Castro when he heard the word "cigar." Before being brought out of the trance, he was told Castro was in the room. The hypnotist then said the word "cigar." The Cuban politely replied, "Sorry, I don't smoke." The Cuban dictator would survive yet another attempt to rub him out.

Perhaps in desperation, in the 1970s the Agency would turn to the occult. Telepaths were asked to try and read minds and even place suggestions into them. Clairvoyants and fortunetellers were consulted for their usability in intelligence-gathering. Palmists and phrenologists were asked for their techniques of personality assessment. Could easily controllable people be found by their palms? One project even looked into the links between eye color and mental illness. Victims of multiple-personality disorder or those claiming to be 'spirit possessed' were studied. In the Vacaville prison, famous for its detention of Prof. Timothy Leary, weird experiments were performed with altered consciousness which made even the king of 'trippers' worry. The Devil was alive and well and working in Langeley.

The Doping of America: The CIA and the Drug Trade

During the same period of its LSD experiments, it was well known that the CIA was involved with the drug merchants of the 'Golden Triangle' who were smuggling in much of the United States' heroin supply. Some opium was also entering the U.S. from Pakistan and Afghanistan, where the CIA at the least turned a "blind eye" toward the drug trade. The CIA has never stopped looking the other way when drug dealers have had the right politics - they also had connections with the Medellin cocaine cartel in the early 80s, who at the time where providing information on the Communist insurgency in the region. While the DEA was busy busting narco-traffickers, the CIA often kept many of them (such as General Manuel Noriega) on its payroll. Many insurgent groups supported by the CIA - including RENAMO, the Contras, and the Afghan mujaheddin - engaged in drug trafficking with the U.S., to pay for U.S.-built arms and materiel. There is some evidence to suggest that the CIA may have even been flying in the drugs for them, on their return flights to the U.S. (!) The fact that many of the 'freelance' mercenaries employed by the agency (a la Soldier of Fortune) often "part-time" to train the private security forces of the traffickers is not a complete coincidence.

But the CIA, while undermining the official policy of the DEA through its own covert policy, never lost sight of the propaganda value of the War on Drugs. That "war" allowed a much more open use of military force in Latin American countries such as Peru and Colombia, where there was virtual 'civil war' between the narco-traffickers and the government. However, the American 'foreign policy establishment' tried to portray a different picture, suggesting that it was the guerillas and rebels in those countries - such as the Shining Path or other Marxist groups - that were doing the trafficking, with the complicity of countries such as Nicaragua and Cuba, who allowed overflights of drug-bearing planes. Rather than going after the big cartels and their processing plants, the CIA has often cooperated with the Peruvian army to go after coca-growing peasant villages, suspected of being hotbeds of 'subversive' activity. It is entirely possible that many revolutionary groups are engaged in the drug trade, but the lion's share comes in from the vast organizations and distribution networks created by the drug cartel heads, many of whom are former important "agribusiness" leaders who got support from the CIA-backed Agency of International Development (AID).

One might wonder, of course, why the CIA, which is so concerned with the subversive effects of foreign influences on our great nation, assists other countries to ply their drug trade here. The answer is chilling, but any inner-city resident can tell you why: crack in in the 'hood keeps the poor killing each other (the incessant 'gang wars' over drug turf) rather than going after their real enemies - "divide and conquer." You can't demand your rights or freedoms when you're enslaved to drugs, or think about your oppression when you're strung out on crack. Many radical black groups, such as the Nation of Islam, call upon black youth to stay drug-free. It's not just for silly moralistic purposes, a la "Just Say No." They realize that drugs are a tool of the shadow government to keep people in the inner-city down and out, and also that the "War on Drugs" gives government an excuse to throw our civil liberties out the window and use police-state tactics to fight the 'drug epidemic' their own CIA brought here.

In the Name of Democracy: Covert Operations and Interventions

The CIA has never had a problem with overthrowing democratically elected governments, especially when they democratically decide to do something that the Agency considers not to be in the U.S.'s interests. Michael Manley in Jamaica, Salvador

Allende in Chile, and Jacobo Arbenz in Guatemala were three leaders overthrown by CIA-led insurgencies. The CIA has also provided covert support for rebel groups such as RENAMO in Mozambique, the Contras in Nicaragua, the Afghan mujaheddin , the Kurds in Iraq, and the Inkatha Zulu party in South Africa. The current president of Nicaragua, Violeta Chamorro, was also on the CIA payroll when she was publishing La Prensa , urging her people to overthrow the Sandinistas. Many of the paramilitary coup d'etats in South America were supported by the CIA, including the takeover by the generals in Paraguay and Argentina. The CIA also supported some 30,000 Meo tribe mercenaries in Laos in the 1960s, as well as other soldiers of fortune, to destabilize the existing regime. Of course, the CIA has done their best to tamper with undemocratic governments as well, but with less success - agents of the CIA were wandering through Tibet in the 1950s, doing their best in whip the Tibetans into a bloody revolt against the Chinese. And several unsuccessful invasions of Cuba have been attempted in the wake of the original Bay of Pigs Fiasco, by CIA-armed Cuban exile brigades such as Alpha 66.

But overt, naked, military force can often jeopardize the CIA, especially when it fails and their role in the action stands revealed. For that reason, they often utilize more 'subtle' methods to destabilize governments. They have stuck their fingers in many elections and 'rigged' them to produce a more 'beneficial' result. To make governments more unopopular with their people, they have also used economic sabotage - they tried to ruin a whole years' sugar crop from Cuba by coating it with an unpalatable substance; and for years in East Germany they attempted to sour milk, disrupt mining activity, sabotage factories, and ruin other productive industries. Another technique is to use propraganda and disinformation - they spread false stories about the regime, especially here in the U.S. and the presses of its allies, in the hope that other nations will stop trading with the country. The CIA also uses techniques to reduce the charisma and appeal of foreign (especially revolutionary/anti-US) leaders - at one point, they tried to make the beard of Fidel Castro fall out, as if that was somehow the source of some Samson-like power for him!

That is their "negative" policy. But when they want to support pro-capitalist or pro-United States political parties, they often use other techniques. They provide "political advice and counsel," which we might call "spin doctoring" here in the U.S., to make those parties more palatable. Sometimes they give financial assistance to those parties covertly, or subsidies to important individuals. Other times they try and support private organizations like trade unions, business firms, and "think tanks" that are willing to 'lobby' for better relations with the U.S. Occasionally there is even "private" training and coaching of opposition leaders here in the United States, and carefully crafted exchange programs. Many of the organizations who exist ostensibly to aid and support democracy and development in the Third World - like the Foundation for Democracy - are CIA fronts who really support anti-communist regimes, even if they are basically undemocratic and under military rule. Pro-U.S. regimes like ARENA in El Salvador and the PRI Nationalist Party of Mexico often receive "technical" assistance from the CIA in managing the affairs of their country - especially as regards 'unruly' peasants and the possibility of insurrection.

The irony of using undemocratic means to 'protect democracy' has not been lost on many commentators. In many cases, the leftist leaders overthrown by the CIA were elected in fair and popular elections, and were not even inclined to allowing Soviet hemispheric ambitions into their country; but the CIA did not believe that, and certainly tried to convince others that that was a real danger. The CIA feels it has some god-given right, somehow, to interfere with the affairs of other nations; while at the same time supposedly carrying out its mission of blocking such infiltrations right here at home. How would the American people react if they found out that the KGB was interfering in our democracy? They shouldn't cry foul, then, when countries protest when the CIA does the same thing in trampling on their national sovereignty. While the Peace Corps was trying to nudge the Third World toward a pro-U.S. attitude, the CIA was doing its best to turn them into the other camp by playing the "ugly American."

Keeping Company with the Company: Friends of the CIA
The CIA has many controversial friends. Over the years, it has maintained many ties with the Mafia and organized crime, and it is very likely that Mob hit men have done contract work for the CIA in the past. Another group that it has frequently been involved with has been the international arms traders, like Adnan Khashoggi. Such arms dealers have turned up in countries with very flimsy explanations as to their presence there... inevitably with some CIA equipment for sale. True to their business, the arms dealers will often sell to both sides of a conflict - for example, arming both Iran and Iraq during their long war. One tie the CIA has worked hard to maintain over the years is with the Vatican, for obvious reasons. In the world of gathering intelligence you need to spread your tentacles far; who better to pick up some juicy info then a priest hearing Confession? The CIA has many connections to the para-Jesuit order Opus Dei and also to the Sovereign and Military Order of the Knights of Malta (the order descended from the Knights Hospitaller of St. John, kicked off the isle of Malta by Napoleon's troops.) Several CIA officials, including Bill Casey, have been made honorary members of this Catholic order. Needless to say, the CIA has had no problem making friends with prominent dictators, such as Pinochet, "Baby Doc" Duvalier, Marcos, the Pahlevi Shah, Somoza, General Franco, and, until 1989, Noriega in Panama and Saddam Hussein in Iraq.

But is there really a connection between the CIA and "international fascism" as some more conspiratorially-minded individuals have suggested? It does appear that the CIA was involved in some of the shady right-wing intrigues of Europe, including the whole P2 Masonic affair in Italy. Also, the group connected to Pope John Paul II's attempted assassination, the Gray Wolves, is part of a fascist "Black International" which is linked closely to the Reverend Moon's organization and Gen. Singlaub's World Anti-Communist League, which have been known to work with the CIA. There are those who think that the CIA was part of Project Paperclip, which smuggled ex-Nazi scientists and S.S. officials into this country to spy on Russia or develop rocket technology, or that it assisted the right-wing generals in South America to hide Nuremberg war criminals from international justice in exchange for what information could be gleaned on Soviet military forces. Some U.S. far-right groups are actually as paranoid about the CIA and its 'internationalist' agenda as they are about the Trilateral Commission or the Council for Foreign Relations, so it is doubtful that the CIA works with them...

It's not always clear where the CIA stands in the shifting sands of international politics: they can and do switch sides and double-cross their "friends." The CIA supported the Kurds from 1975-79 in their war for independence from Iraq, but when the Ayatollah Khoemini came to power in Iran, he was perceived as a greater threat. Keeping Saddam Hussein in power to 'buffer' Iraq took precedence over the Kurds' rights, and they were abdandoned to his savage response. Then, when Khoemini died and Hussein invaded Kuwait, the U.S. turned against Hussein, who they had been arming for the past eight years. Following the 'liberation' of Kuwait, the U.S. invited the Kurds to rebel yet again, only to abandon them to Saddam Hussein's forces once more. Having been double-crossed twice, I am sure that the Kurds will run the other way the next time the CIA comes around with some scheme. It is not suprising that the only 'friends' the CIA has are people who are equally as untrusting of others, and untrustworthy, as it is in its affairs - mercenaries, soldiers of fortune, cutthroats, adventurers, and other spy agencies such as the Israeli Mossad.

The CIA and the KGB often get involved with complex games with each other - games so elaborate and pointless that, as one commentator has noted, it seems that they are jokes for their benefit and at our expense. In the cloak-and-dagger world of Spookland, anything is fair game. The CIA has had 'sleepers' placed in many countries - these agents often going over to live in those countries for months or even years under some cover before they are finally 'activated' to carry out some mission. In order to 'sting' KGB operatives, the CIA has often leaked all kinds of false documents to people in order to 'weed' out their contacts, even involving people who really should not be under any suspicion. What goes on in the Soviet and American embassies would almost be funny if it were not such a waste of taxpayer money. The CIA has often gone to elaborate lengths to embarass their enemies, including taking pictures of them visiting brothels or other compromising situations. Nonetheless, these games are often carried out with a spirit of comraderie. After all, the CIA and the KGB had a mutual interest in keeping the Cold War going, because it kept them in business. That made them the strangest 'friends' of all, but after all, politics does make strange bedfellows.

Cloak and Gown: The CIA and College Campuses

The nation was shocked by a series of revelations in 1967 that the CIA was connected to the National Student Association. It was revealed in a series of articles that the CIA often maintained professors as recruiting agents on college campuses who were to keep their eyes out for students who would make good potential Company cadres. As a result, many campuses moved to bar the CIA from recruiting their students; but the confidential informal networks between the administration and faculty and the CIA often remained, and were used to send more recruits the Agency's way. Some of the young agents hired in this way were used to infiltrate campus leftist groups and spy on them, or to "plant" stories in the campus newsletter, or to found Young Americans for Freedom (YAF) chapters where the CIA could easily locate future allies. Many universities discovered, to their discomfort, that CIA-connected professors were often taking a cue on their curriculum from the Agency, and saw it as threat to academic freedom. Student leftists often tried to 'out' those professors and get them fired.

The CIA has also used funds from its Science & Technology Directorate to subsidize academic research projects. Many academic behaviorists received those funds for their research into human-behavior control. But academic research into covert warfare technology - remember Bond's amazingly lethal devices - was also supported as well, in addition to the general DoD funding of projects such as SDI. Much of the early LSD research - in the pre-Leary era - was controlled by academics working for the CIA as well. Amazingly, there were some CIA links to the 1969 University of Colorado investigation of Unidentified Flying Objects (UFOs). Some UFO buffs feel that this may be because the CIA still suspects that UFOs are "some foreign power's secret air force," and they wanted to throw other people off the trail of their investigation... but others think this is because the CIA is doing research into the 'psychological warfare' aspects of utilizing UFO 'true believers' and they want to throw them off this trail as well.

Certainly, the CIA was carrying out clandestine activity at many U.S. universities in strategic locations. The University of Miami in the early 1960s was an important staging base for many of its operations against Cuba. Jim Jones, the cult leader who had his Peoples' Temple followers commit suicide in the jungles of Guiana, may have been part of a CIA operation within the University of California system focusing on psychological warfare. Even today there are people who wonder whether Jones was just crazy or if he was really following orders. Some international universities, especially those in equatorial Africa, are used for training local, native henchmen and agents, much as the KGB trains its African operatives as Patrice Lumumba Friendship University. The CIA has always felt it a priority to get the true WASP bluebloods into the Company, by recruiting the sons of "well-bred" families at Ivy League schools such as Harvard and Yale. Changing demographics and political winds have caused the Agency to focus its efforts much more on recruiting from midwestern and southern schools.

The Secret Government: Banks, Guns, and Shadow Proprietaries

The "Enterprise," as it was called, was a joint effort during the 1980s between the NSA, CIA, and DIA to go over Congress' policy in Central America. As the Christic Institute has pointed out, the 'Shadow' government behind the 'Enterprise' has been active for 25 years, and the recent Iran-Contra hearings have only scratched its surface, grabbing its more visible members such as North, Secord, and Poindexter. The "Enterprise' was to sell arms to Iranian 'moderates' in order to raise funds to support the Nicaraguan Contras, whose aid had been reduced to a minimal level in 1985. Links to the Islamic Republic were not hard to find since the 'moderate' contacts made by Reagan's "October Surprise" Team (which included Bill Casey) in 1980 were all too eager to accept our weapons in their war with Iraq. It was thought, somewhat erroneously, that these 'moderates' had some connection to the Shiite groups in Lebanon who were holding Americans hostage, and that they could obtain their release. The "Enterprise" also was involved with some attempted bombings right here in the U.S., and sabotage efforts against groups opposing U.S. Central America policy, such as the Pledge of Resistance and the Christic Institute. Bill Moyers called the Iran-Contra hearings a "Constitutional Crisis," much as some people called Watergate 20 years earlier... but they did not result in the resignation of a president.

It turns out that unscrupulous businessmen, like Stefan Halper and Harvey D. MacLean, Jr., who founded the Palmer National Bank in 1983, used deregulation in order to make loans to ex-CIA operatives involved in funding the Contras. Much of the S & L swindle, it turns out, may have turned up in the hands of the CIA. Halper, not unsurprisingly, was one of the individuals who helped set up Oliver North's defense fund. Other banks, such as Robert L. Corson's Vision Banc Savings, were involved in the 'laundering' of money connected with Noriega... and the Houston bank went under four months after Corson took ownership. The "vanishing money" in the Iran-Contra scandal went, in part, to secret Swiss accounts belonging to its principals - but at this point it intertwines with another recent scandal, involving the Bank of Commerce and Credit, International (BCCI). BCCI has been branded an 'outlaw' bank for its supports of brutal Middle East regimes, but one of its big trading partners, it seems, was the CIA, as well. Yet another banking scandal - the Banco Ambrosiano scandal, where millions of dollars disappeared from the Vatican Bank into the pockets of "G-d's Banker," Roberto Calvi, has CIA written all over it... Licio Gelli and his Italian organization may have worked with the CIA to frame the Communists in a train station bombing in Italy in 1980.

The CIA has a rather remarkable 'financial empire.' Despite the fact that it is the only government agency with a totally unmonitored 'black budget' - they can spend as they see fit (within set limits) - it is also the only one that annually turns a profit! That is because it maintains many 'shadow proprietaries,' commercial enterprises that operate "up-front" operations until the point where they are called on to do CIA business. Some of those proprietaries include major airlines, such as Pacific Air and its subsidiary Air America, and trade organizations (such as the International Trade Mart) that are really used for covert operations coordination. These shadow companies are maintained tightly and squeaky-clean (and often turn over a hefty profit) until their covert support becomes necessary. It is well known that the CIA brass reguarly invest much of the Agency's money in stocks and risky investments rather than the generally tame security bonds issued by the government. It isn't just James Bond who believes in gambling... the CIA feels that financial independence is an important key to remaining free of government oversight.

Conclusions: What Future for Shadow-Politics?

Robert Gates, who became Director of Central Intelligence recently over questions that he (like other illustrious predecessors) distorted intelligence to support policy, declared that the Agency would be taking "new directions." In the post-Cold War world, the Agency would focus on "new threats." Two new sources identified as potential threat sources were Islamic fundamentalism and terrorism in the Middle East, and economic 'warfare' on the part of ostensible U.S. 'allies' such as Germany and Japan. In addition, Bush had directed Gates to marshal the CIA's resources to curtail the proliferation of "weapons of mass destruction" - chemical, biological, and nuclear devices. (That is ironic, in light of the U.S. refusal to sign chemical weapons accords in the 1970s and its own huge nuclear arsenal.) Industrial espionage and sabotage were to be part of the new focus of the Agency - but, needless to say, the Company will probably do more than just prevent foreign powers from doing it to us: they will try to "do it to them before they do it to us." If Japan can steal our technological secrets, well, surely there must be ways the cult of intellligence can beat them at their own game? Gates seems to think so.

The founding fathers enjoined their nascent republic to constant vigilance against its enemies. There is vigilance, and then there is paranoia. One can be on guard against danger, or one can go out of their way to see enemies where there aren't any. The Pentagon has always profitting by overestimating the size and capability of American enemies, and the CIA knows the value of that game as well - lest their budget fall to the cutback axe as well! The CIA simply cannot handle a world without enemies, without people ready for a double-cross. Once you're part of the spook trade, it becomes impossible to see things any other way. And if the CIA doesn't have communism as a scapegoat, it may have to create something else to fulfill its role as the justifier of its actions, and find another sparring partner altogether in the absence of the KGB. No federal bureaucracy ever mandates itself out of existence, saying "Hey, our job's done, we can go home!" And if most small government bureaucracies are reluctant to cease their self-promotion and perpetuation, consider the Agency, which is a multibillion dollar organization with some 16,000 admitted employees...

But if the CIA isn't willing to pack its bags and go home, perhaps it is time for Congress to act. The National Security Act of 1947 should be revoked, or at least have many of its provisions changed severely. The CIA should be turned back into what it was meant to be, an intelligence-processing center with lots of number-cruching bureaucrats, like elsewhere in Washington. But Clandestine Services and Covert Operations are fossils, and should be scrapped. The "black ops" should be retired. Spying in peacetime - in the absence of a clear and present threat - should be illegal. But most certainly interference with the democratic processes of other countries should be made illegal, especially paramilitary exercises. The shadow government's covert policy has often been at open odds with the stated public policy of the elected government in many areas, putting us in the position of considerable distrust by the rest of the world. In a free society, foreign policy should be as open and democratic as domestic policy. If the President wants to aid nations that have democratic values and protect human rights, or to sanction or use military force against those countries that are true threats to the United States or its allies (and not just ruled with a form of government we don't like), let him openly ask for the support of the American people, not go behind their backs.

There will always be a need to gather intelligence about the military capabilities of other nations, and for a center to coordinate the gathering of that intelligence. Such a center would really know when a country was preparing for war or invasion, and how to plan a response. The CIA's dismal failure in predicting Iraq's aggression against Kuwait shows that it is not competent for that task. And it is not competent because since 1952 it has gained proficiency in all the "black operations" to the detriment of improving intelligence techniques. The CIA must be "broken in a thousand pieces," as Kennedy wanted, and built anew, into something that will not be a disgrace to American principles and ideals. That new agency will address real concerns to national security, and not chase after phantoms. And it will take a sea change in the government to bring about a "new" CIA; but such a sea change is well overdue.

Veterans Awaken to Role as Corportate Mercenaries (December 2005, update Feb 2014)

Update, February 14, 2014:

This video tells the story of what I tried to warn about when I posted this page in December of 2005.

This is why no American in their right mind should join the satanist-controlled US military. You will regret it for a lifetime if sent into a combat zone. Why do you think so many guys coming back commit suicide?

December 2005
By Ken Adachi, Editor

When I was younger, I thought going into the military was the right thing to do and I joined voluntarily. I saw it as an adventure and I was anxious to jump in and learn what 'being a man' was all about. Like Hemingway's fictional alter ego, Nick Adams in The Sun Also Rises, I wanted to get into the game and experience life to the hilt. Not unlike Nick Adams in the final chapter of the book, I also came to see things very differently on the far side of the journey.

During the Vietnam era, I had a very low opinion of draft dodgers, draft card burners, and war protestors in general. I assumed they were mostly spoiled and cowardly college wimps who were too good to get their hands dirty giving something back to their country and were mostly looking for an easy pretext to meet women. But I was naive and wholly ignorant of what was really taking place. More importantly, I had no idea who was manipulating these events from behind the scenes. I unthinkingly accepted the cover story that it was those Godless communists who were agitating to take over all of Asia and they had to be stopped at all costs. I was brainwashed.

I didn't know that all my sources of "news" information-Time magazine, Newsweek, the

New York Times, Meet the Press, Firing Line (with William F. Buckley Jr.), CBS Reports, 60 Minutes, etc., etc., etc. were part of a huge propaganda machine that collectively acted in concert to mold my thinking into accepting the cover story. Nothing much has changed since then. Today, young military recruits and their families and their friends continue to unthinkingly accept the cover story that the American military must be the Good Guys of the world-doing the Right Thing-and whoever we're fighting against are automatically assumed to be the Bad Guys.

In the mid 1960's, I believed Illuminati gofers like Lyndon Johnson, Dean Rusk, and Robert MacNamara when they told me about the Gulf of Tonkin 'torpedo boat' attacks against US Naval ships (it never happened) and of the "domino theory" which claimed that all other countries in southeast Asia would fall to the the Evil Empire of Communism and if we didn't stop them in Vietnam. At the time, I didn't know that the president of the United States and his entire cabinet were, in fact, covert agents for international corporations and power groups who wanted war.

War, I later discovered, is a money maker, a big money maker for corporations with names like General Electric, or Dupont, or Chase Manhattan Bank, or Rockwell International, or Merck, or AT&T, or IBM, or the dozens of other Illuminated corporate giants who attend those Bilderberger get-togethers every year and make plans -for you and I.

Manufacturers of planes, tanks, battleships, missiles, rockets, bullets, assault rifles, mortars, field rations, uniforms, boots, medical supplies, prosthetics, tents, mobile river crossing equipment, helicopters, gun ships, radar, missile tracking systems, high tech electronics, spy satellites, etc., etc. love war.

Oil companies love war. The CIA loves war. MI5 loves war. The Mossad loves war. These covert groups, working for the Illuminated Ones, have been responsible for instigating most of the conflicts in the world. War makes money and consolidates power into the hands of the elite manipulators who always remain hidden from our view. They place their Front men and Mouthpieces out there for us to see and debate about and send our letters to, but they themselves always remain in disguise, usually seen as the most genteel, civilized, and honored of humanity's flock-like the royal family of England.

Orchestrated wars also provides a convenient cover for drug trafficking, which again, you can pin the tail on the CIA- the biggest player on the planet. While war robs ordinary, mostly poor, American families of their sons (and now their daughters), it makes indentured slaves of the rest of us.

Who pays out the money that fills the coffers of war profiteers? The government.

And how does the government get that money?

First, from their pals in the banking industry, and then from you. Of course, war is also a handy cover for pulling your rights and constitutional liberties out from under you, which today is rapidly escalating at a perilous rate and driving America into the arms of a Nazi style police state where platitudes like 'democracy', 'freedom', and 'liberty' ring hollow for those who still retain the capacity to think and can recognize lies and deceit when it's so shamelessly hawked to what is presumed to be a dumbed-down citizenry.

In earlier decades, the goals of the Illuminati elites, their international corporations, their political puppets and their representatives in the military-industrial complex were to make money and to consolidate/expand their power, but today the goal is the destruction and dismantling of the United States and its people in order to make way for a one-world government, the so called New World Odor.

While many in today's military still cling to the cover story of America, Defenders of Freedom & Democracy, their ranks are dwindling as more and more servicemen (and ex-servicemen) come to see the Liars and the Lies for what they are. They are organizing, getting vocal, and reaching out, thanks to the internet, but they have a long way to go if they hope to prevent the next orchestrated war with Iran that will be "crisis driven " and stampeded into existence using the same gimmicks and falsity that the satanic Illuminati has always employed to kick start their global blood baths. Must we allow them to succeed generation after generation; yet again taking our sons and daughters to an early grave? Isn't it time we did our part to help those who are trying to stop this senseless destruction of life?

Think about it.

I was first awakened to the New World Order gang in 1995 when I read Behold a Pale Horse by William Cooper. I quickly came up to speed in the same year by reading the writings of Dr. John Coleman, Anthony Sutton, David Icke and many others. Yesterday, I heard the most succinct overview ever by Eustace Mullins on the players and machinations behind the New World Order; which is more accurately defined as the subversion of organized Zionists, also described by Louis Marschalko in his 1958 book as The World Conquerors.

I found the video embedded on Eustace Mullins' web site, but noticed it was taken off line by Youtube. After digging around, I found another Youtuber who posted the video in September 2013, but was surprised to see that it only had 623 views.

Based on my 20 years experience of reading books, articles, and watching video presentations, this 2005 interview with Eustace Mullins is the most deft and accurate explanation that I've ever encountered to date where he astutely describes the players behind the scenes and their front-men puppets who do their bidding to subvert and destroy America, the greatest expression of individual liberty and self determination in modern history. If millions of people around the world could only become fully appraised of the formidable insights revealed in this video, the Zionist New World Order takeover could not - and would not - continue unabated and unrecognized

The reason you don't hear too much about Eustace Mullins' interviews, books, or articles is because he was TOO sharp, too accurate, and too intelligent in revealing the Zio NWO game plan and has been assiduously black listed by all outlets of Zion owned media.

Almost all of Eustace Mullins' well written books and articles are available free online as pdf downloads (see the links below the video).

(Be sure to download this video and view it more than once. You learn something new each time you listen to it.)

Please Read Update, Nov. 2004
In January of 2002, I posted an article to this web site titled Goodbye Chemtrails, Hello Blue Skies which described a simple, homemade invention called a Chembuster. This new invention, inspired by Wilhelm Reich's Cloudbuster, demonstrated that it was possible to disperse and break up chemtrails, allowing for a return of normal blueness to the sky, an invigoration of the air with a clean, fresh smell and the production of rain in those areas where drought is being artificially created by HAARP and other secret weather controlling technologies. The Chembuster incorporates three common elements that, when mixed together, produce an orgone generator, a device which transmutes the negative polarity of atmospheric orgone energy into the positive polarity of that energy. The negative polarity of orgone, coined "DOR" by Wilhelm Reich, is the "glue" which holds chemtrails together. Reversing the polarity of the atmospheric orgone envelope causes the chemtrails to break up and disperse. Over the next two years, as more Chembusters were being constructed and set up by readers who became aware of this phenomenon, the concentration of atmospheric DOR sufficiently reduced in those areas to allow an influx of Giant Sylphs into the 'chembusted' atmospere. Sylphs are intelligent air elementals which can literally overlay and transmute chemtrails into real clouds. I realize that it's hard to believe that ordinary people can destroy chemtrails in the manner described, but we have the photos and testimonials to confirm the claim. No one has to continue to tolerate chemtrail 'bombardments' any longer. You can clear your sky of chemtrails! Read the links and view the photos to understand more about Sylphs and chemtrails.

A smaller orgone generating device which utilizes similar construction materials, was coined an HHG, but I find that a Pyramid or Dome shaped five crystal orgone generator more descriptive. The Pyramid or dome shaped Orgone Generator seems to help mitigate energies intended for Mind Control and other nefarious purposes that are being radiated from underground facilities (Montauk), HAARP, microwave GWEN towers and affiliated ELF microwave antennaes (commonly called 'cell phone' towers) which have sprung up like daisies all over this country beginning in 2001.Orgone generators can also 'neutralize' underground military bases, masonic lodges, places of satanic ritual

The success being achieved to date by a handful of dedicated people who are building and deploying these devices is very impressive. I get E mail all the time from people asking me "What can I do to stop the New World Order?" . Well, this is one thing you can do! You can participate in rescuing your health, your mind, and your freedom by obtaining and deploying these saving inventions, orgone generators.

Tired of seeing the very air you breathe being poisoned daily with chemtrails by the satanic Illuminati criminals who are intent on eliminating 85 % of the world's population? Prefer to wait until they precipitate their next major national convulsion in order to shock and stampede the public into accepting total fascist tyranny which will eventually lead to door-to-door roundups of 'troublemakers' (meaning Americans who resist being inducted into the ranks of mind controlled robots) and their delivery into concentration camps (more accurately-liquidation camps)? The evidence is clear and compelling-- for those who are willing to look with open eyes and open minds.

Educate-Yourself Discussion Forum
I've have started a chat forum at Yahoo Groups. I get dozens of E mails every day from people who often have helpful and inspiring information to contribute, but I don't have enough time to repost these interesting anecdotes on this web site. The Discussion Forum is the place to exchange information and express your ideas or comments, but without any attempt to sell a product or promote a personal agenda. Let us assist each other in a spirit of friendly cooperation and mutual benefit...Many thanks, Ken

Collodial Silver (CS)
The FDA attempted to stiffle sales of colloidal silver from health food stores and web sites in the Fall of 2000. Read our Nov 12, 2000 Newsletter.
(http://educate-yourself.org/newsletter/eynewsletter12nov0.shtml). Sufficient resistance was generated by commercial interests to cause them to back down soemwhat, but new restrictions were imposed on what could be said regarding the uses and benefits of colloidal silver. You'll notice that the CS sold in health stores today will only state the contents of the bottle and not much more.

The FDA has contacted web sites that provide colloidal silver (CS) and has informed them that any they now consider colloidal silver a drug and under their jurisdiction. They have stated that no therapeutic claims about CS can be made. We have removed articles about CS , but still offer CS generators on the Products page. You can always contact me at Ken Adachi, Editor if you wish obtain more information about colloidal silver. A general introduction follows:

Few people are aware that silver has been used since ancient times to fight infections and eliminate disease conditions. It possesses unique germicidal properties that can interfere with the mechanisms of ALL bacteria, viruses, fungi, and molds while pharmaceutical antibiotics can typically only affect 5 or 6 species. It is a natural antibiotic that disease organisms can never develop a resistance to. You don't need a prescription (so far) and you can make it yourself using your own generator .

Chemtrails
The secret government has been spraying the skies throughout North America since late 1997 on an almost daily basis with substances that were first identified as "mystery contrails", but later were dubbed "chemtrails" by investigative reporter and author William Thomas. When questioned, military and government officials either deny any knowledge of these sprayings outright or they offer unbelievable and ludicrous explanations that only a moron could believe. These sprayings are making many people sick and are the first phase of a bio-warfare operation designed to effect wide scale population reduction .. Find out what's going on.

Emerging Diseases
Ebola, Hanta Virus, AIDS, Gulf War Disease, Mad Cow Disease, Pfiesteria ("Red Tide"), Flesh-Eating Bacteria, Listeria, E-Coli H0197, are some of the new emerging diseases to hit the news in the past few years. The Hong Kong Bird Flu of '98, the outbreak of Viral Encephalitis in Malaysia which had caused the death of over 100 pig farmers and a million pigs, the outbreak of the West Nile Virus in New York, the explosive spread of Tuberculosis in Russia (25,000 Russians died of TB last year), and the current worldwide "Flu" Epidemic are just some examples of an unprecedented explosion of new, virulent forms of disease. The evidence is strong and compelling that the overwhelming majority of these new diseases have been intentionally bioengineered by the New World Order elites for purposes of population reduction .

Forbidden Cures
Natural Healing, Vibrational Medicine, BioElectro-Medicine, Oxygen Therapies, Urine Therapy, Color Therapy, Subtle Energy Medicine, Magnetic Therapies, and many other alternative healing therapies have been largely suppressed or intentionally ignored by the Big Boys in the medical orthodoxy precisely because they work. In fact, they work too well andthat, of course, is why they are ignored and suppressed. Big Medicine is Big Business and Big Business doesn't want any low cost, low tech, do-it-yourself natural cures. However, you do.

Immunity Boosting
The body's own immune system, if sufficiently strengthened and boosted by natural means, can resist or weather an attack by any biological organism. Learn how to treat and resist disease conditions naturally , without the need for drugs.

Nutrition
Plant food that is grown with traditional, non-bioengineered seed, in organic soil, using natural light, and irrigated with clean water and natural fertilizers will produce the most potent and vitalizing source of nourishment for human consumption. Generally, the processed food obtained in supermarkets by the average American family is health robbing, energy depleting, and creates an ideal environment for disease to exist within the body.

Ozone
Ozone is an unstable, but highly beneficial molecule. It's the tri-atomic form of oxygen: Instead of the normal arrangment of 2 atoms of oxygen (O2), ozone is comprised of 3 atoms of oxygen (O3). Ozone, however, doesn't want to stay in that tri-atomic state very long and unless held in check or bound by other molecular couplings, ozone will usually break down from O3 to O2 + O1 within 20 minutes of so (at atmospheric pressure at least). O1 is called a singlet oxygen atom and it's HIGHLY REACTIVE. with just about any substance that should NOT be in the human body including all pathogens (virus, bateria, etc.) and synthetic compounds or their metabolites such as drugs and their metabolite residues.

Bioelectrification

The Story on Drugs
"The truth about cures without drugs is suppressed, unless it suits the purpose of the censor to garble it. Whether these cures are effected by Chiropractors, Naturopaths, Naprapaths, Osteopaths, Faith Healers, Spiritualists, Herbalists, Christian Scientists, or MDs who use the brains they have, you never read about it in the big newspapers."
Hans Ruesch

Vaccine Dangers

The dangers of vaccinations far outweigh any of their purported 'benefits'. Start reading about the many, many victims of vaccinations that have resulted in death (especially SIDS) or lifelong neurological damage such as autism. Become informed about the deceit, lies, and propanganda surrounding the promotion of vaccines.

The Mind-Body Connection
If you study the subject of alternative healing long enough, you eventually come to the inescapable conclusion that all healing (and energy) is vibrational in nature. All forms of energy, whether detrimental or beneficial, first affect us on the etheric level and later translate to the physical level.Thought is the prime creative energy of the universe. Once created, thoughts (like energy) cannot be destroyed (but they can be modified). Since The Creator endowed us with the power to create thought , we can create healing energies with our mind alone. In addition, with proper training, you can access any information you wish to obtain through the mind.

NCH Tone Generator
If your computer has a sound card, this NCH audio tone generator can play audio tones through your computer speakers or earphones. You can set the frequency from 1 hz to 20,000 hz. Certain specific tone frequencies can modify and improve all kinds of health conditions. It's called Sound Therapy. If you wish, you can greatly augment this therapy by simultaneously applying Light Therapy, which is also simple and easy to set up.

Free Energy

Introduction
By definition, any source of energy that you don't have to pay for is free. It is possible to obtain an unlimited supply of unconventional life-sustaining energy from the cosmos, sunlight, moonlight, water, sound, and crystals, for example, if you knew of its existence and how to extract it. Ancient Egyptians, Tibetans and Atlanteans knew of these energy sources. This knowledge has been rediscovered again and again in our era by scientists like Lord Kelvin, James Clerk Maxwell, Baron Carl Von Reichenbach , Nikola Tesla, John Keeley, Viktor Schauberger, Wilhelm Reich, Thomas Henry Moray, and John Searl among others, but the information has repeatedly been suppressed and kept from the public. We will explain these hidden sources of energy and how you can utilize them for your own energy needs.
The New World Order

The New World Order (NWO)

There is a worldwide conspiracy being orchestrated by an elite group of genetically related individuals which include many of the very wealthy, politically powerful, and corporate elite of the world, as well as members of the so-called Black Nobility of Europe whose goal is to create a One World (fascist) Government, stripped of nationalistic and regional boundaries, that is obedient to their agenda. Events are moving at a frightening pace toward the total implementation of that agenda which includes utilizing mass Mind Control of an unprecendended scale and scope.You need to inform yourself of this diabolical scheme and takes steps to thwart their agenda

New World Order News

There are so many daily news items that are in reality the unfoldment of the NWO Agenda; scripted, planned, and executed by their obliging minions in the mainstream media. It's easier and simpler to group these items under one index of the New World Order News.

Mind Control

Very few people are aware of the extent to which this government has engaged in perfecting the terrible "art" of mind control. Mind control means exactly that:.total and complete control over your mind, your body , and your activities. A person who has been programmed under mind control is a robotic slave in every sense of the word. There are at least 12 million Americans who have already been programmed to be mind controlled slaves via the old programs of MK ULTRA, Project Monarch, and the Montauk Project . Now, the entire population of this country is soon to be subjected to total mind control via the microwave GWEN towers being erected everywhere. Open your eyes and recognize the GWEN towers in your part of town. Their use as cell phone transmission relays is a cover story. Their real purpose is mind control.

Ted Gunderson

Ted Gunderson retired from the FBI as Special-Agent-In-Charge for Los Angeles after 29 years of service. He has accumulated some of the most damning documentary evidence of wide-spread satanic ritual abuse (and murder) of young children in this country by very high level satanists whose grisly actively is being covered up and protected by governmental agencies of The United States of America. The recent accusation of radio talk show host Art Bell leveled at Ted Gunderson was intended to discredit and undermine Gunderson's credibility. Now why, I wonder, would anyone want to do that?

Communication & Association

Links

Here, I've listed some web sites, which I feel have something to say. I hope you'll also find them interesting and useful. Check often, as we will routinely add to this list.

Membership
Donations make it possible for this effort to go forward. Of course, it feels good to receive a helping hand when you need it, but the person responsible for providing that help gains a much richer gift, soul development. There is an immutable spiritual law at work in the universe that applies to any who give selflessly for the benefit of others ("to the least of my brethren"). It's called The Law of Giving and givers will always receive abundance many fold in return. You might think of that the next time you are presented with any opportunity to financially assist those who need some help (beggar, bum, drug addict, etc.) and assist them without judgement.

Membership support will come in a variety of categories. All members will be privy to special "perks" in recognition of their support.

Discussion
Readers who wish to express their thoughts about the issues raised at educate-yourself.org may do so providing posters refrain from personal attacks, flaming, selling, or crude language. Disruptive, provocative, or insulting individuals will be removed from the forum. This moderator is interested in a civilzed and cooperative exchange of ideas and comments. Thanks, Ken Adachi

Because of the sensitive nature of the information provided at this web site, it would be prudent to establish Mirror Sites in locations both inside and outside of the United States. If you can and wish to help in this regard, please let us know. We also need volunteer translators to translate some of this information into their native tongue as well as coordinators who can help in organizing local seminars, workshops, or natural healing health information centers. Let me know if you wish to participate in any capacity.

Contact Us
You can reach us via this web site, E-Mail, telephone, or snail mail. Your choice.

On Sending E Mails:
I try to answer most inquiries and E mail messages as soon as possible, however, I can't respond to unsigned E mails. You need to properly identify yourself if you wish to receive an answer. This rule does not apply to people who have special information to pass on to me, but fear for their personal safety. You can remain anonymous to any degree you desire. If you have inside information on the Illuminati, mind control operations, criminal conduct by intelligence agencies, the military, etc., the safest way to convey your informaiton is to send me ordinary, snail mail, not e-mail-if you are concerned about surveillance and monitoring. If you wish to remain completely hidden, then use the same two or three name pseudonym in all your correspondence and I can respond to you (if necessary) at the bottom of your published material (if it's appropriate and desired to publish your info). Otherwise, if I need to respond, I can leave a message for you on the covert message page found at the links at the top of each web page at this web site.

Letters to The Editor
I get some interesting mail, but I don't have the time to answer all of it. You can read some selected mail that I've answered from the above link. The mail ranges from health questions, to testimonials, to criticism, to advice, and everything in between. A lot of people ask specific questions that they could answer themselves if they put a little effort into researching it, but they think that I'm the 'answer man', sitting here at the keyboard ready to do their homework for them. I don't have time for that.

Health questions, especially, take a lot of time, and in most cases, you can get an idea of what to do by reading the links contained here more carefully. I've had more than a few people write to me with their obscure, esoteric questions and say "OK, educate me!" Good grief, .the name of the web site is Educate Yourself. It's necessary for uninformed people to pull themselves up by their own bootstraps and come up to speed. I'm merely opening a door or two. It's up to you to walk through it.

I'm trying to give visitors to this web site the idea that they can take care of themselves without depending on the so called 'health' industry, which includes drug companies, the allopathic medical establishment and their pals in the insurance industry. I'm also trying to alert you to the dangers of the rapidly decending New World Order. The much ballyhooed "End Times" is a scripted and contrived strategy to justify the ushering in of a One World (fascist) government in response to the expected call and "need" for "stabilization" from beleagured people around the globe following the intentionally created chaos and misery of those 'predicted' End Times conflicts.

Difficult times may lay ahead, but we have the divine guidance and capacity to circumvent much of the intended misery by becoimng FULLY aware of the manipulation and deception being injected into our daily lives. Everything seen in national and international "news" is scripted and planned. There are no surprises. The Illuminati creates conflicts and 'crisis' scenarios in order to introduce their 'solution' to the 'problem', therby implementing their hidden agenda of total control and chainless enslavement of every single person on the planet.

The way to undo the New World Order enslavement agenda is through knowledge and honest information . Let's assist each other with that goal in mind.

William Cooper's Chilling NWO Revelations

[Editor's Note: If you listen to this 2 hour and 38 minute lecture by Bill Cooper, you will have the deepest understanding possible of the New World Order takeover agenda and the planned dissolution of all sovereign nations under a one world government. This information is sobering because Bill's description of how the takeover is being carried out, will match perfectly with what you have observed in our recent and current history, even though Bill spoke these words in 1998, sixteen years ago. While the future appears bleak, please realize that our moment to moment reality is shaped by the sum of our collective thoughts. Thoughts create reality, although many people find that nearly impossible to believe. If you allow fear and doom to dominate your expectations, then fear and doom will ensue. However, if you contemplate the unraveling, deconstruction, and failure of the NWO takeover plans, and follow through with concerted action to match your intentions (such as voting the traitors and fifth columnists out of office on November 4), then a different, more benign reality will emerge. Ordinary people, who have no knowledge of the New World Order takeover agenda, actually help to temper its advancement somewhat because their thoughts are only focused on everyday responsibilities, such as getting the kids off to school, and are not contemplating the impending destruction of our country and its liberties. However, they aren't helping to stop it either because they make no effort to inform themselves of the grave peril, despite blatant evidence of its existence, while the dark agenda continues to gain ground. Thoughts and intentions must be combined with dedicated and meaningful action to effect a change in a positive direction. In addition, you should not lose sight of the very real assistance of divine forces to help us overcome and neutralize this looming menance. While Lucifer may be the god of the Illuminated planners, Lucifer himself is a creation of the Divine Will of God and can be terminated in a microsecond if God were to withdrew His permission for that fallen angel to exist. We assume that Lucifer and his demons are 100% evil and devoid of any spark of God, but that is not possible, as they would cease to exist immediately if God were to withdraw His presence. So don't lose sight of WHO holds the superior hand in this poker game. The NWO takeover will unfold if we continue to remain uninvolved and passive and allow it to take hold. On the other hand, we can slow it down and eventaully reverse the takeover if we are dedicated and determined to achieve that end. We must take action. It's as simple as that...Ken Adachi]

Cooper predicted the messianic rise of Obama to spearhead final institutionalization of the totalitarian one world government and complete end to the bill of rights 1:41:45. Secret documents from 1970-1973 reveal a plan now unfolding before our very eyes. William Cooper 1997: "Many years ago I had access to a set of documents that I eventually realized was the plan for the destruction of the united States of America and the formation of a socialist totalitarian world government. The plan was contained within a set of Top Secret documents with the title "MAJESTYTWELVE". The term honored the planned placement of ultimate power in a body of wise men who are destined to rule the world as the disciples of a Messiah front man. This Messiah will serve as a buffer between the wise men and the sheople. I discovered these documents between 1970 and 1973 while I was a member of the Intelligence Briefing Team of the Commander in Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet. The plan outlined the formation of a world totalitarian socialist government. It is to be ruled by a behind-the-scenes council of wise men. A so-called benevolent dictator, will be presented as the Messiah.

The Constitution for the united States of America and its Bill of Rights will be scrapped. A parliamentary form of government will take its place. All military forces and individuals are to be disarmed except for an internal police force which will carry only the minimum weapons needed to maintain internal order. The only military force will be a world police force under the United Nations in sufficient numbers with state-of-the-art technology so that it can field overwhelming force against any perceived threat to the world supra government - see State Department Publication 7277. The military of the united States of America is currently filling the requirement. The senior officer corps of all of our military forces have betrayed their oaths of allegiance to the Constitution and have joined the conspiracy. They are turncoats who are actively engaged in High Treason.

The source of this conspiracy will be found in the body known as the Illuminati. It is made up of the highest adepts of the combined total of the so-called fraternal orders and secret societies. They are bound together by blood oaths, a secret religion, and the promise of an elite status within regional government, or the world supra government. Their religion is based upon the Kabbalah, the Luciferian Philosophy, and the worship of the Sun. They are not bound by any oath or allegiance save their own. They are loyal to no government or People save their own. And they are Citizens of no country save their already in place secret world government. In their own words, "If you are not one of us you are nothing." To garner some sense of "feel" for the concept see the movie They Live. "It is a largely 'open' conspiracy, in that much of its membership, structure, methods, and operations, are matters of public record, however scattered and obscure. Its manner of coordination is atypical. Two nuclei - the elite core of the Wall Street clique (orbiting the House of Rockefeller) and the elite core of the European financial clique (orbiting the House of Rothschild) - coordinate this global conspiracy by waging psychological warfare on the rest of the conspirators, telling each no more than is necessary for him to fulfill his designated role, often with explicit recognition neither of his role, nor of the unarticulated rules that govern him. Thus, the overwhelming bulk of the conspirators do not know, but only suspect, that they are part of and in service to 'a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it' (quoting Woodrow Wilson)." - Daniel Pouzzner

You cannot hope to understand the philosophy (Illuminism) of any branch of the "Mystery School" (Illuminati) without many years of study and a complete knowledge of their "symbolic" language. You must understand that like many other organizations they attract those who completely miss the boat... or are just too stupid to "get it". When an individual joins a branch of the "Brotherhood," by any name, Freemasonry, Theosophical Society, Anthroposophic Society, Fraternitis Rosae Crucae, Knights Templar, Sovereign and Military Order of the Knights of Malta, or any other fraternal order or secret society, no one ever sits down with them and explains the meaning of anything. An actual literal esoteric education would be too dangerous. It could result in a public expose'... something which the Illuminati must avoid at all cost. Henry Makow note:

William Cooper's 1998 MajestyTwelve broadcast: One of the most frightening things you'll ever hear. We are victims of an elaborate deception. Almost everything the US government and mass media tells Americans is a lie. The US is already a de facto fascist dictatorship run by masonic Satanists lurking behind a facade of freedom. The foundations for a totalitarian communist world government are already in place. Those who cannot accept this "paradigm shift" will be exterminated.

Our political and military leaders are members of this cult -- traitors. The UFO/ET phenomenon, including Rosswell, is a long term government psy op designed to trick humanity into accepting a "Messiah"- like ruler. The Apollo moon missions were faked.

When Cooper was employed by US Naval intelligence, (he was mistaken for a Freemason) and had access to the Illuminati's top secret plans, dubbed "MajestyTwelve." I don't want to believe what Cooper is saying, but I find it credible.

First Comment by JG:

This intel here for being 16 years old was ahead of it's time in 1998 and anyone spewing information like this was considered paranoid and irresponsible.

The economy under Bill Clinton was booming in 1997. People were buying homes, working overtime on their once good paying jobs, and young professionals with college degrees were in demand. Patriotism was still strong;people still had a "trust" in their government. You could still put an American flag on your front porch and not feel ashamed.

All of this changed after 911 and I don't believe it would have happened under Bill Clinton's or Al Gore's watch. 911 was the "game changer" event that launched this plan for world government through war under the pretext of combating terrorism.

This 'War on Terror' will not stop until all of the nations of the world surrender their sovereignty to this underground unidentified rogue group of power players and their mercenary military forces that form this New World Order cartel.

Henry Makow note:

William Cooper's 1998 MajestyTwelve broadcast: One of the most frightening things you'll ever hear. We are victims of an elaborate deception. Almost everything the US government and mass media tells Americans is a lie. The US is already a de facto fascist dictatorship run by masonic Satanists lurking behind a facade of freedom. The foundations for a totalitarian communist world government are already in place. Those who cannot accept this "paradigm shift" will be exterminated.

Our political and military leaders are members of this cult -- traitors. The UFO/ET phenomenon, including Rosswell, is a long term government psy op designed to trick humanity into accepting a "Messiah"- like ruler. The Apollo moon missions were faked.

When Cooper was employed by US Naval intelligence, (he was mistaken for a Freemason) and had access to the Illuminati's top secret plans, dubbed "MajestyTwelve." I don't want to believe what Cooper is saying, but I find it credible.

MAJESTYTWELVE (FULL TEXT)

Many years ago I had access to a set of documents that I eventually realized was the plan for the destruction of the United States of America and the formation of a socialist totalitarian world government. The plan was contained within a set of Top Secret documents with the title "MAJESTYTWELVE". The term honored the planned placement of ultimate power in a body of wise men who are destined to rule the world as the disciples of a Messiah front man. This Messiah will serve as a buffer between the wise men and the sheeple. I discovered these documents between 1970 and 1973 while I was a member of the Intelligence Briefing Team of the Commander in Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet. The plan outlined the formation of a world totalitarian socialist government. It is to be ruled by a behind-the-scenes council of wise men. A so-called benevolent dictator, will be presented as the Messiah.

The Constitution for the united States of America and its Bill of Rights will be scrapped. A parliamentary form of government will take its place. All military forces and individuals are to be disarmed except for an internal police force which will carry only the minimum weapons needed to maintain internal order. The only military force will be a world police force under the United Nations in sufficient numbers with state-of-the-art technology so that it can field overwhelming force against any perceived threat to the world supra government - see State Department Publication 7277. The military of the united States of America is currently filling the requirement. The senior officer corps of all of our military forces have betrayed their oaths of allegiance to the Constitution and have joined the conspiracy. They are turncoats who are actively engaged in High Treason.

The source of this conspiracy will be found in the body known as the Illuminati. It is made up of the highest adepts of the combined total of the so-called fraternal orders and secret societies. They are bound together by blood oaths, a secret religion, and the promise of an elite status within regional government, or the world supra government. Their religion is based upon the Kabbalah, the Luciferian Philosophy, and the worship of the Sun. They are not bound by any oath or allegiance save their own. They are loyal to no government or People save their own. And they are Citizens of no country save their already in place secret world government. In their own words, "If you are not one of us you are nothing." To garner some sense of "feel" for the concept see the movie They Live.

"It is a largely 'open' conspiracy, in that much of its membership, structure, methods, and operations, are matters of public record, however scattered and obscure. Its manner of coordination is atypical. Two nuclei - the elite core of the Wall Street clique (orbiting the House of Rockefeller) and the elite core of the European financial clique (orbiting the House of Rothschild) - coordinate this global conspiracy by waging psychological warfare on the rest of the conspirators, telling each no more than is necessary for him to fulfill his designated role, often with explicit recognition neither of his role, nor of the unarticulated rules that govern him. Thus, the overwhelming bulk of the conspirators do not know, but only suspect, that they are part of and in service to 'a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it" (quoting Woodrow Wilson).

You cannot hope to understand the philosophy (Illuminism) of any branch of the "Mystery School" (Illuminati) without many years of study and a complete knowledge of their "symbolic" language. You must understand that like many other organizations they attract those who completely miss the boat... or are just too stupid to "get it". An actual literal esoteric education would be too dangerous. It could result in a public expose'... something which the Illuminati must avoid at all cost. But to give those who might understand a shortcut... Illuminism is COMMUNISM.

Thanks Robert!

The Late Great William Milton Cooper

First Comment by JG:

This intel here for being 16 years old was ahead of it's time in 1998 and anyone spewing information like this was considered paranoid and irresponsible.

The economy under Bill Clinton was booming in 1997. People were buying homes, working overtime on their once good paying jobs, and young professionals with college degrees were in demand. Patriotism was still strong;people still had a "trust" in their government. You could still put an American flag on your front porch and not feel ashamed.

All of this changed after 911 and I don't believe it would have happened under Bill Clinton's or Al Gore's watch. 911 was the "game changer" event that launched this plan for world government through war under the pretext of combating terrorism.

This 'War on Terror' will not stop until all of the nations of the world surrender their sovereignty to this underground unidentified rogue group of power players and their mercenary military forces that form this New World Order cartel.

The "end game" here, like William Cooper says, is Totalitarian World Communism with all the bloodshed and tyranny.

Depleted Uranium

By Ken Adachi <Editor>
http://educate-yourself.org/du/index.shtml
May 2006

There is nothing 'depleted' about depleted uranium. It gives off ionizing radiation which damages DNA and genes. The damage can be seen most readily with cells that are dividing and growing rapidly-like those in a human embryo. The deliberate decision to employ DU munitions is a crime against humanity, as the aftermath of DU dispersion was surely known to Pentagon planners. The intention was both genocidal and political in nature.

Beyond the population reduction agenda, the Illuminati wants to create unbridled HATRED again the people and military forces of the United States so they can get their Middle East Armageddon style war into full gear-which will EXHAUST the American military and make the home front vulnerable to the control of Russian and Chinese troops who are already secretly billeted here. The Illuminati goal is to DESTROY America and they are doing it on multiple fronts. The idea here is to characterize the US military as the most hated organization in uniform since Hitler's storm troopers Blitzkrieged their way across Europe. The physical, emotional and psychological trauma experienced by American soldiers returning from Iraq also needs to be publicized and ventilated more so that we can get more students and concerned citiznes out in the streets protesting this unnecessary war and reign in the Pentagon and the Illuminated cretins in the White House and congress.

Americans need to swamp their legislators with protest letters demanding a law that BANS the use of DU for all time. On a more hopeful note, it has come to my attention that it may be possible to REVERSE the cellular damage effects of radiation and return the cell to a 'normal', undamaged state. This may seem hard to believe, but Wilhelm Reich discovered many new and fascinating things about ionization radiation and its effects on the body in his famous Oranur Experiment. I'll expand on this idea in another article

Dowsing

By Ken Adachi <Editor@educate-yourself.org>
http://educate-yourself.org/dow/index.shtml
June 6, 2003

Introduction

We can access higher frequency vibrational planes of consciousness through varied means- meditation, psychedelic drugs, clairvoyance, medium ship, remote viewing, etc. Some means may be harmful or dangerous for some people, while other techniques require natural gifts, and yet others require a lot of training to become competent in.

Dowsing, on the other hand, is one of the easiest ways to access a repository of unlimited knowledge, referred to by Carl Jung as the "collective unconscious" or the "super conscious mind". Based on the books I've studied and the workshops I've taken with master dowser Walt Woods, I get the idea that you are gaining access to this library of unlimited knowledge through your Higher Self - with the least amount of time invested in study and training. Many people think that dowsing is only used for the purpose of finding water or minerals, but dowsing can be used to obtain ANSWERS and information about anything, providing you frame the question correctly.

When you dowse, you are engaged in a dialog with your Higher Self and other spirit guides who are trying to assist you in obtaining the information you seek. You are asking a question in your mind that is most often framed with a 'yes' or 'no' answer. When you learn more advanced dowsing skills, you can ask for answers that go beyond this framework, but most dowsing questions are answered using the 'yes' or 'no' format. We use very simple indicator tools in dowsing to help us accurately recognize the information we are trying do obtain. The three most common dowsing tools are 1) the pendulum, 2) the "L" rod, and 3) the "Y" rod. There are other types of dowsing tools beyond these three, but these three are the ones most often used.

1) The pendulum is nothing more than some sort of weighted object hung from a thread, a string, a piece of fishing line, or a light chain. You can tie a paper clip to a short length of sewing thread and Voila, you have a pendulum. You could also tie a threaded nut to a length of light monofilament fishing line and you have yourself a dowsing pendulum. Most dowsers like to use something for a pendulum that's more fancy looking like a turned brass bob or a crystal pendant, but it's not necessary. There is nothing magical about the pendulum itself. It's merely an indicator tool, and nothing more. I will add, however, that certain pendulums (made of certain materials) can be more responsive than an ordinary pendulum (and therefore are preferred for that reason), but all pendulums will respond to your questions, regardless of what they are made of.

2) The "L" rod is usually a length of stiff wire shaped like the letter "L". Usually, we place tubing on the short leg of the "L" so it will rotate freely when we hold the L rod in our lightly clenched hands. The long leg of the "L" is held in a horizontal position out n front of us and it will swing to the left or right in response to the answers we are seeking.

I was nudged into attending a Dowser's meeting a few years ago by Merlin Wolf and I thought that I was going to be bored out of my mind, but I couldn't have been more mistaken. It turned out to be very interesting and highly stimulating. I was learning about things at that meeting that I had no idea existed. Curt Kobylarz, the president of the Orange County dowser's chapter, was one of the brightest guys I've ever met in my life. He seemed to know everything about everything. I also met Dr. Bob Beck there for the first time and he had a lot of fascinating things to say as well. All in all, I loved it! And I looked forward to the next meeting each month.

At Dowser meetings, we occasionally talk about dowsing, but more often the subject is Radionics, Bio-medicine, the Kaballah, Psychic Development, Color Therapy, or similar topics. But I digress...

Let's talk Dowsing 101

Anyone who's ever seen someone dowse for water, will typically see a dowser walking along the land with a "Y" shaped thin branch or flexible plastic rod firmly grasped in both hands. When the pointer of the "Y" rod suddenly points downs (or up), that is suppose to indicate where the water is.

Does it really work? You bet it does!

What you don't see, or more accurately 'hear', is what's going on inside the dowser's mind. He's repeatedly saying to himself as he walks along: "indicate if there is water here" or ""point down when I walk over a water vein" or "respond when I reach water", or something close to that. Who's he talking to? He's communicating with a boundless information source known as the "super conscious" which is connected with all living things though the subconscious. Dowsing instruments, such as the pendulum , the aura meter, "L" rods, or the "Y" rod cited above provide a communication interface with our subconscious. Some prefer to think of it as a dialog with the Higher Self or Spirit Guides.

I've recently attended my sixth weekend-long workshop with Walter Woods, one of the most amazing men that I've ever had the good fortune to meet. Walt is an extraordinary dowser and researcher. He's also a highly gifted healer who has helped many people release themselves from physical and emotional suffering. Walt's humble appearance and soft spoken demeanor completely belie the range of knowledge, experiences, and powers that this advanced soul has acquired over the years.

Walt has experienced things that you and I only can read about in esoteric books and articles (and other things that we've never read about). He has clearly demonstrated that the power of using the mind alone to heal and fix ANYTHING is LIMITLESS. I have at least 8 notebooks crammed with Walt's astounding lectures. When you read this stuff, it will knock you over (there are more things under the stars and sun than you can possibly imagine). Many more articles on the research efforts of Walt Woods will appear at this web site in the very near future. Stay tuned!

If you contact the American Society of Dowsers (PO Box 24, Danville, VT 05828-0024) web site: http://www.dowsers.org/
Tel (802) 684-3417; E-Mail: ASD@dowsers.org), they will tell you the location of a Dowsers chapter that is nearest to you. I strongly urge you to go, look, and listen. If you decide to join and become a member, please mention my name (Ken Adachi) on the application form as the person who recommended you to the ASD (and let me know as well).

I mentioned above that I was practically dragged- kicking and screaming- to my first dowsers meeting many years ago by my good friend, Merlin Wolf. I was quite sure that I was going to be bored out of my mind. But surprise, surprise, I quickly realized that I was missing out on some of the best and most advanced "stuff" out there!

I have about 15 books on dowsing, but the best dowsing "course" that I've ever taken was contained within a 24 page booklet put together by Walt called Letter to Robin. This incredible booklet can teach anyone to be an accomplished dowser. Highly recommended.

Dowsing Pendulums

I was contacted by a man named Chris Gozdzik who makes unique and attractive pendulums. He asked me if I would check his pendulum out, so I did and found it to respond very well. If you are interested in checking one out yourself, you can find them all described at the link below. I have no financial arrangement with Chris and told him that I don't sell advertising space at my web site, but if I liked his pendulum, I would give him a plug on this page.

Sanctioned Torture & Summary Execution In America

Sanctioned Torture & Summary Execution In America (June 27, 2005)

Radio interview:

April 2, 2008. Ken Adachi & Don Nicoloff review the horrendous story of TASER abuse by police in America. Hundreds of non threatening, innocent citizens are tasered to death yearly by inhuman, federally-trained Robocops over "nothing" issues. TASER guns must be banned in this country. But it won't happen until the people of this country stop tolerating these 50,000 volt instruments of torture and summary execution by electrocution.

http://educate-yourself.org/pnt/taser_killings_Evident_Footprints_2008-04-02.mp3

I posted an article (www.prisonplanet.com) dated June 23, 2005 which reported that 105 people were killed in North America within the first 3 months of 2005 by police using 'non-lethal' high voltage TASER guns. It was shocking enough to read that 70 people were killed in North America in 2004 from being tasered by police, but now that number has been exceeded by 25% and ii was only the first quarter of 2005.

The public needs to become aware of this new, lethal abuse from police personnel who are suppose to protect the public, not torture and summarily execute people because they don't "comply" quickly enough when ordered to do this or that. It was predictable that this abuse would ensue as more and more police departments in Britain and America started distributing this high tech torture device to the rank and file last year.

The use of TASER guns by police departments across America must come to an end

We cannot trust police personnel or their supervisors or their police chiefs to use these weapons judiciously, sparingly, and with reservation in order to subdue only those offenders who present a real threat of serious bodily injury (or death) and cannot be subdued by any other means, using more traditional and 'non-lethal' means of restraint-like a few cops jumping on the guy and physically overpowering him.

When you read the commentary from police spokesmen who attempt to minimize and dismiss this new threat when answering reporters questions, you can see from their words that they are impressed with and intoxicated by the newly realized power and intimidation factor gleaned from using Flash Gordon weaponry.

Police department apologists apparently aren't willing to own up to the fact that in the vast majority of these cases, harmless and relatively innocent people are being tasered and sometimes killed because they hadn't responded quickly enough to some 'compliance' order being barked at them by a policeman! Never mind that the person being tasered may not have understood, or heard, or even realized what was being said to him. Immediate 'compliance' is the order of the day today with Officer Rambo and too bad if you get killed for not obeying police 'orders' quickly enough!

Transforming Office Friendly into Officer Rambo
